Volume 11 Issue 34

ARE YOU SAVING OR INVESTING?

At this point, the majority of our bankrolls which have been created throughout the summer are now on the decrease, a depressing fact indeed.

An average savings account will actually lose you money considering the average savings account is paying 10½% and the rate of inflation hits over 8.4% yearly when the interest is taxable income. Are you living on a credit card?

Today, nearly $35,765 is owed on outstanding consumer credit in Canada. Apart from consumer credit there is the problem of the various levels of government having created debt on our behalf. Currently the national debt, per capita, is approximately $1850.00 and within the next four years that figure is projected to increase to $4250.00 for every man, woman and child in Canada. A family of five will have borrowed on its behalf $21,250.00 in 1980. At current bank borrowing rates of nearly 15% the servicing of this debt is $3,137.50 per year. That is, the amount of money each household has to pay just to cover the interest incurred by our federal government on our behalf.

In addition to the debt dilemma, most tax payers overpay their income taxes to our federal and provincial governments because they do not consult with a variety of tax specialists to take advantage of the myriad of tax laws available to them as incentives for investment. As an example, income earned from interest of money placed on deposit is taxable at the same rates as your regular income while interest (Dividends) earned from investing the money in the stock (Shares) of Canadian companies is taxed at only a fraction of the tax rate you pay on your regular income. How many people know this?

Looks like a losing battle eh? Well it's not. By knowing what is available, you may get almost double your worth out of our decreasing dollar.

Instead of letting inflation beat you as you are trying to make your money last till next summer, invest. Please don't be scared off by the word. It may be simpler than you thought. If you are ultra conservative and are only concerned with staying even with inflation apply your excess savings or windfall money into something that doesn't leave you at the mercy of inflation. Simple savings certificates may be bought at most banks, trust companies, or credit unions, available from 340 days to 20 years with interest rates increasing the longer you tie up your money. (Some certificates are redeemable prior to maturity at a percentage of the interest rate) Interest rates vary from

One article in the last edition of the Nugget dealt with the assets of women being in the business world.

It seems that more and more, women are giving men a run for their "Money". Now in the social world, women are as the expression goes, catching men "with their pants down."

Hen parties as we know them today may be on their way out. Women are following and perhaps enjoying the honoured male tradition of stag parties. Women in Minneapolis Minnesota can hire Gidden Productions, which provides "Entertainment" for women only. For the viewer's pleasure Mike WINEBRENNER will jump naked out of a cake, and his business partner Ted Gaertner, will perform a strip-tease. The business association between Winebrenner and Gaertner, both 22 year old men; initiated when they were asked by a friend to help put on a modern party for a friend of hers who was leaving town. "At our first gig there were almost 200 women" said Winebrenner. "We didn't really know what to do."

These two young men were excellent dancers and were an instant success. They've been in demand ever since their first debut.

It's funny, women have ignored all but the less noticed picture poised women in birthday suits on calendars, magazines and priceless pieces of art, all through the once man dominated world. Now that women are also indulging in sizing up the opposite sex's anatomy through their own calendars, magazines, etc, the male response is not one of approval.

The tables are turning around so quickly that perhaps the next generations will have their own social taboos in the sexes struggle. Daddy will say to son or he is leaving with his date who picked him up in her hot car. "Mind your P's & Q's son, don't get in any corners, you don't want to lose your respect now".

In fact when the issue of male entertainment for woman's party was brought up in the cafeteria, the male response from the table was somewhat like "Oh, you're kidding". I guess that's not what nice boys do.

place to place therefore, phone calls with all considerations in mind will clear up any misunderstanding. Try them. You'd be surprised how cooperative places like this can be! You may break even if you apply your money to money market funds. The theory here is that small amounts, ranging from $1,000.00 to $10,000.00 may be pooled together and invested in money market funds paying a high interest rate that normally would be beyond the reach of most of us. Caution must be exercised here for there are many considerations including management fees, non-fixed interest rates, and many more unforeseen factors which must be looked after by your carefully selected money managers group. Those of you who are very ambitious, and want to grow faster than inflation, may get into real estate, stocks, collectables, and gold and silver by constant research and observation. A great thing to consider for high growth investment.

Be a smart consumer. Buy in bulk, be a do-it-yourselfer when it comes to services, (You can often save money by buying items that require more effort from you). Don't fall into the trap of store displays triggering your impulse to buy, make a sensible list before you go shopping and perhaps a budget, and stick to it! con't pg 3

It's here. It's now. The Administrative Management Society is launching all kinds of activities. We've got plush dinners at the Plaza Hotel, ski trips to Jasper, informative post grad speakers and more. We want to help you round out your business education. Come down to T-601 during common hour and catch a piece of the action.

Last week, during common hour, we were privileged to have Brenda Sallis, Personnel Officer of Reed Shaw Stenhouse, Insurance Brokers in Edmonton speak to us. After years of study at the University of Alberta, Brenda enrolled at Nait in Business Administration. She completed 2nd year Administrative Management receiving the highest academic standing, 1977. Mrs. Sallis gave us an overview of Nait's Preparation for the business field. Her ideas on specialization in the 2nd year and choosing the right career were especially helpful.

Thank you Brenda for your time and ideas. AMS will only be having one speaker a month so come out and catch some pointers before the next eight months pass you by.

The business people in North America started AMS and pay a large yearly fee for their affiliation with the Society. As a student, we have the privilege of joining their college chapter for only $10.00. Rubbing shoulders with some of the status figures in Edmonton is your prerogative at our dinner meetings, given the second Wednesday of each month. During the early part of the new year you'll be given a chance to spend a day with a member of the senior chapter of AMS. Certain aspects of business life can be checked out first hand when you shadow an Edmonton business person through their day's activities. If you like people interaction come down to T-603A and join in.

