

Canadian Labor Congress Congress Denounces Federal Government's Changes in Unemployment Insurance Act

Ottawa (CUP)

The Canadian Labor Congress has warned the federal government to withdraw some of its amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act.

In its annual brief to the cabinet, March 5, the CLC said it suspected many of the proposed amendments are the result of a 'scandalous attack' made up on the unemployment insurance system during the federal election by candidates for their own partisan ends.

The amendments would prohibit UIC benefits to people who are fired, or who quit their jobs for 'unacceptable' reasons.

'The people of Canada would be much better served if the unjustified attacks on the unemployed were called off and measures designed to bring about full employment for Canadian workers were introduced... the majority of whom would much prefer to work for decent wages than attempt to live at the poverty level resulting from dependence on unemployment insurance.', the CLC said.

'It seems to us that benefit control officer, presumable acting upon guidelines provided by their superiors, are diligently searching for excuses to disqualify claimants. . . . We feel strongly that this practice must be stopped and that Canada Manpower offices by made more effective instruments in guiding persons on unemployment benefits to jobs available and suitable for them.'

'Perhaps it is also time the Commission made a greater effort to inform claimants of their rights in respect of interrogation and representation.'

In another part of its 62 page brief, the CLC called for resistance against the 'so-called continental energy policy advocated by the United States'. The brief says that surplus resources should only be sold to foreign nations to the extent that Canada's own future needs are guaranteed.

The Congress also urged the government to enact legislation requiring thorough environmental studies prior to the commencement of activity on proposed development projects.

'Had such a requirement existed, there is little likelihood that our native people in the areas of James Bay, South Indian Lake and the Mackenzie Valley would have to contend with the problems they now face', said the brief.

The CLC welcomed the tax reductions granted lower income Canadians in the recent federal budget, but suggested these be supplemented with a 'full employment budget' involving a new fiscal approach directed at promoting economic performance along with sophisticated economic planning techniques.

The Congress also called for an increase in the basic Old-Age Security pension to $135 per month. The additional cost of these programs would be offset by accelerated economic growth, coupled with increased employment, greater profits and higher tax revenues, the CLC claimed.

But the Congress opposed tax cuts and incentives to manufacturing and processing industries.

The brief also called for the nationalization of Bell Canada and an increase in the minimum wage to $2.50 per hour. (Current minimum wage for jobs under federal jurisdiction is $1.90.)

The Congress denounced efforts being made by some companies to introduce the four day week, by expanding the work day to 10 or 12 hours. They demanded the retention of the maximum eight hour day, terming the new development part of the 'age old search for greater profits by employers regardless of the possible ill effects in terms of safety and of health such actions may have on working men and women.'

The CLC also reminded the government that it hasn't yet enacted legislation providing for protection against invasion of privacy through the use of listening devices and electronic surveillance.

The Protection of Privacy Bill died when the house adjourned on June 30, 1971, and its successor bill has not yet emerged from the Committee to which it was referred on May 2, 1972. The CLC finds the proposed legislation inadequate because it remains silent on the question of data banks, the storage of information by public and private agencies, and the uses of this information.

The CLC brief also called for government aid to community health clinics which would employ doctors on a basis other than fee for service.

Collegiate veterans sue Nixon gov't for its money

WASHINGTON (CUPI-CPS) -

Although the Nixon administration is making a national issue of its concern for the returning prisoners of War, its policy toward the thousands of Vietnam vets who have been returning quietly to the United States is strikingly different.

The National Association of Collegiate Veterans has filed suit in Washington, D.C. Federal Court in efforts to "unlock" $25 million in federal funds. The money had been earmarked for colleges that recruit and help Vietnam veterans as students.

The $25 million had been approved by Congress as a special effort to provide college education for men who had fought in Vietnam, but every last penny of the money was impounded by the White House's Office of Management and Budget.

James Mayer, president of the veterans association, termed the freezing of the funds "pathetic."

President Richard Nixon's 1974 budget submitted to Congress to cancel the $25 million which has already been approved, and it further asked that Congress scrap the entire $180 million which was proposed for the program next year."

Occasionally from that oven of great ideas that the NAIT Administration has in its back room, comes an idea that is half baked. Tuesday's Edmonton Journal contained one of the rawest examples of boobs I have ever had the displeasure of witnessing.

Should the student at NAIT ever wonder what the Administration thinks of them, then this advertisement pasted liberally through the pages of the Edmonton Journal should provide the answer.

It should make the "KIDS" who have wives and families tremendously proud to be students at an Institute that considers its graduates KIDS.

When one stops to ponder the number of hands this advertisement must have gone through to be checked, okayed and accepted it makes a person stop and wonder if the new activities wing is not really a giant day care centre complete with sandboxes and blocks.

What about the people who are supposed to be hiring these "KIDS"? How impressed do you think they were with this little vote of confidence by the administration? How many that were planning to interview or were considering filling a vacancy with a NAIT Grad will choose a university or SAIT "KID" instead of coming to NAIT?

What about the taxpayer who had to fork over cold hard cash to print hot soft trash about the projects of a bunch of KIDS. What about the High School student? Do you think he will want to enroll in a course in an Institute where he will be considered a "KID"?

I only hope the Administration will co-ordinate the advertising for Open House without the help of the individual who feels so damn superior to the "KIDS" of N.A.I.T. A younger person should be considered and one who does not have a paternalistic complex for men and women, some of whom are his own age.

Dam that delta

A three government task force has recommended the construction of a $1,000,000 submerged weir at Little Rapids on the Riviere Des Roches in Northeastern Alberta. The rockfill dam would restore water levels in Lake Athabasca and the Peace-Athabasca Delta and bring relief to this financially stricken area. This is only one of 10 recommendations brought in by the task force which represented Alberta, Saskatchewan and the Federal Government. All were designed to boost the economy and protect the ecology. The Delta is presently under threat of permanent damage because of low water levels which became apparent in 1968 after the filling of the Williston Reservoir behind the Bennett Dam on the Peace River in B.C.

A record we could do without

Ninety-eight is OK as a body temperature but as a pollution index it leaves a lot to be desired. That is the record figure reached in Edmonton air early in February when a strong inversion trapped pollutants in a 500 foot layer over the city. When notified of the high reading, Edmonton Power voluntarily cut back its power production at the downtown Rosedale Station. Within an hour and a half the reading dropped back to a more acceptable 68. Power generating stations and private automobiles contribute greatly to the carbon monoxide and oxides of nitrogen content of air pollution.

On the house

Since you cannot refrain from drinking, why not start a saloon in your own home? Be the only customer and you will not have to buy a licence. Give your wife $55 to buy a case of whiskey. There are 240 drinks in a case. Buy all of your drinks from your wife at 60¢ a drink and in 12 days (when the case is gone) your wife will have $89 to put in the bank and $55 to buy another case. If you live ten years and continue to buy all of your whiskey from your wife, and then die in your boots, your widow will have over $27,000 on deposit; enough to bring up your children, pay off the mortgage on the house, marry a decent man, and forget she ever knew an alcoholic like you...

Letters to the Editor

CHED CALLS EXPLOIT OUR PRIVACY

Privacy is not a gift; it is a right which every individual should enjoy. Yet one of Edmonton's leading radio stations invades the privacy of at least 12 homes every day, calling numbers chosen at random from the telephone directory.

But how many families register complaints? How many instead condone the practice by answering their phone (or yours, if they happen to be visiting) with "I listen to CHED"? How many will still be running to answer their phone with that catchy "Phrase that Pays" long after the radio contest is in its grave?

Too many people are allowing their self-respect to sit in the shadows while they make a bid for money few will ever get--the $630 CHED seldom gives away.

