NAIT'S OOKPIKS:
a professional crew

commissionaires

"SNOW REMOVAL
AT THE INSTITUTE"
By - SGT - Johnston.

Once again that time of the year has arrived when every ounce of courtesy and co-operation is required in and around the Institute buildings and parking lots. Now, whether blowing, drifting or in the process of removal, can be a discomfort to us all.

Those days you awake to find a heavy snowfall has occurred during the night, please take time to give some thought of what might lie ahead. It would be advisable to be prepared for the dangerous conditions of city streets which could cause a delay in arrival at the Institute. Should you find that you are late and the parking area is occupied by snow removal crews, it would help the situation if you would go to the far south lot - or - the far north lot and park until snow removal has been completed. A quick check at noon should reveal your parking area is cleared.

When the snow removal crews are on the job - or - when a request is made for the temporary removal of your vehicle from the area - understanding and control is necessary to co-operate. It is realized that this can cause much discomfort as time schedules are upset and classes may run a bit late. A good point to remember is, the more we co-operate, the speedier the job can be done and a return to normal routine will result.

Of course, you can count on the Commissionaire, at his post, having the answers of areas you can park during this temporary disruption.

So, with any luck, we may not have that much snow to cause too much inconvenience. We are hoping - IN LIKE A LION - will bring true the resultant - OUT LIKE A LAMB.

BE THE FIRST ONE ON YOUR BLOCK.

COLORADO (CPS-CUP)
A Glastonbury, Connecticut group called Enemies Unlimited is currently offering an opportunity to get on a White House enemies list.

For five dollars, contributors can get their names placed on a scroll which will be sent to the President, stating that they are official enemies of the White House.

In addition, the 'enemies' will receive a button saying, "I'm on the list." (as Joe MacDonald also said, "There's plenty good money to be made.")

Skip This

I say, didn't you notice the heading? Didn't you see that you were supposed to skip this? Then why on earth do you go on? I assure you you'll get nothing out of this. Go on to the next page! If you haven't stopped you're only wasting your time. This is the moment to show that you have got enough character to stop. Didn't you understand? STOP !!! Now we are halfway through and you're still going on. You can't hope reading the next line. Or can't you? No, indeed I was right. What on earth are you getting out of it? Nothing. But you're acting as if you're bewildered. There are only a few lines left, so show that you have some will power and stop! But you're probably still curious enough to keep right on wasting your time by reading these very last words. Aren't you?

Letters to the Editor

The following is not necessarily the editorial policy of CHNR and is submitted by a non-member of CHNR.

Dear Editor,
What's really under Pat's Hat.

Pat is definitely a very ignorant and uninformed person. He tends to shoot off his mouth a lot. Maybe he should take his hat off and get a little ventilation to a rather stagnant brain. From the looks of him and his mentality I would say he is most definitely taking a Mickey Mouse course or is a dropout or both. If he would take the time to check out his facts before he checks out his pen, he would have found out that CHNR does have Music Policies that they follow to try and please everyone's taste in music. And since CHNR plays a wide variety of music which is all classed as "shit" according to Pat, his critique evaluations are no better than what Pat is: full of "shit". Also Pat should remember that CHNR is part of a course designed to teach radio and not solely to entertain Pat and his friends. If you want entertainment Pat, try the Students Executive, of which you are part of! Remember?

If Pat would be doing his job of Vice President instead of stumbling around in the Executive Offices attempting to write, he would find out that CHNR does produce their own funding. All that Students Union provides is the space. Plus CHNR is a valuable asset for NAIT in providing advertising for NAIT activities.

With the attacks Pat has been making on CHNR the last couple of weeks I think he must be afraid of them. Don't worry, Pat, they're not after your cracker-jack Vice President job. They can find better than that in a box of Lucky Elephant Pop Corn.

If this inefficiency blunder by our Vice President is what we can expect from the rest of our Student Council, I don't see how anything will be accomplished this year. If you would check out facts and stick to your job Pat instead of playing Newspaper, maybe you would find out what really is happening here at NAIT.

In closing, I call for an immediate impeachment of our Vice President and I don't even want to hear his tapes. I think CHNR is doing a great job and I'm not even a part of the Radio Station.

D. V. Underschultz.

editor's note.
The Nugget is not involved in the opinions of these two parties, but is the middle-man expressing the students opinions. Anyone is allowed to use this column, as it is for the students to express their ideas fairly

Dear Editor,

Can anything be done about the lack of food available in NAIT on the weekends? Isn't it bad enough that only "machine food" is sold but then the damn things are empty! These past few weekends a large number of students have been in the institute studying for exams yet Hudson's Bay hasn't seen fit to keep the machines reasonably full. And if you can find something in them, then the dollar bill changers don't work or are sold out. Just how much is HBCO. raking off from NAIT via their tin bandits? Sure, vandalism is a problem but at the U of A they cover the machines with iron plate and piano-hinges before they risk taking them out (and losing all that revenue). Is HBCO. responsible to someone in NAIT for supplying this so-called "service"? And is someone in NAIT falling down on the job by not enforcing the stocking of the vending machines? Perhaps the Students Association could do a better /cheaper job and provide work/experience for students. Let's have some answers.

