NAIT BLASTS SAIT

(maybe Canada)

Do you know what the combination of 926 students and 10 hours of shining can do?

This great effort put forward by the NAIT students brings an end result of a check being presented to Cystic Fibrosis for the sum of $15,000. It should be the largest check they have ever received from any Institution in Canada. In other words what I'm saying is NAIT is number ONE in terms of money earned for Shinerama.

The keg of beer was won by Respiratory due to the fact that they had 30 out of a possible 31 students out shining shoes. This meant that there per capita per student was the highest. Enjoy the beer ladies.

Editors Comment:

As it often seems to happen, I start out trying to write a story about something or someone and after plugging away on the typewriter for about 15 minutes or so, a violent convulsion in the form of the word AA-GG-HH comes out of my throat and immediately there after the paper upon which I was typing seems to end up in the garbage.

DOES THE SCRIPT SOUND FAMILIAR, ANYBODY?

And so, I end up here at the point I am right now looking for a topic that I feel would interest the readers. so, here goes nothing.

I tried to write a story about Greg McGinley, Publications Chairman and the reasons he was quitting NAIT, but I gave up on the story, sort of out of frustration, but mostly because I didn't know Greg that well nor his reasons for leaving NAIT and going out to try that road that was "grassy and needing wear." I didn't want to write a story about which I don't have the complete facts on and then be accused of writing about someone on whom I don't have the whole story on.

It seems like too many of our NUGGET staff are being accused of having this policy already, so there's no need to add to that theory.