It is time for those who suffer from the backlash of these contests to rise in rebellion. These are the people who answer the phone to hear someone telling them they have lost $630 for answering their phone with a simple "hello."

If they have ever received a call from CHED, the future ringing of the phone will always give them nervous headaches. In addition, this individual's name and blunder are broadcast on the air as punishment for being normal.

Then there are those who start pulling out their hair after making several phone calls and never hearing the word, "hello."

And how does the announcer feel when he calls home and his daughter answers with "I listen to CHED"?

Our society has reached a sad state when an individual's right to privacy in his home is sacrificed for the slim chance of winning money.

Dear Mr. Editor:

As of today, I am an Ex-NAIT student, and I am of my own choice.

The reasons I had to leave my Technology were my own, lack of high school background, not knowing exactly what I was getting into plus a few other minor reasons; so consequently, my marks were quite low; 47.5% in the first quarter and 43% in the second.

I was asked to leave at the end of the first quarter and forced to at the end of last quarter. I realized from my marks, I must start all over again in September of '73. I wanted to stay on now and pick up some courses for next year but was told I couldn't because of insurance reasons. My next problem was making sure I could come back next year; it was solved with the help and work of the counseling office and one other influential person.

Could it be because she's a girl? She has nice LEGS, or maybe because she's Queen of some organization or club. I don't know!

To Electronics staff and students:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped me with my Open House projects. Names are too numerous to mention, but in general, anyone who helped me obtain printed circuit boards, supplied advice in troubleshooting or sat with the projects. Also to Prep lab, especially Frank, for being unusually helpful in supplying parts and equipment.

Special thanks to Mr. Depner and Carl Rorison for all their assistance with the PDP 11, and to Tim Walsh who stuck with me to the end.

Attention:

This letter serves as an invitation for you and your teammates, to take part in the First Annual Alberta Junior Men's Curling Championship.

This competition is open to all young curlers whose 22nd birthday falls after March 31, 1973.

The Bonspiel will commence at the Ottewell and Hillcrest Curling Clubs.

The dates of the competition have been set for Sunday, April 1 through Friday, April 6, 1973.

This is a modified, modified double knock-out bonspiel. By this we mean that each team is guaranteed 3 games, however, any team which loses a game after advancing to the second round of B or dropping to the first round of C section is eliminated.

Eight qualifiers will be determined and will be eligible for the following awards:

First prize - $400 and the trophy emblematic of the Alberta Junior Men's Curling Champions.
Second prize - $200
Third prize - $150
Fourth prize - $400
Fourth prize - $100
Fifth through Eighth prizes - $40 per team.

Special awards will be presented to an allstar team and to the outstanding sweeper at the conclusion of competition. Prize money is based on a complete entry of 32 teams.

The entry fee is $40 per team and must accompany the completed entry form - please make cheque or money order payable to the Alberta Junior Men's Curling Championships. Applications with the earliest postmark will be given preference. Applications which are not accepted will be returned with the entry fee.

Every team will be required to play two games on Sunday, April 1; evening draws only during the week. Draw times will be published. Pick up applications at your nearest curling club.

Good curling,
Darrel Sutton

THE CARNIVAL 1973

operation placement

What services do you have, as a student, that might be marketable during the 1973 summer break? Lawn maintenance? Night Construction? Photography? Drafting?

Last year, a number of these types of student-operated businesses proved to be a profitable alternative to being employed in year-round commercial companies. It was discovered by the student managers that in some cases, their services were profitable on a year-round, part-time basis, and that after operating successfully for one summer period, it involved little organization to set up operations the following summer. A number of businesses found that the market for their particular services was so extensive that they expanded, and in some cases formed partnerships with their "competitors".

But what resources would you need to enter the profitable student - operated business field? The first and most important is a strong initiative to set up, and the guts to carry through plans for your business venture. The planning should be done early so that operations can begin as soon as possible after final exams. Things to consider in the early stages of planning are:

1. What need is there of my service
2. What geographical area should I concentrate on
3. What types of equipment would I need: shovels, lawn mowers, sun glasses
4. What facilities would I use: buildings, rooms, playgrounds or parks
5. Who should I hire? -numbers of persons and their qualifications (i.e. labouring vs. child care work).

6. What types of clients will I be dealing with and where will I find them
7. What capital will I need? -loans -grants -donations
8. What about business regulations? -licensing, etc.

In order to help minimize these problems, Operation Placement is again setting up a body of resource personnel to encourage, advise, and promote prospective student enterprises. As well as this individual assistance to student entrepreneurs, Operation Placement is looking into new and possible student commercial ventures. There is now a recognized market for student-operated sub-Contractors for light construction, law maintenance and gardening services, semi-professional, wedding photography, painting and clean-up services, as well as the familiar rose sales outside A.L.C.B. Stores. There are, however, many more exploitable areas for the short-term summer period. For example: hiring out to clean up cottages and grounds for persons in and around Edmonton; student - run concessions at the beaches and parks in the Edmonton area.

Available again this year are the Student Enterprise Loans of up to $2,000. made possible through the Alberta Opportunity Company and the Provincial Government. These loans are to enable students needing capital to obtain the necessary funding for summer operations.

If you do have an idea, and if you are interested in operation of your own business this summer, contact Operation Placement at 433 - 7934 or 488 - 4610.

A touch of truth

Christianity is a diversified religion. There are more sects of Christianity than one would care to discuss. The biggest boob is that they all state that unless you belong to their particular sect you will not be "saved". And I say this is hogwash, how can one say that and then turn around and preach brotherly love. Isn't it like a rose in one hand and a knife in the other.

Also another interesting development is that you can go around committing sins all week and go to church on Sunday and have them forgiven by God because you asked him to.

This is not the Inner Reality, but childish self-deception. To some it may be comforting to think that sin may be committed and then, when the conscience prods too much, a gift of some kind to the nearest church will overwhelm God with gratitude that forgiveness is immediate, all embracing, and certain, and will enable one to indulge in a fresh set of sins. God, a supreme being, as the essence of justice, cannot show mercy to one and not to another, because to do so would be a denial of justice. To pray for mercy or for favours, promising gold if the prayer is answered, is to imply that salvation is available to the highest bidder, that God is short of money and can be bought.

Man can show mercy to man, but rarely does; the Supreme Being can show only justice. We are immortal souls. There is no death. As one doffs one's clothes at the end of the day, so does the soul doff the body when the latter sleeps. As a suit of clothes is discarded when worn out, so does the soul discard the body when the latter is worn or torn. Death is birth. Dying is merely the act of being born in another plane of existence. Man, the spirit of man, is eternal. The body is but the temporary garment that clothes the spirit, to be chosen according to the task in hand upon earth. Outward appearance does not matter. The soul within does. Most Christians really believe that when they die Satan and his helpers get busy with roasting and rocking if they go to that place where the majority seem destined to go. Or the "minority" will go to that other place and sit in their nightshirts and play on golden harps all day, how boring can something like that be. I believe that when a person dies he enters the other plane of existence and will judge himself, and if he feels he has done what he came to earth to do he will stay in his present state of existence to learn and enjoy life as it really is. When man finally realizes the truth about the nature of life, it's going to hit him like a sledge hammer, and it's going to take him a while to get over the shock, but there are others there who will help him to understand. They will guide him so that when others come, he in his turn will help them realize the truth. Earth is but a temporary place where we learn until we are ready to go to our real home, a state of happiness and bliss. So have faith and hope, brothers and sisters the end is only the beginning.

What on earth is AOSC?

Among other things, it's a little house in Toronto that is the rock bottom place to buy travel.

