EDMONTON, ALBERTA

IT'S SHINERAMA TIME AGAIN

The months of planning are over and the week of SHINERAMA '76 has arrived. On the morning of Friday, October 8, your instructors will request that all students intending to shine shoes that day report to the main auditorium opposite the cafeteria to register for SHINERAMA '76. Those students not intending to shine shoes must attend classes or they will be considered absent.

When you reach the auditorium at 10:00 you and your team will be given all the necessary supplies for a day of shining. Your shoe shine box, your polish, rags, posters and promotional material. Each student shining shoes will also be supplied with a bag lunch courtesy of the Edmonton Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. After you have picked up your supplies and equipment, you and your friends will be given a team number, a destination or shoe shine location somewhere in Edmonton, and then be directed to one of the NAIT buses that will drop you off at your assigned location and then pick you up later in the day.

It would be appreciated if those students who have cars, use them to transport themselves and other members of their team to your shoe shine location. There will be a minimum of three students to a team and a maximum of six. Your team will be given an emergency phone number, to reach SHINERAMA headquarters if you encounter any difficulties.

The city is to be divided into six sections and each section will be under the supervision of a SHINERAMA section leader. It will be the responsibility of your particular section leader to:

- replenish supplies as needed
- pick up full coin cans and provide you with a new one
- the section leader can elect to change the location of a team to another location.
- he communicates with headquarters by telephone or radio cars.

At the end of the day your team captain is responsible for returning the full coin cans to SHINERAMA headquarters located in the NAITSA Student Executive offices. Your team number will be recorded in the morning and will be checked off with the return of your coin can. If you were dropped off by bus in the morning a bus will pick you up later in the day. You will be informed of the time.

You will also be informed as to the location of the SHINERAMA party, free to all shiners that evening. Beer and other refreshments will be supplied, and a top city band will be playing for your enjoyment.

Remember that this year the students of SAIT have challenged all NAIT students to see who can raise the most money towards Cystic Fibrosis research. Five kegs are on the line. Don't let NAIT DOWN.

We will look forward to seeing you and your team out in full force Friday morning at 10:00 in the auditorium opposite the main cafeteria. Friday is your chance to shine, don't miss it!

GET INVOLVED

EDITORIAL

Now that the summer holidays are over, and we've all had a couple of weeks of getting settled into the routine of going to classes, it's time to get serious. Midterms are less than a month away and intramurals and Cabarets have already begun.

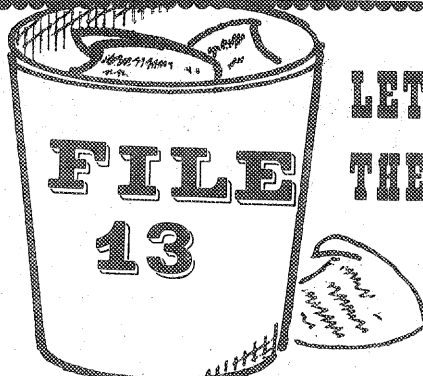

In case you're new around here and don't know it, the "Nugget" comes out every Wednesday afternoon. The purpose of this paper, since it is the main communication link between the students and the administration, is to report not only sports and news, but also grievances between students and instructors or vice-versa.

Since this is a student paper, it is our duty (the staff of the Nugget) to report the facts as truthfully as possible. Unfortunately, the truth hurts sometimes and some people will get hurt. So participate positively and the Nugget will write positively, participate negatively and suffer the consequences.

P.S.
If you hear about something that might interest our readers, either write up a story about it or come on down to E 128 and tell us. We'll send out a reporter and get the facts straight.

Wishing you all a good
"College" year,

Rod Boyce
Editor

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

by
BASHFUL BOYCE

Dear Nugget:

Sitting on a convenient bench, eating my lunch, I contemplated the main rotunda of the entrance to NAIT. A helpful commissioner directed visiting public using the attractive model situated just inside the main doors. A colourful bulletin board displays programs in Continuing Education. An interesting metric cube provides informative facts of the metric system to familiarize us with this new facet of our time.