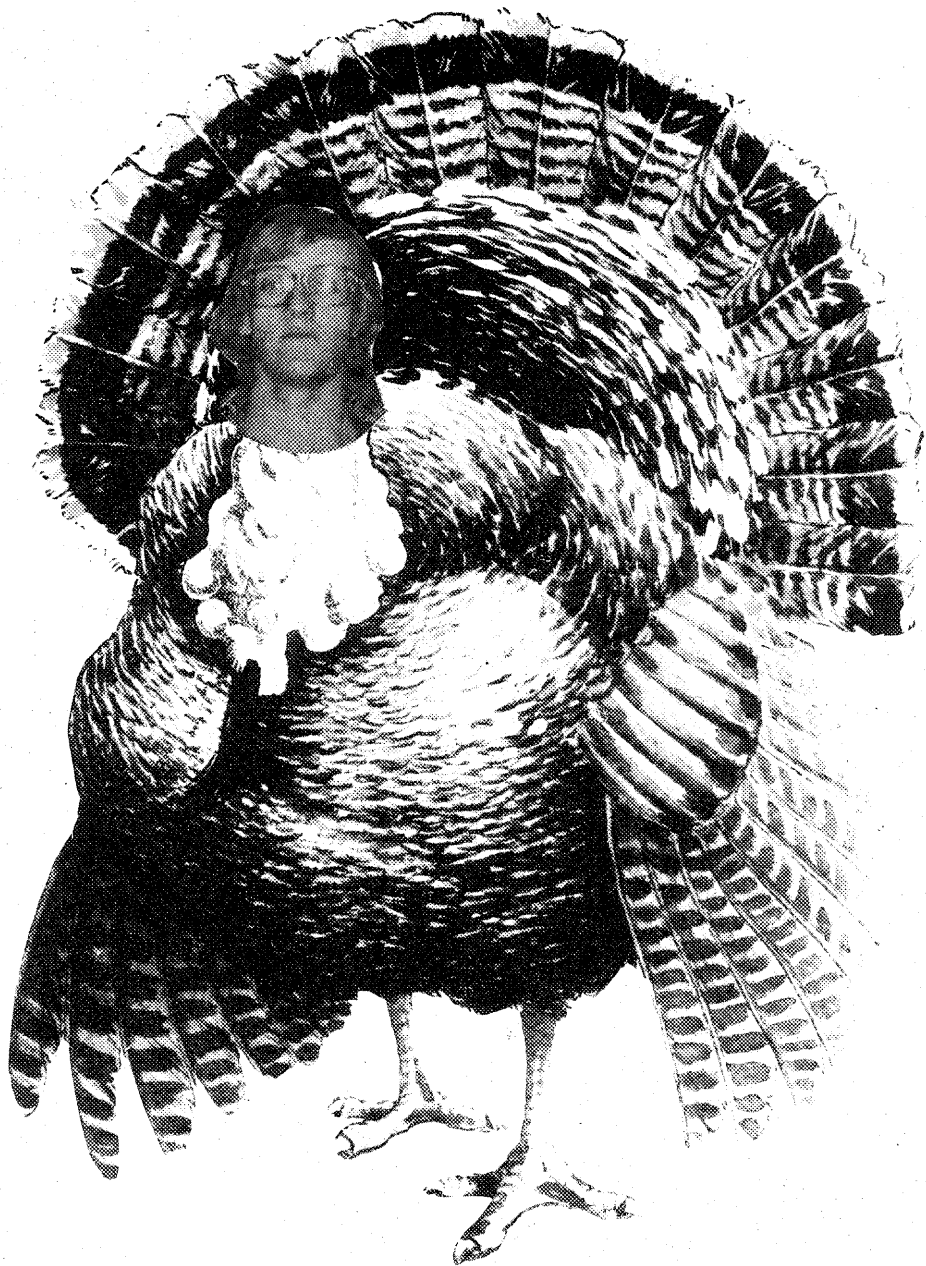

Which incidentally brings me to this week's topic. In previous weeks the NUGGET has tried to introduce a few new ideas, columns, etc. in an effort to improve the paper. Now as far as I'm concerned I'm basically happy with the improvements we've been slowly making but it seems that other individuals here at NAIT aren't quite as impressed. So I figure I'll just tell you about the NUGGET a bit, and the column that seems to be causing the most havoc.

LAYOUT: In previous weeks, most of you have probably noticed a different approach being taken in laying out the paper. This is being done on an experimental basis for now until a layout plan that is suitable to our staff is established. We hope to have a suitable layout established within the next couple of weeks so for now you'll just have to bear with us.

COVERAGE: There's been some concern shown by one or two of the techs in regards to the way the NUGGET has been providing newspaper coverage of their function. For instance cabarets: Most techs feel that since they provide the NUGGET with 4 cabaret tickets, that they are automatically entitled to two weeks of advertising plus a positive review of their cabaret to be written up in the paper the following week. That, is a misconception.

In exchange for cabaret tickets, the NUGGET promises to provide the tech with a couple of weeks of free advertising, plus a followup story. However, whether the story is positive or negative, depends on the writers own individual opinion of the band, the crowd and other little factors. If in his opinion, he feels that the cabaret or disco is going over great or at least not bombing out, then you can expect to see a favorable review. However, there is the odd

Several inquiries have been received in regard to: where, when, parking is available at NAIT during the: other than normal daily parking.

EVENING PARKING: With the exception of; Stalls marked: RESERVED 24 hours. Stalls held: for evening instructor, visitors etc.

All other stalls are on a first come -- first serve basis -- after 5:30 p.m.

The Parkade also applies, but, care must be taken to ensure your motor vehicle is removed prior to 11:00 p.m.

The Parkade has more than enough room for parking and there is no reasonable excuse for parking in violation.

This week, starting Feb. 14, Commissionaires will be patrolling parking lots to give warning to vehicles parked in violation. Such as: parked at curbs, parked at doors, parked in lanes, and any other violations.

WEEKENDS Saturdays and Sundays (Days and Evenings).

The same Commissionaire patrols will be carried out as stated for evenings, weekdays.

The commissionaires will be appreciative for everyone's co-operation. If the warnings are taken seriously - there will be no need for $5 fine tags.

This action is considered necessary to ensure clear passage for arrival of ambulances, fire trucks, and to enable easy departure for those who wish to leave the Institute early.

It cannot be stressed to strongly the need for the access of ambulance and fire fighting vehicles. A life could be lost due to the inconsideration of a few who do not like to walk.

When in doubt of parking - always - ask those who are assisting in parking - ask a Commissionaire.

PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION:
FATCAT SAYS WE NEED LESS
EDUCATION: SOCIAL SERVICE

MONTREAL (CUP) -- Quebec's university population should be reduced by a third and the emphasis of the province's post-secondary education should be shifted toward engineering, business and vocational programs, according to enlightened industrialist and muse A.K. Velan.

Velan, whose holdings suck a couple of million dollars a year out of the province, says Quebec's declining economy can be attributed to overspending in education and social services, being too nice to unions, and not giving industry big tax cuts.