AOSC stands for Association of Student Councils, a non-profit organization owned and operated by the student bodies of 60 Canadian campuses.

As a student who may be thinking about going somewhere sometime, you are eligible for all kinds of special privileges and services you probably don't even know about.

You see, AOSC's principal function is to make available to students the best, most economical travel arrangements possible.

The idea is to provide a service, not make a buck.

And it shows.

You're offered the lowest dependable airfares available, on 40 charters flying between Toronto and October 5. For example - jet April 30 to London for $86 one way, or $155 return; Vancouver to London from $225 return or $125 one way.

Through AOSC's affiliation with the international network of student organizations, you have access to another 5,000 special flights originating all over the world.

All in all, this results in some fairly incredible deals.

Say, for example, you wanted to fly Toronto-Hong Kong return. A normally-routed ticket would take you westward and allow one stopover... for about $1,200. AOSC can fly you the long way, through Europe, with stopovers, for $600.

Such fare savings of up to 75% make your flying a dirt-cheap proposition.

AOSC also offers a wide variety of land arrangements, all specially designed for students, all ridiculous bargains.

For example, you can spend 22 days in Turkey for $235... sail the Greek Islands for a week on $54... or go on a 72-day camping safari from London to Katmandu, 10,000 miles, for about $400.

If you're thinking of travelling, there is more you should know about. A whole lot more: lists of student restaurants and hotels, Eurail pass deals, special car-leasing arrangements, overseas job opportunities, the International Student Card...

AOSC. It's your travel bureau. Use it.

Why not pick up more specific information from your student council office.

Or, contact us direct.

Dear Electronics tech
Being concerned with community health problems, in your case mental health problems, due to a swelled head, we felt it was our duty to write this pamphlet for you.
What brought this problem to our attention was when we attended a party a few weeks ago.
At the peak of excitement, a state of emergency occurred
A TOTAL BLACKOUT! but fortunately Egore Electronics and his merry band of Kilowatts were present. In no time at all they had whipped out their sophisticated equipment and put to use their slide rules, pocket size plug-in computers obtained from their favorite breakfast cereal ALL BRAIN, candles, blow torches bobby pins, and a directory of local electrifications.
Admit the confusion and chaos, Ted the Electrical dog, removed his teeth from the lamp cord and lobehold, in the seventh hour there was light (when reading this bow your head).
Needless to say, Ted is the class valiedictorian.
It was then, that we realized that if you were having a problem in your studies, you must be having a real hang-up in your heterosexual relationships. For further instructions, look for advice from Heavy Duty Tech or read your handy-dandy pamphlet: "A

FELLOW STUDENTS

It is indeed a privilege for me to have been nominated to run for Presidency of the student body. I've decided not to run my platform in the Nugget for obvious reasons.

Right now I can offer you myself and promise to run your affairs to the best of my ability.

There are many areas of concern to me. For example, the Nugget and specifically the executive structure. Many other policies have arisen from my personal contact with instructors and students of various technologies. I look forward to a great year.

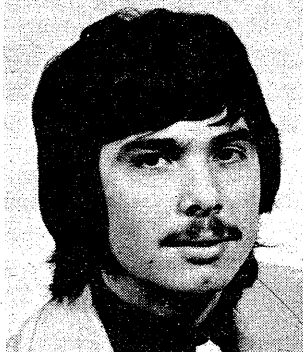

These policies were not published in this issue of the Nugget for obvious reasons.

Come and hear me today at 1:00.

I'll be happy to meet with any student who wants me to listen to their views.

Either contact me in the Tower Lounge or phone me at 477 - 2222. Looking forward to working for "You" in 1973-1974.

When people don't work VOTES WORK This Time YOU COUNT "YOUR" man for President. Ernest Dorosh

Howard Harlton

"Working For You With You"

Dynamic and Very Involved are, perhaps, excellent descriptions for Presidential Candidate-Howard Harlton.

His past accomplishments speak for themselves as good indications of his potential:

- an active Council Representative for over a year and a half;
- nominated for the Presidency last year, but declined for the sake of continuity in his course, Radio and Television Arts;

-NAITSA Advertising manager since last March

- Editor of the last four issues of the Nugget;
- acted as 'fill-in' Editor while six Nugget Editors proceeded to drop off staff and out of school;
- was the only Staff-member of last year's Nugget to return in September and was successfully trained and oriented in the use of the new computerized type-setting equipment, which the Nugget and NAITSA leased over the summer.

Yes, the list could and should go on. Howard exhibits sincere dedication, intelligence and know-how. If communications are what you want, Howard has them for you. He's also a man who knows how to and will carry through the large responsibilities which will be put on the shoulders of a NAITSA President.

Howard Harlton has had the guts to stick with the Newspaper when it's been down. He's the NAITSA Advertising Sales Manager and he's also taken the time to be Editor of the last four issues of the NUGGET, as well as several patch-up jobs for other Editors who have quit.

Last year, he turned down the presidency, but this year he's primed and ready. Vote for the man who will be "Working For You - With You" for good things in '73 - '74.

Gord Rachar

GORD RACHAR

Many students of NAIT are not being used to their full potential. Although our graduates enjoy an excellent reputation in the business world, many employers do not realize the full extent of our capabilities. Next year I will approach individuals in the respective Businesses of the NAIT programs, and work towards having them get a full understanding of what we can and cannot do.

I will visit the technologies, personally, next year to discuss problems in a less formal manner than the council meetings. I have seen several things already.

One of them is good housing for students who have little or no income. The present council is already working on a housing project, but from talking to them, there will be much left for next year.

Another idea I had is encourage the starting of various clubs, such as a debating club, language clubs, math clubs, and others that students are interested in.

A third thing I would like to see is a counselling service for students and staff, made up of people from the business world. This would enable us to find out first hand what is going on and to keep up with it.

I short, I am standing for more communication with the business world and through that, more valuable diplomas. I will work on problems that affect you and me. There may be problems too big for me, but there are none too small.

Gary Everett

GARY EVERETT FOR PRESIDENT

Gary Everett is an honors student in Administrative Management. He was actively involved in the opposition to Master Plan #1, and is aware of the urgency of the preservation of NAIT and the development of better relations with employers and government.

Gary Everett will continue his scrutiny of policy which directly and indirectly concerns us as students; major emphasis being on those attempts to change our philosophies and structures.

Gary has a platform that is focused on you and your future, both as students and members of the working world.

Consider his platform; discuss it with your friends, and form your opinions and vote for Everett for President.

for vice — president

Del Baycroft

I am presently running for the position of Vice-President. I am a first year Business Administration student, specifically in Administrative Management.

Vice-President in NAITSA has always been a demanding position, for many other important functions have to be facilitated as well as residing on the NAITSA council.

I feel that the most major concern of the Vice-President is to act as a co-ordinator of NAITSA's public relations department and, by the way, this years present executive made a pretty good effort.

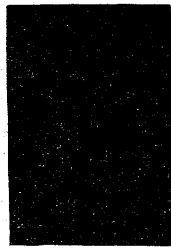

It is my ideal, if elected, to work closely with the NAITSA executive in expanding and furthering the image of this institute, not only in Western Canada, but in all of Canada. I would like to see more participation in NAITSA functions, and KILL APARTHY, an expression may be used too often, but it's been around for a long time.

Areas which I will investigate are:

1. Operation Student Placement
2. Physical Education Department
3. More activities sponsored by NAITSA
4. Froming an alumni association
5. Business Manager for the new NAIT structure.

This year students have had to come to the executive. I would like to see the executive going to the students and finding out what they want through-out the entire year.