AMS needs student input in many different areas. Why not take advantage of membership with our society and put your spare time to good use as you help run a business organization. Can you think of any topics in the business area you would like to hear discussed? Give us the topic and we'll locate a speaker.

Any first year members who haven't picked up certificates and AMS pins can do so at T-603A at posted hours. REMINDER: Fees for dinners at the Plaza Hotel must be received no later than the first Wednesday of each month. October 10th at 5:15 p.m. features October's monthly dinner meeting.

controlling your money is to see, in black and white, your financial status. You'll be appalled at the actual figures. (i.e. How much you spend on entertainment alone). In order to beat inflation by investing, you must know how to save.

Treat yourself, not the government. Do you know that you may claim certain medical expenses, costs of clothes on the job, automobile expenses, Charitable contributions, and income averaging? I could go on and on, however, most vital to our purpose is the fact that you can deduct education expenses if your employer requires you to maintain or improve your skills at your present job. Not only are tuition costs deductible, but transportation to and from school as well as room and board if it is necessary to spend the night away from home. It is important to realize that these and other tax benefits exist, however, careful consideration of the pamphlet mailed to you along with income tax forms is a must to see if in fact you qualify. Tax laws do not exist for big businesses nor for the wheeler-dealers, but for you and me. Check them out.

One of man's greatest weaknesses is that of travel through life, he travels more by hope and expectation of luck than by logic and hard reality. For example, how many people stop to calculate the number of hours that they will spend working during their life? Some quick arithmetic shows that if a person begins work at age 25 and ends at age 65 he will have worked for 40 years which represents approximately 2000 hours per year or 80,000 hours in a life time.

MOONIES RECRUITING AT U of C

I have received four calls in the past week telling me that Moonies are recruiting on the University of Calgary campus.

The usual modus operandi is for three or four of them to approach a lonely student and engage their victim in conversation. They fairly exude "love" and understanding, and no matter what a student says is bothering him, he gets deep sympathy from his new friends, who claim to have gone through the same turmoil before they found love and peace and a life full of meaning.

It is rare that the Unification "Church," or its leader, Sun Myung Moon, are mentioned for the first few days until the victim has been lured to indoctrination meetings.

Eventually, of course, he is persuaded that Moon is the messiah sent by God to fix all the things Jesus messed up and to save the world.

After undergoing sophisticated brainwashing techniques, recruits are ordered to drop out of school and then they are put onto the street to beg of sell nuts and candy for up to 18 hours a day, the proceeds of which are sent to Moon and the other church leaders.

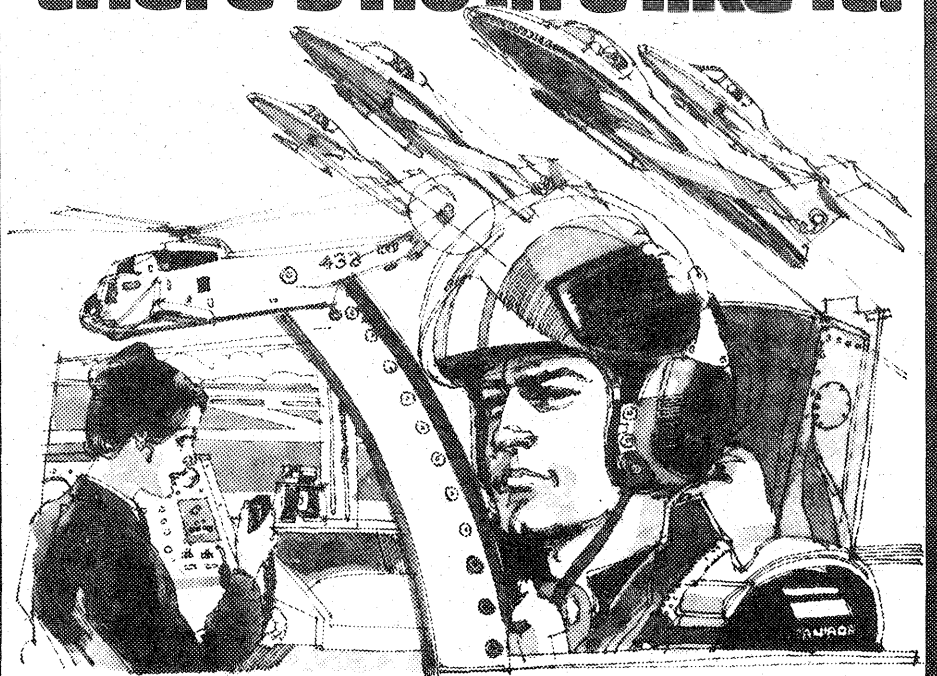

On the assumption that every person is thrifty enough to save say 20% of all wages earned, being approximately $1.00 out of every $5.00, then it's clear that if such a savings conscious frugal person did that all his life, never took holidays, the best he could do is save enough money (ignoring inflation) to have a personal net value, at the end of his life's work, of $80,000.00 to $100,000.00. That by today's values, is only enough to pay for a modest house upon retirement. The fundamental question, therefore, we should ask ourselves when starting out in our careers or vocations, is whether this state of affairs is acceptable to us. Obviously, for most of us, this is not acceptable. Working one's entire life to have only a humble little home to retire in is not sufficient. When one thinks through this whole process it becomes clear that those beginning on life's earning trail must address their minds to more than savings for retirement purposes. They must quickly learn about participating in the countries productivity through investments. This will enable individuals to not only benefit from dividends, which are taxed at lower rates than interest earned from savings, but take advantage of capital gains of the stocks purchased as they rise with increased productivity with automatic offsets for inflation.