The province spends $4 billion on education, including universities and colleges, which Velan says "have become huge parking lots for youth," who become unemployed because they haven't been trained to do the jobs industry needs done.

If people were trained for the "right" kind of jobs, Velan suggests, there would be almost no unemployment, and Quebec would save another $1 billion it spends on social services like unemployment and welfare.

back to the land of eternal darkness or the midnight sun, depending on the season, and all that. But for his friends, he's already nine-tenths dead. Most of us will never see him again. I feel similar to what I felt when Grandpa died. I hope Greg doesn't get paved into a runaway some place.

And away down on the street, I think that's Greg. My nose is pressed against the big windows. Bye Greg.

Sometimes when I stop and turn around on my life, it rushes up and overwhelms me. Have I really done all those things? Have I really known all those people?

Nothing can knock you on your ass like looking back. Some folks say don't look back, but if you aren't looking back, then you must be looking ahead. And what I see up there scares me. I guess it's better to go around looking at the ground all the time. Better to be lost, and know it, than to be scared, and not know it.

There goes a seagull - right by the window. White wings flap, flap-ungainly, but rather stunning in this fiery sunset. Even though though the chances of you hearing this are slim, I want you to know I sometimes wish with all luggage that things were slightly altered. Even though I never got to really, really know you, I want you to know I sure wish I had of. And now your information is first hand. Good-bye-seagull.

DEDICATED TO:
Right Here, Only Not Doing Anything

It's Friday, four o'clock in the afternoon. The tower lounge is virtually empty. You can always tell when it's Friday after school. If you lose track of the days completely, just keep coming up here. When it's empty, you know it's Friday night. Everyone's gone to the Kingsway.

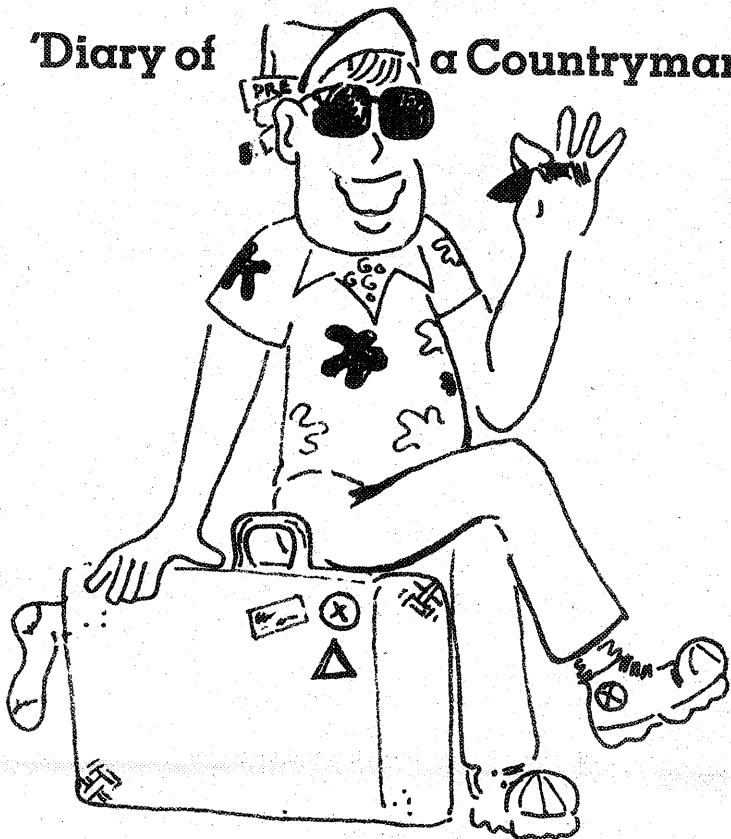

Way down on the runway a repair crew is resurfacing; a convoy of trucks and machines, steaming out black asphalt, rolling it, dump, thru the machine, roll some more. There's a few hours of daylight left. I wonder if they'll bring out huge lamps to light their work. Got to get finished cause you can't hold up progress.

