FRIED CAKE

Hey people, what is the matter?

For the first week this year the Nugget bestowed a price. A price that one could consider nominal for most third rate publications such as this. A price that had you payed we would have given back to you in the form of sensationalism. That's right news that would knock your head backwards. How about a photo of NAIT burning down? Or may be an article on instructors in school and their brief romances with students!

But to no avail, not one quarter was collected.

What are we to think of you?

The past two weeks has been shaping up to show that this school is not apathetic. That the students care about their surrounding here at NAIT. And you do, don't you?

So what is 25 cents? You probably give at least that much to the United Way. They don't even give you any third rate news!

Think about it. Please!

We went so far as to develop a slogan. "Give to the Nugget, so we can slugget out".

Next week we hope it to be big because of your donations this week.

Give us a thought. Give us your money!

Are you getting tired rundown and generally fatigued? Are you upset because midterms are upon us. I've got a solution to this age old problem. Drop out!

Drop out of school get rid of this problem for good! After all have you ever thought what would happen if one day no students came to school. If all of a sudden you and all your friends decided to go up skiing or fishing depending on the time of year. There'd be no school! Catch my drift? Pick a date and submit it to the Nugget. We'll be happy to print it and make sure everyone in school knows.

Look you're helping out your instructors too. Of course. You'd actually be saying, "Hey, take the day off Charlie, it's on me and my friends!"

What better present could you offer to an instructor?

Think about it. Your instructors have to be at school just as often as you! That's right every school day of the term.

So why not, one day of this year decide to give them a break and not come to school.

Some people feel Edmonton is an apathetic city. Not really. How apathetic can a city be when there are "Little Pink Messengers" around who have enough guts to run a cop down?!

Can you believe it. A cop goes and punches your side window in because he wants to give you a ticket! So you get so upset that you want to get out of that area and head for the hills! In the process of leaving the scene you run over the very person who punched your window in!

That's got to be a first. The City Police motto is, "To serve and protect!" Maybe it should be changed; "To serve and take cover"!

MAIL BAG

Dear Editor:

In regards to your Fried Cake column in The Nugget's last issue on Perry, our Activities Chairman, I'm for you all the way. The Nugget should be the voice of the students.

As for Perry, for you people who know him, he appears to be extremely unorganized. Nothing gets done till the last minute. Take for example, Friday's cabaret with Sundancer. No one had the slightest hint there was going to be a cabaret on Friday till the day before. (Unless they read the calendar of events in the hallway across the display case. At that, the card for the day of the 25th is missing which throws off the events for the days to follow by one day. If you didn't catch the omission, you'd assume the next cabaret is on a Thursday, which is where it falls according to the calendar of events. But it's actually on a Friday. That's Perry for you).

Publicity for the cabaret was just about nil. How are students suppose to get informed? We can't go chasing Perry down to ask him when's the next cabaret and what band he hired for it. Even at that, his answer is unreliable. He'll inform you that say band X is slated for a particular social function. You find out band Y is actually suppose to play. Then band Z shows up!

The rest of the student council, half the time never know what in tarnation he's up to -- HIS OWN COUNCIL MEMBERS! The council won't be as effective if they can't even work as a team.

Perry, you just better start cleaning up your act. You were elected into the position cause the student body considered you the best candidate. Obviously they over estimated you. You're getting paid every month to do your job, I'd like to see you start doing it for a change. I'm totally dissatisfied with your performance as a council member and a lot of students will back me up. You'd better clean up your act Perry, as your image around the school is the pooh!

Unsatisfied students

Dear Unsatisfied Students:

Who in the heck do you think you're fooling? You wrote a dandy letter on how you feel Perry is not doing his job but you didn't even have the guts to sign it.

I could have held your names in confidence if that was what you wished. But you guys go out and explain in detail all of Perry's shortcomings.

This kind of letter has got to be the most cowardly of all. Not what the letter has to say (it may all be too true) but the arrogance in writing it to begin with and then submitting it for me to read is beyond sense. If you want the letter to be read by the students (which I think you do) you should have just left your names at the bottom of the page.

But why would any students mind having their name even known by me? Well there has to be a couple reasons for this.

Firstly it could be somebody I know and they did not want me to know what they thought of Perry.

Secondly it could be a NAITSA Council executive, and they certainly did not want me to know!

Or thirdly it could be both. Someone I know from NAITSA!

What do you think?

How could any person (a friend per se) know so much about Perry's disorganization, set backs and disarray of dates and then want to write me about it?? Some friend.

But let me pose this one. It is quite easy for a council member to acknowledge Perry's bumblingness, date disarray, poor band slating, and who else would know that the council can't work as a team with Perry but another council member.

I hope I'm wrong on both accounts for your sake, Perry.

Because if I'm not, you haven't got a friend or business associate you can trust.

Dale Henderson

P.S. Read NAITSA Comments this week and tell me if you think there is a person there who might change their mind about writing a letter such as this.