The blunt truth is that under high inflationary conditions a person who relies entirely on savings is substantially worse off than a person who relies on investment.

In today's times, your best bet appears to be, saving to invest - not savings to keep on saving! Kelly Polanski

SMARTIES ROCK THE PRINCESS

The normally staid Princess Theatre was treated to a dose of new wave music last Friday night when the Smarties, a local band, took the stage for a midnight concert.

The theatre was filled to capacity with an assortment of oddly-dressed "punks" wearing white sneakers, sunglasses and skin-tight pants. The crowd inside was rowdy, but the people standing outside who arrived too late to be admitted were even rowdier. Finally Edmonton's finest arrived on the scene and sent everyone on their way.

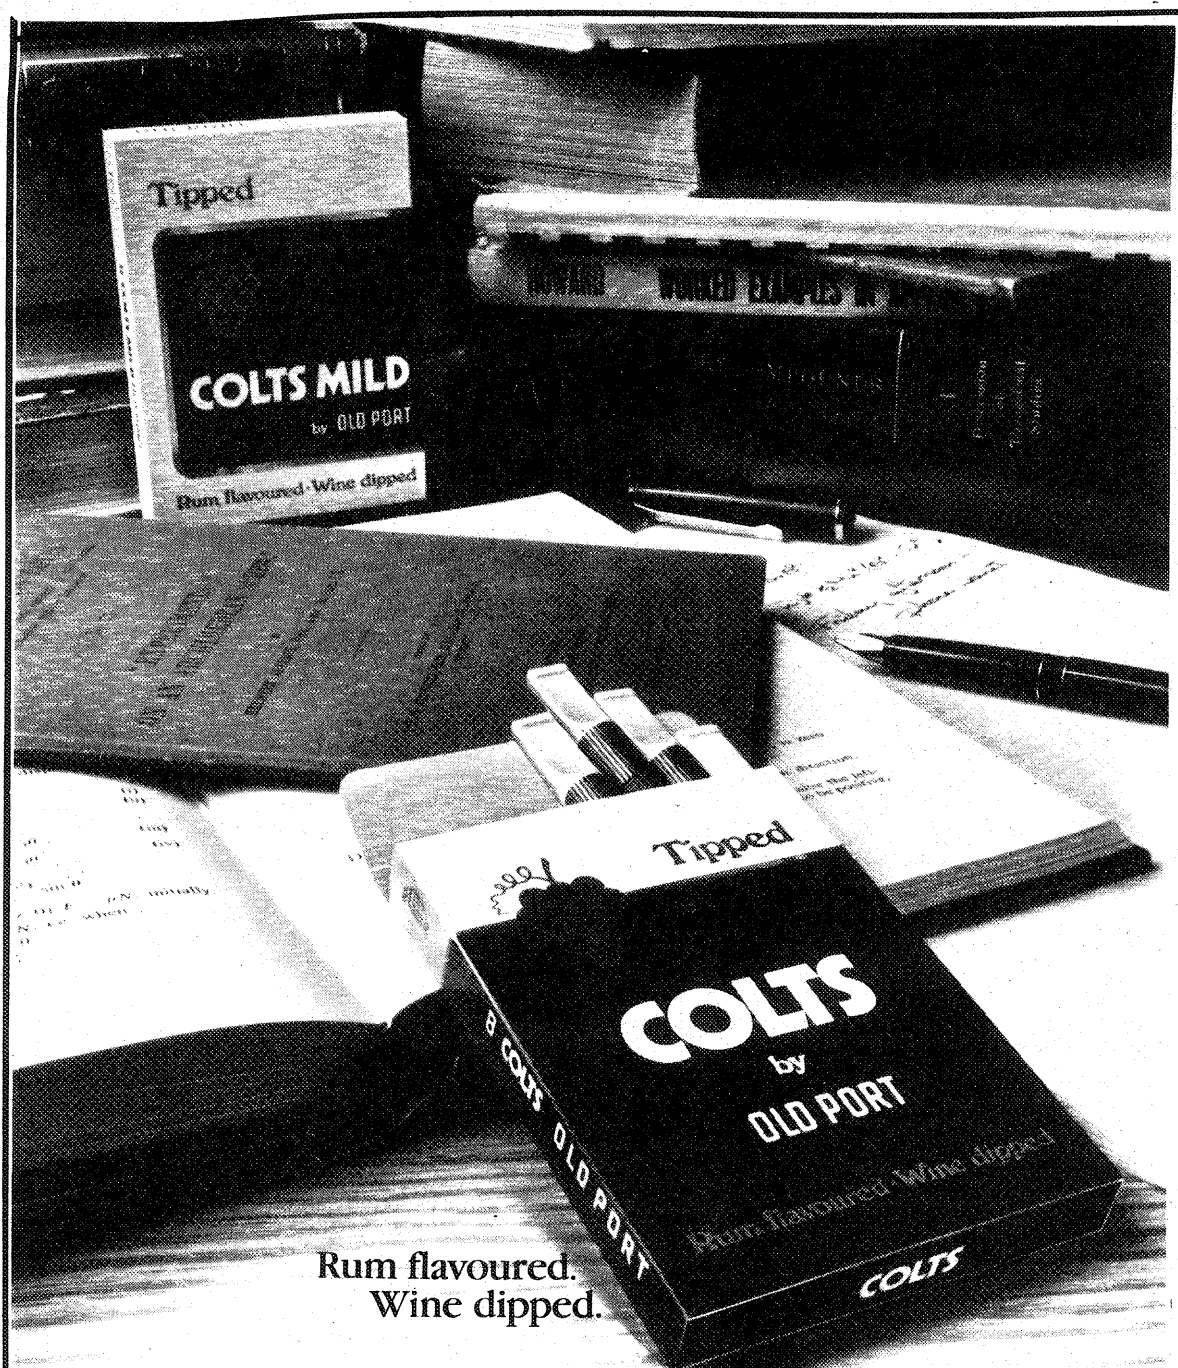

Smarties lead singer P.J. Burton was resplendent in a pair of skin-tight silver pants as he cavorted his way through two half-hour sets of music. The band played songs by Devo and the Sex Pistols, among others, along with some original compositions. P.J. put on quite a show, frequently leaping off the stage and running up the centre aisle. His antics also included ripping up a poster of Deborah Harry, lead singer of Blondie, and spitting kobasa sausage at the audience. The show ended with a bang, literally, as Burton perched himself atop a giant detonator and set off four flashpots. The band returned a few minutes later to do an encore number.

Those of you who have never heard any local new wave bands should check out the music of the Smarties. Their musicians are very talented, and their style is dynamic, filled with high-voltage energy. This city's music scene needs the boost that this and other new wave bands give it.