Tired of filling out refund slips.

Dear Tired,

The Provincial Government (not NAIT directly) gets 10-15% (on the average) from the machines. This goes into Provincial Gov't general revenue to offset cafeteria losses. This is done as the machines are supposedly on provincial gov't land.

Due to vandalism, the machines are kept near empty on weekends. Mr. D. Gray in Food Services is supposedly responsible for vending services. Sorry for the limited information, but there is a story coming out of this which may effect cafeteria prices (God help us!). More to follow on this in upcoming issues.

Dear Editor,

I would just like to express my thanks to the kind person who helped me clean out my locker. That $18 sweater needed a cleaning anyways, and I couldn't afford it. Maybe you can, that is if you sell the rest of my belongings. Do you realize that if you weren't so impatient, and just waited until Tuesday, I was going to leave you a nice little calculating machine so that you could add up the prices of all my possessions. Well, to close, I would just like to express once again a hardy thank you. May your car have a flat tire, and your girlfriend get pregnant.

HI-III

WHERE WILL IT ALL END?
WHERE DID IT ALL BEGIN?

WHO'S KIDDING WHO?

New York(Cup-Lns) "There are those who say that law and order are just code words for repression and bigotry. This is dangerous nonsense. Law and order are code words for goodness and decency... the only way to attack crime in America is the way crime attacks our people-without pity."

Richard Nixon in a letter to Congress and broadcast on submitting the "Criminal Code Reform Act" to Congress, March 14, 1973.

Feature this. Our own Yearbook Editor, Ruth, doesn't even know who Don Groves is. I can see most of you readers not knowing who he is, because of your non-involvement. But the people directly involved with student affairs? How can we have a yearbook, which is based on student functions of the year, and not know who the Public Relations man is?

editor's choice

I'd like to give a special thanks to the students or non-students, that are responsible for all the vandalism of the vending machines during the cabaret nights. To you, it doesn't matter. You're probably the ones that never come to school on the weekends to study anyway. So why should the people who come in here on the weekend, suffer from someone else's habits, such as destroying property.

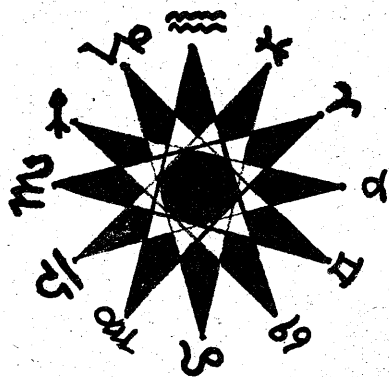

How many technology clubs realize we cover club parties. You give us the advertisement, and we'll ensure it gets on Page 2 in the Up and Coming column. People are always looking for places to happen, and this is free for you. So use them, or don't give us shit for not trying to help your technology.

Can anyone remember all the girls that sold poppies in NAIT on Friday? I can't, but I heard there were 6 girls helping the cause. NAIT has never had such a poor turn out for a poppy drive. Now only $400.00 was collected, and that came mainly from the poppies sold in Student Services and Student Stores.

Either we do a job or else we don't. If we aren't going to offer our assistance to charitable organizations, let's make it verbal. "We don't care what organization you belong to, don't come to NAIT for help, because NAIT won't help you out". This is the attitude I have formed from listening to the Executive and Public Relations Departments. No one knows why nothing is a success around this institute and it's always someone else's fault. Public Relations blames the Vice-President, and Visa Versa. Have they considered working together, therefore cutting the work in half? These people are elected into these positions, yet, are we getting what we figured we voted for?

If the Student Executive don't combine forces and stand together, how can they expect the Student Body to stand behind them? The Student Executive were supposed to have a meeting Tuesday at 5 o'clock. This is what happened. Pat had to start his car, Brent had to referee a Girls Volleyball Game, no one knew where Ed went to, Larry's in the East somewhere, and the rest of the Executive were happy because they could all go home. Happy Days!? We've got an Executive that just doesn't care, or rather, don't have the time to care.

Another good example is that the Nugget tried to get the Executive together, to get each one of them to submit an article on their involvement and opinions of the way the institute is run. It was to begin with Ed Wychopen, our treasurer. Since Ed didn't have the time to submit an article, I have decided to do it myself. Ed is a very good student. So good that, in his class, he achieved highest marks, one of the reasons he was picked to be treasurer. A very good choice, because with his high marks, we would have good bookkeeping and he would have the time to do his elected job. Well, then, why didn't he write a little article, which was asked of him over 1 week ago? He was going to begin the series of articles, one from each Executive member. We in the Nugget picked Ed to start the series, because we thought that he, over the other members, could be counted on. Well, another apathetic student joins our midst. Welcome to the club.