Beyond the Bank of Commerce does a brisk business. But what is this I see? Beneath a tasteful wall plaque of the McNally Library is an unsightly pile of tables — neat, but certainly not contributing to the aesthetic appearance of this welcoming hall of NAIT. The reason for their storage there I don't know but I would hope some better place could be found.

Ignoring this eyesore for a moment, I let my mind pursue the potential of this popular promenade. The "flagstone" floor covering is appealing. Some large potted plants could thrive here — and they would enhance the setting. So would some well chosen lounge furniture — especially towards the walls. This convenient bench is practical, true, but not very handsome or comfortable.

As I see it, there is opportunity for an interior decoration project at our own front door. Is there anyone who could spearhead this venture.

Alice Rigby

EDITORS NOTE: If anyone is really interested in this venture you will have to talk to President Carter.

PARKING INFORMATION

By S.-SGT Johnston

Another year getting underway and it is time to attempt a few words to the drivers of motor vehicles.

Want a good tip for a spot to park for a quick (5 min.) visit to the bank, drop off a friend, pick up anyone?? USE THE SPECIALLY DESIGNED LANE - 106 St. - on the curb (just east of the flags). It is waiting for your use.

No thoroughfare - through the inner institute areas.

Yes it is a fact, people are using the Inner Institute laneways as a north-south route. Of course this must cease as someone will soon be involved in a hit accident and delivery trucks etc. will be demanding barriers be put down to stop this traffic.

MOTORCYCLES - This year parking has been of little trouble. Thanks to those who have taken the trouble of seeking out a Commissioner and getting the answers to the specially protected stalls for protection of motorcycles. A few, just a few, have had some trouble, but they are enlightened now.

Last, but not least, for the last word on parking, ALWAYS ASK A COMMISSIONAIRE.

Thank you.

Suspense

A tramp leaned against a wall
Beside a window pane.
Inside he heard some voices
And heard a girl explain.

