FRIED CAKE

Dale Henderson

This title may seem strange to you. You may even wonder what it means, if anything!

Well, to clarify this whole stitution please let me explain.

"Fried Cake" was chosen only on the bases that my column is meant to be the commonly associated editorial. Editorial though, seems so political and so negative that I don't even want to read the finished product myself let alone expect you to read it!

So, in a nutshell, "Fried Cake" is a newly constructed term intended to imply anything.

That's right, in this column space you can and will be able to find areas discussed which might fall under the category of; topical issues around Nait; music; drugs; sex, and who knows maybe even some politics! After I read over that last paragraph I'm beginning to believe something interesting may materialize in this general vicinity of "Nugget". So lets look forward to some interesting discussions.

Beerfests:

Beerfests seem to be a popular issue here at Nait. Whenever there's an announcement for a beerfest the students scream it's not enough notice. Do you agree? Now, after students have changed their working hours by utilizing means of their own, their ready to line up and get tickets for such a function, only if they arrived early enough! Before I continue any further let me explain myself in regards to early sellouts!

First of all you have to realize that though the arena may seem large from the inside, with one thousand other people, Nait does have fire regulations to abide by. This is the main reason behind limited tickets sales.

Secondly if the tickets are announced to go on sale at 8:00 A.M. and there are only 1000 to be allocated between a total of 4000 students, you'd better get to that ticket office good and early!

If you happen to be 6'7" and 250 lbs. you are exempt from the preceeding paragraph.

Like the Ol' saying goes "The Early Bird Catches The Worm", you can rephrase it to "The Early Riser Gets Into The Beerfest."

So far you folks who line up at 9:00 A.M. when you should have been at the office at 7:30 AM must suffer a consolation. What can one say except that the people who climbed out of bed that early in the morning and made it down to Nait deserve to go to the Beerfest for Free! What do you think?

I'd have to agree that we really do need the facilities for this type and other types of functions to occur.

Maybe someday we'll get these and others. But you have to start by demanding them!

After reading all of this you deserve something.

So the helpful hint for may is you can expect a beerfest due in the early weeks!

MAIL BAG

So Rod Boyce is finally being forced to retire. (YIPPEE). Good luck to the new editor as he tries to save the Nugget from its former uses of wrapping fish and lining the Kitty litter box. (Now that's the edge of death!) Maybe he can think of something original instead of stealing ideas from the "Gateway." (U of A paper) We're tired of Mr. Boyce wasting print, patting himself on the back. The Nugget is supposed to be a newspaper not an autobiography. (The student's voice MY ASS!)

By the way Rodney, everybody knew who Frank Glutton was, its just that nobody gave a damn. Good riddance Glutton!! The food in the cafeteria isn't half as distasteful as your articles.

REGISTRATION

Some might pass it off as "Just Spring Fever" when talk starts around the tower over pre-registration, but for most it starts panic. Tuesday was registration for the first year business students, and for most this meant they had to make a decision about what to major in next year. Then after that decision was made it was a struggle to make timetables jive to their liking. Then starts the panic, your time table jives, now its a matter of getting it. You see pre-registration works in a first come first serve basis.

Doors opened at 8 O'clock and of course everyone want to be first, but as we all know, not everyone can; so they all scheme to be first. Two years ago students were so obsessed with this pre-registration panic that 4 students slept in the ceiling of a classroom, behind the ceiling boards, and then crawled down at 5 to be the first in line. Last year, coming more down to earth 3 students brought their sleeping bags and camped out (or rather in) in one of the 4th floor offices. This year I have to hand it to the first year students, they all went home, and for the first time this year, were in bed by 8, by choice. not by chance and then up at the crack of dawn to be waiting for the school to open at 5:00. The students every year are building up more of an immunity to this fever, but all I can say is that there's got to be an easier way.

You know all this panic for registration over what you want now, but come September who know's if you'll even be back, that s if you are one of the lucky ones to find a good job.

Panic

"HE-HO-HA"

FOUND TO BE UNINTERESTING, NON TOPICAL AND UNINVITING

Last Monday evening the administration of NAIT congregated at camp HE-HO-HA for their annual NAIT spring workshop.

This event was scheduled to take place at 6:30 P.M. in the main recreation building on site.

The agenda was to cover areas spanning from objectives (past, present, and future), historical development, present status, priority activities and issues all related to NAIT.