ARIES:

Affairs that have been stewing for a long time, especially those where love is concerned, finally come to a head. Give serious consideration to future plans in employment area. You could get what you want easily if you rely on your own judgement and assert yourself. Renewed sense of responsibility. Home conditions are strenuous.

TAURUS:

Be self-sustaining. Your mental and manual skills prove valuable now. Your outlook is refreshing, can help to remedy a difficult situation. Resolving matters with your neighbourhood results in gratifying popularity. Capacity of an official is questioned, you could become deeply involved. Let your opinions be known but be prepared to accept good advice from another.

GEMINI:

This is a period of steady growth. Don't tax mental and physical faculties by trying to do the impossible. Be systematic where money is concerned. Learn all the facts involved before you make your move. The quality of faith is tried. You may feel alienated. Be patient, you gain a deep understanding from it.

CANCER:

Important information comes your way - put it to the best use possible. Think about a new approach to current problem. Take the initiative but don't broadcast changes. Events coalesce to compell a decision. Start laying plans you want to carry out later. Good time for investments even if you have to dig into reserves.

LEO:

Return to former values. Share the good things in your life with others. Tension and strain will lift. You can obtain needed information to start you off on a more prosperous cycle. You could be lured into a dangerous situation where romance is involved. Far fields look greener but a price is required.

VIRGO:

Fatigue lessens. You can accomplish exceptional amount of first class work but take care not to put too much emphasis on form or behaviour patterns. You acquire knowledge, integrate it with experience and pass on the results. As situation changes, make sure you know where you are going. Vicarious experience is sometimes best.

LIBRA:

There is an urge to seek your freedom from restrictive job. Don't let a bad situation reach the breaking point. Cut discord with sympathetic approach. Benign factors gain influence. New interests are possible, friendship is sincere, feeling and instinct combine to aid progress. Finances improve. Social gatherings are of some importance to future.

SCORPIO:

Get things into perspective. You need to co-operate with others. Tension over prestige or standing lessens but don't put off important decisions. Your reputation is affected by your actions rather than words. If you follow friendly advice, you can extricate yourself from disturbing conditions and promote harmony in your immediate sphere. Keep resolutions.

SAGITTARIUS:

Comradship and reunions start you off right. Be ready when opportunity knocks. For those of you who are alert and available there are profits in unexpected areas. You gain new assurance where personal beliefs and dignity are concerned. A show of confidence is necessary. School yourself well. Reserve the right to be wrong sometimes.

CAPRICORN:

You display robust enthusiasm in your approach to life. May take on new responsibilities. Opportunities are available for new and enjoyable experiences and extra benefits are gained through the performance of useful service. There will be a period of self-confrontation, it is beneficial. The hole put in your bank account is for good purpose.

AQUARIUS:

You can regasp past experiences and turn them to good account. What happens here affects future efforts to a fine degree. Terminate undesirable affiliations and strengthen bonds of friendship. Promote good will and begin new projects now. You feel a sense of personal authority. Integral part of your life is under consideration. You have protection.

PISCES:

You pass through an inner ordeal. This is a time for learning about yourself and accepting limits. It passes with time. Public opinion has to be considered in personal and business areas. Use talents to make something of enduring beauty. Favourable time for romance. Volunteer services, the aid you give others benefits you as well.

ARIES - leads you around in circles.

TAURUS - hungry for experience

GEMINI - liable to grow on you

CANCER - reaches out for love and affection

LEO - not wise, but certainly unusual

VIRGO - asks that you prove yourself

LIBRA - high strung, charming and aware

SCORPIO - knack of seeing through pretense

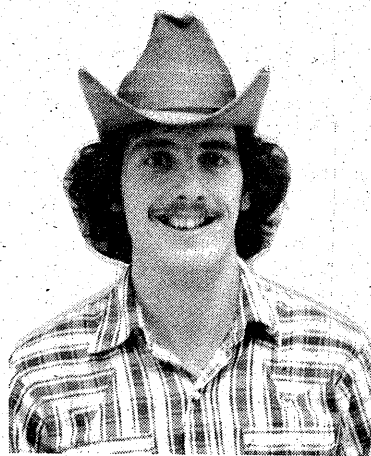

SAGITTARIUS - loyalty is the real thing.

CAPRICORN - still waters run deep

AQUARIUS - you can lead a horse to water but...

PISCES - never completely contented.

PEACE or COEXISTENCE.

As I write this, I sit listening to some great vibrations on the one & only NAIT radio, CHNR. After the article I wrote last week about the public relations attitude over there. I had a chance to talk to the friendly diplomat who answered the phone when I called. He explained that he is always in that mood near the end of the month and I can understand that. Glad to say that he is feeling much better now, and so am I.