No matter what the outcome of the election, take a few minutes and VOTE. Del Baycroft

Pat La Forge

Pat La Forge's life began with a rather wide awakening some twenty years ago in Northern Alberta. Boy! What a place to open your eyes to: metropolitan Lac La Biche. Unfortunately it wasn't for another five years before I stormed the pearly gates of Edmonton. A completed my secondary education at St. Mary's in South Edmonton. It was here where I was involved in many activities, both athletically and socially oriented, and where I obtained my senior matriculation, and was bestowed best personality award.

After graduating from High School, rather than continuing my education in either NAIT or University, I attempted to make myself financially independent. Three hundred dollars a month and two years later, the picture wasn't brightening. I decided to learn something useful so I ignored University and enrolled in Marketing Administration, here at NAIT. Having completed three quarters of my first year I can now see that by no means I am wasting my time. I became very impressed with the students association where they rose to the occasion of defending the students against the onslaught of the blind ideals of the allegedly informed wizard, Dr. Walter Worth.

Although Pat La Forge can't promise a good 70 cent meal as vice-president I can promise hard work, a job well done, and representation. So, please vote for me, Pat La Forge, for vice-president.

Harvey Gellert

I am in my first year in the Accounting and Finance program, and plan to further my career in the accounting field. Who am I?

I am running for the position of vice-president of NAITSA and have considerable experience through many activities at NAIT. Who am I?

These experiences include being co-director of Shinerama and one of the originators in its first year in Edmonton. NAIT was the first institute to support Shinerama in Edmonton. Another experience was being co-editor of the Nugget which we expanded to contain more than the two pages it originally started with in its first years of operation. I was also campaign manager for NAITSA president, vice-president, and queen which were all successful in that year. Who am I?

Through these achievements I have gained many contacts and much knowledge which will aid me in co-ordinating many activities for NAIT in the coming year.

My name is Harvey Gellert and I ask for your support in the coming election for vice-president.

Marion Hennel

Marion Hennel is presently enrolled in the first year of accounting and finance at NAIT. She is from Stettler, Alberta and came to Edmonton specifically to attend NAIT.

Marion is running for the position of VICE PRESIDENT. Her campaign is based on more participation by the students in their student's union. Marion feels that student participation is the key to a strong and effective students union. Better communication between students and the officers of the students union is her goal and she realizes that a better system of communications is needed to get that student participation. She also feels that the students should govern the student's union, not the student's union governing the students.

Marion realizes that the students should be entitled to more for their money. As students your aim is to get a better education for a better job. Marion feels that she can help you to achieve this by getting more orientation labs for first year students and also more help in the job placement area.

Cabarets are yet another of the things Marion would like to change. Not really to change the cabarets themselves but the length of them. If she cannot make them last longer, at least she will try to get more of them.

Marion has several other things which she would like to see happen around NAIT, like more lounge space. But talk to her and find out. Your candidate for Vice President, Marion Hennel.

Les Johnson

Did you know that NAITSA has over 4,000 members? An organization of this size needs people on the council that are willing to take responsibility. They must have the quality of being able to work with people and in meeting people.

The idea of running for vice-president has been in my mind for a long time. Since attending two leadership seminars and once being a president of a High School, I have acquired a considerable amount of experience in leadership and in working with people.

It is impossible for me to make promises at the present that I would not be able to keep if I was elected vice president. I would however like to see a different type of fresh week where new students could really get into it and feel a part of NAIT within a short period of time. I also would like to have longer Cabarets.

March 30 is election day and it is up to all of you to come and vote. I feel that if you do not vote you should have no beef about the way NAITSA is run and who is running it.

I would like to extend good luck and best of wishes to the other candidates running for vice-president. See you March 30

Les Johnson (Gas Tech) candidate for vice president.

Melvin Foht

In the past few years the office of NAITSA Athletic Chairman has had an increased responsibility relation to the increase of athletic participation of students. With the addition of the new Student's Activity Building, the number of recreational events will be greatly increased and therefore, placing more responsibility on the athletic chairman. The new addition will bring in a more variety of sports. In the multipurpose arena, there will be more badminton courts (12), volleyball courts, and tennis courts. There also be handball and racketball courts. There is also going to be a big swimming pool. All these new will be at the disposal of all students at NAIT. All we need is someone to co-ordinate these facilities properly. I am a candidate for that position-Athletic Chairman. During this year, I played intercollegiate volleyball which gave me the chance to travel to other colleges in Alberta and Saskatchewan. This has given me the opportunity how intramural events are being run elsewhere. Besides playing volleyball, I have participated in intramural basketball, hockey, bowling and floor hockey.

As Athletic Chairman I would be responsible for representing the students on the athletic board. Good representation is what I will bring which means more benefits for students. What we need is more support for intercollegiate teams in terms of fan participation and to get more people to these events. Success means support of these teams.

My related experience includes being athletic representative of my technology. When elected, I will endeavor to fulfill my role to the fullest of my capabilities.

Melvin Foht

Gordon Lanigan

Have you ever noticed that bearded guy working in Sports Stores behind the counter at noon hour everyday, during evenings, or even on Sundays? Well, if you have, the reason you saw him was because you yourselves had something to do with sports. He's been here at NAIT for two years and last year played on the school Volleyball and Soccer Teams. You'll see him often hanging around the Ping Pong tables, the Gym, and probably during a lot of the Intermural Team Games.

Well, if you've seen him or not, his name is Gordon Lanigan, and he's running for Athletic Chairman.

He'd like to see the people of NAIT become more interested and participate in sports. As it is right now, there are many students who aren't aware of the athletic facilities available to them, both male and female.

Gord would like the student body to use these facilities and to participate in School Sports to which part of their tuition goes. Our school team's budget is based on money from your tuition, so you should benefit by joining these teams or supporting the teams qualified to play Interscholastic Sports.

Gord has a lot of interesting ideas that you will agree on to promote sports. It will be his responsibility to get you enthused about sports and also your opinions of particular sports will be appreciated and very helpful.

You people are the voters, and the voters determine how this school is run. Go out and vote for all the positions open for the Executive and be prepared for a good year at NAIT.

Remember - Gordon Lanigan for Athletic Chairman.

Scotty McEachern

Scotty is actively involved with sports being a member of the NAIT basketball team. He comes to us from Eastglen High School where he matriculated with a 73 percent average and where he played on most of that school's teams.

He is now enrolled in first year Administrative Management and plans to go into the business world upon graduation. His attitude towards sports is one of enjoyment and active involvement.

The big intramural program here has gone over well showing the enthusiasm of the students. He would continue and expand on this with the main idea of creating further interest in active participation.

All candidates will be speaking next Wednesday; Scotty would like to see you all out there.

Scotty McEachern

Brent Stumph

Rather than discussing my ideas and plans which I will attempt, with all my energies, to put into effect as NAITSA's Athletic Chairman, I would like to let you, the voter, have a look at my past experiences and qualifications that make me the right man for the job.

All of my life has centered around athletics. I've played on all kinds of teams for as long as I can remember. I attended O'Leary High School, where I played on the football team for three years (we won a City Championship) the track team for three years (captain in my senior year) and the swimming and diving team for two years.

I've played for the Edmonton Wildcats of the AJFL for the past two years as well.

In my senior year, I served on the Student's Union as Social Convenor, worked on the school paper as Sports Editor and I won a major award, being the Most Outstanding Athlete of the Year.

This year, here at NAIT, I am the Sports Editor of the Nugget and have worked actively in the Business Administration Society. I've competed on many intramural teams and have attended a large number of ACAC games, both home and away. Because of my position on the paper, I Physical Education Department staff and with Irwin Striffler, the Director of Intramural and Interscholastic Activities. With all of this exposure, I have a good knowledge of all aspects of NAIT athletics.

