WOOO ----- PEEE !

SHORT AND SWEET

Once again the Nugget makes to the top of the news pole.

Immediately thoughts of scandal and pornographic articles come to mind. What has the illiterate staff of our newspaper done now?

Nothing! Which is also a favorite title given to government workers and NAITSA members.

The problem this time is in the management of the paper. Just as the Nugget was gaining steady legs another key person has left the paper.

Saundra Anderton, Publication Chairman, who has run a taunt ship, decided to leave NAIT due to reasons of her own.

The recent problems with the paper were not the cause of her decision.

Due to NAITSA constitution, you have to be a full time student to hold any student run position. Since she decided to quit NAIT, her position in NAITSA must be relinquished.

Saundra stated that anytime a problem arises, she would be available for consolation.

Speaking for the student body, and the Nugget, I would like to thank Saundra. The Nugget goes on.

EDITOR

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

If the NAIT Nugget is reputed to be the worst school paper in Canada, I would suggest you spend your time more constructively than whipping dead horses.

This whole Dale Henderson thing has dragged on long enough. I, for one, do not expect anyone to come forward and take the blame for anything, so this battle of ink is really incredibly redundant.

When I pick up the school paper I would like to read something other than soapbox spiels by the NAITSA staff. This is true of Mr. Henderson, too.

Please, please -- drop this issue. Let's get on with something interesting to the student body. What we want and expect in our paper is news and entertainment. If we feel like never ending drama, all we have to do is switch on a soap opera on the television.

MELIORIST CALLS FOR investigation

LETHBRIDGE (CUP) -- The staff of the Meliorist, the student paper at the University of Lethbridge, have decided to quit publication of the paper until negotiations with the student union concerning the paper's autonomy are completed.

In a motion passed at a recent staff meeting, the decision was made to call for a commission of investigation to be conducted by Canadian University Press, a news service to which the Meliorist is a member.

Staff member Eugene Plawiuk said the staff members were utterly demoralized by the negotiations with the student union concerning the funding of the paper. Originally the Meliorist was to receive $3.50 per student, but the student union withheld that money in the fall.

The student union decided to hold a referendum on funding but Plawiuk claims they did not consult with the paper's staff over the wording of the motion. So the referendum called for a $2.75 per student grant to the paper. That referendum failed to achieve forum.

Since then Plawiuk says the students' union had unconstitutionally dissolved the Meliorist's publishing board on which there were representatives from both the paper and the student union, along with representatives from the residence association, the support staff and student body at large.

Plawiuk said in the fall there had been a great deal of sentiment for some sort of confrontation with the student union but now he says: "Most of us are just too burnt out". He said on Friday the paper will publish its last issue with a front - page editorial explaining why they are taking this action.

Plawiuk also said the battles with the student union had led to a loss of more than three quarters of the staff since most of them did not have the energy to put out a paper, deal with the actions of the student union and keep up with their school work.

The staff are also asking that the $20,000 that the student union has of the Melior be put in a trust fund to be controlled by CUP. He said the student union is in a deficit position and he was afraid they would spend the money that could be the Meliorist's.

CUP National President John Wilson said in Ottawa the executive would take the Meliorist request under serious consideration, but would seek other ways of mediating the dispute before calling an investigation commission.

NEWS BRIEFS

Lunch ain't Cheap

Due to the overwhelming response to the previous article on Cafeteria food price increases; the Nugget once again follows up on the story with more news on the high cost of eating in the cafeteria.

The search for info into cost dilemma led me to the office of Art Nixon. Mr. Nixon, Director of Division of Business and Applied Arts was kind enough to spill a few beans for us.

Apparently without the cost increase of 20% the cafeteria would of stood to lose about $180,000 over the year. This was after last year's increase of 5%.

The food price increases were decided upon by a committee composed of Nixon, Vice - President of Administration, Jack Stuart, head of food services, Doug Gray, head of food Production, Peter O'neil, and NAIT's acting Bursar, Earnie Sandstron.

Since the NAIT cafeteria isn't government subsidized like the University and college cafeterias, the total income depends on you, the customer.

The annual budget for the four NAIT cafeterias (Plaza II, Alberta Vocational Centre, Patricia Campus, and the main campus) is about $1,200,000.

Nixon said "We are very concerned about pricing the food beyond an affordable range for the students. He also stated the students haven't been eating less in the cafeteria since the price increases went into effect.