ENERGY

Last week over at the Jubilee, the Committee for an Independent Canada (C.I.C.) sponsored an energy debate. I (and I am sure everyone) feel that this is a good thing. You know, public awareness and voter education. Somehow though rather than developing a nationalistic spirit it turned rather anti-southern north America. Come on, let's be pro-Canada and not get involved in a hind-sighted Yankee hunt!

Football, Football, Football.

Wouldn't you know it, the C.F.L. is a group of teams who play follow the leader. As soon as the Eskimos show em how to thoroughly wax the opposition suddenly even the Roughriders know how. Not only that but the Al's forced the retirement of Joe Thiesman. Shows they watched the Eskis last game also. But, the wrinkle to the story is that Edmonton's answer to the Miami Dolphins didn't play this last weekend so what are those other teams going to do! Guess they'll just have to play it by ear while the "green & gold crush the green & white". Even though I have tickets to the pre-determined slaughter I don't know if I will attend. I still can not stand the crying of Sask. Football players and screaming of John Payne, the unlucky Roughie coach. Can you?

GOING'S ON

In the past, the Students Assoc. Executive were known for their travelling around the country. This year, except for Gary Everett, little or no funds have been wasted on travel. Anyway, over the wkend, Larry Nolte and Art Hooks were down east at a conference to arrange tours of top name groups at campuses across Canada. Therefore in the future DON'T be too surprised to see "NAZARETH" (Europe's current #1), the Stones or Cheech & Chong or the re-constructed Beatles in Vancouver or Toronto but never at NAIT. How did you like the group at the Cabaret? We brought them all the way from the southside. They have a lot of potential and someday when they make it big, you can say, "I saw them first at the NAITSA Cabaret" or "I remember when they used to play at dives like the NAIT Cafeteria."

Just don't forget we are giving them their chance to make it big. You can see the number one groups any day, anywhere, so we thought we would be original in our choice of groups. We hire nothing that is even considered near being good. At least we offer a little continuity.

HANG ON

If you are down and feeling low Your friends won't tell you where they go

You need a lift and need it fast You're running late; time has past

Go to SAIT, you'll find a friend Then all your loneliness will end. Together the rest of the nights Playing cowboy, in your pink tights.

But someday, if you pray You'll come to NAIT.

We are friendly but not "GAY" pat laforge

See you next week. If my car starts. Speaking of auto's, I spent all last week trading my unheated "German Cadillac" in on a "sexy European at an American price". Woke up Monday morning and the new car wouldn't start. What do I have to do to get dependable transportation?

I.E.E.E.

The NAIT chapter of I.E.E.E. has met several times this year to elect officers and to initiate a few projects. The elected chairman for 1973/74 is Larry Decterow.

The projects in progress are: 1) to compile information on and to publish a paper on "Techniques and Materials Needed to Construct Printed Circuit Boards." This paper will be distributed to any Electronics, Telecomm. and Electrical students who may be interested in the construction of P.C. boards.

2) to compile and distribute a paper on trouble shooting techniques and hints.

During the last meeting I.E.E.E. members met with Dr. K. Puffer, a representative of the Alberta Society of Engineering Technologists (A.S.E.T.)

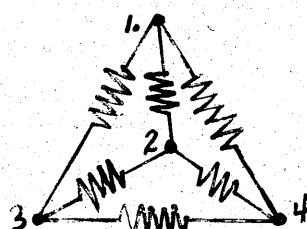

Dr. Puffer informed us of the benefits of the society, the history and what it is all about. We would like to thank Dr. Puffer for meeting with us.

gung-fu on cable 13

In our violent world, self-protection without weapons is demanding examination from more and more people. Over the past 3,000 years the Chinese have been developing the art of Gung-Fu as a means of self defense.

From Gung-Fu other oriental fighting arts such as Karate, Judo and Ju-jitsu have evolved. Tuesday, November 27th at 8:00 p.m. Television North presents the first of four, fifteen minute programs illustrating the background to Gung-Fu. Demonstrator Margie Macdonald (who has her 4th degree black belt) explains the history and development of Gung-Fu down through the centuries.

Included in these programs will be demonstrations and displays of Kendo (stick fighting); Animal Movements and Moo-Kempo (fencing off attackers from several different directions simultaneously), and lastly sword fighting and other styles of Gung-Fu. Remember, this series is not designed to teach Gung-Fu, rather to acquaint people with this ancient art of self-defense.

LOOKING FOR A GOOD MOVIE?

It's Saturday (or Sunday) night and you and your chick are sitting at home watching a re-run of some old John Wayne duster, and you can't afford to see an X-Rated movie. Times are so bad you can't even afford the popcorn. Well, here's your chance to get to go out, and it's only 50¢ each. Come to the NAIT movies.