MATERIAL ENGINEERING

DOES IT AGAIN

In the past, Material Engineering Technology has put together some really fine cabarets. Last Friday night was no exception. In my opinion it was by far one of the best Nait functions I had the privilege to attend.

The doors at the Villa Vesuvius opened at 7:30 pm, giving people a couple of hours to get to know one another over a few drinks. The atmosphere seemed almost electric while the crowd was waiting in anticipation for one of the hottest groups around town, Spunk.

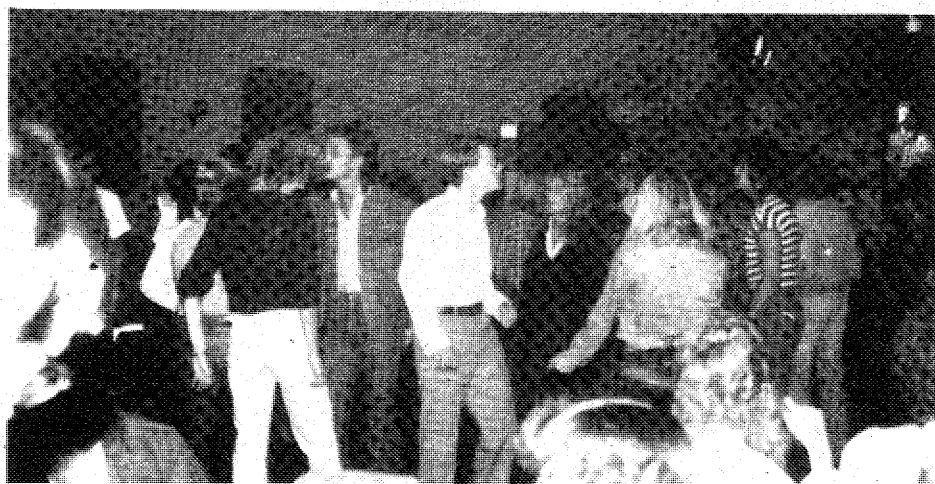

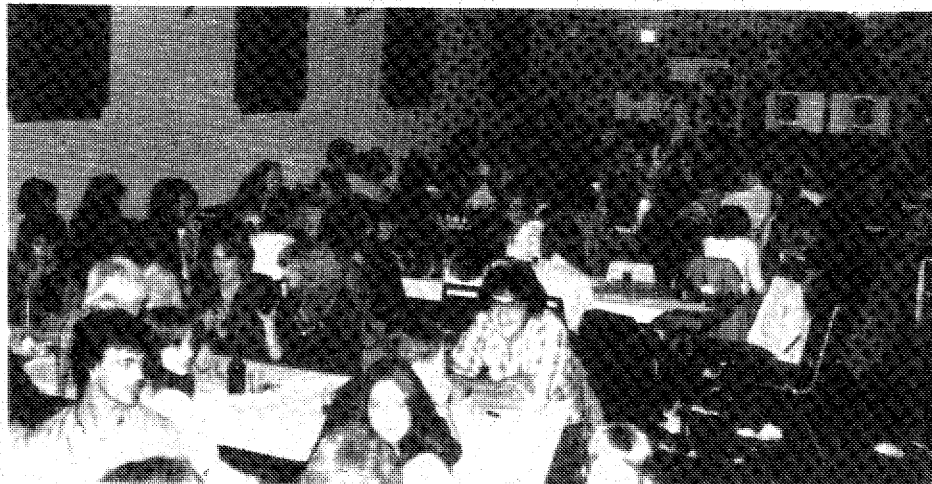

Recently, Spunk has gone through a major personnel change. The former lead guitarist, Kim, has left the group and made way for Collin, a former member of Shock and an excellent performer. This change has brought about a new style, a new image and a new sound. [New Wave!]

The new wave sound is fastly becoming very popular with many people. This was certainly made clear by the number of people on the dance floor. Spunk packed the dance floor through the entire evening.

This multi-talented group has the basis for a fine career. If you liked Spunk before, you'll like them even more now.

I'm sure that everyone enjoyed themselves thanks to the well organized efforts of Material Engineering and the great sound of Spunk. Looking forward to your next cabaret on October 19, again at the Villa Vesuvius. See you there!

CHARLIE -- "Fight Dirty"

The cover of this band's debut album depicts a clever, eye-catching photo of a scantily-clad woman in the midst of seduction, dropping what is presumed to be a tranquilizer or poison pellet into her lover's drink. The picture on the back shows the man huddled over the bedside telephone, oblivious to his fate.