STUDENT PARKING

It seems that last weeks column on decriminalizing cocaine didn't get any negative replies, so that must mean that the students are for it. Therefore this week we will be running a poll to find out what you, the students want to do about this.

This might possibly mean a weekly consumer column on cocaine and or all drugs. We feel this would benefit both the dealer and purchaser.

Why do you people out there continually ignore the year-book? The year-book staff willingly slave their guts out and no one else lifts a finger to help them. The least you could do is drop by the office (E127) and ask if there's anything you can do. Nobody will hate you for it.

STUDENT LOANS

If you have a Guaranteed Provincial or Canada

Student Loan and are continuing full time studies

you must reinstate that loan

PRIOR TO THE EXPIRATION OF THE SIX MONTH EXEMPTION PERIOD. You do this by (A) obtaining the necessary Reinstatement Forms from your bank, or (B) negotiating a new Certificate of Eligibility. It's your responsibility to maintain close liaison with your bank and maintain your loan in good standing.

Right now check your latest copy of the Certificate of Eligibility or Reinstatement Form for the latest academic year end date. Your exemption period expires six months from that date. Even though you may have applied for further financial assistance, this does not automatically reinstate your loan, and negotiating a Canada Student Loan does not automatically reinstate your Guaranteed Provincial Loan, or vice versa.

If you fail to reinstate your loan within the stipulated exemption period you will be required to pay the interest charges accrued up to the reinstatement date.

How to be sure yours

NOTE:

You will not be required to pay interest charges on your Guaranteed Student Loan until the six month exemption period has expired. If you should remit any payments on your loan prior to expiration of the six month exemption period be assured that the payments are being applied only on the principal; no interest charges have been assessed by the bank.

MEDICAL and LAW STUDENTS — Upon graduation you have a six month exemption period. In addition, upon application to the credit institution (bank), a further 9 month deferment of principal payments only may be granted. This requires you to pay interest charges only for this period of time.

MEDICAL RESIDENT STUDENTS — You cannot be reinstated to interest-free, full-time status. A Medical Resident Student is assessed tuition fees paid for by the sponsoring hospital and is in receipt of a salary and therefore considered to be gainfully employed.

For further information or advice contact your bank or SFB in Edmonton or Calgary.

A CRITICAL EXAMINATION OF 1979 AUTOMOBILES

"You're not getting older, you're getting better", or so says an advertisement for a well known women's cosmetic product. A person could as well apply this line to the older models of automobiles produced in the late sixties and early seventies, especially when we view the new, gleaming, and seemingly endless lines of Detroit's (and Osaka's) four wheeled gas suckers.

Where have the days of comfortable legroom, half decent paint jobs, and reliable motors gone? Now we have paint jobs that wash off in carwashes (I know, it happened to me), motors that won't last long enough for the odometer to turn to 5 digits, and cars with so little legroom that a suggested option is a can opener. To top it all off Detroit, who, it seems lost their ability to master the construction of a simple combustion engine, has turned to more complex systems, such as turbo charged V-4's and a computer controlled carburetor system, look what computers did to the post office!

Now one thing that really ticks me off about late model cars is the tackiness of their interiors. No one is enthralled with shiny plastic woodgrain, cheap carpet, and shoe polish colored imitation leather dashboards, so Detroit take heed!

My most treasured moments of my early teen years occurred in the back seat of a '67 Pontiac, and I'm sure those magic moments changed my life, and even if it didn't I can say that it was a lot of fun!

The reason that my mind momentarily returned to the gutter is because I am sadly reflecting on the demise of "the old back seat boogie", which was brought on by Detroit's insistence on saving space, and possibly aided by the N.A.P.P.A. (North American Planned Parent - hood Association).

Now backseats can no longer hold a passionate, steamy couple, nor can half of this couple be comfortably contained in its formally friendly grasp. No, but it can hold one medium sized suitcase (standing up), a stack of magazines, and a six-pack of Blue.

Below, follow reactions from Dan Proudfoot, which were borrowed from the Oct. 1 issue of the Sun, on the new 1979 models. These are his personal reactions, which he admits were biased towards small, fast cars, and in no way reflect the opinion of this author, the Nugget or the Sun.

Best New Model - Fords Zephyr, both the "bare-bones" six cylinder (at $6,127.20) and the "loaded" eight cylinder (at $7,364).

Most Disappointing New model - Chev Monte Carlo, body style was nice, interior was roomy, but suspension "turned into a bowl of jelly, when confronted by a series of bumps".

Least Expensive Model - the Lada, at $3,495

Least Looks - once again, the Lada, produced in Soviet Russia (in this case a Kremlin red).