There have been some pretty good movies, and they run from 7:30 to about 9:30 on Saturday and Sunday night. Usually there are a couple of cartoons to get you into the mood.

These movies are non-profit and have yet to have a break-even night. The purpose isn't to make money, but to be a service to the student. It's for the students who are supposed to be broke, but still want to be able to get some entertainment. Some movies showing soon are, "I Love My Wife, Psycho, Taking Off, Slaughter House Five, and more." The movies that will be playing are given on the Activities Board between the Men's and Women's washrooms, just south of the cafeteria.

So come and watch good movies for only 50¢.

Where else can you be so cheaply entertained?

A CHAPLAINCY SERVICE be a foster grandparent

Dear Friends:

This is an open letter to all Students at NAIT but particularly to you, as you have indicated that you would like to have someone from your Church contact you.

Each of the various denominations both Catholic and Protestant have assigned chaplains to NAIT, and we are privileged to serve you in that capacity.

We are inviting all students and particularly United Church students to an open session Wednesday, Nov. 21, 1:15 pm, in room E-123.

"MY LIFE AND MY FAITH."

We will look forward to meeting you, and sharing this session with you.

Sincerely,
Rev. Hart Cantelon
Rev. Cyril Martin
United Church Chaplains at NAIT.

Alberta's Department of Culture, Youth and Recreation and the Providence Child Development Centre, Calgary, will co-operate to establish a "foster grandparent" program.

Culture, Youth and Recreation Minister Horst A. Schmid said November 7, that a grant of $9,000.00 will support a pilot program and supplement monies budgeted by the Centre for the period to March 31, 1974.

The Centre is to select fourteen foster grandparents, who will each establish affectionate relationships with two of the Centre's children.

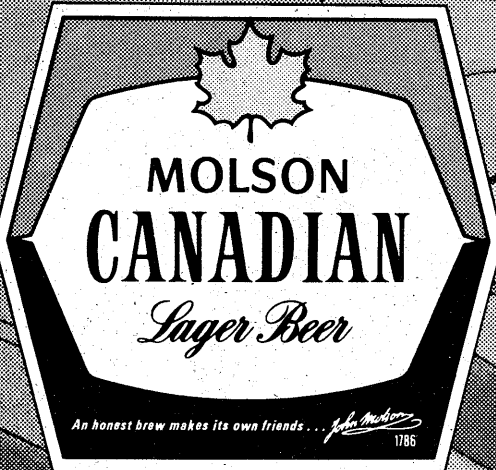

It's hoped that the scheme will assist the children - from institutions and single parent families - in their social, emotional and intellectual growth.

Ooks, Vikings, weren't the only things that clashed

Dave Korol (#9) waiting in front of the Camrose net.

At least it was a colorful game. NAIT had on their royal blue uniforms and Camrose came with their poppy red ensemble, almost making it the sports fashion event of the year.

Camrose out-colored the blue Ooks 5-2 in a surprisingly close match for the full 60 minutes.

Gainesborough himself would have been happy with his "blue boys" performance as they controlled most of the play in the first period, opening the scoring with not even 5 minutes of action. An alert play by Ken Kosak resulted in NAIT's only score for that period. The blue boys settled down though in the last few minutes and the "Pinkies" took advantage of the NAIT lapse and made the red light shine twice.

Gainesborough would really have been proud of his Pinkies then, as they continued the pressure into the second period. They only managed 1 goal though, about half way through.

The blue boys came back in the third ready to play, but alas, so did the Pinkies. Larry Rindero snuck one by the Camrose puckstopper who incidentally lost his jock on a sneaky deek by Len O'Conner, who drew the goalie out and then fed the puck to Rindero, who made no mistake.

With the game still very much within reach, NAIT again put on the pressure, but Camrose, looking as professional as their brand new uniforms (with their names on the back) systematically broke down the NAIT attack and put in two insurance goals late in the game to put it away for the Scarlet Vikings from Camrose.

Challenge Cup match a nice, quiet game

It was supposed to be a nice, quiet game. Instrumentation and Building Construction were supposed to play Floor Hockey like true gentlemen, with little or no physically aggressive play at all.

Are you kidding?

After about three seconds bodies were flying all over the place in the Challenge Cup game yesterday. Those innocent young hockey players became menaces to society, the broom handles in their hands became lethal weapons, right from the word GO.

The, as advertised, blood and guts match, got out of control at the opening whistle, the two referees had not yet known for sure who was playing and why. Building Construction won easily though, managing to get 4 goals in between all the rough-stuff. Instrumentation replied with 2.

Building Construction know has possession of the Challenge Cup, but they don't have to have it for very long. Any technology can challenge them to anything, anytime, anyplace (almost). The more original and creative the better.