If this little scenario intrigues you enough to want to check out the album inside, you won't be disappointed. This is a pleasant record to listen to, with lots of vocal harmonies and some very good instrumental backup. The driving force behind Charlie is a man named Terry Thomas, who handles the majority of the writing chores, as well as lead vocals and rhythm guitar.

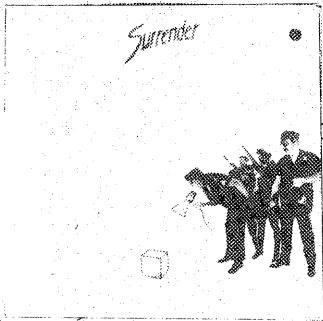

The band sings several songs about searching for one's identity ("Fight Dirty", "Don't Count Me Out"), a couple of numbers about women who have met with misfortune ("Runaway", "Too Late") and the obligatory ode to California (called - what else - "California"). "Just One More Smiling Face" is an interesting tale of a rock star who meets a woman and takes her home, only to find he is just one in a long line of conquests. She takes his picture and he joins the gallery of photographs that cover her walls.

The best cut on this album, the one I keep returning to, is "Killer Cut", a tongue-in-cheek guide to fame for the aspiring rock star. The song advises that the secret to success is to listen closely to Top 40 radio play-lists, steal a bit from each song, and then write a "Killer cut to turn on the world". Eugene Organ and Terry Thomas do an excellent job on guitars, especially on the opening bars of the song.

This band shows promise -- their next album will have to be pretty good to keep pace with this one.

RECORD REVIEW
SURRENDER - SURRENDER
Capital Records

For a debut L.P. of an unknown Canadian band, this album is quite good. Although there is nothing here that will shake up the music industry, there is some very well played rock and roll.

'Surrender' is a five piece Ontario band, led by a guy named Alfie Zappacosta. It appears to be his talent that makes this album what it is. He wrote all the songs, (aside from 'Young Seaman' which he co-wrote with keyboardist Peter Curry), and did the arranging. He also put in some very competent guitar playing, and handled all the lead vocals.

Zappacosta's lyrics are generally rather depressing. Most of them are about very lost people who are either cheating their lover, dying, or on the verge of suicide. Some of them touch a bit on the pretentious side, as in the chorus of 'Alone Too Often'; 'Leave her alone too often, youre just inviting other men.'

'Buddy' comes off as a highlight of the album. In this song, the writer is disturbed by a telephone call from a friend who is threatening suicide. While the lyrics themselves sound perhaps a touch corny, one suspects that Zappacosta wrote them with much sincerity. The music in the song has a tight feel that manages to pull off the lyrics and in the end results in a good rocker.

The low point on the album is probably 'Young Seaman', a seven minute cut that pretends to be an epic sea story, but ends up being just boring.

On the whole, 'Surrender' is what you'd call a 'pretty good album'. Melodic tunes with well arranged, well played music. Not an album that will put the group in the rock hall of fame, but one that should give them a foothold in the Canadian music scene. The true test of this album will come in retrospect, when they release a second, for it will be then that we can see if they fulfill the potential put forward on their debut.

"About the Author"

Dr. Inga N.R. Amos is the first and foremost authority on Horrorscopes. She knows people like the back of her hand, and that means that she knows what she's talking about.

"I've lived the ups, I've lived the downs; I think I like the ups better", was Dr. Amos' reply when the Nugget asked her about life. Unfortunately though, she's had more downs in life.

You can find Inga in her run down suburban home in the slums, doing what she likes best: writing Horrorscopes.

She believes that if you don't have a rotten time in life, you're missing all the fun. So if you think your life is bad, read someone else's Horrorscope, and compare it to your own life.

Hope your Horrorscope comes true!

Your HORRORSCOPE for Friday, Oct 5, 1979

ARIES [Mar 21 - Apr 19] You will wake up today with extreme stomach pains. You have so much gas in your stomach, that Arabs will be following you all over town wherever you go.

TAURUS [Apr 20 - May 20] That test you failed wasn't because your calculator's batteries were uncharged, or there wasn't enough time. You failed because you're stupid. No sense lying to everybody, they all know that you're dumb.

GEMINI [May 21 - June 20] You will meet your dream man: tall, dark, and handsome. You will be walking down the street, his eyes will meet yours, his arms will reach out to you. He'll hit you with a baseball bat, mug you, and steal all of your money. Your paths will never cross again.

CANCER [June 21 - July 22] Don't do anything dangerous or exciting today or you'll regret it. Just do what you normally do. Just be yourself; dull, boring, and uninteresting.

LEO [July 23 - Aug 22] You will meet your dream woman: blonde, beautiful, and stacked. Her eyes will meet yours, she'll reach out to you, you'll run towards her and her towards you; just like Romeo and Juliet. Suddenly the ugliest girl you know comes up to you from out of nowhere and says hello to you. The blonde sees that you already have a girlfriend and turns away, never seeing you again.

VIRGO [Aug 23 - Sept 22] There will be a power failure at your house today, you won't be able to see a thing tonight, and you'll be bumping into everything. When the lights come back on you will find everything in the house a mess. Just the way it was before.

LIBRA [Sept 23 - Oct 22] If you are ironing clothes today don't answer your phone. Knowing you, you'll hold the iron to your ear and say "hello", and burn your ear right off.

SCORPIO [Oct 23 - Nov 21] Stay home tonight for a change. You've been going out every night on dates, and partying. Take it easy; don't go out anymore: this is a warning. Have the parties at your place instead.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov 22 - Dec 21] You don't deserve to know what's going to happen to you. Read someone else's Horrorscope.