All facts point towards pressure on the government to subsidize the cafeteria will be the only way prices will be cut. So if you don't feel like fighting the government or paying the high price of eating, drop by the Nugget. We have a large supply of newspaper to wrap your lunch in.

athletes sue university for poor education

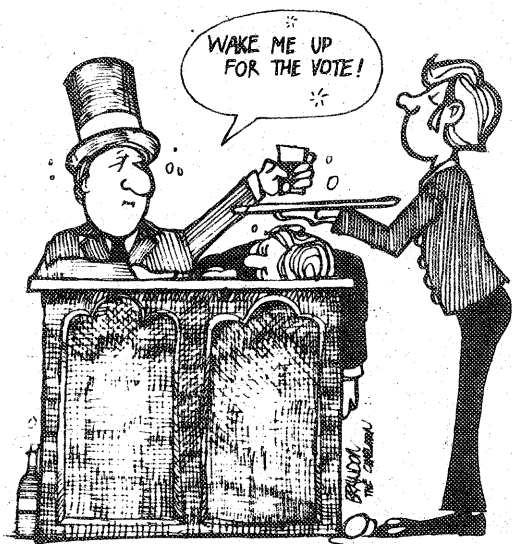

LOS ANGELES (ZNS - CUP) -- Eight black college athletes -- in what is expected to be a precedent - setting case -- have filed a multi - million dollar suit against the California state University system, alleging they did not receive the education that was promised them.

The athletes, who attended California State University at Los Angeles during the early 1970's, allege they were lured into that university's athletic program on the promises of being fully educated and awarded college degrees.

One of the eight, basketball player Dwight Slaughter, claims he was promised tutors, counselors and a complete educational package leading to a four - year degree in criminology.

Slaughter tells pacific news service that, instead, he and other athletes were encouraged by their coaches and advisors to take such "toughies" as beginning baseball, badminton, rugby, golf, backpacking, and water polo.

When his four years of college eligibility were exhausted, Slaughter says, he was denied a degree. He and the others are suing for a loss of education.

Drives a Wild Crowd Back to the Country

When I first heard the down to earth country sounds of the pedal steel and the whine of the old fiddle. I knew that this evening would be dynamite.

Lonestar Cattle Company drove everybody back to the country and the country is where we all come from.

"Ho - down 79" was the best thing that ever happened to NAIT. I'm sure there are over 1,000 people that will agree with me. Especially the ones that took a trip to "yah hoo land" that evening. They all made for a rowdy crowd.

The Red Barn played perfect hosts. The place added the atmosphere and mood that was desperately needed for the evenings success.

There is only one thing I fail to understand. How could Perry Hendricks (Activities Chairman) organize something this good? He must have learned from all his mistakes.

DISCO DUCKS DISABLED IN DROVES

(ZNS - CUP) -- The widespread popularity of disco dancing is allegedly resulting in a rash of ailments which are disabling thousands of disco patrons.

A growing number of podiatrists have expressed concern about the possibility of permanent foot damage suffered by women who frequent discos.

Dear Auntie Wonders:

I am 16 years old and have a mother who is the oldest nag in the world. She worries about who I am seeing, what I wear, what I eat, and what soap I use when I shower. She's 94 years old! How do I control the old bat?

Ms. Fed Up

Dear Mischiff:

How could you talk about someone like that. She's old, wise, and loves you dearly. You can see she cares very deeply.

If she gives you anymore hassles, shoot the old bag. She's outlived herself anyway!

Dear Auntie Wonders:

MONZONERA K. SCOPE -- Phil Monzonera

This is an album for all you soft rock lovers.

There's a heavy backbeat to almost everything on this one but it's not at all overbearing. It's definitely original though.

A couple of cuts are soft and easy going but its all definitely rock -- not even close to disco.

There are vocals but they aren't the main part of the album -- the music is. Music and vocals blend well together when combined. This one is definitely a worth while investment.

Monzonera -- courtesy of Kellys Stereo City, Kingsway Garden Mall.

According to those foot specialists, many women run the risk of chronic foot problems because they insist on wearing platform shoes or spiked heels while dancing.

Other medical authorities have expressed concern about the possibility of hearing damage by disco - goers because of the excessive noise levels at many clubs. Disco D - J's as well as patrons have suffered long - term hearing loss, an ailment widely referred to as "disco ear".