Most Expensive Model - Lincoln Limo, as modified by AHA manufacturing in Mississauga, at $32,190.70

Most Looks - another combo, the Lincoln, all 22½ feet in "glossy, gleaming black"

Worst Radio - Renaults Le Car, for a $150 option the french govt. owned Renault company gave the buyer a static filled radio system

Best Radio - any Volvo, and for only $7.25 more than Renaults system ($157.25), H'mm

Best Gas Mileage - Honda Civic CVCC at 70 KPG/44 MPG while driving at 70 mph. Good.

Worst Gas Mileage - two Fords, cars; the LTD, at 11.8 Mpg city; the Bronco at 9.9 mpg, both during city driving.

Ugliest Interior - Dodge Omni, with shiny plastic, fuzzy carpet and phoney wood grain.

Nicest Interior - BMW 733, it had taste, style, and faultless craftsmanship, one hitch, the price at $28,625.

Best New Syle - Toyota Celica, looks expensive and sporty.

Most Fun - the New Mazda RX-7

A fairly good range of cars were sampled and almost every major company was mentioned, except AMC's new Concorde which I would like to hear about.

Once again, here is a list of the winners and losers:

Winners-Ford Zephyr

Lada

Lincoln Limo (modified)

Volvo

Honda Civic CVCC

BMW 733
Toyota Celica
Mazda RX-7

Losers-Chev Monte Carlo
Lada (again)

Perhaps you will disagree with this article, and if so that is your right, but I hope the reports on these vehicles will perhaps, if you're in the market, steer you (no pun intended) to a better choice for today and one that will last for years to come.

LISTEN TO THE VOICE OF THE PRAIRIES.

Wednesday, OCTOBER 25, 1978
A Public Information Meeting will be held at 7:30 P.M., in the V.I.P. room at Lister Hall on the U. of A. Campus.

This meeting precedes a session on December 7, 1978, at which the Canadian Radio Television Commission public hearings in Edmonton will consider applications for new FM broadcasting stations in Edmonton.

One of the applicants will be the Voice of the Prairies Limited, a pioneer Alberta broadcasting service.

Our application proposes an FM stereo radio station programmed to serve a part of the Edmonton community which has no present exclusive radio service - the 18-30 year old adults!

The Voice of the Prairies has already introduced, with instant public acceptance, C-JAY FM in Calgary, Alberta's first Album Rock station, programming to young adults.

The Edmonton proposals will be discussed in detail by the management of the Voice of the Prairies at the October 25 meeting. We believe in the greatest possible public participation and awareness prior to the hearings in December.

FLAG FOOTBALL INTRAMURALS

In this article, I am going to change votes with Jimmy the Greek and try to predict the outcome of the Flag Football I-M playoffs. Since this article won't be published until Oct. 19, the games will already have been played. I am now deeply, very deeply concentrating into my crystal ball. Well here goes nothing.

The first round of the playoffs take place on Monday Oct. 16. The first game will see Instruments, first place winners of League one take in the second place winners of League four, Earth Resources "B". Instruments with sures like 6 - 0, 19 - 0, and 26 - 0 over some strong teams should bury Earth deep into the ground. Good old Earth won two games by default and lost one game 27 - 7 to Civil "A", so I look for Instruments to take it 28 - 7.

The first place winners of League two, Marketing "A" will take in the Engineering Design and Drafting Technology (EDDT) "A", who was tied for first place in League Six. Both have had impressive wins and a couple of so - so games, which makes my crystal ball call it a toss - up (no, not throw - up). Whoever will win will do so with no more than a tou down.

The third contest pits the BCET "A" against Accounting and Finance "A". Both teams have had impressive victories, but Accounting had won three games on default and are a bit unproven.

In this one, I can see BCET building a brick wall of defense in order to win 21 - 12.

Another Marketing team, Market "C" will take on Electronics "C". Marketing was first in League seven while Electronics was second in League two. I will have to take Electronics in this one, just because my intuition says so. Look for Electronics to wire themselves up a 14 - 7 victory.

The next contest has two heavyweight technologies battling it out, Air Conditioning & REFRIGERATION "A" against Earth Resources "A". Air Conditioning & Ref cooled itself into first place in League three while Earth Res dug itself into second place in League five. This one will be a toss - up because both teams showed their offences are a bit lethargic at times with scores like 8 - 8, 8 - 6, 3 - 1. Not what you would call exciting. I look for this game to be a low swing ball game.

The game of the night will pit Civil "A", first in League four against the explosive RTA (Radio & Television Arts) team, who was second in League seven. With scores of 19 - 0, and 12 - 4, and a defense which has only allowed "one" touchdown, I look for RTA to wipe Civil off the map. With great guards, the offense of RTA will be patent. The score will be 21 - 7.

The final game has another Civil team, this time Civil "B" against another Accounting and Finance team, Acc & Fin "B". I am going with Acc & Fin to win 14 to 7.

The quarter-finals then begin on Wednesday, Oct. 18. If my predictions hold through, Instruments meets Market "A"; BCET "A" versus Electronics "C"; and finally Air Con & Ref "A" or Earth Res. "A" against RTA. Acc & Fin "B" will get the bye into the semi - finals.