With the tremendous amount of potential NAIT's athletic facilities have, let's get someone in NAITSA who can do something about it!

Art Gerzanich

I don't know how many of you know what being social chairman involves but you probably know our present social chairman, Gerry Gurba. In October I went to Mr. Gurba and asked if I may assist him and from him learn what a social chairman is and does. Since October I have been working with Gerry on the Friday cabarets, Queen Week, and some of the dances that we have had. There have been excellent turnouts at our functions with no complaints from anybody which indicates that Gerry has done an excellent job. If you would like these events handled by a person who has been exposed to the system and knows what is going on and not by somebody who has no idea of the work involved, remember the name "ART GERZANICH" when you exercise your right to select a new council for 73 - 74. Thank you, and please VOTE!!!

Art Gerzanich

Larry Nolte

When I was asked to run as Social Chairman for NAITSA I realized that this was a great responsibility to consider. I had served in such a capacity while going to high school in my home town, Alix, Alberta. I knew that NAIT presented a much greater challenge and virtually unlimited opportunities for the organization of social functions.

While attending different social functions throughout the year, I came to realize that this was one area where all students became "NAIT students" and not merely the members of one particular technology. It is my opinion that these functions serve to instill a certain vitality in the whole student body.

I saw that this social expansion of each individual student, myself included, was as important a factor in our education as any of the classes that we attend. The expansion and further development of such activities must inevitably increase the potential of each student involved.

I discussed all of the factors surrounding this position with fellow students in Marketing. Everyone had suggestions to make and saw the possibilities involved. Their support was very encouraging and was what actually brought me to the final decision of letting my name stand as a candidate for social chairman.

I look forward to receiving your support also.

SECRETARY FOR NAITSA

Hi! - I am Jill Douglas and I will be filling the position of secretary for NAITSA in the coming year.

I am a first year secretarial student and therefore, feel I am fully qualified to carry out the duties required of me.

This year, I participated in several NAITSA activities (Queen Contest, Open House, Shinerama, etc.) and found them to be most enjoyable. I look forward to working with the Student Council next year.

JILL DOUGLAS, SECRETARY

PUBLICATIONS CHAIRMAN

The new Publications Chairman is Monique Belanger. She is a first year student in Business Administration, in the section of Administrative Management.

Monique's qualifications are numerous. She has worked as a Recreational Director in Northern Alberta, a Secretarial Instructor at the Bart School in Quebec City and was also employed with a Finance Company in Edmonton.

For the first two quarters of this year she has maintained an 80 percent average. Last quarter she was involved in organizing the student representation from NAIT for the Public Hearings at Grant McEwan regarding Master Plan Number One.

We feel that she is well qualified and capable of handling this position.

WORST OF THE JEFFERSON AIRPLANE (RCA LSP-4459)
BARK - JEFFERSON AIRPLANE (Grunt FTR-1101)
LONG JOHN SILVER - JEFFERSON AIRPLANE (Grunt FTR-1007)

The WORST OF THE JEFFERSON AIRPLANE is a collector's item for anyone who wasn't on board the Airplane soon enough and missed most of the earlier flights. Included is IT'S NO SECRET and BLUES FROM AN AIRPLANE from their first offering, JEFFERSON AIRPLANE TAKES OFF, MARTHA and THE BAL-LAD OF YOU & ME & POONEIL from AFTER BATHING AT BAXTER'S, the title track, CHUSINGURA and LATHER from CROWN OF CREATION, and the live version of PLASTIC FANTASTIC LOVER from BLESS IT'S POINTED LITTLE HEAD. All these songs in their original pressings (mentioned above) have been deleted. Therefore, you have two alternatives...buy THE WORST OF JEFFERSON AIRPLANE or hang around used record shops until you're old and grey in a vain attempt to discover Airplane antiques. Believe me...the former is the easier.

BARK was the Jefferson Airplane's first post-Marty Balin release and having lost their strongest male vocalist they attempted to round out the sound by importing Papa John Creach's violin. In most instances, it failed but on WHEN THE EARTH MOVES AGAIN, it more than compensates by adding new lift to a sound machine quickly losing altitude. If it ever came close before, the Airplane almost crashes with the addition of a new percussionist, Joey Covington, whose writing talents are all too apparently devoid. PRETTY AS YOU FEEL, is not only banal and immature, but should have

ENGLAND - AMAZING BLONDEL (Island SW-9327)

The Amazing Blondel are a truly unique band, recreating rather than interpreting music of the Elizabethan age with such instruments as crumhorns, lutes, and a pipe organ. Unlike the previous two releases, ENGLAND boasts the presence of a small orchestra which provides the music with a pastoral feeling.

ENGLAND is in two parts...side one being THE PAINTINGS composed of three pastoral settings for voices, flute, guitars and orchestra; side two a collection of five individual songs. The latter is the better of the two, featuring a Christmas hymn CANTUS FIRMUS TO COUNTERPOINT and the harpsichord based COLOR DULCIS.

Elizabethan music was rather bawdy and devoid of technique. The Amazing Blondel have taken the basic ingredients of it and by adding musicianship and subtlety, have discovered a pleasant medium between the two.

AMERICAN GOTHIC - DAVID ACKLES (Elektra 75032)

The title naturally refers to Grant Wood's famous painting and the album itself is an 11-piece song cycle concerning the re-discovery of self through the contemplation of vanishing rural America. The musical content is eclectic and the production is of concert hall calibre. As a singer, Ackles is basically folksy and his singing style very straight forward.

The mood of AMERICAN GOTHIC is melancholy and every song is different and interesting, the high point being a moving ten-minute symphonic poem entitled MONTANA SONG, CONCERNING AN IMAGINARY JOURNEY TO THE WEST.

After a creative leave of absence in which Zappa was involved with comedy rock which was far beneath him, Frank is finally back into the thick of things with a most consistent and imaginative album, featuring some of his best compositions and instrumental works.

Luckily Zappa has since relocated it and has disposed of his comedy team and with the release of WAKA/JAWKA HOT RATS last summer and more recently GRAND WAZOO, Frank and a new band of Mothers are back in the creative forefront. Side one features Frank writing for a massive brass and woodwind section which complements the Mothers' best ever rhythm section composed of the more than competent Ansley Dunbar on drums and the versatile Erronous on bass, among others. The album opens with FOR CALVIN which boasts of brash and lusty brass parts highlighted with a trombone solo by Bill Byers. The title track features more solos, this time by Sal Marquez on trumpet, and Frank Zappa and Ken Shroyer on guitar and bottleneck respectively, which are woven and interlaced into thick reed sections.

The second side uses a smaller group of approximately eight or nine pieces and the material is consequently looser. Accented performances include Ernie Watts on sax from CLETUS AWREETUS-AWRIGHTUS, keyboard perfectionist George Duke on BLESSED RELIEF, and Zappa himself performing a precise guitar solo on EAT THAT QUESTION.

GLORIFIED MAGNIFIED - MANFRED MANN'S EARTH BAND (Philips 6308 125)

Manfred Mann has been around as long as the Beatles and besides the early success of DO WAH DIDDY DIDDY has been totally and perhaps unjustifiably ignored. The early band, being a pop creation in the same vein as the Zombies, made way for Manfred Mann's Chapter Three, an experimental jazz band which was more than often boring than not. This brings us up to the present and Manfred Mann's latest conglomeration, modestly titled Man- fred Mann's Earth Band, and their second LP release, GLO-RIFIED MAGNIFIED. Not since WHO'S NEXT has there been such a successful fusion of inventive electronics and powerful rock music. I must admit I've ignored Manfred Mann as much as the next guy, but if there's any justice in the music business and there isn't, he'll cease to be but an obscure conversation piece and will become the household word he's been working so hard at to become. Manfred Mann's been knocking on the door of stardom so long, his fist must be permanently caloused.