Now, some plastic surgeons claim their business is on the upswing because of an alleged fondness for cocaine among a sizeable minority of disco enthusiasts. Billboard magazine claims that a number of plastic surgeons are encountering cases of what might be called "disco nose". Some coke sniffers are allegedly requiring plastic surgery to correct nasal problems caused by excessive use of the drug.

The latest medical problem to crop up stems from the growing popularity of disco roller-skating. One roller rink owner in Ottawa, recently found it necessary to spend $2,500 on first aid equipment to treat cases of "disco butt", and other skating-related injuries.

FEELINGS

Ever feel the touch of a small baby's hand?
Did you ever feel the tears on your cheek?
Have you ever seen the warmth in someones eyes,
The glow of a candle or a bubbling creek?

Ever see a friend shrivel and die?
Did you ever feel like life was terminal?
Have you ever felt like crying out,
So useless or like giving up?

Ever see the sun rise so early?
Did you ever feel so good?
Have you ever wanted to shout hurray,
Jump high or laugh till you cry?

Ever want to help but couldn't?
Did you ever reach out but were forgotten?
Have you ever felt so down,
So blue and not wanted?

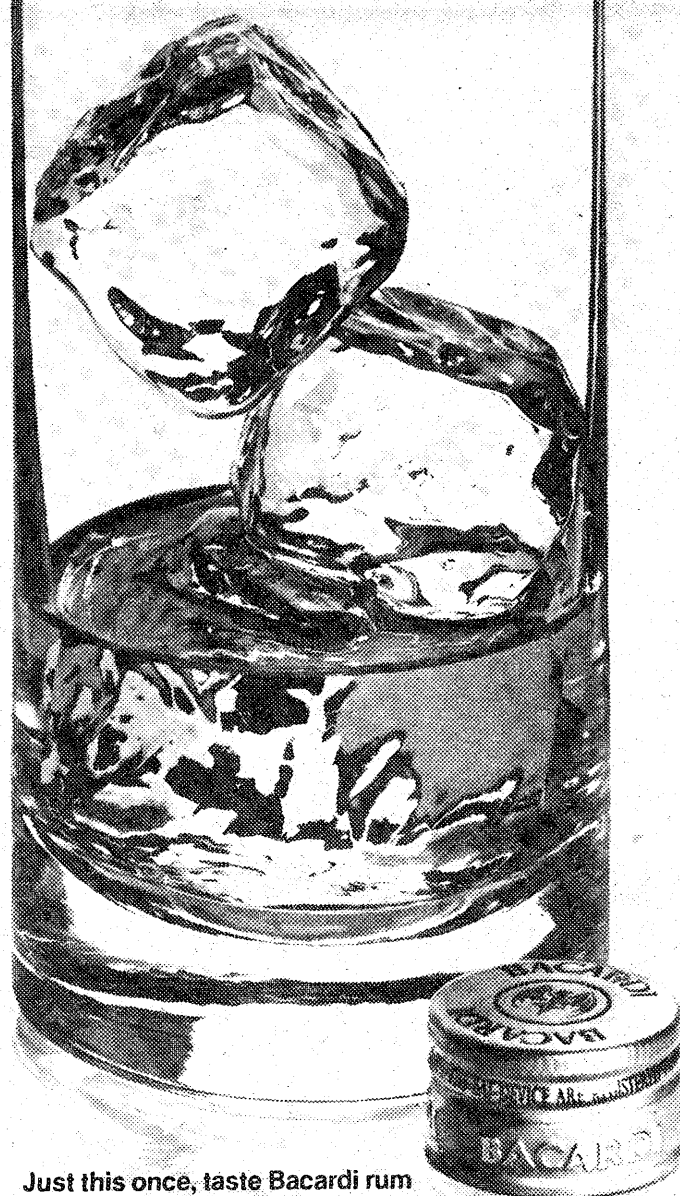

Ever feel the strength of a friend?
Did you ever see the care in someone's eyes?
Have you ever shared a moment,
A smile or good times?

Ever want to stay but left anyway?
Did you ever have a dream come true?
Have you ever seen a tear cried for happiness,
For sadness, for you?

I have.

SPORTS

NAIT V SAIT

EVERYBODY HAD FUN.

Sometimes it wasn't all fun.

This past week - end the first half of the traditional contest took place in the NAIT gymnasium and pool as well as the games room. The intra - mural champions for each campus in inter - tube water polo (co-ed), five on five basketball (men and women), bowling and the various title holders in badminton all had a chance to demonstrate why they were number one.