The first game which has Instruments against Marketing or EDDT should be a fun one for Instruments. I look for them completely humiliate whoever the opposition is. Instruments is one of the team to beat and so I look for another 28 - 7 score.

The next game should be interesting, with BCET "A" taking on Electronics "C". My crystal ball shows a few more touchdowns for BCET than Electronics. The score: a close 14 - 7 win for Bcet.

The most exciting game of the night again will involve RTA, who this time will meet either Air Con & Ref "A" or Earth Resources "A". If they play Air Con & Ref, look for RTA to freeze Air's offense and breeze on by their defense. If RTA plays Earth Res, they will help them dig their graves. The score will be 24 - 7.

Next Monday, Oct. 23, the semifinals will be played and the final goes on Oct. 25. Next week I will look and see if my crystal ball was right and also predict who will win in the finals.

On final note to all you big six foot seven monsters who play in these football teams. Don't, I repeat, don't get mad at me because I said your team would lose and didn't. I have a very delicate neck and the matter, body. Besides, you wouldn't want to hurt a great guy like me. Wouldn't you?

OILER OPENER

Last Friday at the Coliseum, the Oilers got off on the right foot with a 3 - 2 victory over the Cincinnati Stingers.

The Oilers completely dominated the game pounding 45 shots at the Stinger goal but were turned back by several fine stops by goalie Micheal Dion. It wasn't until the 58th minute of the game, on Bill Goldsworthy's wrist shot over the sprawling Dion that the Oilers put the game away. The Stingers tied the score at two on Peter Marsh's goal with about 5 minutes left in regulation time.

Although the team failed to capitalize in close by missing passes and the net, which could have blown the Stingers out of the game it was a good overall effort.

The line of Dennis Sobchuck, Bret Calligan and Bill Goldworthy treated the crowd to an excellent display of skating and hustle. Coach Sather must also be pleased with the hard work of reserve forward Steve Carlson.

If the hard work of these players rubs off on the rest of the club the Oilers will be tough on the ice and good at the box office.

MARKETING MACHINE ROLLS TO UNDEFEATED SEASON

This is the year Marketing does it all. The implications are here, finishing 1st in flag football's league 2 with 4 wins, 0 loses and 1 tie is only a hint of what's coming. It looks like Marketing is a cinch in upcoming playoffs. So we'd like to thank the other technologies for coming out but we're still looking for competition. A special note of disdain goes to our arch arivals Telecom who we blew off the field 28 - 6 in the last league game. Also to the boys from B.C.E.T. who didn't dare show up to play us. We always knew the "C" stood for "cowards". We'll end on this happy note. See you on the sidelines suckers!

Hank

A REBUTTAL TO MARKETING'S CROCK OF B.S.

Building Construction Engineering Technology (BCET) wishes the feeble marketing clods to put up or shut up! For example who is in first place in intramurals BCET with 377 points. Where's marketing? In sixth place 194 points. The BCET machine has marketing almost 2 - 1 for points! Where was marketing in the Contract Cross Country Run? Granted they got 35 points for it but the boys from BCET recieved 100 points. It is on thin ice the marketing boys shout their unsubstantiated BULLSHIRT! "C" for cowards. Where was marketing in the open challenge by BCET to come out to build a bridge? In some corner hiding some where shouting, yelling, screaming BCET are a bunch of cowards! BCET crushed and mangled all challenger's in the Bridge Building Contest in record time of 24 min 19 seconds. Now we don't know where marketing gets off on bragging about nothing. A mere first place finish in League 2. How Sick! Nothing has been decided yet. Marketing can still be knocked off. If marketings competition was measured in terms of a wind storm marketing has not contributed a farts worth! Yes sir marketing has done it all! Oh by the way marketing... "C" stands for "Champions" you clods. So here's an open challenge marketing. Anytime, anyplace, anywhere, anything! That goes for the rest of you Jam - Tart Technologies.

CHEM TECH RAISES ALCOHOLIC BLOOD LEVEL

Chem Techs, "Good Luck Cabaret" was the first small technology bash I've been to for a long time. I don't know how many people "got lucky" on Friday but I do know everyone there was in the mood to party and party they did.

The key ingredient for the success was the band Flashfire. Their selection included everything from "Green, Green Hash" of home to the good old polkas and butterflies. Their intro with the smoke bombs and impressing lights was a real attention grabber, these guys meant business and proved it.

The people from Chem Tech created a comfortable and friendly atmosphere. Anyone not familiar with the technology could sit down and feel he was not intruding on a private party.

Congratulations. I'll be sure to catch the next one.