CAPRICORN [Dec 22 - Jan 19] Don't eat anyone else's cooking. Someone is trying to poison you. Since you can't cook, you'll starve to death. Oh well, you can't win either way.

AQUARIUS [Jan 20 - Feb 18] If a door to door salesman comes to your house, don't give him a chance to stick his foot in the door. Because when you slam the door on his foot, your door will fall off. Then you'll have to buy a new door from him.

PISCES [Feb 19 - Mar 20] Installing that CB radio should be left until tomorrow. If you use it today and call out "Breaker one nine, breaker one nine", a seven foot, 400 pound trucker will come up to you and breaker your face.

BETTY'S CROCK CHILI CON CARNE

2 LBS GROUND BEEF ^{Use as much beef as you want.}
Chili can be frozen and warmed up for another supper.
2 - 3 medium onions
1 - 2 large can tomatoes
2 - 3 can Kidney beans.
1 tsp. or more chili powder
¼ tsp. black pepper.
1½ tsp salt.
[Green peppers and mushrooms are fun if you can afford it]

Brown the meat in onions and a small bit of margarine in a frying pan. Add seasoning and mix well [use other spices if you have special spice fancies]. When the hamburger starts to fall apart and it is medium brown in colour, the meat is cooked enough to add the beans and tomatoes and simmer for 30 minutes. This serves about 6 people. So either make the recipe smaller or freeze some. Just put the cool chili in cottage cheese containers and put in your freezer. To warm up a fast supper just heat up your frozen chili.

All these recipes can be done on a hot plate.

"T-M-T"

Dry film lubricants adds service life, cuts costs.

"T-M-T" saves you money on gas!

While your engine is working to run your automobile, it must work to move vital components, such as the pistons, crankshaft, etc. And it takes costly gasoline to constantly operate and generate these parts while protecting them against harmful friction. So because "T-M-T" offers amazingly better lubrication — there's less friction, less drag. . . AND LESS WASTED GAS!

"T-M-T" helps you get started in the coldest temperature — and gives better engine performance in the sweltering heat!

Even when the thermometer dips to 60° below freezing — an engine coated with "T-M-T" will turn over faster and easier — with surer starts and power! And during the hot days, when the vehicle temperatures are sizzling — your rings, valves, and other critical engine parts will function with less crippling friction drag!

"T-M-T" can save you money on costly engine repairs. . . especially Ring and Valve jobs!

Think of how many different mechanical operations are taking place within your engine every minute you run your car. The pistons are working at a dizzying pace — the valves and lifters are moving and pumping at gruelling motions — and each and every day, week and month that you drive, more and more strain and tension occur internally with the constant pummeling which keeps taking its toll by the gradual addition of carbon, sludge and foreign build-up.

With the addition of "T-M-T" — not only is the engine wall coated with its amazing Chemical discovery — but at the very same time, all other operative components are being coated and sealed too! And by coating both surfaces (the engine wall and the internal mechanisms) — you effect a tough "Shield" which helps prevent the "T-M-T" protected surfaces from coming into direct contact with each other!

"T-M-T" is amazingly easy to add to your engine!

HERE'S HOW:

Allow your car to idle until the engine is warm. Shake well the highly-concentrated contents of "T-M-T" — and simply pour it into the crankcase where you normally add oil.

First of all, Oil Additives are Temporary treatments! T-M-T IS A PERMANENT TREATMENT! Oil Additives have to be replaced with each and every oil change — because they work within the oil itself. T-M-T NEVER HAS TO BE REPLACED — it does not flush out with any and every oil change, and it is a necessary INTERNAL ENGINE TREATMENT!

Built-Up Teflon Coating Improved Lunar Orbiters' Life

UNIQUE TECHNICAL PROBLEMS were solved to develop the extremely durable expulsion tanks required by the Lunar Orbiter program. The tanks had to store propellants for long periods of time — aboard Lunar Orbiter 2, for example, the tanks were not called upon to deliver propellants for a final firing until the spacecraft had been orbiting the Moon for more than 11 months. Never before did a spacecraft's positive-expulsion devices have such a long wait between expulsion cycles.

An impenetrable barrier between propellant and expulsion gas in the oxidizer tanks proved to be the key. High-strength Teflon was sprayed on both sides of a ¼-mil-thick aluminum "bag." In separate coats from 1 4 to 1 3 mil, the Teflon was built up to a 3-mil thickness on each side of the aluminum.

"Teflon alone," said an assistant chief engineer, "allows pressurizing gas to permeate into the propellant during long periods of storage." Without the aluminum barrier, the pressurizing gas would have formed gas bubbles in the oxidizer and could have shortened life of the Lunar Orbiters.

"YOU HAVE TO CONQUER STUDENT APATHY"

By Gina Noce

To Think, Gene almost didn't play.