The challenge started with badminton and NAIT fared well in close contests with its arch rival SAIT. In the mens competition, NAIT won 9 games to 7, while the ladies lost 9 games to 5 with two ties. The mixed doubles played four contests with NAIT out winning SAIT 3 games to 1.

In basketball it was a different story as SAIT won both the men and women's games. The ladies were blown away in the first half 16 - 3 but managed to regroup and defeated SAIT 16 - 12 in the second half but it wasn't enough and they lost 28 - 19.

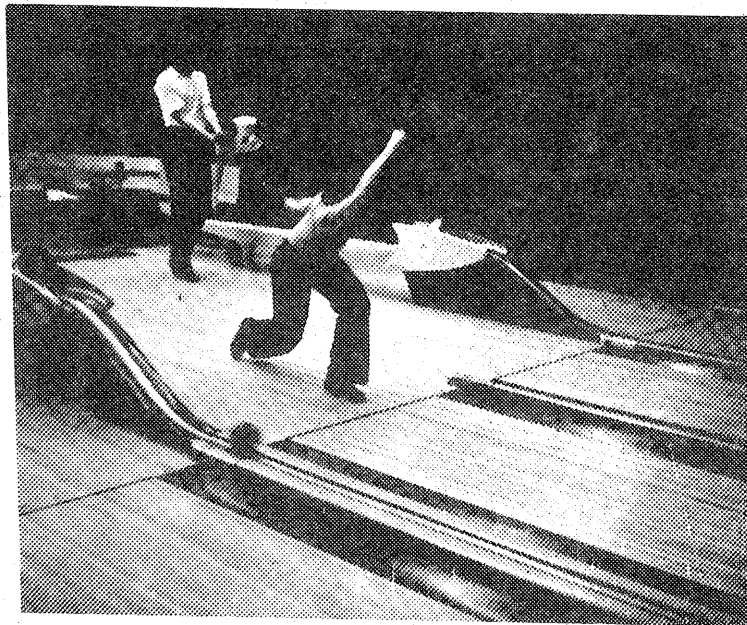

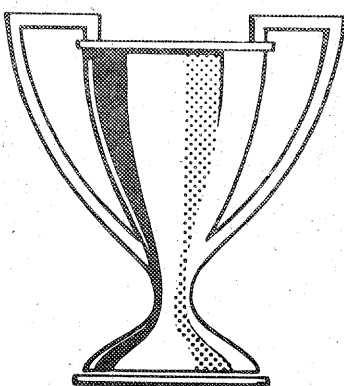

The mens game had to be one of the most entertaining games I have seen in a long while with both teams showing both skill and aggressive play. Tied 33 - 33 at the half, NAIT went on to establish a six point lead but in the final minute of play they fell apart and lost a heartbreaker 54 - 53.

The NAIT bowling team rolled over their opponents with the men winning by 850 pins and the women by 400. It looks at though they might have spared their opponents but took the opportunity to strike them down. (Couldn't pass up the puns...sorry).

The inter - tube water polo team sent out a tidal wave and drowned SAIT. It got to the point where SAIT just forgot competition and enjoyed the water.

After it was all over, everyone took part in a post challenge feast of pizza and pool in the games room. I think it was here that the whole essence of the challenge was demonstrated. To win would be nice but to just do your best and enjoy and have fun is what it's all about.

Irwin Strifler, organizer for the event, said he was not only proud of the calibre of the play but the way everyone conducted themselves. "They demonstrated why they were champions by the class they showed as people." I can assure you that it was a lot of fun and everyone there can attest to that. Thank - you's go out to all those who helped behind the scenes : Karen, Lawreen, Pat, Margaret, Dale, Randy, etc...

