Editors Note

Why is it that all of the things that we learn in class about economics, never seems to apply in the real world? Are we not taught that in the times of economic boom the government should set aside funds to inject into the economy when times get tough? Then, in times of recession are they not supposed to encourage spending? This is the philosophy that we are taught but it makes me wonder if it is true. Surely, all of our government leaders have heard of this approach. It is hard to believe that this is some big secret known only to the students of NAIT.

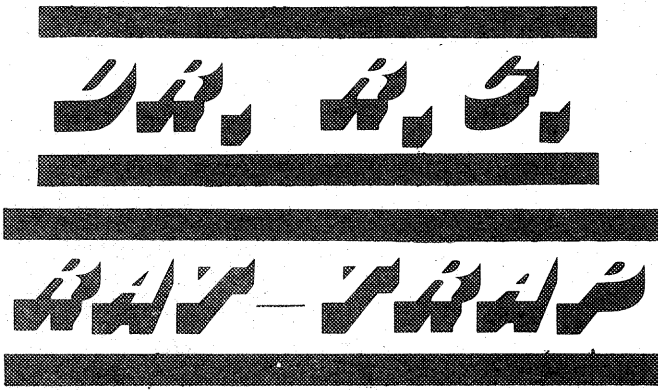

With this in mind, why in these times of economic doubt, when people delay purchases as long as possible, has the city chosen to lay off 860 Edmonton workers? And why have they decided to include police and firemen? There has been many angry opinions voiced by the citizens of Edmonton because of this, but what about those who do not speak out? The majority of the people regard police and firemen as a type of hero, devoted to helping victims and stopping undesirable actions. They are thought of as protectors in time of need. Thus, their services are essential and their right to work unquestionable. If their jobs are subject to budget cuts can anyone be sure of their own pay cheques? This thought really frightens people. Because of this they decrease their spending "just in case". Here begins the ripple effect. The money that one person "socks" away cannot be spent by those who would normally receive it. Retail sales go down, people that work in them are laid off etc. etc. etc. You have heard the story before.

What about the workers who no longer have jobs? They collect unemployment insurance benefits of course! We have to pay for these benefits out of our own paycheques. With unemployment currently running at 13 percent, and expected to rise, you can bet that the percentage of our pay that goes to cover this program will increase also. So, if we are going to have to pay people, whether they work or not, why not have them to work? This may seemingly cost the city more at first but shouldn't it be the long run that is considered? It didn't seem to be any big deal when we were borrowing money when interest rates exceeded twenty percent, so what would be so tragic about a deficit for a good cause now? If people would have faith in the economy and be willing to work a little bit harder in an attempt to make it better, the power of positive thinking just might work. In times such as these we need strong, capable, intelligent guidance from our leaders to convince people to spend. Since they do not seem to be able to do this, it is our job as future workers to do something. So, how about if everyone in this school who has taken a course in economics sends their old notes and books to city hall, or to the government of your choice? It certainly doesn't do us much good to study the subject when our leaders do not believe in it. Maybe if we sent them our books they would take the message from them and learn what they are supposed to do in a recession.

A Christmas Carol

OR SPENDING MONEY TO GET OUT OF THE RECESSION

Dear Dr. Rattrap:

Hey bud! Chin up ignore those idiots who don't bother to write every once and a while. Wimps and fags, every one of them. I have a message for those dicks. NAIT is for daylight parties, I mean, here's me your friendly Paper Pervert, I come to school, all night long wasted on some deadly mushrooms. Me and my buddy from MIET (he gives her) we ate 4 grams of caps and watched T.V. all night long. Then we crawled off our asses and motored to school. First we ate a couple grams more (with jam and toast). Wild trips ya know. Another gram at lunch and I was just cooked. You try sitting in a lab wishing for a beer so bad you start working up a sweat. No problem, easy solution, skip last class and check Smitty's out. What a day.

One last note, since I can read I noticed the article in last weeks Nugget about drinking problems. I think I got it! Do I get the prize? Who is she? You know the one who is going to lend concern and support and money to buy more booze. I scored 91/2 out of 10 symptoms, the half is because I only drink alone half of the time. To all you losers don't sip or gulp your drinks INHALE 'EM TWO AT A TIME.

Want to go to a good party! Dec. 11 '82 Golden Garter. Bring a wheelchair.

Here's a rule of thumb about being intoxicated: First don't smell the guy's breath, if he's laying down tilt his head back, pull down lower lip. Next get your tools, 1 magic marker, 1 can body paint, 1 old boot with long laces and 1 bottle of Jimmy Bean. Pour the juice down victims throat slowly of course, like an I.V. Next paint the fool all over, tie the boot to his wanger (loop the lace behind the helmet no slippage that way, and lay it on his chest. When he wakes up he'll throw that boot with lengthening results. Now that's for a guy. If you are lucky enough to find a girl passed out. Commence to procreate. Can't be any worse than the last couple I've had.