GLO-RIFIED MAGNIFIED is a truly monumental if unoriginal recording and easily stands above anything else released this year. Mick Rogers guitar chords have all been heard before but with Mann's devastating production and moog work couples with Colin Pantenden and Chris Slade's Who-like bass drum foundation, GLO-RIFIED MAGNIFIED makes for a most brain shredding experience. keyed and eclectic, the Jefferson Airplane's latest release, LONG JOHN SILVER, is one stereo typed Airplane song after another. Though it is apparent now that the hole left by Marty Balin is too big to fill, the instrumental work is still consistently fine even though the compositions are not up to the higher standards of the old days. As there hasn't been an Airplane standout track since CROWN OF CREATION, the initial spark of creativeness has been snuffed out but luckily the good music hasn't.

NUGGET GOES TO THE THEATRE

Noel Coward's 'Tonight at 8:30'

Leaving the theatre after seeing the University drama division's production of "Tonight at 8:30," a friend who was confused asked me if she had enjoyed the plays. When I looked puzzled, she explained, "I didn't know how I was supposed to react to Noel Coward." The answer is simple, I told her. Sit back and laugh. Noel Coward is easy on his audiences. He does all the work. You don't have to think, rationalize, or worry about any philosophy. The only test as to whether a Coward play is success or failure is to decide whether you relaxed and laughed during the performance, and whether you feel like drinking champagne when it is over. Well, the audience was relaxed and certainly laughed loudly at the opening night production of "tonight at 8:30," at Studio Theatre, but few, I think had any thirst for champagne.

As a character in one of the three one act plays asks eistfully, "Where did the magic go?" Well, particularly, it was dissipated in the wrong pace, and partially in the success of the mastery of the English dialect. The young actors had been carefully trained to form the right sounds, and they had learned well, but there is more to a dialect than the enunciation of sounds. There must be a feel for the rhythm and melody of the language. This was missing from the production.

The first play, "Fumed Oak" is always an audience pleaser. It deals with everybody's favorite fantasy, that great moment when we get to put down everyone around us with a few well chosen home truths. The little milk-toast character who is provoked to lip off his nasty wife, mother-in-law and adolescent daughter, is played by Glenn Roddie. Unfortunately, the turn of the worm is not as effective as it might be if the actor shouts as loudly or as shrilly as Mr. Roddie does.

The second play, "We Were Dancing" is a comment in the transitory nature of romantic love. Coward wrote it to be taken at face value. However, the director decided to send up the whole play in a burlesque that had you laughing loudly with an uneasy feeling that maybe you shouldn't be. Camp these days is very popular and indeed let's laugh at the foibles of the old days, but the old days as they probably were, and not a satire of the laughter. There was none here at all.

The final play "Red Peppers" is fast and furious fun. It is a satire on the dying days of variety, or vaudeville. The two main characters, a married couple song and dance act, try to hide their fear and keep their pride and dignity as their fortunes fade. It was well done except here more than anywhere, the British regional dialects failed.

Each play was prefaced by slides on a front scrim. They were worth the price of admission alone. Beautiful line drawings on a pink background, they promised that the proceedings were going to be more skilled than they were. The sets, costumes and make-up were creative in concept and craftsmenlike in execution. The choreography was both clever and satirical, and the music quite syrupy enough to remind us how sentimental our parents must have been.

The standout performance was given by a delightful creature called Debbie Skelton as the too, too sophisticated Louise Charteris and the irrepressible Lily Peppers. Here is a young actress who will do well. She is lovely, extremely talented, and has that type of magical charm that hits you seventeen rows back.

All in all this is a pleasant enough evening. The cast worked hard and showed fine talent and ensemble playing which says nice things about director, Ben Tarver. Only the older generation of British theatre buffs will carp at the damage done to Mr. Coward. You'll probably enjoy it. "Tonight at 8:30" is playing every evening but Sunday from March 22nd to March 31st with matinees on both Saturdays, at Corbett Hall, 82nd Avenue and 112 Street. Phone 433 - 3265, and tell them you're a NAIT student.

PINE BUTTER CLORN (circa 1892)

Found in the linen closet of a one-time grasshopper cannery near Orillia, this early example of the butter clorn craftsman's art exhibits the distinctive moué configuration of the Figliari school. The finely-wrought hasp, with its circlet of randomly entwined cherubim, is thought to be the work of Francesco Nud, notorious co-founder of the Stühl movement.

At the Edmonton Art Gallery

Chester and Bentham

March 1 - April 1

D. T. Chester and Douglas Bentham, two young western Canadian artists, are exhibiting recent works at the Edmonton Art Gallery. Chester's paintings combine lush, delicate color with rough texture and vigorous brushwork, while Bentham's welded steel sculpture manipulates space in unexpected ways. Although both artists retain deep affection for their native prairies, their work is international in intent. The Gallery has chosen to exhibit them at the same time because they share common attitudes about their own and other work, and because it affords a unique opportunity to assess them together. Opens Wednesday, February 28, 8 - 10 p.m. The artists will be present.

Norman Yates

March 25 - April 24, 1973

An exhibition of recent drawings by well known Edmonton artist, Norman Yates will open on March 25, 1973, "May This Land Survive."

These drawings represent events of survival in time and space. For me the event can be an experience brought forward from a boyhood episode in Regina, or the majesty of the Alberta landscape as I feel it now.

The drawings focus in series on a singular Canadian event of which I feel a root part, or on a single quarter section of land which I have come to know with increasing intimacy and love.

Meet the artist on Sunday, March 25, 2 - 4 p.m.

The Touch Of Midas Ball

To celebrate its Golden Anniversary, 1923 - 1973, the Edmonton Art Gallery is holding a Gala Ball at the Gallery, Friday, April 13. The "Touch of Midas Ball" will include a cocktail reception, gourmet dinner and dancing. Catering and special arrangements are courtesy of the Hotel Macdonald.

Tickets are $50. per couple - a dollar per year! - and are all-inclusive. Proceeds from the Ball will be used for acquisition of works of art to commemorate the Gallery's 50th Anniversary, hence $20, of the price of tickets is a charitable donation for which a tax deductible receipt will be issued.

Tickets are available at The Gallery or by mailing your cheque. For further information phone 429 - 6781.

The touch of Midas Ball will be an unforgettable evening, join us!

CJCA-FM 99.5 ON THE ROCKS

For this blustery March day, I have four short stories to tell; two from the now-fading winter and two from the expected joys of spring.

If you have read this column before, you know I am no great fan of snowmobiling. This week, I come prepared with statistics and pure facts. In the winter of 1970, 93 Canadians were killed snowmobiling. This winter the total will likely rise over 200. When the automobile was first invented, horses were spooked into throwing riders. But compared to the ski-doo, the car is a whisper. Torquing out at over 82 decibels, these contraptions are harmful to wildlife, just at their weakest period of the yearly cycle. It scares me to see parents allow eight and ten year old children operating high powered machines. The only way to bring snowmobiling under control is to regulate it as cars are. Driver education and licensing can reduce the number of deaths, simply by having a more knowledgeable driver. Effective mufflers are the second crying need. As the good Dr. Frankenstein found out; to create a monster is easy; to control it is another matter.