The city is whirling around me - people in a hurry to get done whatever must be done on Friday. Friday is always such a hectic day

I hope this whirling city doesn't trip over Greg. Greg, Greg, Greg. A casualty. There's been an awful storm on his brow for some time now. He never said anything, then disappeared for awhile. When he came back, the storm was gone, but he was about to leave for good. Some people say it's this dirty fall weather or the school life poverty, or any number of fairly common things. Lots of students go this time of year - cash the dream ticket in on a one way ride down to reality. He smiled and said he was going

Oh no, Tuesday morning. The first flash of light on the horizon just about burnt the visual purple out of my cloud accustomed eyes. Not the typical morning. I could still hear Rod Stewart screaming Maggie May at one kilodecibel. Strangely enough the knots of confusion crawled out of my head and back into the pillow. Damn it ... the music stopped. Shoved unmercifully into the grim reality of another gruelling day of classes. Hum. Down to business. Speaking of business. Business society had a decent event last Friday. It was well organized but that's what business students are all about. Holmes Sound produced a variety of music from disco to rock and there was an overall good selection which coincided with mostly everyone's tastes.

Because of the small crowd of approx. 100 - 150 there was lots of room for dancing. The polka were a real shoe full of raisins. Everyone wanted to get in on them. The food was good, I heard (I didn't get a chance to participate in the grub) but then again a steak can't be all that bad at anytime.

This week is jam packed with excitement and festivity. ROXSLYDE is in the cafeteria this Friday. Good for the top 40 an basically in the same league as PATCH but with not the same degree of commerciality. The cabaret starts at 4:00 or shortly thereafter. Tickets are $1.50 and they go on sale on Thursday. First come first serve basis.

Right after Roxslyde (if you're still alive) take in the Civil-Dental Cabaret at Elmwood Lodge. It starts at 8:00 and features Edmonton's #1 dance band 'Buckeye'. Strictly Disco but definitely listenable. These guys have been around for years and they do a good job of what they do.

If you don't feel like doing the Disco Duck, Telecom and Court-Reporting are having a cabaret on the same night featuring 'Hoba's Wish.' I'm not sure what you can expect from the band but I'm sure the cabaret will be alright. They usually are.

Tickets are $2.50 and $3.50 and its at Pleasantview Hall (10860-57 ave). Starts at 8:30.

Computers are having their cabaret at Eastwood Hall (86st and 118ave) on Oct. 21. They booked ROAD ANGEL for the full raunchy rock and roll effect. No disco in this show.

On the 28th of October, the all-time favorites of the month, '5th Ave. Allstars' are playing a Halloween ball at the Yellowhead Hotel. Costumes are essential and no admittance without it. I'm sure who's sponsoring this one but tickets are on sale in F-208 for $5.00 apiece.

Try to make it to a couple of these at least and if you think it's too much to go from 4:00 to 1:00 just bow your heads and say a prayer for those of us from the NUGGET who have to go to all of them. I'm not saying that the three different cabarets in one night is depressing but those Saturday morning jitters might make the bubonic plague look like a common cold.

ROCKUMENTRY

Peter Frampton was there, Eric Carmen was there, The Beach Boys, Bog Scaggs and even my old friend Hertie Loosehips was there. It was the Annual Winterburn Concert Hall of Fame Disco Dance. Playing a collection of oldies but goodies the BAS and MAS put on a fine bump and body grind revenue session.

Firstly came the entree, a combination of raw steak, beans, coleslaw and bread (tasty morsels of find flour and just the right amount of fibre blended and baked by the father of one of NAIT'S most distinguished students, who wishes to remain oblivious). A treat or repasse only to be outdone by the care and consternation each singular individual wished to place in the cookery of his steak..

So after a plate of beans and a mug of brew I felt the heat a growing and decided to disco down and check out the show. With arms flailing and body a-kimbo, I boogied to the bars beat while bearing a close resemblance to Fred Astaire sidestepping a coggie-do garden. My spirits were high and my blood-sugar levels low when I was graciously called upon, by some prestigious person wearing purina checkerboard slacks, to demonstrate the technique I incorporated in getting down so low. I first explained how one must be familiar with the Chuks Chandler Law of Dispersion which states that the fatter you are the more room you'll need to dance. Very lost and pitfound.

The evening progressed unhurriedly and produced much entent for the operating business societies that had finally conceived a method of bringing facially endowed girls together under one roof and still absorb a reasonable amount of financial rewards.