Till next time,
All the best,
The Paper Pervert

P.S.

I've given up being sexually deviant now I'm plain rude and lewd and crude. Come on girls! Get lost guy! It's time for a change. Rest easy In. R.T. I still think you are the best. How can a bunch of dip heads relate to a true wild guy like yourself. Party on man. We ain't no minority.

Dear Paper Pervert:

I can always count on you to come through in the crunch, thanks for saving me from the world of sobriety, I love you. I feel that I must point out that there were only 9 points in the Tips on Sipping, you are definitely in bad shape, but keep it up, I hate to drink alone. I hope you are only kidding that you are giving up guys. Otherwise I will have to look elsewhere, maybe the Vega hotel, for some companionship. Keep up the good work, I now have hope for the future.
Love R.T.

Dear Dr. Rattrap:

You make us want to vomit. We've got a trap that'll catch you. Your jokes are sick, ill witted, mundane and nauseating and those are the good ones. All you are is a low conniving rodent with a personality to match. Have we got a friend for you. Nick named, Smurf, a regular unit, with the ominous record of spending 3 years in 1st year Chem. Tech. You two should be able to crack up a very intellectual conversation.

Signed,
We hear your lonely.

Dear We Hear You're Lonely:

Obviously your letter shows a sign of deep rooted insecurity, a fear of competition and the need to put people down so that you look big. All that I really have to say is, "My mother still loves me, no matter what anybody says". Keep in touch.
Signed R.T.

P.S. If smurf is a chick, send her down. I might be able to teach her a few things that Chem Tech can't!

AROUND TOWN

by Rick Rack

If you are as fed up with the up coming holiday season as I am, and all you want to do is go and get drunk and forget about it, I have emassed a list of places that I might go. Of course, I will not go to all of these places in one night, but I would at least try to hit a couple of the hot spots during the up coming weekend. There are two Tech. cabarets, seven hotels and numerous house parties to choose from:

Civil Engineering's Xmas Cabaret
Norhtmount Hall 9208 140 Avenue

Bio-Science's Christmas Cabaret
Eastwood Hall 11803 - 86 Street

Ambassador: Shirley Granger

Beverly Crest: Cosmetics

Capilano : Attitude

Convention Inn South: Secret Society

Continental Inn: Nicki Cruz

Londonderry: City Band

St. Albert In: Classifieds

You are going to have to find the house parties yourself because if I tell you where the good ones are you will all go there and the place will be so crowded that I will not be able to fall down when I get to my desired state of intoxication. Have a good weekend and I will see you all again next week if I survive the bombardment of Christmas which has now set upon us.

President's Message

At the time, when this message was first written, thousands of students who drive to NAIT will find it increasingly difficult to continue this practice. It almost appears that the City of Edmonton's transit system is hurting so bad, that they must now find ways to force people to use it. As of January 1, 1983, all the streets within 101 St. & 106 St., and 111 Ave. & 122 Ave., will be off limits to NAIT student & staff drivers. Starting on that date, from 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. these roads will have both, and or either, permit parking or 2 hour parking bans. The City's Administration sent around an inquiry to the residents of the area with regards to the changes and out of those who responded, 79 percent were in favour of the changes. Neither NAIT or NAITSA were advised of these changes. I believe that there must be a simple formula that can be derived to solve this problem. The city should at least give NAIT time to build additional parkades before enforcing their new parking bylaws in the NAIT Community. The NAITSA Executive have drawn up a petition to protect the City's new parking bylaws. If you protest the changes sign the petition (see your Tech. Pres.) and we will let City Hall know your thoughts.

On Wednesday, Dec. 15, at 1:15 in the North Gym,

we will have an annual referendum. There are only two issues 1) read the budget 2) approve the present constitution under the Technical Institutes Act. For the last 19 years, NAITSA has been registered under the Societies Act, and since we have gone under a Board of Governors we have to change Acts. This will not take long, you simply attend the referendum, ask questions about the issues and vote.

In about 4 months our association will have another election to see who its new executive will be. Hopefully, by now, some of our 1st year students will be interested in an office. However, there are those who are interested but don't know anything about it, or who to ask. To make things a little easier we will hold an information session for those 1st year students who might be even remotely interested in running for a NAITSA Executive office next year. Watch for posters in January for more details.

Sincerely,
David Whalen
President, NAITSA

IT MAKES ME SICK!

Countrary to extensive propaganda, Hydrogen Sul-fide gas, known commonly as sour gas does make people sick, even in low concentrations. Every day people are coming down with the flu, sore throats, stomach cramps, headaches and many more such ailments. They are all connected with the hydrogen sulfide gas coming from the wildcat well at Lodgepole, Alberta.

Health officials, eminent scientists, and other authorities are telling us that the gas is not dangerous. They say that the gas is poisonous, and can kill people, but the concentration in the air is so low that it cannot possibly hurt us. I think that this propaganda is being spread to prevent mass hysteria.