The resurgence of the Boston Bruins came none too soon for their supporters. Currently, Orr and Co. are pulling away from the Rangers in second place. A large degree of their success must be placed on the work of ageless Jacques Plante. Acquired from the Leafs two weeks ago. What Plante has lost in speed, he has in his first game in the black and yellow uniforms. Recently turned a spry 44, Plante is playing as well as he did in the glory days of the Canadiens 15 years ago. What Plante has lost in speed, he has picked up in wile and calm. Always a pacesetter, Jacques Plante was the first goalie to wear a protective mask; now almost automatic. For recreation he still finds pleasure in cooking, painting and his knitting. Sixteen years and 200 stitches later, the man from Shawinigan is still the master.

Depending on the summer job situation this summer, up to a half-a-million young Canadians will hit the road this summer. It is often easy to tell the seasoned traveller and the first-timer apart on the road. Those who have done it before travel light and keep moving. Greenhorns pack too much, wear too much and eat too much. I've found that outside gas stations are a likely spot to get a ride; motorists have more time to see you and size you up. If you're heading out for the first time, good luck and try short trips first to see how you like it. For those of you preparing for an annual migration, maybe we'll see you on the road.

As a kid, we all rode bikes. In the '70s the two wheeler has made an amazing comeback, so that this spring over six million Canadians will be riding bikes for one reason or another. Almost overnight, from the racing bikes of France and Italy, has come a 10-speed revolution unparalleled in Canadian recreation history. The 10-speed is a lighter, much faster brother of the glider we learned to ride on. Banana seats and "motorcycle" handlebars have disappeared in favor of Shimano changers and taped bars. Ten-speeds can easily top city speed limits, and have become yet another target for irate motorists. I own a modestly-priced BRC Supersport, yet I often sail past slower motorists, much to their concern. How long the bike boom will continue is uncertain, but it is a friendly, healthy invasion for once.

Soccer ooks improve standing

This past weekend the soccer team took to the field on Friday and Sunday and came off with four points.

On Friday, the Ooks faced a somewhat improved Geogers United who proved stubborn opponents and the Ooks had to work hard before they finally came out with a 5-3 win. Chris Mwassile has assumed the role of striker since Hiller Goldberg left the club and hit for three goals and came close on three other occasions. Edwin Mokobi came off the bench to play the second half and scored two identical goals from his left wing spot, completely mesmerizing his opposing fullback before scoring from a sharp angle.

Sunday's game was NAIT's first meeting with the club sponsored by Capitol Cable TV, and it proved to be one way traffic; all towards the Capitol net. Ooks won 3-0 and looked much sharper as a result of Friday's game, playing with more ball control and poise. Goals went to Mwassile on a solo effort as a result of sheer determination; Bill Osdachuk on hard drive from a set up by Don Phiri, and Dave Disele who finished off a three way passing play.

The way things are going, it looks like a showdown in the playoffs between NAIT and Croatia. Coach Tony Tweed, feels that with the way the team is improving, they could well knock off the supposedly invincible Croatians and bring home some silverware at the end of April. Mwassile should also take the goalscoring title.

Coach Tweed has left his employment here at NAIT and has moved to Winnipeg. He was a great soccer coach and was a prime reason why the team has done as well as it has. Coaching will now be a community affair with the team more or less coaching themselves.

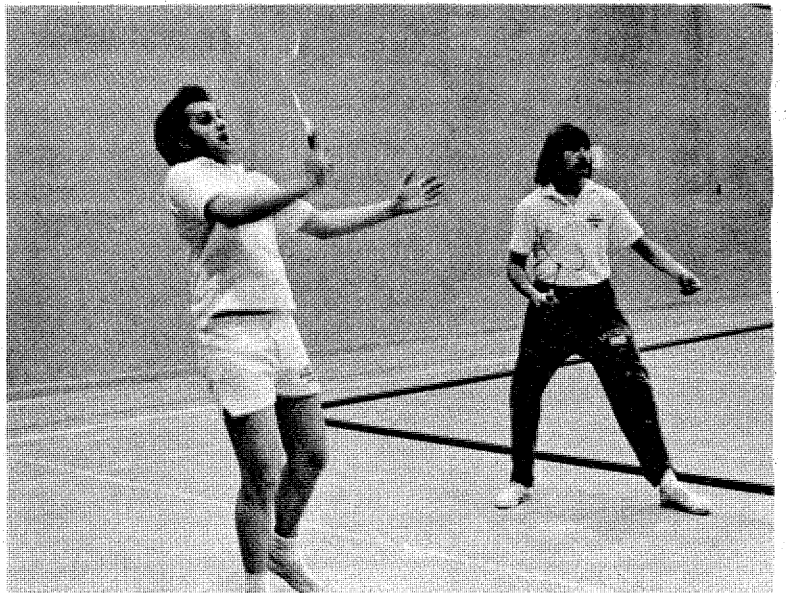

Coach Tweed wishes to thank his team for the pleasure they've given him over the season, and wishes them well in their soccer and their studies.

Badminton team shows well in ACAC final

NAIT's Badminton team travelled to Medicine Hat a short time ago, to compete in the ACAC finals. The two-day competition exemplified some outstanding badminton, with the Red Deer College team emerging as the overall victors.

NAIT's "bird-batters" consisted of Jimmy Chou in singles; Lois McElroy in singles; Tony DeRosa and Jim Romaniuk, the Men's doubles team; Emily Shalapay and Judy Hailes, the Women's doubles team; and Lynn Nickel and Marc Regamey, the Mixed doubles team. They finished fourth overall, with Lynn and Marc showing well in their final match when they held the Red Deer team to three exciting games.

It's enough to make you want to fix your fence...

Note the wires attached to the back of the vests, for picking up the hits.

Chris Slitka (right), jabbing his opponent and receiving that same compliment in return.

Chris Slitka-ready and waiting.

Have you ever heard of Melvin Hammerstein? Probably not. You see, he's a fencer. All he does all day is fix people's fences; fences that need painting, fences that are cracked, fences that have rotted away; all kinds of fences. Poor Melvin! He doesn't make much money and he has a lot of trouble supporting his wife and six kids. More about Melvin later.

Right now, let's talk about a different kind of fencer. The kind that you read about in the Three Musketeers or Robin Hood, or other such tales of yore. The kind that carried around a sword and stuck it in other people's stomachs. No, let's not talk about that kind either.

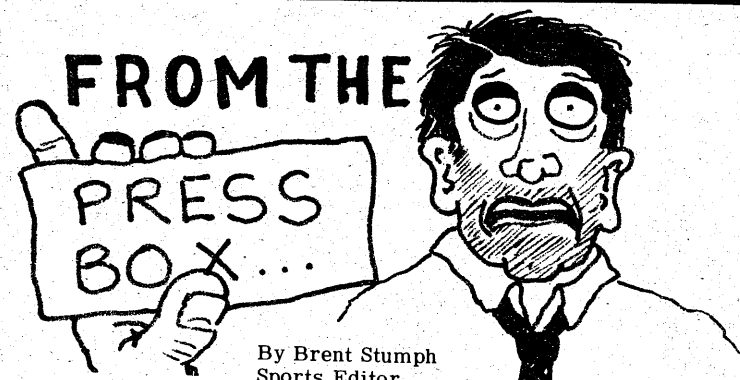

How about the fencing that took place in the Provincial Fencing Championships last weekend at the U of A? More specifically two fencers from NAIT who entered the Men's novice Foil event.

Chris Slitka and Pat Houghton, after a very limited amount of practice, entered the foil competition as representatives of NAIT's Fencing Club. Both Chris and Pat have studied the foil for only a few months, and entered the tournament to gain a little practical experience. Both won one bout each, and lost five, which might sound terrible but, considering the calibre of the competition, they did very well.