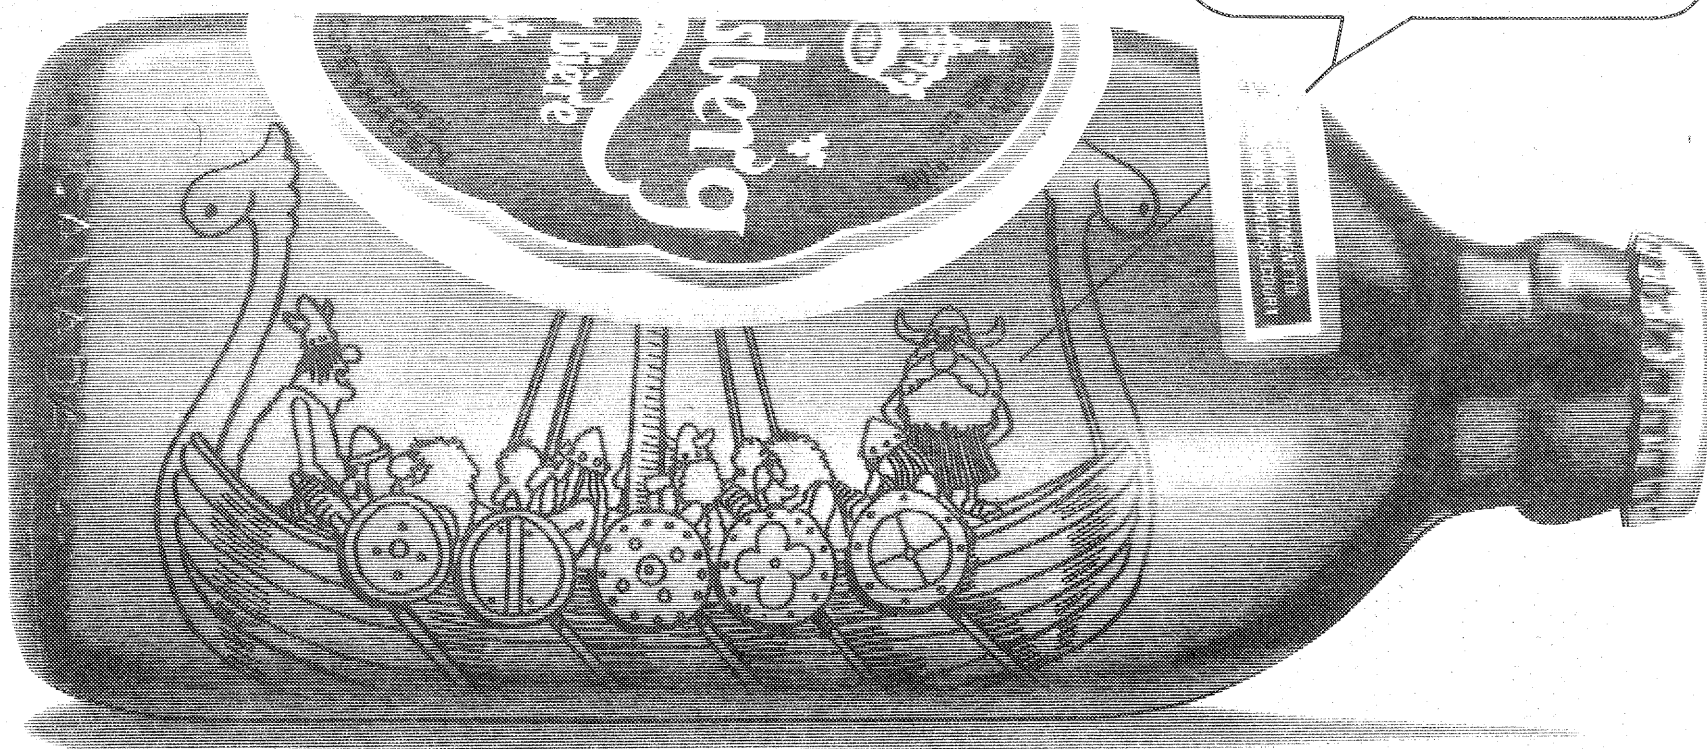

You can't do it that way,
Can't you see I can't wait?
You always let it wobble,
Can't you keep it straight?

If you can't force it that way,
You can't do it at all,
I think your's is much too large,
And mine is much too small.

Now don't get excited,
Be careful of my dress.
If you should let it slip,
It would make an awful mess!

Have a little patience,
And you will surely let it slip
See now you got it started,
For God's sake shove it in!

The tramp got all excited
Through the window pane he dove,
To see a man and woman
Fitting a stove pipe to a stove!

M.A.S. Disco A Definite Success

Chancery Hall (on the west side of the city) was the place to have been last Friday night, Sept. 24. This was the happening place for the first disco of the term put on by the Marketing Administration Society (M.A.S.). As usual, M.A.S. came up with another fine performance with over 200 students turning out to drink, dance, and drink.

The whole affair was M.C.'d by Barry Walls & Company from 630 CHED and they kept things moving at a brisk pace. Records were awarded to the couples who were the best "bump" dancers and the best graffiti dancers.

All in all, it was a well run cabaret with equal numbers of single chicks and good-looking guys to dance with. A special "thanks" to M.A.S. for all their hard work to keep things running smoothly and for a really good time!

First Nait Student Council Meeting

On Tuesday, Sept. 21 the first NAIT Student Council meeting took place in the North cafeteria. If attendance was any reflection on the morals of the school, look out! — Because we're in trouble. Besides the student executive, only fifteen other members were present.

NAITSA needs participation. Although the position of publications editor has been filled, there is still a need for a sports editor and other personnel. Without more help and participation in organizing, some future events might have to be cancelled, and some services (such as sports coverage) might be stopped.

If you have some ideas or a better plan, come to the meetings. Constructive criticism is always needed and gladly accepted. Lets pull NAIT out of its slump which was carried over from last year.

We need help and our only resource is you, the student, so don't let us down. Be progressive — Participate.

REMEMBER THE NUGGET NEEDS YOU!

NEXT COUNCIL MEETING

Weds., Oct. 6

NORTH CAFETERIA

4:30 P.M.