Concentrations of 1/2000 can kill, what makes it so impossible for lower concentrations to even effect us. I think it does. Even at the low concentration we are experiencing the gas is turning silver ornaments black. The gas reacts chemically with the iron in the silver causing the discolouration. People have a large amount of iron in the blood, what kind of chemical reactions can the gas cause inside us?

Hydrogen Sulfide also dissolves in water. In laboratories a solution of the gas and water is used to kill animals and pest insects. Doesn't it frighten you to think that much of our drinking water is open to the air? The air that the gas is floating around in.

Other unpublicized information is that the gas combines with iron in food and forms dangerous bacteria that causes food poisoning when ingested. Have you looked at your food carefully, does it seem to be darker than usual, remember gas combined with iron makes things black!

As for the minor ailments, the flu, sore throats, colds, headaches etc. They are all connected with the gas. While it doesn't actually cause the sicknesses, the gas supresses our normal antibodies that are always working to protect us from the viruses and bacterias that do cause them.

Personally I consider this to be a very harmful effect.

So, while listening to health officials telling you that the gas can not possibly hurt you, think about it. The headaches, sore eyes, stomach cramps, they could be coming from the air, water, or food. All contaminated by the gas. Do you really believe that it cannot possibly hurt you?

Nugget Survey

The Nugget is preparing for a metamorphosis. We want to change from a drab, boring caterpillar in a flashy, festive butterfly. We can go ahead and chop off a head here and a leg there and then patch on a pair of wings and try to fly off. It might not work.

To ensure that we become the butterfly you will look at and pin on your wall we bring you the Nugget Survey. With your help and guidance we can start our changes with confidence.

After you have completed the survey, return it to the Nugget office. If no one is there, as usual, put it into the suggestion box. We thank you for your co-operation.

We want to know who is reading our paper. A lot of copies are put out each week, someone must be looking for it. By finding out who our readership is we can plan appropriately to serve them better.

Rowdiness*Pervailed at*Rockn' Talk

Friday, Dec. 3, was the last Rock and Talk of the year. The theme was Christmas, and the price of admittance was a gift for Santa's Anonymous. The Great Stereo Dance Show provided the music as usual. Right from the onset of the evening it was evident that everyone was more than ready to celebrate the spirit of the season. When the D.J. announced that the current record time for the first persons on the dance floor was 5:07 p.m. there was quick response which saw the old record defeated and a new record time of 4:58 set. The G.S.D.S. played a variety of popular tunes throughout the evening and kept the dance floor full most of the time. Because of this, last Friday could easily be renamed Rock and Drink. While we are on the topic of the great amount of drinking that was done, with the exception of a few tables, the Nugget coveted Gold Star for rowdiness will have to be split equally between the crowd. The prize for most devoted technology will, however, have to go to B.C.E.T. Without fail, this tech, makes sure that they have a table full of representatives at EVERY Rock and Talk. (they would like us to believe that is to show their school spirit and not only because of the chance to drink beer.)

There was a lot of incentive and imagination shown on the part of those who brought gifts for Santa's Anonymous. They ranged from the traditional toys, games, and coloring books to a water ski. If you missed this Rock and Talk, you missed the chance to get in on a good party, but you have not missed out on the chance to donate to Santa's Anonymous. Remember, depots will be open throughout the city until Dec. 17.

FREE X-MAS

Although a few people stepped into forbidden territory of our laws of functions, we the NAITSA Council were very pleased at the gifts we received for Santas Anonymous. It is times like this that you get to show how much you really care; well let it be known that we do here at NAIT. Randy Zaderozny Activities Chairman.

THE ALCHEMIST

In a dark, dingy room he sits contemplating untold mysteries
He takes no notice of scurrying mice or pouncing cat
Intent on his work; obsessed, almost Searching for his dream
The smell of smoke and musk and damp

Conduct to us the seeming futility of his quest
Yet;
Here began the age of knowledge
For, generations hence
Would praise the sorcerer
For the spirit he nurtured
And the truths he groped for.

The Year 1979 Brings The Decade And 25 Years Of Rock To A Close, Dec. 18.

Although the new wave movement produced some very fine albums and acts in 1979, including: Gary Numan, The Police, Blondie and The Pretenders, the best selling album of the year was recorded by the quintessential psychedelic band of the 60's and 70's, Pink Floyd. The Wall was the band's twelfth LP, and was chosen the most popular album by the influential rock magazine, Rolling Stone. CBC Radio's 25 Years of Rock reviews the year and the phenomenal success of The Wall on Dec. 18, at 11:05 p.m.

Pink Floyd was launched in the mid-sixties. It got caught up in the psychedelic vibrations coming across the Atlantic from San Francisco, and became weirder with every passing month. By 1966, it was the toast of the London underground and developed a performance presentation that was to soon be adopted by almost every performing rock outfit in the 70's. Floyd's use of changing back-lit slides, became de rigueur at most rock performances.