This annual spring workshop is conducted for the purpose of analyzing past endeavours, evaluating these and then to suggest new replacements if needed.

Monday evening seemed as though replacement for these endeavours was unneeded, for in the past years NAIT student representatives had been courtiously extended an invitation to this gathering. This was not the case last evening. No student representative either from your own NAITSA council and/or one of the many NAIT societies had been invited.

The reason for this is not exactly known even to president Carter who himself commented on their absence.

How can one report on an event who was not invited, you ask?

Taking it upon himself to organize and motivate a few other students, Greg Lesiuk (NAITSA President) constructed the fram work to attend this workshop at camp HE-HO-HA and represent those students not invited!

The persons responsible for attendance and representation of NAIT student body were Greg Lesiuk, Kevin Fergusson (president of B.A.S) Rick Stewart (newly appointed President of NAITSA), Francols.....(president B.S.S.) and myself, Dale Henderson (eidtor of NAIT Nugget). On arriving, the meeting seemed a little slow going (no one can say for sure but it may have been a little slow starting), due to the lack of enthusiasm evident in the audience. Among the speakers of this meeting were president G.W. Carter; F. Williamson (academic Vice-President); W. Zahary (Director of Continuing Education); G. Meadus (Director of Student Services); and J.O. Starritt. (Administrative Vice-President).

We arrived late and were unable to hear president carters address, but did listen to the other speakers.

Mr. Williamson discussed the importance of improving development, transferability of students and priorities in operating NAIT as an institute.

Mr. Williamson discussed the importance of improving instuctural "effectiveness" which he emphasized through out. He found and suggested that some of our instuctors are slipping in their capabilities and could use a little refresher course.

Mr. Williamson pointed out the fact that 30 percent of the NAIT students had previously attended other post-secondary schools. He was concerning this with the issue of transferability of students from other institutes. Mr. Williamson also stated that there is 15 to 20 new programs which NAIT is presently investigating. Though Mr. Williamson pointed out priorities in operating NAIT those being organization, recruit taining spectrum; and what students are doing after they leave NAIT. He failed to mention admission standards which at this time were currently being considered.

These standards are not of a selective type of admission but instead on a first come first serve basis.

W. Zahary did not get the motivated response needed at this time from the executive council and program heads. Zahary merely showed the arrangment of positions and changes taking place in his area of work.

The item of most significance stated by Zahary was that of the adoption of "commercial Chinese cooking" in the school? Zahary descrived his report as just being a "small bit." It was actually a small bit which could have been avoided.

Gary Meadus brought a relief to the workshop with refreshing suggestions and proposals such as a dormitory for the commuters.(surely we have commters coming to NAIT but what about all the out of towners? Don't these people need facilities?)

Gary went on to comment on the role of student services and items which we should start to concern ourselves with, some of these being the anommys student, student emotional problems and areas to increase better development through instructor and student.

The surprise of the evening as president Carter announced, was ourselves.

Greg brought to light some main issues which students are concerned about and some of which the adminsitration should be considering about.

These issues were that of admission, decentralization and implications involved.

Admissions was a popular topic with our group for not only was it touched on by Greg, but kevin and Francois rammed the point home.

Admissions was a concern to Francois being in Biological Sciences

because as he stated "50 percent of the students enrolled the first year have either quit or flunked out by the second year". "That's too many"!

Francois attributed this fact to low admission standards stating "People are admitted without even being qualified".

Kevin extended on this point of Francois and related it to Business.

Greg concerned himself with decentralization of department and registrar.

Greg mentioned that department heads and program heads goals are not in line with that of the front office! "This is important" he said, "Especially when departments are trying to work in line with the standards of industry".

Rick Stewart left some inspiration with the administration at the end of the evening by exclaiming "Let's make NAIT a place to be, Not a place to be from"!

Greg Lesiuk and all the others involved gave the council some food for thought, it is only the future that will tell if it has been digested!

Dale Henderson.

HIRE -A- STUDENT

Edmonton Hire-A-Student promotes and advises students interested in starting their own summer business. We assist by referring students to legal counsel and providing them with job referrals. These businesses, fully staffed and operated by students, offer a wide variety of services in such areas as landscaping and yard maintenance, construction, painting, roofing, concrete work and many more. Their success lies in the fact that they provide an immediate and quality service to Edmonton business and homeowners. If you are interested in forming your own student business, additional information can be obtained from:

INSTITUTE SECURITY

The topic for this column is presented for the express purpose of enlightening any institute people who might not be aware of their responsibility with regard to the SECURITY of the institute.