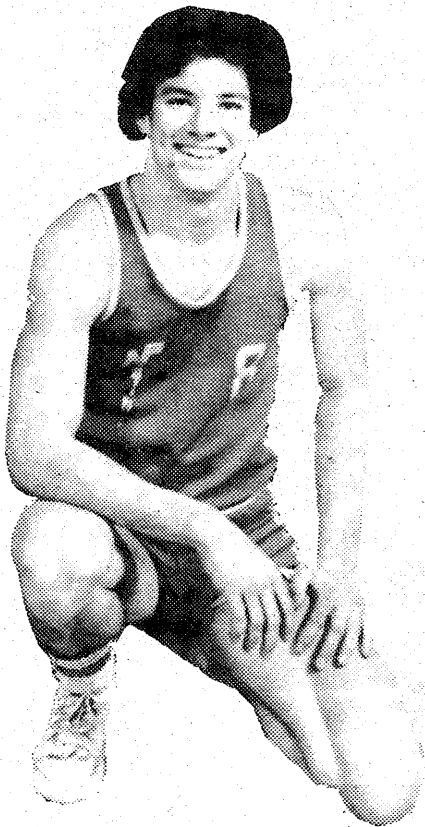

Last year, after two weeks of basketball practice every night, Gene decided he couldn't handle it, so he quit. But he forgot to tell the coach. Naturally, Dave Hoy (men's basketball coach) wondered what had happened to his potential basketball star. Dave finally saw Gene and asked why he wasn't attending practice. Feeling, a little guilty and none-too pleased with himself, Gene told the coach he didn't think he could handle school and basketball.

Well as the story goes, Gene did return to the team and went on to win two basketball awards at the end of the season: Best Defensive Player and Silver Torch which is awarded to the player with the best combining ability, leadership and most gentleman-like conduct.

Today, The twenty-two year old, Saskatchewan native says he's not sorry he played. "I have never regretted it." Basketball provides an outlet for Gene as well as an opportunity to meet people and attend social functions.

Heading into his second year in Building Construction, Gene states there's plenty of time for studies and extra-curricular activities if you use your time right. Aside from being on the basketball team Gene also holds the title of Vice-President for the B.C.E.T. Society. Gene explained his involvement. "I'm not the kind of guy who can just go to school, do homework, watch T.V. and keep doing this day in and day out... For a person to be here just to get a diploma... he's not going to get that much out of the school."

GENE GERWING

Gene started playing basketball in high school. He gave up hockey to play basketball. Although Gene was invited to the Saskatoon Blades hockey camp, he never attended. "I chose basketball because that's what my friends were playing."

This year, the basketball team is geared up to make the play-offs. A goal they fell short of last season. Last year, the team lost close to half a dozen games by less than five points. Gene offers student apathy as a contributing reason for some of their losses. "You can always play 100% better when there's someone cheering you on. We'd play a lot better if we had a few fans behind us."

Gene's optimistic about the upcoming season and feels they can reach their goal. Unfortunately, the opening schedule is not in their favour. The first four games are against the teams which placed first, second, third and fourth in the standings last year.

When game time rolls around, Gene assumes the position of team leader. He places a certain amount of pressure on himself. "...if you're not scoring or playing decent it bothers you because he (Hoy) puts you out there cause you're supposed to be able to do something..." Gene adds that he hates to lose so he always wants to give 100% every game.

Gene stands 6'1½" and admits to being one of the shorter players on the team last year. But as coach Hoy states, "he made up for it because he was the best defensive player. He showed a pretty good example for the other players. He worked hard."

I've never seen Gene play, but if past-performance is any indication of what to expect, we could all be in for a treat!

NAIT CANOE TEAM

The season is here to enjoy the afternoons at the Lake canoeing. The NAIT Canoe Team has been practicing since registration for the ACAC flat water racing meet being held in Calgary Saturday, October 20, 1979.

The team is now ready to work in competitive units of two to a canoe and three pairs to an event. The events in which we are participating include a men's relay, and a war canoe event. The war canoe event is unique as four paddlers try to race a single canoe over a given distance.