Long after the psychedelic era had petered out, Floyd stormed North America with the LP, Dark Side of the Moon. Musicologist Michael Bane said, "It was a wildly successful album that carried the group's conception of the psychedelic era into the decidedly good-natured era of the 70's". The album stayed on the charts for seven years, while the band was hard at work on its next effort, The Wall. Rolling Stone said, "The Wall is a stunning synthesis of Roger Waters (the band's bassist and the man who wrote all the words and a majority of the music on the LP) by now familiar thematic obsessions: brutal misanthropy, sour, middle-aged tristesse; the surprisingly shrewd perception that the music business is a microcosm of institutional oppression; and the dread of impending psychosis that runs through all these (Floyd) records - plus a strongly felt antiwar animus..." It was destined to become a rock masterpiece.

This is the final episode of the 25 week series.

The Teardrop Explodes In Concert On Rock And Roll Saturday Night, Dec. 18

The Teardrop Explodes hails from Liverpool, one of a new generation of bands at the forefront in the renaissance of a city which has brought the world some great music. The band is heard in this final concert broadcast on CBC Radio's Rock and Roll Dec. 18, at five minutes past midnight.

The group dates back to 1977 and an outfit called The Crucial Three, which was formed at a drama school by Julian Cope, Ian McCulloch and Pete Wiley. McCulloch went on to Echo and the Bunnymen, Pete Wiley put together a band called Wah, while Julian Cope set out to write material which he describes as "thoughtful rock", a description which fits the tone of the whole Liverpool movement. Some critics have dubbed this sound as "new psychedelic", but as Polygram, the band's record label says, "...it was soon clear to everyone that Teardrop's sound was no acid-flash-back".

In 1979, the band's first records were released, but the breakthrough came in 1980 when they joined forces with Madness producer Clive Langer and recorded a Cope song called Treason. The next single, When I Dream, was a hit in the U.K. and established the band's name in North America.

There have been several personnel changes, but for the performance at Guildford Civic Hall where this concert was taped, the line-up was as follows: Jeff Hammer on keyboards, Troy Tate on guitar, Alfie Agius, bass, Garry Dwyer on drums and Julian Cope on guitar and vocals. Also included in this concert are Luke Tunney and Edward Emmett on trumpets.

2 STUDENTS CRITICIZED FOR CALENDAR PROJECT.

By Robin Barstow
Journal Staff Writer

An innovative attempt at avoiding summer unemployment has led to charges of misrepresentation against two Edmonton students.

At issue are the popular pin-up calendars "The Women of U of A" and "The Men of U of A".

The matching black-and-white calendars are the brainchild of Dawn Izzard, a fourth year U of A home economics student, and Keeley Vickerson, a second year student in NAIT's radio and television arts program.

But a recent issue of the campus Gateway newspaper charges the businesswomen with misrepresenting themselves to advertisers and customers.

The Gateway charges the women used non-U of A students as models, implied to advertisers the calendars were affiliated to Universiade '83 and suggested to some advertisers and customers that all proceeds from the calendar were going to charity.

Izzard says 20 of the 24 models are fulltime U of A students and the remaining four are former U of A students.

"It's bad personal exposure, but good for the calendars," says Izzard. "Even if we don't make any money, we've learned some invaluable lessons...This is our first business venture."

"We don't like the idea of being knocked for taking chances and being individuals."

Universiade officials were contacted regarding the calendar endorsement, says Izzard, but signed with another calendar before they were ready.

Some proceeds from the calendar are going to CHED's children's charity, but not all the money as the CHED logo suggests, says Izzard.

"We've had no complaints. There's been no misrepresentation as far as we're concerned. We're happy with the calendars and so are the students," says Colleen Olexiuk, the U of A bookstore purchaser. The campus bookstore is the only retail outlet for the calendars, which sell for $5.95.

The calendars feature one student model for each month. Izzard says the pictures stress "quality" and a "wholesome look".

"Just because the economy is bad doesn't mean people are going to stop living. They still need some entertainment."

Izzard says most people involved in the project were unemployed or just starting their careers and benefited from the experience and exposure.

If all 5,000 calendars sell, the women may earn as much as $4,000 each, Izzard said.

Izzard said she and Vickerson got the idea while visiting an American university last Christmas and had a good response when they made their proposal to the bookstore manager.

Electronic News

The Electronics Executive would like to welcome back Bill Dowhun, who will once again try to shatter all the "sleeping in" records that he set last year. Good luck Bill. In other Electronic News it should be noted that John Jobse is 3000 big ones richer this week. When asked how he would spend the money John replied, "My old chess board is getting worn out so I think I'll buy another". Way to go John.