The foil, their weapon, is a flexible shaft. By Brent Stumph it can do is Sports Editor the bare skin.

by a complicated electrical system where a light goes on if the tip of the foil touches the metal sensitive jacket that the fencer is required to wear. Points are awarded under an involved system in which the President, or referee, has to decide which of the fencers was the first to lunge or attack his opponent, as he has the advantage. It's extremely interesting to watch; almost as good as some of those staged sword-fights you see on TV.

Getting back to Melvin; if you or anyone you know needs their fence fixed...

A lot of changes have to be made with the new Activities Building scheduled for completion this coming school year. NAIT will have trend-setting physical education facilities second-to-none in Alberta, setting the pace for future Athletic structures right across the country. NAIT's Physical and Leisure Recreation programs will have to vastly change to make full use of the new building, and the intramural and interschool (ACAC) league teams will now have excellent facilities for their practices and games.

In the coming NAITSA elections, the new structure will be a major point of concern for the candidates running for Athletic Chairman. Because of the prestige of such a complex, public relations will play a major role in determining the success or failure of physical education here at NAIT.

There are many other areas of concern right now; in athletics, the present intramural system and the new format of choices for physed are only two of a large number.

Because of the restrictions placed on myself because of the elections, I'll have to postpone further comments until after our new Student's Association has been chosen.

It looked like chicken!

By Brent Stumph Sports Editor

The first thing that parents make their sons promise when then let him have the family car for the first time, is that he won't play Chicken. Chicken is an old, established sport in which two vehicles travel, full-speed toward each other, and the first one to veer away from the path of the oncoming driver is the chicken. The type of the vehicle is not important, as long as they are both the same kind. All that matters is that the other guy becomes the chicken, not YOU!

Last Friday, there was a Chicken match in the gym. Some claimed it was a wheelchair basketball game but it looked more like a wide-open chicken match.

The Edmonton Spokebenders, representing Edmonton in the Paralympic Sports Association took to the gym floor here at NAIT in a chicken match...or was it a basketball game...against the 4th year plumbers. After uncountable collisions and dozens of near misses, the Spokebenders wheeled away with a decisive 39-12 victory. Being an established team, the Spokebenders easily controlled the entire game, many times simply toying with the Plumbers, or playing two men short. Each of the Spokebenders is confined to his or her chair, consequently they know all the intricacies of their zippy little machines. And zippy they were. Most of the Spokebenders could move their chairs faster than some people can run.

The high scorers in the game were Shakey with 14 for the Spokebenders and Thompson with 4 for NAIT.

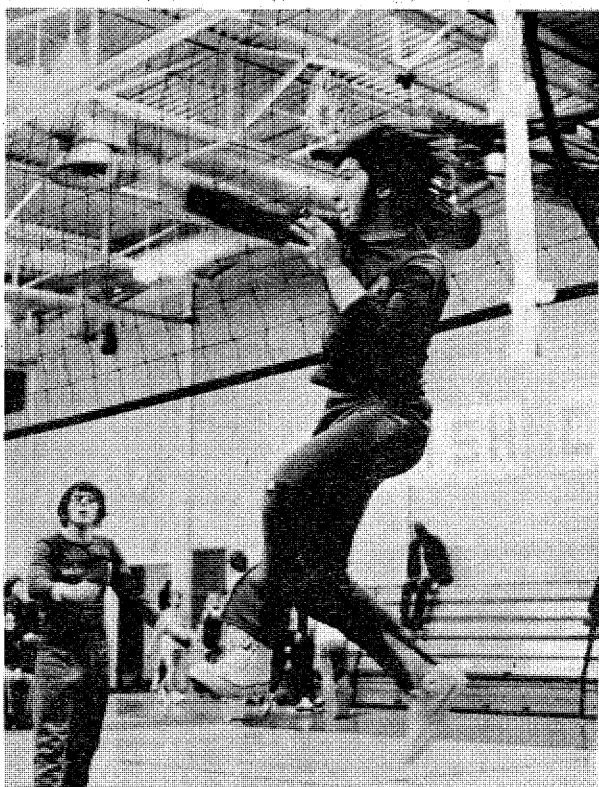

The Paralympic Sports Association was formed, here in Edmonton in 1965.

There is presently a 4 team mixed league in the city; mixed meaning that the players don't have to be permanent wheelchair owners. In the league, though, there are far less collisions than the game here Friday saw.

I still think it was a game of chicken...

THE 4-WEST CHAMPIONSHIP IN VOLLEYBALL

Well it's been a long and hard season for our volleyball players and finally it's all over for this year. The whole season actually consisted of three major tournaments in the A.C.A.C. (Alberta Colleges Athletic Conference) to determine the provincial champs (plus numerous other smaller tournaments in the city league). As you know, our men's volleyball team became the provincial champs, which made them eligible to represent Alberta for the Western Canadian championship play-off which is called the 4-West Championships. (Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia).

The 4-West Volleyball Championship was held in Moose Jaw. It lasted for 10 straight hours. The Championships consisted of a double round robin thus each province played each other four times. The tournament proved not only to be an endurance test, but it exhibited some excellent volleyball skills.

The NAIT Oopiks started very well, by defeating B.C.I.T. (British Columbia Institute of Technology), 15-7 the first game, and then on to the next game against them, we were down 4-11, but as soon as the girls from M.H.C. (Medicine Hat College) came over to cheer the Ooks on; things changed, as the Oopiks came on strong by tying the score 11-11. Then, 11-12 for them; then 12-12; then 12-14 for them and as you can see, all that B.C.I.T. needed was one to win. Tension was high as the Ooks won 16-14. The win wasn't easy as they had to come back from a score of 4-11 for B.C.I.T. Then came Saskatchewan, as they took the lead in the first game and again we went down 6-11, but again in conjunction, the M.H.C. girls, Louie Davidek and Dr. K. Puffer, the coaches, got them going and again the Oopiks showed them with a come-back which resulted in a score of 14-14. Then with 10 minutes of good displayed plays and spiking, the Ooks won the game 18-16. The next game against Saskatchewan, NAIT won 15-2. The third match was Manitoba. This proved to be the best volleyball match played in Moose Jaw. Manitoba gave us lots of trouble with their huge blockers and center spikers as they defeated us 15-2. The next game against them, we went down 9-14, and again all we needed was one point to win, but with smart and precise plays against their power, we won 16-14. This was a real accomplishment.

The second round robin matches started with B.C.I.T. again. This time round, they were no competition as we beat them 15-10 and 15-10 again. The next match was against Saskatchewan and we won the first game 15-8; during the second game it was noticeable that we were slacking off and fatigue prevailed; thus resulting in a loss of concentration, so...we lost 10-15. This was about 7:00 p.m. and the M.H.C. girls had just finished playing 12 games by coming through undefeated and thus claiming the 4-West Championship for Alberta in the girls division. By now, it was time for the Oopiks to play off the last match which was against Manitoba. This match would determine the men's championship. We were in first place by one point going into this final match. The first game of this match revealed the difference in physical condition as Manitoba won 15-8. In the second game, the Oopiks got everything they had together and tried very hard but lost 10-15. Thus Manitoba won the 4-West Championship over us by one game. However, the coaches and team members were happy for the team went a long way. The trip itself, certainly was a great experience for the team, for the Championships provided a good calibre of volleyball and an excellent sportsmanship and fine spirits. After all that, there was a final banquet for everyone, which preceded the not-so-official get together at which all the teams participated (party); it lasted until...? At the end of all that the team went through an unforgettable experience as they ventured on the 11 hour trip on the Greyhound back to Edmonton.