It's not Burt Reynolds

When you first walk into the gym on a Tuesday night from 5-9 p.m. you might think that Burt Reynolds is there wearing the same rug he wore in his famous centrefold.

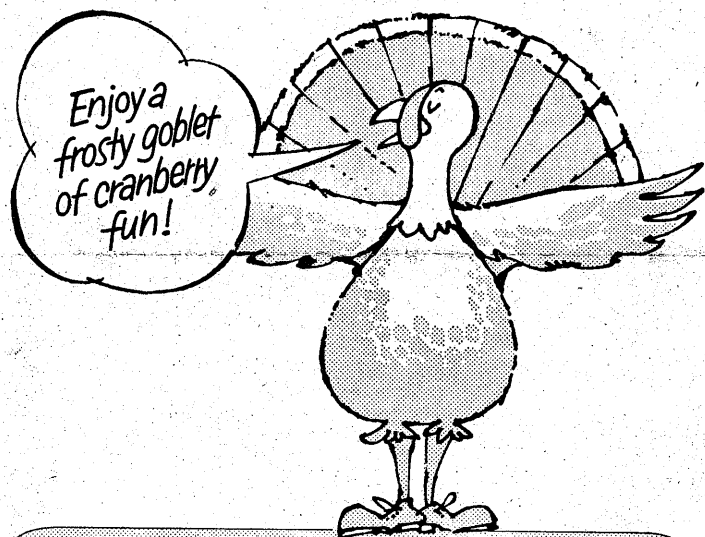

All you can hear is girls screaming and yelling and squealing and giggling. On Tuesday nights Burt Reynolds does not make his appearance here at NAIT (fortunately or unfortunately.) All that screaming and everything else is the result of girls from about 8 technologies having a good time. They're having a good time playing volleyball.

On Tuesday night Women's Volleyball Intramurals draw about 60 of the aforementioned young ladies to compete in the fierce, wild game of volleyball and at the same time have a lot of fun.

It may not be as much fun as seeing Mr. Reynolds in the buff but just ask any of the regulars and they'll tell you ... it's just about as much fun.

Note: My apologies to any females who do not consider seeing B. R. bare as being "fun."

Hoop ooks need experience

NAIT's basketball alumni certainly supported the old adage about "improving with age" as they edged the Oaks 60-54 in an exhibition game last Friday.

Even after giving them a few inches in height, the Oaks played well under the boards. Rick Gawlick, Scotty McEachern, Larry Sylvester and Clarence Hinse kept the strong alumni squad from getting those all-important second chances. McEachern was the high NAIT scorer with 18, Gawlick accounting for 14.

Coach Jules Owchar was pleased with the hoop ooks but he says that offensively they must become more disciplined and stop turning the ball over so much.

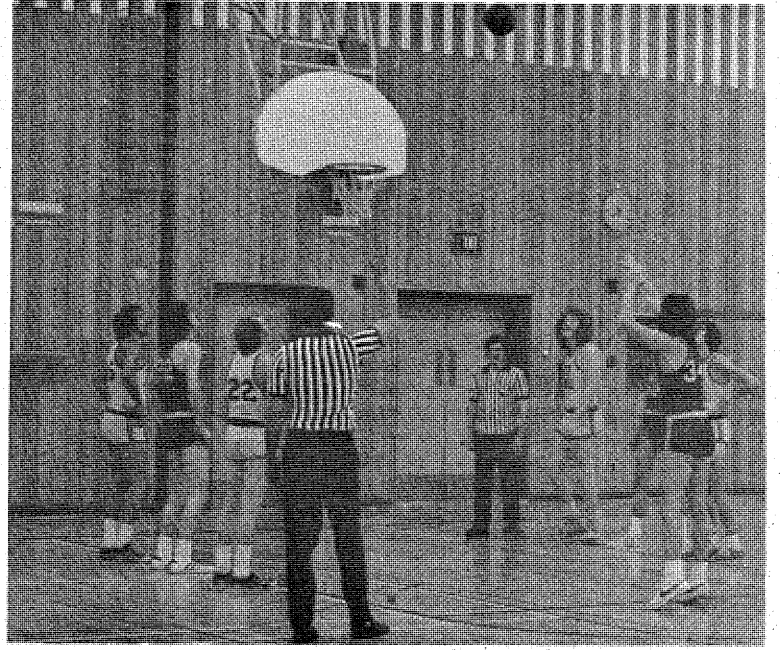

...just like he said

It almost happened just like he said it would. Coach Jules Owchar said after the 60-54 loss to Arts that the Oaks would have to offensively discipline themselves and stop turning the ball over so much. On Tuesday night the Don Wheaton squad drove in 57 points, only 1 behind NAIT's 58, in the closest game the Oaks have had thus far. They almost blew it though, in the final minute and a half.