Well that certain teacher who's name rhymes with Figgy is at it again. Word has it he's opened up his own store on the southside, the name of the store "Mr. Figgy's Fabulous Fashions". One of the more popular suits on display is "Eckfords Electric Checkor Board". I'm sure we all suspect that this is a mafia subsidized store so we better get off the topic before this writer is wearing one of those suits 6 ft. under.

Saturday - Dec. 4

NAIT OOKS 9

MOUNT ROYAL COLLEGE 5

AT NAIT

Four tallies in the final frame sparked the NAIT Ooks to a 9-5 triumph over the Mount Royal College Cougars at the NAIT Arena on Saturday, December 4th.

MRC's Hughie Alexander started the scoring at the 2:22 mark of the first. Ken Ludwig of the Ooks came back to tie the contest 1-1 at 11:12. Three minutes and 36 seconds later, Jeff Hendricks notched his first of the night to give NAIT a 2-1 advantage. The count became 3-1 in favor of NAIT when Kevin Imrie found the net at 15:57. NAIT increased the lead to three on Rick Karst's marker at the 18:06 mark. Sean McGraw of the Cougars rounded out the first period scoring with one minute and five seconds left in the period to cut NAIT's lead to 4-2.

Mount Royal came to within one of the Ooks at 5:24 of the second when Rob Richichi tallied a shorthanded goal. Richard Rivard of the Ooks picked up his first goal of the season at the 9:44 mark on a shot from close range to make the score 5-3 NAIT. Five minutes and 15 seconds followed before Les Trainer of MRC narrowed NAIT's advantage to one.

In the third, Mount Royal came back to even the count on Hughie Alexander's second red lighter of the contest. The turning point of the game, came on a five minute major assessed to NAIT. The Ooks responded with two shorthanded tallies. At 16:23, Gary Hoekstra connected to make the score 6-5 for NAIT. Thirty eight seconds later, Jeff Hendricks increased NAIT's lead to two with his second goal of the evening.

Another two goal man on the evening was Kevin Imrie of NAIT who beat MRC's Brian Boyce at 17:30. The Ooks Dale Kolada put the finishing touches on the evenings scoring with 32 seconds remaining in the contest

Sunday, Dec. 5

NAIT OOKS 4

SAIT TROJANS 3

AT NAIT

Three unanswered goals in the third helped the Ooks to a 4-3 victory over the SAIT Trojans on Sunday, December 5th at the NAIT Arena.

John Gillespie manned the NAIT net and turned away 29 MRC drives. His Mount Royal counterpart, Brian Boyce redirected 42 NAIT blasts.

SAIT gained a quick 1-0 lead on Terry Davis' marker at the 1:58 mark of the first. In the second, Gary Hoekstra lifted the Ooks to even terms with only 26 seconds gone in the period on a Pat Kernaghan-Jeff Hendricks set up. One minute and 18 seconds later, Mark Blondin regained the lead for the Trojans. Chris Orban tallied at the 3:26 mark to up SAIT's lead to 3-1 over the Ooks.

NAIT mounted a comeback in the final frame. Rick Karst cut SAIT's advantage to one at 3:32 with help from Ken Ludwig and Warren Sanregret. Gary Hoekstra collected his second goal of the game at 18:42. The assist went to Randy Repchuk. Eleven seconds later, Warren Sanregret's point blast from Jeff Hendricks and Randy Repchuk turned out to be the winning goal as the Ooks downed the SAIT Trojans 4-3.

SAIT goaltender Dan Mussell was tested 35 times, while NAIT's Cleo Rowen stopped 35 SAIT shots. The win moves the Ooks into sole possession of second place in the ACAC.

ON THE BENCH: The Ooks have no injuries heading into this week's action...Captain Gary Hoekstra's leadership capabilities were a determining factor in the weekend matches, picking up the winning goal on a Saturday night, and notching the equalizer on Sunday...The next home game for the NAIT Ooks will be on Saturday, December 11th when they play host to the CLC Vikings. Game time is 7:30. On Sunday, December 12th, NAIT travels to Bonnyville to take on the Bonnyville Seniors team. On Saturday, December 18th, the NAIT Ooks Annual Alumni Match occurs at the NAIT Arena. The puck will be dropped at 5:30.

OOKS VOLLEYBALL

This past weekend both the male and female volleyball teams travelled to Red Deer to participate in Interlocking play.

The girls played 5, best of 5, sets in the 2 days. On Friday they easily defeated the Mount Royal College Team. The set was won in 3 straight games by the NAIT squad with little resistance offered by M.R.C. In their next match, Friday night, they subjected the SAIT team to the same kind of treatment they gave MRC by beating them rather handily in 3 straight games. They continued their winning ways on Saturday by beating Ols college in 3 straight games. The girls next action was against Lethbridge which took the full 5 games to decide the victor. The girls showed great team work, determination and desire by coming from behind, down 10-3 at one point, to win the final game. The effort the team put out in the previous game took its toll as NAIT went on to lose their final set to Medicine Hat College in 3 straight games. These victories give the girls a 6-3 record for the season.