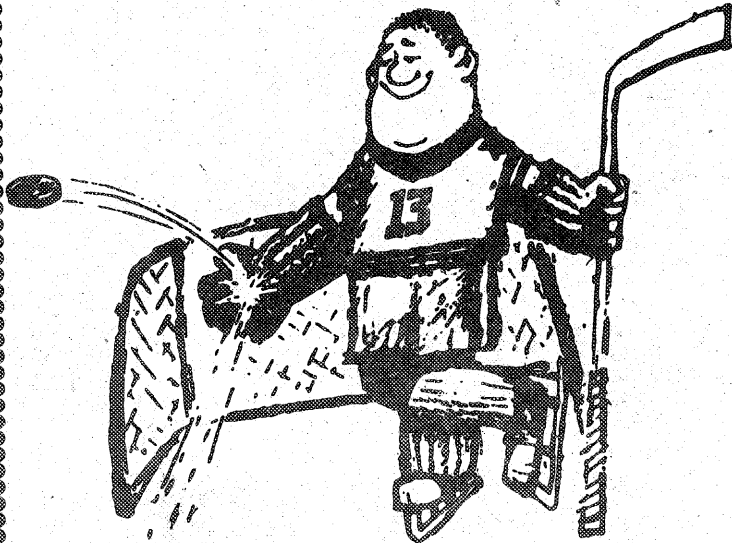

We bowled them over.

LOOK IN HIS GLORY.

OOKS SPLIT AGAIN

It seems as though when the hockey team has two games back to back they end up splitting them and this past week - end was no different.

On Friday night, the Oaks stepped into Mount Royal and exploded for a 14 - 2 victory with eight goals in the second period. The start of the evening was Peter Skrabyk who dented the mesh five times. Adding to the total were Goodfellow with a pair and Stiles, Miller, McDonald, Ochwar, Szoke, Reid, and Mekietyshyn all with singletons.

On Saturday, the Oaks played SAIT and played well but unfortunately lost 5 - 4. Again Skrabyk scored a pair with Miller and Stiles scoring one each. The problem occurred in the first period when NAIT fell behind and just couldn't catch up.

One of the most frustrating things for me when watching the Oaks, is knowing the talent that they do have but don't demonstrate at times. The word is inconsistency. In my opinion, the Oaks can beat any team in this league if they want to play and play consistently. In these past two games they have shown that perhaps they are finally getting it together. I hope so. The next home games will be this weekend when Mount Royal arrives Friday and SAIT on Saturday to play the Oaks. GAME TIME 8 pm.

SMILE EVERYBODY

BASKETBALL

On Jan. 19, the NAIT mens and womens basketball teams travelled south to play the Medicine Hat Antelopes and Kudas. The results were not very pleasing. The mens team lost a very close game to the Antelopes 59 - 55. The NAIT team was playing catch up ball through most of the game and almost pulled it out. High scorers for NAIT were Wayne Squires and Gene Gerwing with 11 each and Uldis Celenskis and Dough Omnchuski with 8 each.

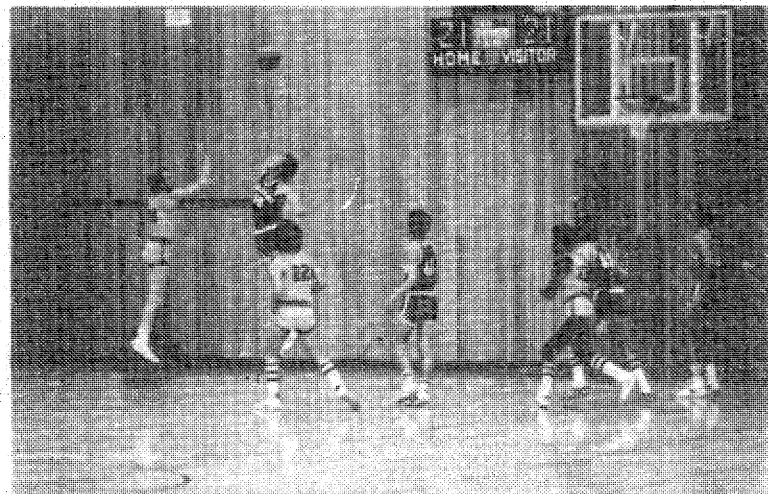

In the girls game, the Ookchicks (without two key players) were blown out of the court 65 - 24 by the Kudas. Dallas Hurlburt put in 8 points in the losing cause.

The next day the two tired NAIT teams played against two fast paced Lethbridge teams. The men lost 93 - 56 in a vain effort. High scorers were Rick Davidson with 11, Dave Neil and Uldis Celenski with 8 each. The Ookchicks also suffered a loss to the Lethbridge girls team, the Kodiettes, the score being 71 - 44. High scorers for the Ookchicks were Jo Rienbold with 10 points, Cindy Oleskiw with 9 and Dallas Hurlburt with 8 points.

Wednesday, Jan. 3, was also a miserable day for both basketball teams as they were up against the Camrose Vikings and Vikettes.