A well-organized evening, coup led with good food and drink and a tape of CHED'S top 40 hits of the last 5 years allowed for a night of visual and vocal enjoyment which could hardly be described as business-like.

Fitness. In your heart you know it's right.

Item: Rod Stewart. Ballet dancer, Soccer Player, Rock Star? You had to be there. Clad in garments the great Nureyev might find embarrassing and midst an aura of changing hues, Stewart and his band laid down the tunes we all remembered and at a pace we'd never forget. The Faces were an excellent group in their time, but the musicians who have taken over are simply better. They showed it all. Stewart's voice came through in fine tones of only slight grained gravel. The chromed stage played mind games with the light, Stewart played Pele with countless soccer balls and the crowd played ecstatic with the whole thing.

Item: What keeps an athlete of dubious talent on a team roster? What separates the mere players from the competitors? You've heard it before. Fire, guts and determination. I caught the Eskimo - Blue-Bomber game last Monday and was directed to this very reason why Tom Wilkson and Bruce Lemmerman are still quarterbacking our bereaved footballers. Each man took a severe beating from the Winnipeg defense. Each man sustained injuries severe enough to keep him out of the game. And each man returned to play when he was needed. Now the Edmonton crowd is quick to point the finger when things go sour and those indexes the coach and quarterbacks have been ducking lately are mostly deserved. But let's hope we can be as quick to appreciate a gutsy performance. These guys are fighters. Don't count them out too soon.

Item: "Lucky Lady" is the feature at the Little Theatre this weekend. It presents Liza Minnelli and Gene Hackman in a light-hearted but somewhat shallow romp through America's prohibition days. These two, plus Burt Reynolds, form a group of bumbling rum-runners who challenge the inevitable heavys' stranglehold on the spirit trade. It's funny, it's serious, it's often over acted, but hang in. You'll get your buck's worth.

Commit: It appears that N.A.I.T.S.A. is losing one of its finer executives. Greg McGinley the Publications Chairman, has seen visions of broader horizons and has choosen to leave NAIT in search of them. He leaves behind a job well done and hockey team in search of a new goalie. He'll be sorely missed.

case,(about once every two months) that some tech puts on a real bomb-out of a cabaret and its in these cases that the NUGGET feels it their morale obligation to tell its readers that function wasn't that great. By doing this, it means that the tech will try harder the next time to do a better job, as well as helping the cabaret attender to set a standard of whats a good cabaret, and whats a bad cabaret.

The two entertainment writers for the NUGGET are probably two of the more knowledgeable people at NAIT in regards to the entertainment field, so basically they know what there talking about.

FRANK GLUTTON: Most of you probably saw this column for the first time last week. The column is designed around a fictitious name and the purpose of Frank Glutton is so that the NUGGET can have a gossip column.

In order to get material for his column Frank has to keep his identity secret, so that he can obtain information through the grapevine that otherwise he might not hear about. Its like the approach taken by Eddie Keen, except that Franks informers aren't as great in number.

But lets talk a little bit about Frank, and his column. Franks been called "Mr Negative", by one or two members of student council, and other names not quite so polite by others. But does Frank serve a purpose, is the column necessary?

When Frank first approached me and asked for a job writing for the NUGGET, I said that I'd have to think about it, because if we already had most of the positions filled up. When I went home that evening, I thought a bit about the staff we already had, and what we could do to improve. It wasn't till I started leafing through the back issues, that I happened to come upon the column Frank Glutton. It was then that I decided that by changing the content of column slightly, that the new Frank Glutton could fill the only large gap in reporting that the paper didn't already cover, that being politics and gossip.

note; Because of the touchy nature of Franks comments, feedback would be appreciated if personnel (students, staff and administration). These can be left in the unclassified ads box outside the door. This is the only way Frank can tell what kind of a job he is doing, unless he happens to hear it through the grapevine.

Just as a final word, I'd just like to say that even though the paper we're putting out every week and by the end of the year who knows, we just might reach that ultimate goal in life.

ROARING FANS 'N RUNNING NOSES

By Rob Neil

A tremendous crowd of sixteen to eighteen people turned out to get a preview of what might be expected of the Oaks this year. The game far surpassed any home games the Oaks played last year, except the playoff game against Red Deer.