Thank You Miss Freshette Candidates

As I'm sure you realize, last week was NAIT's Annual week for Frosh Activities. During the noon hours from Sept. 20 - 24, various folk singers played in the auditorium. Although The String Band drew the largest audience, it should be added that the other entertainers put on a good show with a good crowd participation.

On Wednesday, September 22, NAITSA sponsored a free B.B.Q. in the cafeteria with another successful, and rowdy, Beerfest following. (We are pleased to report that there were no arrests.)

The climax of the week's activities was Crowcuss & Hammersmith who put on a brief but successful show.

For those of you who missed the concert Friday night, Marlene Herle was named Miss Freshette 1976. She is a student in Med. Lab., sponsored by Earth Resources. It was a tough decision to pick a winner from these lovely girls, who, in my opinion, were all number one.

The runners up were Pam Martin, Dental Assisting; Cathy Muhibier, Med. Lab.; Betty Chamberlain, Medical Dicta-Typing; and Brenda Hook, Tailoring.

NAITSA would certainly like to thank all the students at the institute for their support last week during the activities, and we hope to see you at the upcoming NAITSA functions.

REMEMBER SHINERAMA, OCTOBER 8 — WE NEED YOUR HELP!

Beerfest A Real "Smash"

By Terry Paholek

The latest statistics show that Alka-Seltzer sales increase after every NAIT Cabaret and last Thursday morning they boomed. The beer was cold and the music was great and everyone had a good time.

Freddie Cannon, a fossil from the dark ages of rock and roll turned out an excellent performance of nostalgia that probably made some of our mothers swoon when they first heard him twenty years ago. PRIVILEGE took care of the rest of the evening with a little more current material and between the two performances the music seemed to satisfy most every critic in the crowd, especially the drunk ones.

The bartenders were kept pretty busy all night trying to supply enough beer to the patrons who felt that the only way to ensure the success of the evening was to keep the spirits as high as possible.

Food services as usual, provided the beerfest with the same famous food they serve in the cafeteria but after about ten thirty, no one really noticed and it was gobbled down just as quickly as ever.

All in all the entire night was a success and for all you people who thought you met the love of your life on Wednesday night, you'll probably agree that they sure look different when they wake up with a Thursday morning hangover.

TELECOM PEDDLES TO VICTORY

by Nethery

The 1976 Intramural version of drag racing, known as the cycle drag was held last week on Tues. 14 out on the NAIT outdoor track.

Despite several setbacks such as Bart Lootijen being pumped into a puddle and Orville Nelsons seat being too high telecom's Strategy seemed to work. They kept changing riders during their frequent "High Speed Pit-stops."

Well I guess it worked as the Telecom peddle people won the drag with a time of 75 minutes, 38 seconds for the 25 mile event.

The other teams were RTA (2nd) and Civil Tech (3rd) and the Beautiful Ladies staff team who completed 50 laps or miles which ever comes first.

Team Tryouts Held

by Nethery

Two of the Nait Powerhouse Interscholastic Teams hosted Tryouts last week and both had excellent turnouts. The NAIT Hockey Team had about 75 people as did the NAIT Canoe Team.

Both coaches (Bresnahan, Canoe) and (Henwood, Hockey) were pleased with the turnouts and hope any other interested players would show if they missed those meetings.

Henwood hosted two meetings — one for the veterans and one for the rookies. Several known rookies showed up and these include Rocky Smith and Bruce McCaskill - Sherwood Park, Dan Anderson, Fort Saskatchewan, Lorne Shullan, Stony Plain, Stan Tomlinson, Wainwright.

Several of our veterans reported to their meeting. These included Bob Markie, Dan Roulstan, Ed Parans, Gary Fortier, Willie Moolyk and our Famous Chuck "Disco Duck" Tetrault.

Bill Bresnahan had 50 people to his first in water practice and feels that they will have another super season in the canoe competitions.