The Ookchicks played a well balanced game and didn't deserve to lose. The game was closer than the 55 - 45 score indicates but it was in favor of Camrose. The guns for the Ookchicks are Jo Rienbold and Joan Powers with 13 points each, Darlene Schroeder with 11, Dallas Hurlburt with 10 and Denise Young with 8.

The NAIT mens team however stunk the place out losing 72 - 58 to the Vikings. It was a pretty close game to the half with Camrose leading 31 - 26. In the second half that score ballooned to a twelve point lead for the Viking squad. NAIT's high point getters were Uldis Celenski with 10 and Wayne Squires with 8.

so COME OU AND SUPPORT THE OOKS & OOKCHICKS. THEY DO APPRECIATE IT.

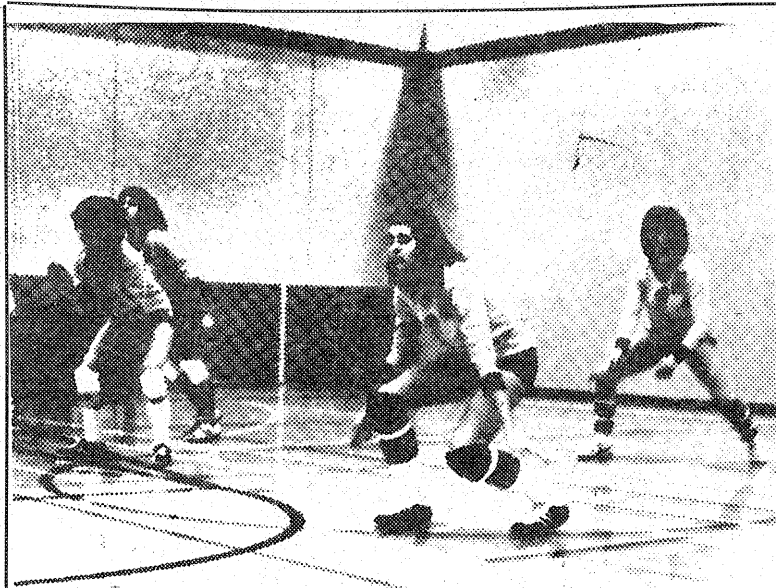

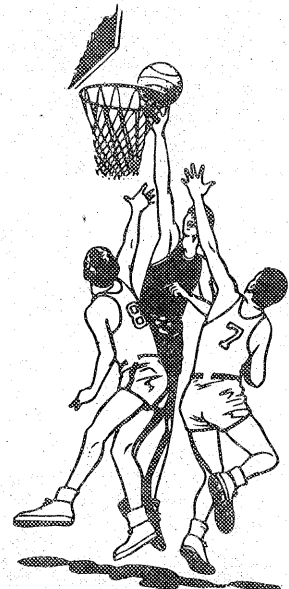

MOMENT OF GLORY

Last Friday, the two teams travelled to Red Deer to play the Red Deer Kings and Queens.

The NAIT Ookchicks played a well balanced pass and shoot game against Red Deer and won quite handily 48 - 36. Jo Reinbolt led the squad with 11 points, Cindy Oleskiw and Denise Young contributed 9 each with Charlene Schroder popping in 8 points.

The mens team played a good game as well with Ron Kelly and Gene Gerwing holding the league's leading scorer, Phil Webb (game avg. 26 point) to a scant 11 points. The high scoring Ookpicks were led by Dave "Spiderman" Neil with 16 points, Wayne Squires with 14, Ken Plumb with 12 and Uldis Celenski contributing 10.

This Friday, the NAIT teams go against Mount Royal with the Ookchicks starting at 6 pm and the men at 8. Next Wednesday, the basketball squads are off to Millwoods to play their cross-town rivals from Grant McEwen. These should be exciting games