Fast skating, good passing, and some really crisp hitting was displayed by the hopeful trying to impress Coach Henwood who was perched, high above the playing surface; surveying the entire ice surface from goaltender to goaltender. Handling the Blues was Bruce "Radar" Watson and the winning coach was Tony Herbin (team manager) directing the white squad.

Emotions were quite high and as a result quite a few penalties were called in the game, none were too serious other than a spearing penalty handed out to Doug Palomarchuk, midway thru the second period. The penalty sent Palomarchuk to the dressing room a bit earlier than the rest of the team. He had played an exceptionally strong game up to that point combining with Randy Holwaychuk and returnee Eric Austin to form the strongest line on the ice for the 1st. period and a half.

Jeff Milne started the second period sitting in the penalty box, so he decided he might as well read the Nugget, which was extremely bright of him, because when you read the Nugget you're definitely up with the times, even if you are banished to the penalty box. Unfortunately Jeff was spotted by the other members of his team and so after some heckling from the other side of the rink, he was forced to put the NUGGET aside for another time.

Another event happened in the game, that we at the paper don't really promote and that is using the Nugget to blow your nose, as athletic Chairman Wayne Johnson did during the game.

The game was marred by one serious injury in the form of Pat Dittaro. Pat dislocated his right knee and will be out of the line-up until February at the least. Last year the same thing happened to him, only on his other knee, so Pat's knee, like a lot of other person's that are playing and have played sports, are not too sound. It is a tough break not only for Pat, but the entire team as he would have been a great asset to the team, with his skating and goal scoring ability, already proven.

All in all it was a good, well played game and made the job of deleting people from the team extremely difficult for Coach Henwood. When the first league game rolls around (early Nov.) make sure you get out and give the Oaks a look.

Don't be shy get out and talk to Irwin anytime.

REMINDER....

THE INTRAMURAL FLAG-FOOTBALL AND SOCCER LEAGUES ARE NOW INTO THE PLAYOFFS, SO GET OUT AND SUPPORT YOUR TECH.

Remember the deadline for intramural mens hockey is Oct. 19th.

All the collegiate teams have experienced good turnouts, but other than hockey, more people are still welcome to tryout.

The Oaks will be participating in a Pre-season tournament in Red Deer next weekend, so if you're in the Red Deer area, pop in for a look at the teams.

The Cross-Country team will be going to Grande Prairie for the ACAC final meet of the year on the 22nd.

FAN PARTICIPATION

"Let's go to the game". That saying is heard very infrequently around NAIT, maybe its because of school spirit, or maybe its because of the Oaks any-which-way the Oaks have developed a bad name for themselves, because their season was not that great last year.

But if you were among the 10 to 15 people who turned out to see last Thursday intersquad game, you would have seen a really exciting hard hitting hockey game and come away with a different point of view.

But this article isn't about the Oaks, it is about fan participation and also school spirit, which is dearly lacking at this institute. Why should you get out and go to a sporting event at NAIT? For the same reasons that you go to a movie, dinner, pub, cabaret, or any other function; entertainment, socialability, chance to get away from the house or homework. The intersquad game gave people a chance to get rid of their frustrations and get some enjoyment by yelling and cheering as long and as loud as you can. But when you yell and cheer and the building is full of only about ten people, you look and feel pretty stupid. But if there were a lot of people the cheering could be spread around, and the volume would be increased considerably.

Last year at one game I went to there were more fans from Camrose that there were from NAIT and Camrose even brought their own banner. With the giant O.K. leading the way at least home games should be able to draw crowds this year. The teams seem to be off to a great start and will be very competitive this year, and they deserve the backing of the student body at NAIT.

So this year get out to a game early in the season and maybe go to the bar after the game, with friends and/or with some members of the team. Gather some people, go to the game and maybe organize a party after the game. A lot of good relationships will surely develop if students get out and support the school teams and it will make your stay at NAIT alot more enjoyable. Cabarets and Beerfest will also be more enjoyable if you get to know more people. SO LETS GET OUT AND SUPPORT THE TEAMS.

nie points with the police, because of his comments.

You see when the Shinerama Crew went down to the city police to shine Lunney's shoes, in accordance to a prearranged meeting, only 4 people out of 10 were allowed upstairs to see him, after waiting nearly 15 minutes Chief Lunney came out of his office with his bright shiny police shoes and said he didn't want them shined again. He didn't even leave a donation. If that's the kind of cooperation.