HEART - 'DOG & BUTTERFLY'

Heart's new album has an Oriental theme to it. The illustrations on the cover and inner sleeve were done by an artist named Fuding Cheng, and the band is pictured on the inside cover with each member attired in a kimono. This mystic influence carries over onto the album itself; one side is entitled "Butterfly" and the other is entitled "Dog".

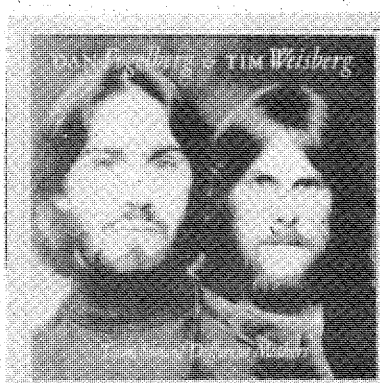

The "Butterfly" side is acoustic guitar for the most part; the music floats lightly, and images sneak up on you and steal quietly away, as a butterfly does. The "Dog" side is more earthy and heavier, but the music romps along playfully as a puppy. A live song is included on this side, "Cook With Fire", which was recorded at the Centroplex Coliseum in Memphis.

Ann and Nancy Wilson, the sister duo who give Heart its distinctive vocal style, are also turning into very talented songwriters. They wrote every song on the album with the help of various other members of the band; the results are some beautiful and powerful melodies. In addition, they are becoming adept at painting images with words as if onto a canvas. A good example of this is the title song, "Dog & Butterfly", in which an old man relates a parable to a young girl.

Heart certainly seems to have emerged from the "cocoon" that their last album spun for them. You may remember that "Magazine" was released during the time when the band was switching record labels from Mushroom to Portrait Records (CBS).

Mushroom Records put together a collection of their unreleased songs and put out the album without the consent of the band. However, the mediocrity of "Magazine" should be forgotten when this record is heard "Dog & Butterfly" is a joy to listen to.

TWIN SONS OF DIFFERENT MOTHERS - DAN FOGELBERG & TINY WEISBERG - (EPIC)

The writing must be on the wall. That is to say if this is what our previous upbeat folk and instrumentalists are turning out.

Dan Fogelberg a well known southern Californian sounding folksy goes out and collaborates talents with that of Tim Weisberg a well known instrumentalist (flautest). What could come of such?

Fantastic. Though Fogelberg expresses this album as being experimental. I hope not. The combined talents of these two gentlemen is remarkable. Each jumping out of his own nitch and emphasizing his own strengths with that of the next.

It's only fair to say that half the songs on this album are instrumental. If you have never listened to a great deal of instrumentalists you should try this.

As more and more musicians are being discovered, established musicians are gathering talents and experimenting together.

Lets face it there is only so many ways to write a love song, or a song of vengence for that matter. But Fogelberg and Weisberg's step towards the free flowing tune is certainly a pleasant and long waited change.

Hats off to Fogelberg and Weisberg for striking a chord in tune of pop music which seems to have been losing the pop!

BLOODY TOURISTS - IOCC (POLYDOR)

IOCC as usual is very tight. Very innovative. On this new album IOCC doesn't surprise you by any great changes in style. Instead IOCC strives for a slight experiment in song.

For instance on the first cut, the first side, IOCC dabbles with Reggae in the song Dreadlock Holiday.

Eric Stewart and Graham Gouldman are the king pins in this british group. They wrote the majority of songs together on the album and they produced the entire album.

No one can say this group isn't talented. On the first side alone the players must go through about 16 different instruments. This shows the calibre that these musicians are.

If you are a fan of IOCC you will probably enjoy this album as it continues to express their talent as a group.

If you have never really heard IOCC you'll like this album as it is pretty easy going on the most part.

B.C.E.T. SHOULD STICK TO BUILDING BRIDGES

If you were fortunate enough you probably found you did not go to the Building Const. Tech. Cabaret. I've had some good times and some bad but this bash was just the schitz.

If it wasn't the lack of space that bugged you, it was the lack of the opposite sex. That place was so crowded everyone was walking with numbers in their hand waiting for their turn to breathe. When you finally could breathe, you could always look forward to pleasant odors of B.O. and such other sweet smells. The whole function was a dive. The next time you throw something like this try selling 200 tickets (like you should have) not 350.

People tend to get a little upset when they are dancing to a good song and some "yee ha" plants himself all over the sound system.

You end up having a premature end to a song and a very irate D.J. which always makes for a good time.

I'm sure there was a good time had by a minority. You know the type, the ones who get so drunk they can't even find their own faces let alone someone else's. Their the ones who would have a good time dancing to organ music at their mother's funeral.

There is nothing I hate worse, than some short haired, pimple faced ugly little creep running this newspaper down for the fact we don't print his articles. If you wrote them we would have printed them. It's hard to print invisible ink, sir.