READY

volleyball team hangs on

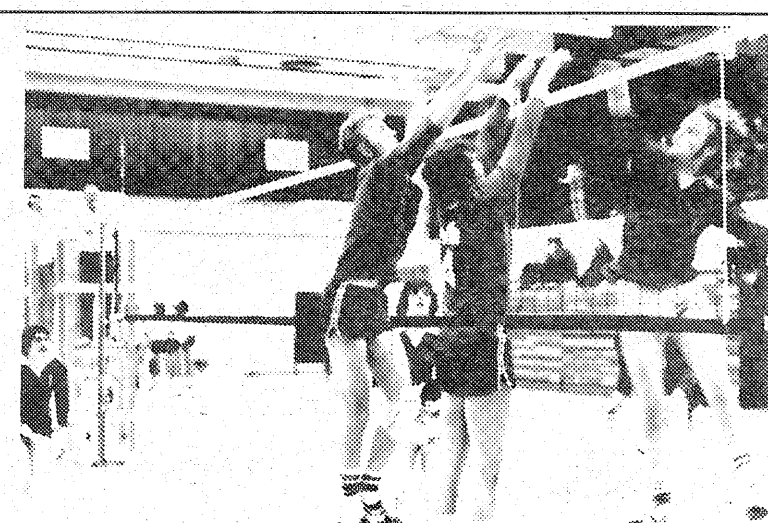

On Jan. 19, and 20, the NAIT Volleyball teams travelled to Red Deer College to take part in a tournament with Red Deer, Olds, Mount Royal, SAIT, Lethbridge, and Medicine Hat.

In the womens action the ladies defeated both Olds and Lethbridge in three straight games. Unfortunately, they lost to Medicine Hat, Mount Royal, and SAIT. for an over - all record in the tournament of 2 wins and 3 losses.

The coaching staff stated that the team played well and were rolling but then went cold. It was one of those things that do unfortunately happen. At present the ladies are tied for second in the North Division and stand a very good chance to make the playoffs.

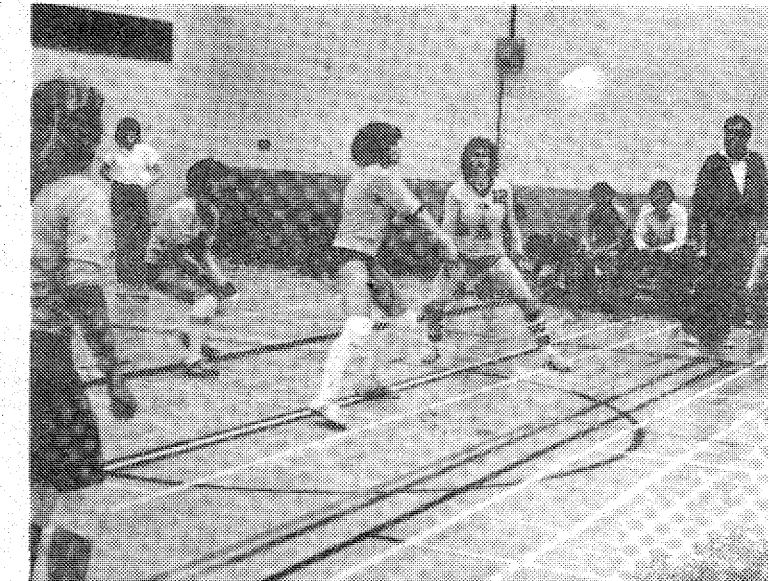

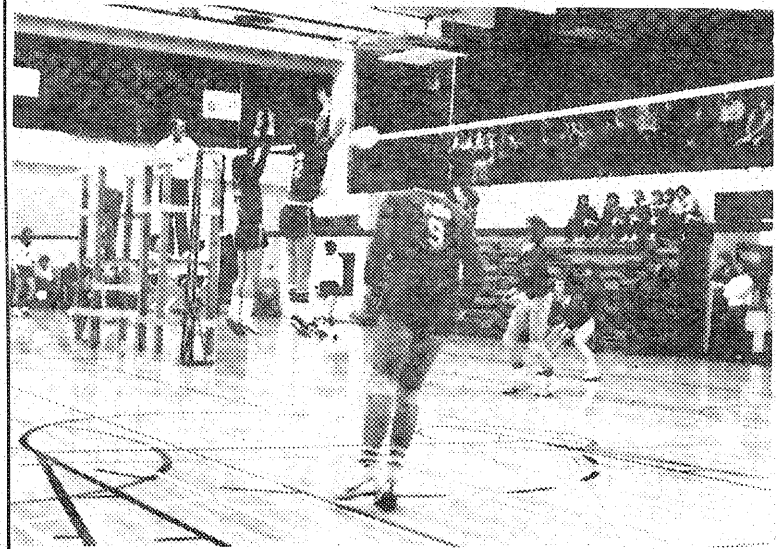

I wish I could write something different but the men also had the same streak of luck as their ladies team. They came out and defeated Lethbridge and SAIT while losing to Mount Royal, Olds, and Medicine Hat. However, they still have managed to maintain their first place standing in the North Division and it looks like they will be in the playoffs.