The guys also played 5 sets in the 2 days. On Friday they faced a tough team from Mount Royal College. After winning the first 2 games in the set they lost their concentration and were defeated in the next 3 games. They held a team meeting after this set and got themselves emotionally prepared for their next set of games. Their next competition was supplied by the number one team in the south conference, SAIT. The guys came out strong and won the first 2 games but lost the next one. They came back in the fourth game to defeat SAIT and win the set. The team was still fired up from the previous nights victory and on Saturday morning they destroyed the Olds team in 3 straight games. That afternoon they went on to beat Lethbridge but played poorly. After spending 8 hours straight in the school with out any food or a chance to relax, they had to face a well rested team from Medicine Hat College. Nait played with intensity in one of the games but were defeated by a fired up MHC team in 3 of the games.

The guys finished the weekend with 3 wins and 2 losses. The volleyball teams see action again Wednesday, December 8 against GMCC.

Sports at Christmas

Some of you may have been studying so hard that you did not realize that the Christmas holidays are almost here. If you are one of those people that enjoys coming to school so much that you even show up on holidays you may need a place to go to relax and wear off some extra energy. During the holidays, the activities centre will be closed so you bowlers, pool sharks and pinball wizards are going to have to go somewhere else to practice your skills. The pool, gym, weight room, and racquetball courts and arena will be open on certain days during the festive season. Below is a list of dates and times the recreation facilities will be available:

Dec. 18, 12-4 p.m.
Dec. 19, 12-5 p.m.
Dec. 20, 21 & 22, 9-4 p.m.
Dec. 23, 9-2 p.m.
Dec. 29 & 30, 9-4 p.m.
Dec. 31, 9-2 p.m.

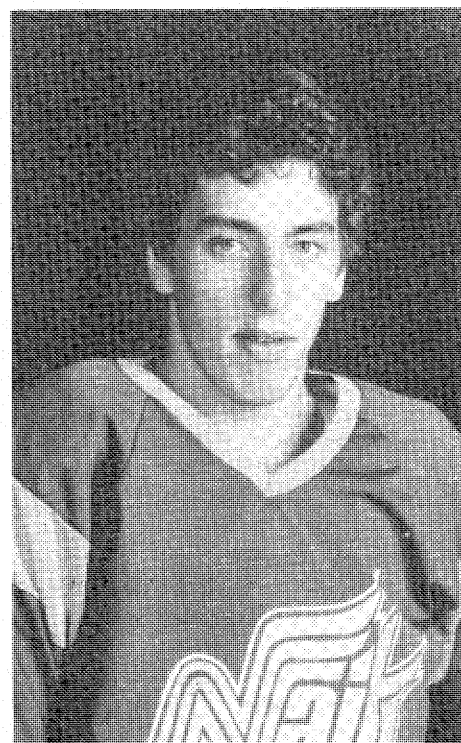

The arena will be open to students for public skating 12-1 p.m. on the days that the other facilities are open.

All facilities will be closed Dec. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28 and Jan. 1 & 2.

Have a good holiday and if your looking for something to do one day come and work off some of your Christmas dinner.

Player of the Week

GARY HOEKSTRA
22 YEARS OLD
5'11" 185lbs. RIGHT WING
1st YEAR INSTRUMENTATION

Gary is a veteran Oook having been part of the 1981 Canadian Championship team.

Gary just completed an outstanding weekend scoring 3 goals in two games. Gary's first goal came in a Saturday Dec. 4 against Mount Royal College Cougars. The shorthanded goal came with less than five minutes to go and broke open a 5-5 tie. The Ooks went to score 3 fast goals for a 9-5 victory. On Sunday Gary followed his fine Saturday effort with a pair of goals. His second goal tied the game at 3 with only 1 minute 18 seconds remaining. Only 11 seconds later Hoekstra was on the ice as the Ooks scored the game winner capping a thrilling comeback, 4-3 over the SAIT Trojans. The 3 goals give the 82 Ooks captain 11 goals in 10 games.

BASKETBALL

OOKS 69

CHICKS 39

GMCC 56

GMCC 61

In their last regular season game of 82 the NAIT Oookpics came from behind to beat the Grant McEwan Griffins 69-56

The Ooks came out flat and slow while GMCC came out shooting and opened a substantial lead. The Ooks started their comeback about half way through the first half and had closed the score to 34-33 in favor of Grant McEwan at the half. In the second half the NAIT defence started to take its toll as the GMCC shooters started missing shots due to pressure being applied by the Ooks. The Ooks also put their press into effect which resulted in 3 or 4 important turnovers. The high scorers for NAIT were Pat Gangl 15pts, Murray Proctor 11pt, and Harry Blacker 10 pts. This was one of NAIT's poorest efforts of the year but the victory keeps them in first place with a 5 and 0 record. If the Ooks hope to do well in their up coming Blue & Gold tournament, on the Dec 18 weekend, they are going to have to play more consistently and with more intensity than they showed in this last game.