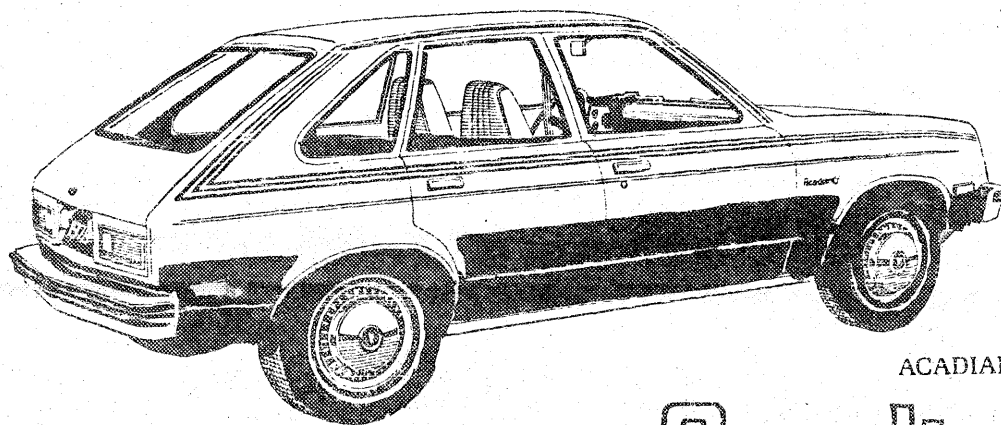

During after hours, the institute is kept locked and persons desiring entry must do so via the MAIN entrance-at the east doors of the Main Lobby. They are required to sign in the register and to state the time of entry and the location of the room or area they intend to visit.

All the Staff, Instructors and students are responsible to resist any plea for entry into ANY area on the institute by anyone. Even though the person is recognized as a fellow institute member, entry must be refused. The reason for signing the register is for the identification of an area and person and time. This cannot be accomplished when entry is gained without any traceable action.

Any institute personnel or student should report an illegal entry as soon as possible when discovered. This is not a petty act on the part of the person reporting. It is a safeguard for his personal property as well as the property of the Institute that will not be jeopardized.

During holiday periods when the Institute is kept locked for longer than normal periods, institute personnel and students should make an effort to co-operate as much as possible. A quick call on their grey phone to the Commissionaires (394) would help to alert them. A description or possible identification of the person violating security would assist the commissionaires in either apprehending or reporting the incident.

Hi People:

The situation in the NAITSA office is an awkward and confuse one at the moment. People are trying to find out just what the real low-down is on their respective positions. To do this, we have relied heavily on the "old council" who have done a superb job over the past year and are still doing one. However, things are getting settled and we are getting down into the thick of things.

As you glance around this page, you will notice various articles from the newly elected people down in E 133. The purpose of these articles is to inform the students just what we are doing or planning to do. It is hoped that we might be able to stimulate some form of communication between us. After all, we are in office only because you put us here and we are going to do a good job. It is our opinion, that the job will be done a lot better if we both work together. If you have any beefs, gripes, ideas or enthusiasm let us know and we will work together to solve or create. You are a necessary part of NAIT so why not exercise that privilege and let us know your feelings.

As I have said before the doors are always open in Room E133 or phone 425 on the grey phone, to talk about, growl at or applaud any action that we have or will be taking. We can't do it without you!!

Our orientation has gone into full swing and fortunately we are up to our ear lobes with loads of information from our last council. Their helpfulness and enthusiasm has kept us greenhorns here from being totally lost. THANKS A LOT TEAM- YOU'RE THE GREATEST. I only hope we can do as well as you have done this year.

I don't think any of us have totally recovered from campaigning last week. It was an exciting, enthusiastic week and I would like to thank you all again for your great participation. But don't stop now! We've only just begun. There's a great exciting year ahead of us. Let's do it together. If you would like to get involved with upcoming events or if you have any ideas for them come in and tell us. I would especially like to see the candidates who did not make it into office. Come in and give us a hand. We need your expertise.

Pat Lukay
Vice President

Well, here we are, your new student council, running around like a bunch of lost squirrels trying to pass midterms and learn our new jobs at the same time. Never fear we are getting our heads together and by next year we will have the gears in motion. Everyone on the council is just terrific and it was great to see so many of you out there voting. I hope we'll be hearing from you; our doors are always open and your ideas (and complaints) are welcome.