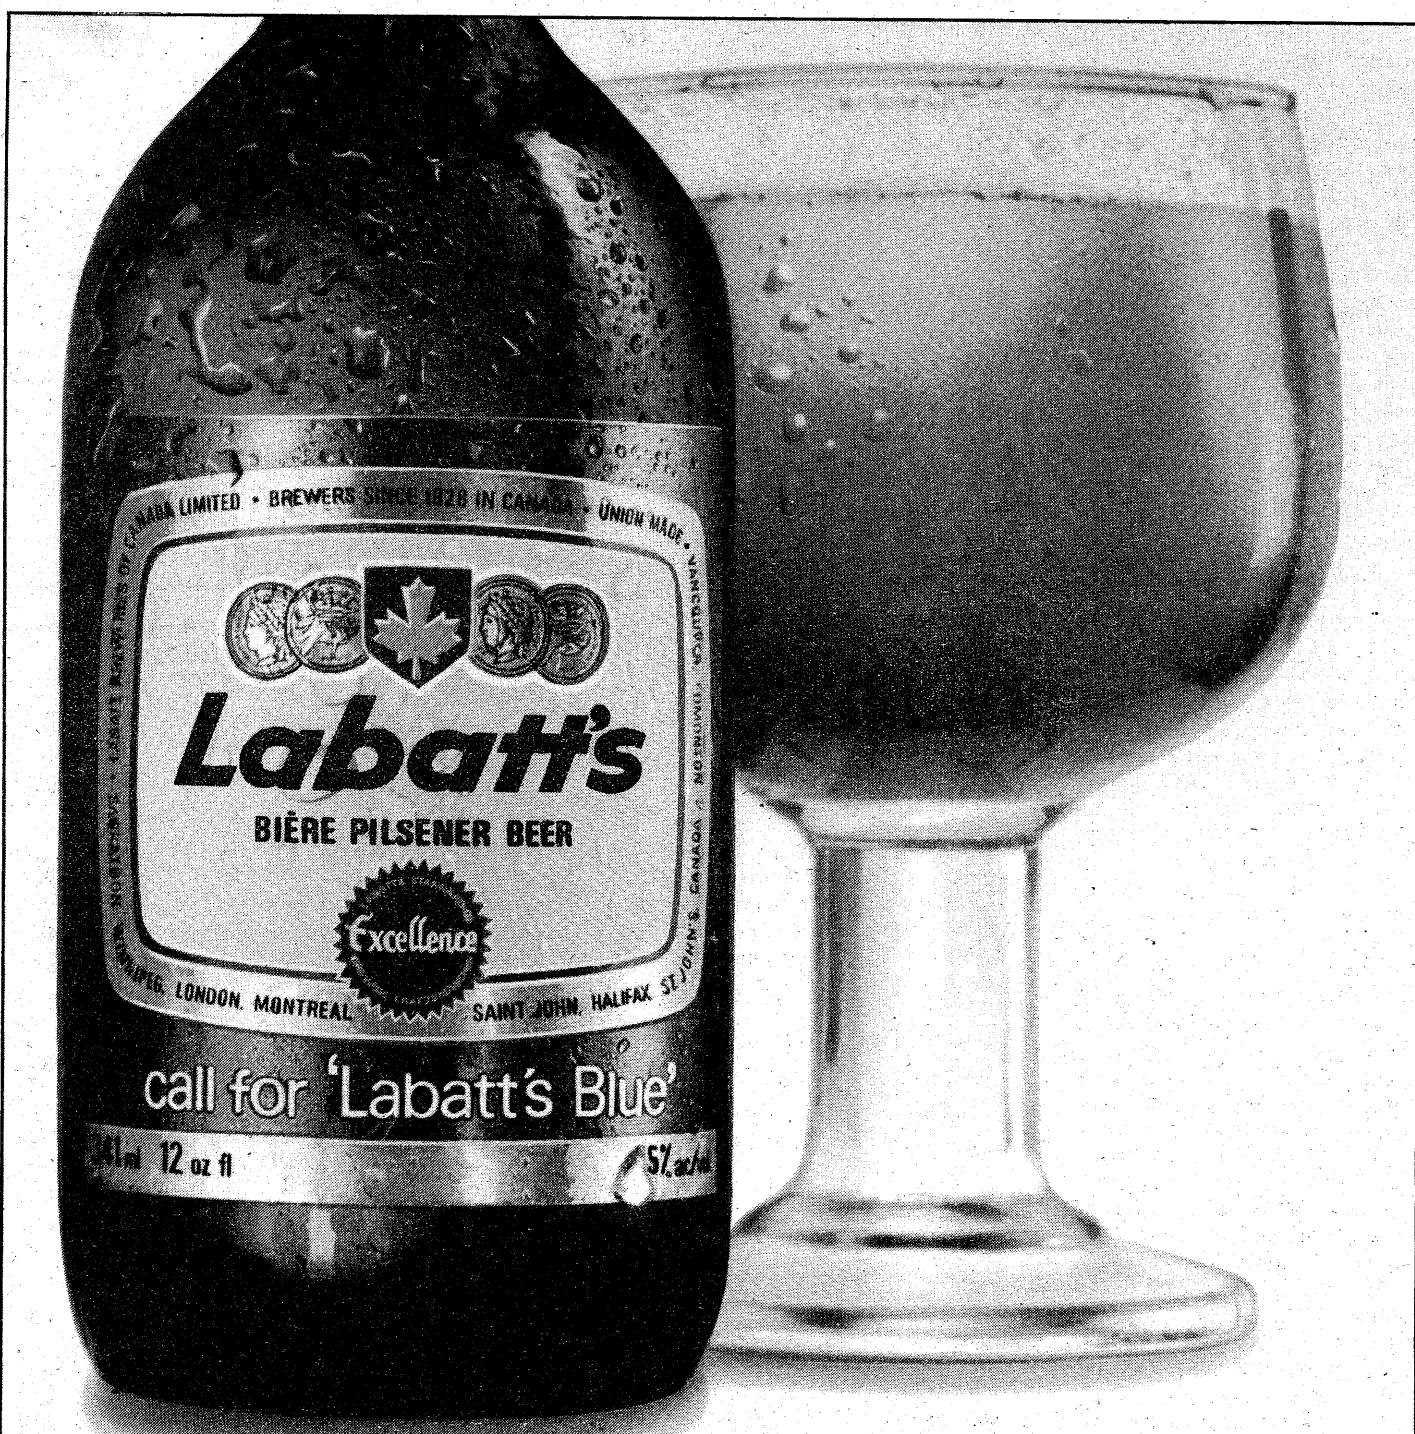

It could have been good, but it wasn't. You guys blew it, you really pulled a bonner. Better luck next time, you need it.

MIX'EM WITH MURRAY

POUSSE CAFES

Of all the different cocktails that one can make, Pousse Cafes are the most eye appealing. They are made from a series of cordials and liquors poured in predetermined pattern so that one floats on the other.

The technique to achieve this layered look is simple but might require a bit of practice. Before starting, it is very important to note that all ingredients are poured in the order given to you by the recipe. Now to float the ingredients slowly pour each liquid over a teaspoon held bottom side up over the glass. This allows for an even spread of ingredient over the one below without mixing. However if you have a glass stirring rod, insert it into the glass and pour the liquid slowly down it. Using the rod will accomplish the same thing.

ANGEL'S DELIGHT

1½ teaspoons grenadine
1½ teaspoons Triple Sec
1½ teaspoons Creme Yvette
1½ teaspoons sweet cream use a Pousse-Cafe glass
(Again remember to pour in order)

FIFTH AVENUE

½ oz Creme di Cacao (dark)
½ oz Apricot Brandy
1 Tablespoon sweet cream
Use a parfait glass

Now the most colorful of all, the:

POUSSE CAFE

1/6 grenadine
1/6 Chartreuse (Yellow)
1/6 Creme Yvette
1/6 Creme de Menthe (White)
1/6 Chautreuse (Green)
1/6 Brandy

These cocktails are all quite sweet so are best served after a good meal.

NAITSA COMMENT

Hi and welcome to midterms, reports, case studies etc. etc. Those instructors never give up do they?! On the serious side however, I know that there are a great deal of students who would like to study and get their work done but are having problems doing so. Why? Because of after hour authorization not being granted. These students (mostly Computer in the Tower Building and those in Plaza II) have paid their money and wish to complete their course load really are put to task. They have to use computers and/or drafting boards etc. to do their assignments/reports and they do take a great deal of time to complete (even to do a rush job may take up to 2 days).