On Friday Dec. 3 the NAIT girls basketball team was involved in a tough game against Grant McEwan. The game was closer than the 36-21 half time score indicates. GMCC took advantage of the their height advantage and put in a lot of rebounding to get the lead. The girls are starting to play together more as a team and are finally starting to put some of their outside shots in. This should open the center of the key for them in the future. The GMCC girls continued with the same form they had in the first half and went on to win the game 61-39. The score would have been higher had not been for the strong defensive play of Jami Bering and Janet Weech. High scorers for NAIT were Leanne Under-shoot, with some good outside shooting, 12 points and Robyn Lee 12 pts. Going into the Christmas break, the girls are still awaiting their initial victory of the 82-83 season but they should improve on this record in the new year. Their first regular season game is Jan. 14, here against Mount Royal College.

RELAX & LEARN

By Paul Verdin

When you think of a sensory deprivation tanks do scenes from Altered States with hairy animals running around and eating live goats come to mind? These were the scenes that started to run through my mind when Frank Grisdale, the owner of the Relax and Learn spa, called me up and asked me if I would like to try out the latest form of relaxation.

I agreed heartily and set up three appointments of one hour each, as Frank recommended. The first one was for orientation and becoming used to floating. The next two are arranged so you can have the full benefit of the tank. The ever supportive Nugget staff told me that it sounded great but if I come in with hairy arms they would definately keep their distance!

With these thoughts in mind I set off Wednesday, (Nov. 24/82), afternoon for my first appointment. With visions of a black steel tank in a cold tile room, and with flashbacks to my origins, dancing through my head, I opened the front door with only a slight tremble and greeted Frank with barely a tremor in my voice. We started off with an orientation to the tank and to procedures that followed. My first surprise came when I saw the flotation tank. It was blue fibreglass, 8'3" long, 45" high and was equal to a twin bed in width. It was in a dimly lit room with thick carpet and panelled walls. Basically there are no rules on how to float, the recommendable ways are either with your arms down at your side or with your hand clasped behind your head! A thorough shower before and after is a must, as well as relieving your bladder before leaving the tank

I was left on my own. Frank told me he would be back in an hour. After following the pre-float rules carefully, I headed for the tank, wrapped in my towel, to experience fully the effect of the tank. Bathing suits are out. I stepped into the tank and rightaway noticed the temperature of the water (94 degrees F). I tried to sit on the bottom of the tank but this proved to be a little difficult to do. The reason for this is that the tank contains approx. 12 inches of water and 800 pounds of epton salts. Being the brave person that I am I left the hatch half open and lay back in the water. It was a very pleasant feeling with no pressure on any one part of my body. I soon became very comfortable. Then I realized that I had left the door half open. I sat up, steeled my nerve and shut it all the way. Total darkness - opened and closed my eyes, no difference. I stretched out and waited for the cosmic experience. I started to think about my next editorials that I could write but could not connect more than 3 or 4 lines together before my mind drifted off some place else. Finally, I thought "the hell with it", and let my mind roam where it wanted to.

Suddenly the filter system came on, this was my hint that my hour was up.