Sandra

ATHLETIC COMMENT

This week has been one of total orientation and jumping into the mainstream of things "Green" Stepping into Wayne Johnson's shoes and filling them is going to be one big task due to the fact of the fine job Wayne has done this year.

Marketing by the way has the challenge cup. I would like to see, somebody take it away from them. Marketing has already successfully defended it once against building construction engineering technology. so let's get these challenges happening. Remember you can challenge Marketing to most anything they have to defend the cup against all comers for example: an adding contest WITHOUT calculators this should give the challengers & decided advantage.

Well, its only been a week and our new council is starting to move onto a number of issues that we brought out during campaign week. Plaza Two will have an area on the main floor by the S.W. doors for selling tickets for the various functions put on during the year. A wrap up Beerfest has been set for May 6th. Were looking at two possible bands for this function and they are Mainstreet To have them do the entire night. There is a strong possibility of having a Jazz Concert in the auditorium during one of the up coming common hours. Plaza Two also has this possibility which in their case would be held in the Cafeteria. Details have yet to be worked out but things are looking bright. Frosh is already becoming a concern of mine for the following year. Any suggestion to the effect of improving this years frosh would be appreciated. The idea of a Suggestion box has been brought up and we're considering this. If we do go ahead with the Suggestion box this will be hung on the outside of the N.A.I.T.S.A. offices.

Is work the answer for you this summer?
Written By: Cecilia Brito

Most of us look forward to working during the summer months. But with the limited number of openings it takes more than luck to land a desired position; it takes ingenuity and hard work. The search for work, be it a summer/part-time position or a future career, is an eight hour a day proposition. Following are some do's and don'ts you might consider during your search:

1. Do be persistent. Those who give up won't work this summer. you have to find work, work won't find you.
2. Do start early. If you wait until June you'll be cutting down on your choices.
3. Do spend eight hours daily looking for a job (except for a 1/2 hour lunch break). Remember that a job takes eight hours a day of effort
4. do have a good breakfast before you start. You'll need the energy if you are to remain alert.
5. Don't limit your possibilities. Walk up and down every street where businesses are located and apply EVERYWHERE, whether or not it's the position you want.
6. Do read the want ads daily and apply for ALL the positions which specify your skills, or those that say no experience is necessary.
7. Do visit manpower and other placement agencies -- they have a varied listing of positions aching to be filled.
8. Do go for as many interviews as possible. If you don't get the position, at least you'll learn how to conduct yourself in this type of situation. And the interviewer may remember you when another position becomes available.
9. Do dress in clean, well fitting clothes. This does not mean expensive, it means efficient. Employers believe that the clothes make the person. A sloppy dresser is identified as lazy and sloppy on the job.
10. Do learn to write a resume (ask a friend, instructor, read a book on the subject). Once written, send your resume to every personnel office, where you might be interested in working. Follow this with a phone call about a week later.
11. Do be flexible. The position you find may not be the most desirable one but it may lead to a better position later.
12. Do think satisfaction. Sure pay is important but sometimes a lower paying position may be more satisfactory than a higher paying proposition. And the experience might help in your future career.
13. Don't ignore free lancing. You may have a skill which others require. So, research your potential customers, price your services or products against similar ones and advertise what you have to offer. The plus here is in the choosing of your own hours. And it's feasible, I spent a year cutting through red tape simply because I speak English and my customers didn't so they needed an interpreter.

Finally remember: If you believe you can do it and you are willing to put forth the effort, you'll make it come true. It's a self-fulfilling prophecy.

MIX'EM WITH MURRAY

Try a Mai-Tai. it may bring back a memory of some past holiday in the sun.

Start with.
½ teaspoon Powdered Sugar.
(½ oz. of sugar water would work.)

2 oz Rum

1 oz Triple Sec.

1 Tablespoon Orgeat or Almond Syrup.

1 tablespoon Grenadine

1 oz Lime Juice.

Shake with ice and strain into large old-fashion galss, that is about ⅓ full with crushed ice. Decorate with a marachino cherry and pinnapple wedge.

For a real hair raiser top off with your favorite brand of over-proof rum.

If this drink doesn't create a longing for beaches and hot sun you've been in Edmonton too long!

GOOD MIXING!