You're Somebody Once You Leave That Closet

By Joan Shields
For Canadian University Press

Ottawa (CUP) — "Hitchhiking, I was picked up by three men, about 30, smoking grass, driving an endless white Cadillac as if it were a yacht and the road were an ocean. They didn't know I was gay (I wasn't feeling suicidal that day). After a lot of brainless chat on other subjects, they joked: "We're going to get Playgirl to photograph us nude for a centrefold, and every faggot in the country will lap it up." All sorts of comebacks occurred to me ("I'd prefer to see you in the Joy of Cooking" or "Would you care to step outside - just you, and don't slow down," etc.) but all I managed was to ask to be let out at the next turnoff, in the rain. That should teach them a lesson!"

Michael Riodon,
courtesy Body Politic

This excerpt is taken from an issue of Body Politic, a slick, informative and entertaining monthly publication serving Toronto's gay community. With an estimated readership of 15,000 it's a widely read Canadian paper devoted to strengthening the growth of gay consciousness in this country.

The features and news stories appearing in it publicize the plight of gays in a heterosexual society. Body Politic also reviews the gay culture that is beginning to emerge in the commercial press, it is readily picked up by an information-starved minority.

Now in its fifth year, Body Politic is put out by a 13 member editorial collective. There are no women in the collective but the members say they try to leave the paper open and encourage contributions from lesbians.

The Body Politic staff subscribes to "popular journalism" to get its point across. Features are often written in the first person allowing readers to identify with them. In a section of the paper entitled Profiles in individual lesbians and gay men are chosen to be interviewed. They're questioned on such topics as their youth, hobbies and hopes and the bitterness and joys of being gay in this society. The people come across as pretty normal, which is perhaps the intent of the column.

Some articles are written by people ignored and alienated in our heterosexual society: the middle-aged man, often established and married, who occasionally seeks impersonal companionship in public washrooms or the young gay under 16, who has to deal with school and parents and a lack of privacy and understanding.

By daring to print the unprintable, Body Politic gets shock value out of every issue. In a movement that has always been undermined by people too ashamed to let their sexual preferences be known, the paper reflects the current consciousness of militant gays. It encourages gays to be strident, to be openly and aggressively gay until straight society comes around to accepting homosexuality.

The people who submit articles to Body Politic offer readers some of the most honest and gripping writing to be found in any periodical publication in Canada. In an article Learning to Kill the author describes an incident in which he and three other gay men were beaten up in downtown Toronto because they were holding hands. The men didn't defend themselves because they were all terrified of violence.

As the writer put it "Even as a youngster when fights - real or play - were more common, I always really wanted to melt into the arms of the boy I was struggling with. I see my interactions with other men as erotic, not violent."

While Body Politic has broken new ground with the gay community in Canada, it has also come under heavy criticism from its readership. It's been charged that the male, middle-class Toronto editorial collective puts out a paper with little appeal to lesbians, workers and people who live in rural areas.

When questioned on this point, the men in the collective reply that they're aware of their limitations, and that they bend over backwards to be representative to all gays in Canada. No small feat, mind you.

Another contentious point between the collective and Body Politic readers are the classified ads at the back of the paper. A typical ad might read: "Non-smoker looking for gay male friends between Hamilton and Guelph. Prefer age 35 - 45 with serious cultural interest. Welcome blind, deaf or handicapped. Not interested in casual sex. Discretion assured."