Now after hour authorization is getting from your department head a slip of paper stating that you have work to do after they close up the building. You may be challenged by the commissionaire as to why you are in the building after hours. When he does this you show him your after hours authorization slip and your NAIT I.D. The problem this year is that no one has been able to stay after hours. I have talked to the Administrators and they have responded by requesting the Directors of the Technology Division and the Business and Applied Arts Division to meet with their Department Heads regarding the extension of after - hours administration to Plaza II and the Tower.

I would like all those students concerned to press their Department Heads and make it known that you would like after - hours authorization extended. You are not causing any trouble, you are just trying to get your work done.

If anyone else has had any problems like this regarding their studies, drop down to E133 and let us know, we can try and help, that is part of our job.

Good luck to all of you on your mid - terms; I know we could all use some.

Richard Stewart
NAITSA President

The NAIT NUGGET is of course your paper and should express the thoughts and opinions of its students. You have every right to express yourself through the Nugget and say anything you want about any particular subject you care to, but the rights of the person (persons) you are writing about have the right to defend themselves to you. That is a basic human right.

From now on any defamatory remarks made against individuals or individuals technologies must be signed or they will not be printed in the Nugget.

In other words if you don't believe strongly enough in what you say publicly to admit it publicly then don't expect us to print it.

V.D.