You get from a scheduled meeting, I wonder what would have happened if we gone in unannounced.

so gentleman (and I use the term very loosely) on behalf of myself and the rest of the "Shinerama Crew", I give you the 'Drip' award for having the gall and stupidity to suggest the Rod tied to his readers when he told them that the police chief was very uncooperative.

LOVE IT OR LEAVE IT: Although I can't attend council meetings I've been told about them. So far this year N.A.I.T. S.A. has had 2 council meetings at an average length of about 1 1/2 hours. (4:30 - 6:00)

It seems to me that half the time is wasted on formalities and dumb arguments instead of something worthwhile or letting the people go home. I figure it's a lot like taking your girlfriend out to dinner and them asking her is she's hungry. She'd probably ask you if you were born in Biafara or something to that effect.

By the way, Mary Jo and me are doing just fine.

STUDENT LOANS

If you have a Guaranteed Provincial or Canada Student Loan and are continuing full time studies you must reinstate that loan PRIOR TO THE EXPIRATION OF THE SIX MONTH EXEMPTION PERIOD. You do this by (A) obtaining the necessary Reinstatement Forms from your bank, or (B) negotiating a new Certificate of Eligibility. It's your responsibility to maintain close liaison with your bank and maintain your loan in good standing.

Right now check your latest copy of the Certificate of Eligibility or Reinstatement Form for the latest academic year end date. Your exemption period expires six months from that date. Even though you may have applied for further financial assistance, this does not automatically reinstate your loan, and negotiating a Canada Student Loan does not automatically reinstate your Guaranteed Provincial Loan, or vice versa.

If you fail to reinstate your loan within the stipulated exemption period you will be required to pay the interest charges accrued up to the reinstatement date.

How to be sure yours continues:

NOTE: You will not be required to pay interest charges on your Guaranteed Student Loan until the six month exemption period has expired. If you should remit any payments on your loan prior to expiration of the six month exemption period be assured that the payments are being applied only on the principal; no interest charges have been assessed by the bank.

MEDICAL and LAW STUDENTS — Upon graduation you have a six month exemption period. In addition, upon application to the credit institution (bank), a further 9 month deferment of principal payments only may be granted. This requires you to pay interest charges only for this period of time.

MEDICAL RESIDENT STUDENTS — You cannot be reinstated to interest-free, full-time status. A Medical Resident Student is assessed tuition fees paid for by the sponsoring hospital and is in receipt of a salary and therefore considered to be gainfully employed.

For further information or advice contact your bank or SFB in Edmonton or Calgary.

Some of the things a person has to do in life are easy, and some of the things a person has to do are tough.

And so it was that this was the case that Coach Dale Henwood of the Oaks was faced with late Thursday evening after his hockey team had finished their intersquad game. You see Dale Henwood was faced with the dubious task of making the final cuts of players for his hockey team.

And so, after the smoke had cleared 3 of the veterans from last year were gone. Now if you talk to most observers of college hockey, the one no - no you don't do is to cut a veteran. I guess it's tradition or something. And so for bravery above and beyond the call of duty, Coach Dale Henwood wins the very first "Stripe" award.

Hey the Business Society Steak and Stomp sure went over well last Friday night eh!

Whats that you say you could not find Winterburn Hall. Do you mean to say you couldn't find it. Will its easy. You just go six miles west, 1/8 of a mile north, half a mile west turn a corner, go half a mile north again, turn left and you're there.

WHAT DO YOU MEAN YOU DON'T KNOW WHICH DIRECTION WEST IS.

Its the opposite direction of east, anybody knows that.

ETIQUETTE NOTE:-- When asking a lady if she would care for some refreshments it is considered a mark of ill breeding to say, "How would a horn strike you?" or "What's the matter with a snifter?" Such cryptic terms pre-suppose to much familiarity with boozology on the part of the lady. It is much more committment to bow politely and say, "If you are feeling dry, Miss Few clothes, I believe I could rustle you a snort."

Did you read that nasty letter to the editor that was written to my boss in this weeks paper. Something along the line where a group of NAIT shiners went down to the city police on Friday, shined their shoes and found you if you were born in Biafara or something to that effect.

What to do with an empty Blue.