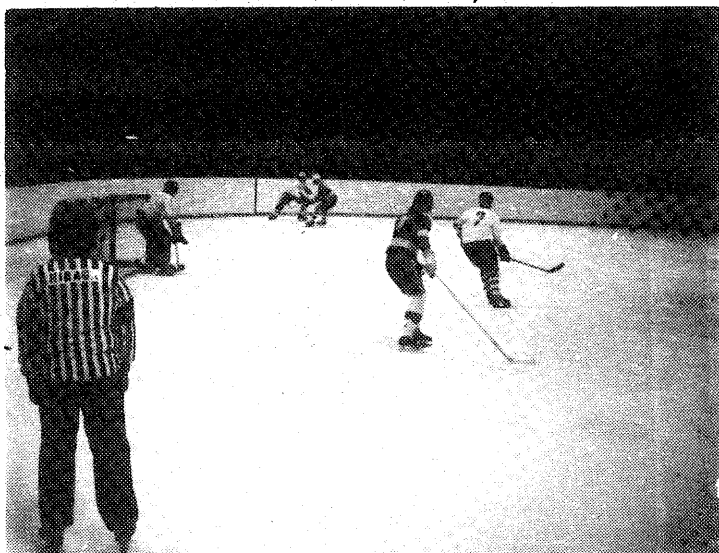

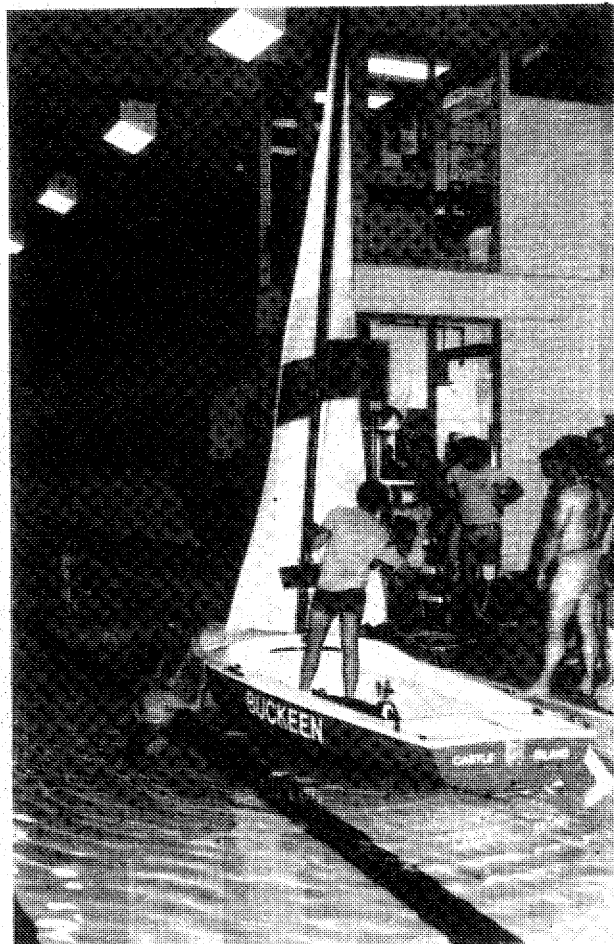

The relay teams are being chosen this week. The NAIT canoe team is looking for more interested women willing to practice Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays at Lake Eden. In return for your time and effort, you will have the opportunity to have fun, meet other people outside your technology and represent NAIT. Individual medals are awarded in each event to the first three teams and for the overall team winner.

If you are interested and are willing to put in the time and effort, the canoe team would like to invite you to the practices. Meet outside the gymnasiums at 4:30 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays. A bus will take the team to Lake Eden. Bring an extra change of clothing in case you end up swimming, and a bag supper. The bus returns to NAIT around 8:30 to 8:00 p.m.

Our canoe team this year plans to challenge Red Deer, Camrose, SAIT and Grande Prairie for first place.

BASKETBALL

During this year's registration, over fifty (50) athletes indicated a interest inplaying intercollegiate basketball, for the NAIT OOKCHICKS. On paper, this year's team would have had size, strength and experience, assets which have frequently been lacking in previous years. By the time the organizational meeting was held, this number had dwindled to about twenty-five (25)! When the tryouts for the team began last week, only fourteen (14) of the original fifty showed up! What the $#!! is going on,

GALS? In subsequent practices this number (14) has shrunk to as low as 10 players. This kind of APATHY has been a trademark of NAIT teams recently. The result: they have had "their asses kicked all over the conference in past years."

DISAPPOINTING TURN-

OUT FOR WOMEN'S

BASKETBALL

Coach Gregg Meropoulos expressed strong disappointment over the poor turnout. He welcomes any female athlete who wishes to try out for this years' team before the middle of October. There seems to be a definite scarcity of forwards and centers. Practice times are listed on the board outside the gymnasium. Coach Gregg (room E137) welcomes any players who are interested in playing or have other questions to contact him. Really girls, 10 players out of a total female population of over 2000 is an awfully bad showing.

NOTE to the guys: Your tryout camp started on Wednesday, Oct. 3. If you missed it, talk to Coach Dave Hoy (room E137) for further info.

CYCLE DRAG '79

All of you are probably familiar with the cycle drag. It is a bike race, between technologies, where each team consists of five riders. Each team uses one bike on a relay system.

The race is run on a 400 metre track, and is 100 laps long. (That's 40 kilometres, or 25 miles long!)

This year, about eight teams participated. (Pretty wild, right?)

There was one or two tire blowouts, and a collision between a pair of riders, but the competition was very good. Everyone put out with effort and enthusiasm.

I am writing this on behalf of the cycle teams from Engineering Design and Drafting Technology. The guys' cycle team from out Tech (incidentally) lapped the field seven times to gain victory! (Yeah, Drafting!) The winning time for the race was 72 minutes and 55 sec. Civil Engineering Technology gained second place. *In the girls' division, Bio Science girls, 56 min. for 50 laps. Our girls' team from Drafting won second place.

Participation was great, competition was hard. It was a challenge, and you really missed a good contest if you weren't there. Thanks again to our competitors for a excellent race.

At this time I would like to commend the referees who did a good job under the circumstances. Thanks to Bio for a good game. Well Computers finally did it, and it's been a long time coming.

AND WHO SAID THERE WAS A PARKING PROBLEM?

KEES STRIKES OUT BUT BRIAN SCORES

The past weekend saw Brian (driver) and Kees (navigator & mechanic) go to Calgary for the 2nd annual Western Canadian Intercollegiate Car Rally. As the only NAIT team entered, driving an automatic Honda Civic, wearing #10, these fellas showed some excellent potential.

Unfortunately, it was almost all show and no go due to a certain D.P. and then a broken fan belt in Red Deer. Seeing as it was getting fairly late, the NAIT team decided to skip the first 13 checkpoints and head directly for the finishing line, where the beer was being served. After a Kentucky Fried Chicken dinner and a number of cold brew, the DJ got started. A few rock and roll songs later and both Kees and Brian figured they should see what some of these female rallyers were like! No problem here for Brian, who found himself a blond Mount Royal architecture student. Then Kees set his eye on a young lady from the U of C, and being the smooth mover he is, he moved in -- and abruptly struck out!!! This severe setback to his macho ego caused him to drown his sorrows in beer. Time to announce the winners came along, booby prize for failing to start but still finishing the rally was won by #10, the NAIT team! This is all they won however, but here's a rundown of how the schools fared:

- 1st. U. of C.
- 2nd. Mount Royal College
- 3rd. U. of A.
- 4th. Grant MacEwen Community College
- 5th. SAIT
- 6th. NAIT

I think our team should be congratulated for the fine way they represented our institution and for the effort they put into this event!

Better luck next year guys!

Ed. note. Out of 67 teams entered from the 6 schools, Kees and Brian ended up dead last, 67th place.