With both teams taking turns holding the slim lead, NAIT would come-on strong when they were down. But when they regained the lead, the Oaks made mistakes. The passes and shots were off and shooting is something you shouldn't do anyway when there's only a minute left and your team is up one point. Freezing the ball is the logical strategy, but the Oaks were not that quick to do it. But they did hold on to the lead and came up with a big win.

Rick Gawlick was the big gun for the Oaks, swishing the net for 25 points but he was again fouled out in the second half. Scotty McEachern got 14 and Doug Carter jumped for 10.

It missed, but they didn't need it anyway.

Bowling tips

To become involved in any Intramural sport, one must feel competent enough in playing that sport.

To play that sport well one must have that athletic style that insures success. However, not everyone has that certain something, most of us have to constantly practise in order to be even half decent.

With Intramural Bowling just around the corner, it might be a good time to review some of the basic mistakes made in the delivery, and ways to correct them:

OVERHAND

- scares the hell out of people
 - has a tendency to break things
 - may throw out arm
- Corrections
- throw side-arm, aiming for next alley over. It still scares the hell out of people and breaks things, but you won't get the blame for it.

DROP

- causes dents in the alley
 - can result in foot amputation
 - always misses the pins and the ball could break
- Corrections
- wear steel-toed shoes
 - stand over the pins

UNDERHAND DROP

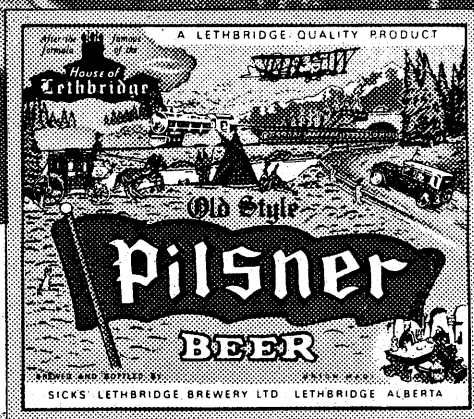

- causes dents in alley
 - may have the same effect as style 1, depending on the force with which it is thrown
- Corrections
- throw a foam ball, then run down the alley and kick over the pins.

STYLISH

- used the most of the four
 - definite sign of conformity
- Corrections
- practise any of the aforementioned styles.
 - don't throw the ball at all, simply run down and kick the pins over.

his style

old style

He opened up the north with baling wire, canvas and courage—and maybe the thought of Lethbridge Old Style Pilsner waiting when he made it back home. Alberta's original Pilsner has logged a lot of miles and quenched a lot of thirsts in nearly fifty years; and it tastes as good today as it did way-back-when. Slow-brewed and naturally aged for men who appreciate the down-to-earth flavour of an honest, old-time beer. Try it.

POPPY DRIVE AT NAIT. not really what you call a success

This year's Poppy Drive raised over $400. Unfortunately, it was very poorly organized, but I am not going to complain about the reasons why this happened.

Most of the people at NAIT wore a poppy, thanks to the efforts of six teller trainees.

The poppy has stood as Canada's symbol of remembrance since our Canadian soldiers noticed them growing on the graves of their comrades during World War I.

Canada, unlike the States, is not an openly patriotic country. We don't show emotion toward our country as other people do towards their countries. On November 11th, however, Canadians show their pride and patriotism in the Remembrance Day activities. At this time, we remember what those 114,000 Canadians died for—freedom. But because they won that freedom for us it means that we must be sure to retain it from oppression abroad, or corruption at home.

Canada produced some of the greatest fighting men of W.W.I and even though we are all against war, we can take pride in their bravery.

The staff and students at NAIT wore poppies in remembrance of their bravery and of their supreme sacrifice for our freedom.

WHERE HAVE YOU HEARD THIS BEFORE?

Buffalo, N.Y. (I.P.)

The sheer size of today's universities is one of their most frightening aspects, according to Dr. Charles H.V. Ebert, Dean of the Division of Undergraduate Studies at the State University at Buffalo. He said that the size of today's universities indicates that "we have become sterile in our thinking."

"All we can do is build bigger and bigger universities, when what we should be doing is developing new ways of integrating the university with the real world," he said. One possible method of achieving this integration, according to Dr. Ebert, would be the establishment of a new type of academic department, one that would embrace a much broader scope of subject areas.

This could be accomplished by eliminating the rigidity of traditional departmental structure, and merging individual departments into larger interest groups that would devote themselves to core problems.

Dr. Ebert sees these new departments as being "responsive to needs and not tied to tradition. The individual members of these departments could still function as a professional in their fields, but at the same time they would be members of a larger team."

He would like to see students do more "practical work outside the classroom" for academic credit. He cited internships with industrial firms or community agencies as examples of this type of work. In this way Dr. Ebert believes that the learning process could be made much more worthwhile for the student, because "there is a real advantage in doing what you are learning."