Some straight talk from Julius Schmid

The purpose of this advertisement is to educate you about venereal diseases. If you think this subject is no concern of yours, we'd like to point out that V.D. has reached epidemic proportions in Canada. It cuts across all age, income, social and educational groups. A conservative estimate is that between 500,000 and 1 million Canadians suffer from V.D.

What we're going to do in this advertisement is to tell you in plain, simple language about three of the most prevalent venereal diseases in Canada today. What the symptoms are, the various stages of the diseases and most important of all, what you can do to prevent infection.

Now, if in the course of reading this advertisement, you suspect you might have some of the symptoms described, consult your physician immediately. The treatment is confidential and if caught early enough the disease can be easily treated.

GONORRHEA

This particular disease has become rampant due to possible changing social and sexual attitudes. Despite the most advanced treatment methods medical science has been unable to check the spread of this condition.

STAGE I

Symptoms generally appear from two to six days after exposure to the bacterium Neisseria gonorrhoea, however, up to 20 percent of men and as high as 80 percent of women show no symptoms at all. In the male, the usual signs are pain when urinating and a discharge of pus from the penis. Women are likely to experience burning during urination, a yellowish vaginal discharge, abnormal menstrual bleeding, and swelling or abscess of the Bartholin's glands at the mouth of the vagina. (Symptoms of oral and anal infection may include, in the throat, a burning sensation, and, in the rectum, burning and itching, persistent urge to defecate, and a bloody discharge).

STAGE II

If allowed to progress untreated, gonorrhea can produce severe inflammation of the pelvic organs; blockage of the Fallopian tubes and sperm ducts and thus sterility; gonorrheal rheumatism or arthritis; inflammation of the heart valves; even blindness, particularly in newborn babies.

Up until a few years ago, penicillin was the standard treatment method, but today, several penicillin-resistant strains of the disease have appeared and other, stronger drugs—tetracycline, spectinomycin, ampicillin, amoxicillin—must sometimes be used. Cases in which pelvic inflammatory disease has developed may also require hospitalization.

SYPHILIS

First of all let's make one thing clear: you can't pick up syphilis from lavatory seats or public drinking fountains. Syphilis is transmitted only through sexual intercourse.

STAGE I

About three weeks after sexual relations, a lesion called a chancre (pronounced "shanker") develops at the site—usually the genitals or mouth—and nearby lymph nodes become enlarged. The chancre itself disappears within four to six weeks.

STAGE II

If syphilis is left untreated, more lymph nodes eventually become enlarged and a spotty red rash appears over most of the body. During this stage, fever, weight loss, general weakness, loss of appetite and headaches are typical. After several months, the rash subsides and syphilis enters a latent period lasting months or even years.

STAGE III

Blindness, insanity, impotence, heart disease.

Children born to syphilitic mothers are also infected. The earliest sign is sniffing, after which sores appear on the skin and the mucous membranes, and the disease starts to progress as in adults.

If caught early enough, syphilis can be easily treated with penicillin. Other antibiotics such as tetracycline, erythromycin, or chloramphenicol are also used.

GENITAL HERPES

This sexually transmitted disease was almost unknown until the late sixties. About 95 percent of all cases are due to infection with herpes simplex virus II, a virus affecting only the genital areas; while another 5 percent result from infection of the genital area with herpes simplex I, the cold-sore virus.

STAGE I

In women, tiny, painful blisters resembling oral cold sores appear on the labia, cervix or anus. Symptoms in men include similar lesions on the penis or anus, accompanied by burning urination and watery penile discharge. Fever is a possibility in both sexes. Within a day or so the blisters break, then form round, grey-white patches which generally heal spontaneously within two weeks. This may be the end of the problem, or genital herpes may reappear periodically as cold sores often do.

STAGE II

A possible serious complication: recent studies suggest that herpes II may play a role in the development of cervical cancer. The virus is reported to be present in 36 percent of cervical cancer patients, and parts of the herpes II virus have been extracted from cervical cancer cells. Because of this, women who've been infected should be especially careful to have regular Pap tests.

No totally effective cure for herpes exists. While some gynecologists paint the infected area with gentian violet, others maintain this treatment doesn't work. However, a promising new antiherpes drug, adenine arabinoside (Ara-A) is being tested and may soon be approved for general use.

AND HOW TO PREVENT CONTRACTING THEM.

There are only two methods of avoiding the risk of contracting V.D.

1. Refrain from sexual relations.
2. Use a prophylactic during intercourse.

Use of the prophylactic is the only method officially recognized and accepted as an aid in the prevention of transmission of venereal disease. Besides being a disease preventative, prophylactics are one of the oldest and more effective means of birth control known and the most popular form used by males.

And we'd like to introduce you to six of the best brands of prophylactics that money can buy. They're all made by Julius Schmid. They're all electronically tested to assure quality and dependability. And you can only buy them in drug stores.