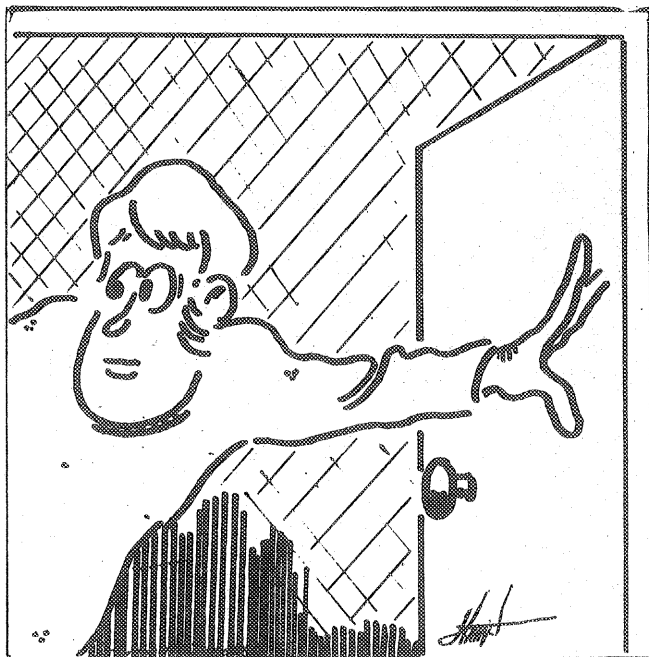

On first glance the classifieds look sleazy and out of place in an otherwise sophisticated newspaper. A bunch of men advertising for sex partners at 10 cents per word seems to defeat the purpose of a periodical that calls for openness, strength in numbers and a warm and understanding gay community.

While the collective runs the ads primarily for revenue, it acknowledges the need for classifieds for men who are lonely and can't easily make friends. In defending its position, the collective demonstrates that it can be humanitarian as well as realistic and business-like.

Aside from these drawbacks, Body Politic should still be commended for providing gays with a monthly shot in the arm. As gays know only too well, magazines that provide well-written and sympathetic articles for gays are few and far between.

Now that's Southern Comfort.

Straight, on the rocks or mixed. That's what puts Southern Comfort in a class by itself.

As rich in heritage as a bluegrass banjo picker.

The unique taste of Southern Comfort,  enjoyed for over 125 years.

Moose McIntosh was discovered, they say, as a baby floating amidst the bullrushes of English Bay in Vancouver. He grew up to become author, lecturer, explorer and general flim-flam man in his uniquely loveable way. He claims membership in the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and in Seagram's Million Gallon Club as well. Those who know Moose claim that last affiliation is perhaps as close to the truth as Moose McIntosh could possibly get. In short, he's a colorful scoundrel, the type of anti-hero who is easily beloved by youthful consumers, the people who buy jeans, western wear and sportswear.

Not only is he incorrigible, but he represents the gypsy spirit present in almost all young consumers, the desire to taste new experiences and travel as widely as possible. The Moose McIntosh campaign is geared to capture those mobile young buyers, direct them straight into your store, and then send them off for unknown destinations smiling and recalling the inimitable words of wisdom spoken by GWG's goodwill ambassador and resident tall story teller.

HOROSCOPES

ARIES

Love at first sight, romantic liason a clandestine affair or anything in between are of interest right now. If you have time for anything else it concerns pleasure not work.

LIBRA

You should get some good breaks. Adventure of some sort is available. You are tempted to pull a shady deal - don't. Use your abilities constructively.

VIRGO

Charm and magnetism are enhanced. Plight of another cannot be ignored but ease into the affair, a front attack causes problems. Friends, associates are quick to back you up.

SAGITTARIUS

Laxity now is harmful to projects. Stay on top of things. Use the week-end for relaxation, otherwise persevere. Trial relationship settles down, proves its worth.

GEMINI

Emphasis on experimentation, originality. You will have to say "no" and mean it or you will be paying the piper. Key is adventure not delinquency.

TAURUS

Fairness is not always a part of life. Put another ahead of yourself even though you know you deserve the break. A challenge give the inspiration you need. A Promise is kept.

SCORPIO

Keep tuned to events. You need all the friend you can get right now. Avoid the limelight and turn a problem over to someone competent in that field. Path clears later.

AQUARIUS

A make or break development in a friendship causes concern. Know where you are going, you can't live in another's shoes. Single attract a strong - willed, lively partner.

LEO

A good idea may not only save the day but put you into the position; you want to meet a special someone. You won't be able to watch an injustice perpetuated. Enjoy the fussle.

CANCER

The right partner could enter the scene from a somewhat odd corner. There is a "go" signal for a special interest. Pay attention to your dreams, you will find a key.

PISCES

A mutual attraction may die out if you both stay shy. Faults are often as attractive as qualities to others. Inner consciousness is right. Follow its lead in educational affairs.

CAPRICORN

Just what you need to carry on appears out of nowhere. Concentrate on maintaining balance, don't ignore hunch. Crisis is over - stress culture, comfort, social affairs.