Dr. Ebert also commented that society and technology are changing so rapidly that it "doesn't make sense to develop a 10 year master plan because we have no idea of what the social, political and economic trends of the next four or five years may be."

"We are at the threshold of a new era in education. We know that education is not a panacea, and that the traditional assembly line method doesn't work. Now what we must develop is not a rigid master plan, but rather an ongoing process that will enable us to deal with the trends of the future," he said.

NOMINATIONS FOR ADVANCED EDUCATION ADVISORY COMMITTEES

Honourable J. Foster
Minister of Advanced Education

Advanced Education Minister Jim Foster is asking for nominations to the six advisory committees on College Affairs, Education of Native People, Further Education, Student Affairs, Vocational and Technical Education, and University Affairs.

The majority of each fifteen-member committee will be selected from the public at large. Student and faculty members will also be selected as well as those from special interest groups. None of the members will be direct employees of the Advanced Education Department.

"I want to ensure a direct channel of communication with the public", Mr. Foster emphasized. "These committees are not intended to divert representations from existing Boards, organizations or persons on specific topics.

forget Remembrance Day?

We've all heard the same old story around this time of year. "The young people of today just don't bother about remembering the dead who fought in the two World Wars. The people that fought and died to give us the freedom we treasure today." What a bunch of bull.

Us young people hear the same thing every year, from the people that fought and lived. Only the story is actually reversed. It's the veterans who have forgotten the dead. This is shown on Remembrance Day, where they all put on their medals and sell poppies downtown. Now, what's the purpose of showing off how valiant or how brave these men were, when it's supposed to be a day of remembering the great fighters we had defending Canada. These older men selling poppies had a great day. It was a day they could reminisce and share experiences with other veterans. There wasn't much sadness for these men, unless they were crying-out in the packed Legions. Oh yes, those Legions never had a better day for business. Remembrance Day is the day where the veterans should actually be the ones who remember the dead, their friends, their families, but instead they pile into the Legions and drink their fill, just to help themselves remember better.

At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, a veteran selling poppies was hard to find, and guess who was selling poppies? Right, it was the young people. While the vets were remembering the dead in the Legions, the young people were out on the streets, doing the selling for the cause. And what recognition do they get? Not much, and they're not asking for recognition. The only recognition they get is "that young people just don't care about the dead". Yet ask any of the young people why they are selling the poppies for the veterans. They'll tell you that their uncle or grandfather died in the war. They were selling because of the dead, and the veterans were selling because they were alive, and had a lot of medals to show to the people to prove how brave they were in battle.

It seems strange how the vets say the young hippies of today, the no-good dope smokers, the free love generation, etc, have no consideration for the men who gave up their lives for what we have now. But do you ever hear the young people say that the older generation are ego tripping, the fact that they fought in the wars and have 10 tons of metal on their chests.

This day is dedicated to the men who died for our country.

If the veterans want a day dedicated to them for doing their heroic duties and living to talk about them, give them a day, and call it - "REMEMBER THE GOOD OLD DAYS."

gays are OK

TORONTO (CUP)...City Council has set a precedent in Canada by approving a resolution stating that city hall will not discriminate against homosexuals in its hiring policy.

The new policy climaxes a six month drive by the Gay Alliance Towards Equality (GATE). Spokesman for the organization claim that this is the first time in Canada any legislative body has recognized gay people as a minority group requiring special consideration to ensure equal employment opportunities.

The city officials, however, phrased the resolution in less straight forward language, forbidding any discrimination "based on sexual orientation".

Only one of the fifteen aldermen voting opposed the motion.

Prior to its introduction in council, the resolution had received endorsement of Locals 43 and 79 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, both of which represent the city's workers.

GATE spokesmen said afterwards they hope the resolution will be included in future contracts negotiated with the city.

american exams for u. of c.

CALGARY (CUP) Citing its American cultural bias, Alberta NDP leader Grant Notley recently attacked the University of Calgary's system of early admissions.

A student who has not completed Grade 12 may be granted admission to the University of Calgary on the basis of the college entrance examination board exams (CEEB). Notley objected that the CEEB exams are American and a Canadian student should not write an American exam to enter a Canadian University.

No matter how objective the exams try to be, Notley contended, they will still contain cultural inferences.

Notley insisted that nationalism is not just a narrow, economic issue, and although "we should not reject other cultures, we should look after our own cultural interests."

He said there is a hefty public expenditure for education. It is the responsibility of the university administration not to let this sort of thing happen.

The problem is lack of a Canadian equivalent to the CEEB exams. A similar Canadian series, SACU, was established a few years ago but administrators claim it does not cover enough areas and must be supplemented by a number of CEEB exams.

Jim Foster, Alberta Minister of post-secondary education, agreed with Notley but said he could see no solution. The universities need some means to evaluate non-matriculation students and at present the only means is American, he explained.

Foster wants universities to avoid entrance examinations as much as possible.