The next HOME GAME for the Volleyball squads will be on Mon., Feb. 5 as they tangle with their cross - town rivals Grant McEwen. The women begin play at 7 pm in the gym with the mens team playing afterwards.

Good Play!

This past week - end, the NAIT Bowling team held a small tournament with SAIT and Grant McEwen as a warm up to the ACAC championships which will be held in Calgary Feb. 8 - 10. It looks as though the NAIT team has something to say about that as they won both the mens and ladies competitions and placed second in the mixed team contests.

2. SAIT -- 3933

Civil drowns BCET

The men's Civil waterpolo team put together two consecutive victories of 9 - 2 and 5 - 3 to defeat BCET for the Men's Intramural Waterpolo Championship.

In the first game Civil dominated the game and worked over the BCET team 9 - 2.

BCET's team had a few people who were trying to stay off the bottom of the pool.

The second game was much closer but again Civil with its accurate shooting managed to edge a much improved BCET team 5 - 3 to take the two game total goal series 14 - 5. Congratulations to Civil and to BCET.

Nugget

badminton team wins second tournament

This past Sunday, NAIT hosted a mini ACAC Badminton tournament with SAIT, Red Deer, Mount Royal, Camrose, Olds, and Grant McEwen competing. The NAIT team again placed high enough in the round robin tournament to win it all. Those who played well to win were:

Ladies Singles -- Rita Rusich (Arch) winner

Mens Singles -- Valen Palm tied for second, SAIT won top honors

Ladies Doubles -- Chris Bower (Court Reporting) and Jackie Hailes (Computers) went undefeated and were number one

Mens Doubles -- Al Uniat (Computers) and Perry Pedin (Air Cond.) tied for first with the team from SAIT

Mixed Doubles -- Betty Lamb (Bio - Sci) and Steve MacMillen (Electrical Eng.) placed third with Red Deer taking the honors.

Now that they have won the two tournaments that they have participated in, they will now travel to Calgary on the Feb. 8 - 10 week - end to determine the ACAC championship. It looks as though the NAIT team has to be the favorite to take it all since they have clearly demonstrated their strength to date. GOOD LUCK TO YOU ALL.

Forestry edges Bio - Sci for titles

Last Thursday the Intramural Women's 5 on 5 Basketball championship was decided.

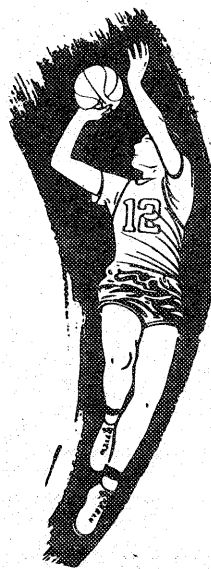

It pitted Forestry against Bio - Science and both teams were evenly matched in talent, and the number of fans they brought (there were more than any of the Inter - collegiate games!).

The play was constantly up and down the court as each team put everything they had into it. Desire made up for lack of skill at times but that's what intramurals are all about.

As the buzzer sounded to end the game the women from Forestry were the winners 20 - 18.

A tip of the hat goes to the Bio - Sci ladies who played an excellent game.

WHAT KIND OF WOMAN BUYS PROPHYLACTICS?

Today's kind of woman.

Because there's no longer any old fashioned prudery or stigma attached to women buying what was once an exclusive male purchase. At one time prophylactics were hidden from view in drug stores and had to be specifically asked for by the customer. It was often a furtive and embarrassing experience. But not any more. Today, prophylactics are on display right beside the vitamins and cold remedies. And there's nothing tacky or smutty about purchasing them.

It's just a simple everyday transaction that more and more women are engaging in; for a lot of good reasons.

Because today, a woman is more aware, concerned and knowledgeable about her body than ever before.

She realizes that birth control is something that should not be her responsibility alone.

And she is aware of the controversy surrounding the pill.

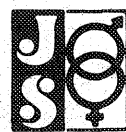

That's why more and more women are choosing prophylactics as a trusted and reliable alternative method of contraception.

Also, apart from birth control, use of the prophylactic is the only method officially recognized and accepted as an aid in the prevention of transmission of venereal disease.

At Julius Schmid we sell the most popular brands of prophylactics in Canada. They're the brands most women choose; because they are all electronically tested to assure dependability and quality.

And you can only buy them in Drug Stores.