AUNTIE WONDER

Dear Auntie Wonders:

Two nights ago I had a tragic misunderstanding with my beloved son. My goodness gracious he's such a good boy! For all these years I've given him everything. I've been the best mother a boy could wish for.

I gave him clean underwear, sauerkrout & strudel and the tnings he's always wanted, a red fire truck!

And with all this how could he not be happy? He said he was fed up with home. He said he couldn't stand living with a nag like me anymore. Oh where did I go wrong? I can't stand it any longer.

He threw his toothbrush in his coat and said he would never come back to hell. It was 2 A.M. in the morning.. It was 56 degrees below zero. How could my darling survive? No car, No buses,...Oh my God what happened to my baby!

He's such a beautiful baby. so clean cut, not like some of those hippie bums running wild. He must be dead..., must be lyuing in some ditch, freezing, starving, must be dying...!

Oh please Auntie, I put his life in your hands, please help me find my baby.

My son is 76 years old.

Mrs. Really Extremely, Highly Worried.

Dear Mrs. Worried

I know how you feel and I sympathyze. I feel I have the solution. You told me he was 76? Was he missing a leg?...an arm and an eye? He was considered a vegetable by 17 leading authorities on Mother's Care! No need for alarm any longer Mrs. Worried. Your son was found at the bottom of the Saskatchewan River with 14,000 knife wounds in his body!

Don't feel grieved Mrs. Worried he died a very quick and painless death!

He was right though, he isn't going back to Hell! Mrs. Worried is there a chance you having another son?

"Auntie Knows Best"

Dear Auntie Wonders:

I am a lonely girl of 15! I am looking for a relationship. I need love Auntie, and I want love but at school the boys say I have the face of a warthog! I must say, I am not the prettiest girl at school but I do not have the face of a warthog by far.

I will admit though I do not have the facial attractions of most, I put my emphasis on my body features. the boys at school say I should carry a can of raid wherever I go to avoid mosquitoes and as for my rear features they insist I was hit by the guard rails of a mack truck.

Auntie if you saw me I'm sure you would not agree to these stupid boys! Grace is when I get the other girls pinned down but the boys say I have the grace of a camel, the spring perfumes of skunk and the pleasantness of a walrus.

I can take so much Auntie, Please I need your help.

Dear Troubled:

You need more than my help baby. I know you must be frustrated and feel useless. So give it up. Don't fool yourself anymore. It's out of your control It's hopeless! Commit Suicide!

PLAYER'S CHOICE

For all of you who missed the Business Cabaret which was held on April 14th missed one of the best nights for drinking. I say it that way because for a cabaret that was suppose to start at 7:00, the band (Player's Choice) didn't hit the first note till 10 minutes after 9:00 P.M. giving the students an enjoyable 2 hours of sloshing up the booze.

When they did begin to play, it was not up to expectations, but from what I understand they have hot periods and cold periods and it so happened that we ran across a cold period. We're hoping that when they play at the Computers Cabaret on April 22nd that they will be ready to boil.

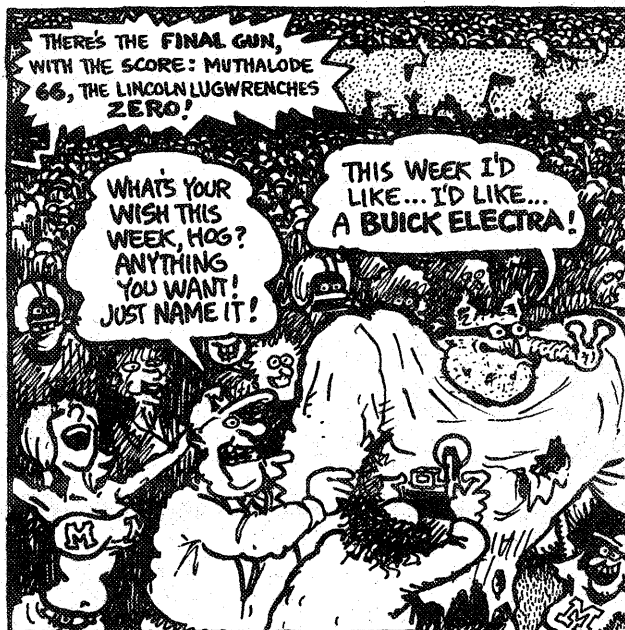

Other than that, the midnight snack was delicious and made it an enjoyable evening out.