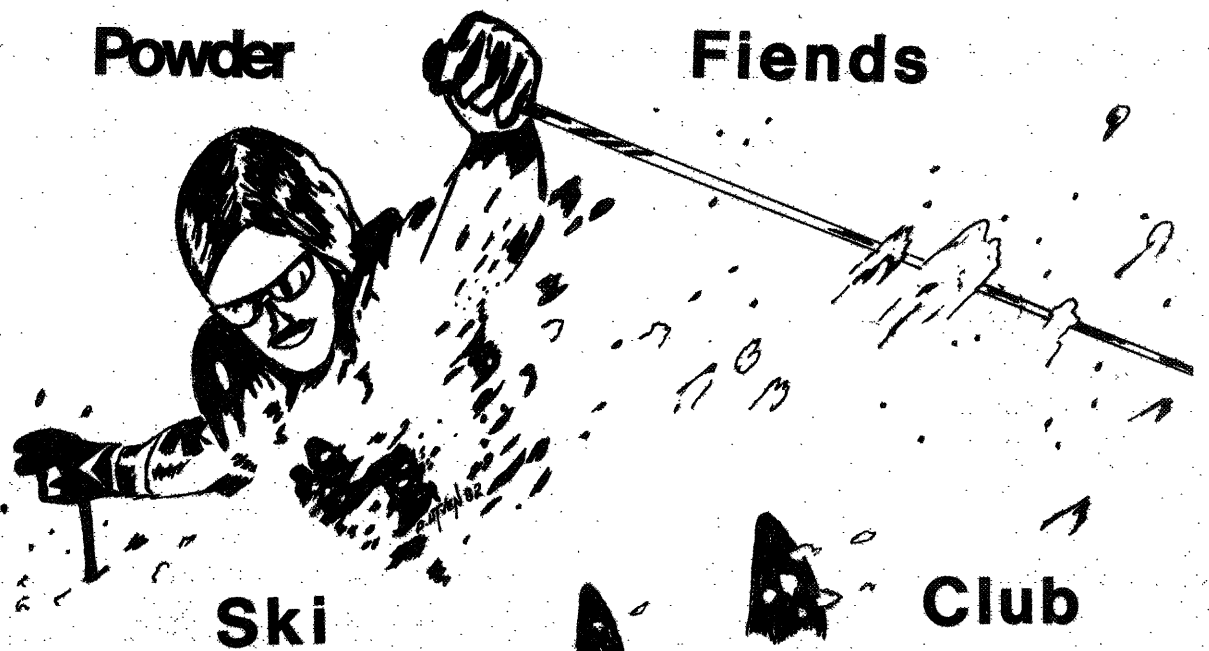

The second visit I found to be much the same. It felt like the same amount of time and much the same feelings. My third visit seemed to be almost the same except that after I was dressed Frank told me that he left me in the tank for 80 minutes instead of 60. I didn't even realize it.

I talked with Frank after each float. Some of the future plans for the Relax and Learn Centre is the installation of another tank, early in the New Year and also the installation of audio into the tanks. This is where the Learn part comes in. Researchers have found that in approximately 30 hours a person can cover in a foreign language. Much later on down the road will come the installation of video, this technique will help improve your favourite sport. Of course you can still use the tank for just plain relaxation!

The Relax and Learn Centre prices start at $20 for your first float (orientation included) and every float after that costs $15.08 for one hour. Each additional half hour is $5. They also offer a package deal starting with 3 floats for $30. An extensive price list is available. Sound interesting? Give Frank a call at 489-1107 or drop in, The Centre is located at 18061 - 107 Ave. Tell him that I sent you.

ON THE VIOLENCE OF SEX AND VIOLENCE

One of the best-remembered facts to come out of the Seventies is that the average child will have seen 17,000 murders or violent deaths on television before reaching his/her eighteenth birthday. Such a figure works out to, say, three deaths a day, and one wonders what kind of effects that sort of video violence has on our society in general.

There are, of course, specific occurrences that one tends to pass off as unfortunate but inconsequential events. Take, for example, the night of the first network broadcast of "Dirty Harry": a boy no older than ten was killed when he and his brother acted out the "Did he shoot five or did he shoot six?" scene at the beginning of the film-the gun the two play-acted with was loaded.

Although such violence is usually the domain of the American networks, thanks to cable one can observe the effects here in Canada. That one in ten women in Canada is physically abused (the assessment would be higher if one considered mental and economical cruelty) is not surprising when our society keeps watching men like J.R. Ewing on "Dallas" or Archie Bunker as if they were cult figures. To be sure, J.R. and Archie Bunker are meant to be satirical - to try to change people that are like them. Unfortunately, like the Prime Minister giving people "the finger", public use of such symbols more often than not just gives them public acceptance, if not increasing their existence.

Thus, our society gets caught in a spiral, wanting to decrease crime but continuously watching (therefore, supporting) shows that, to some, depict crime as being somewhat glamorous, which (thanks to life imitating art imitating life) increases crime. And we wind up with a young generation that knows more about how to hurt others than how to help others.

There is only one practical purpose in our age for seeing 17,000 people die, and that is to numb the mind in case the nuclear megadeath genie ever escapes from the World War III lamp. Having watched television is a trait of American "culture"-the Europeans, particularly the Romanic countries, have sex (if anything) as being an attribute of their video. If asked which is the greater of two evils to be on television, sex or violence, I would Unhesitatingly quote the one intelligent thing Rona Barrett ever said: "It is violence, not sex, which is obscene!" Vernon R.J. Schmid
THIS WEEKEND: Watch KREM for "The 8th and Last Annual Golden Days of Television" broadcast of old (pre-1965) television shows....

The Wizard & The Warrior

There comes a warrior on his steed,
A knight in armour in search of deeds,
That will make him known throughout the land,
And so he's summoned to the court of Borimand.

His children have been stolen away,
By an evil wizard to be used as slaves.
The king speaks to the knight with a heavy heart,
For none of his own knights will dare to take part.

"I'm old and weary and can no longer fight.
It must be one such as yourself who will put things to right."

With this the nameless knight rides forth,
To the wizard's lair on Mount Calendorth.
After seven days trek the mountain looms in his sight,
And he prepares for what soon will be his most difficult fight.

The wizard had come around mid-day
When his hopeless victims had been out to play.
The Kingdom he'd placed under a heavy spell,
So that all its inhabitants would sleep deep and well.
The he and his servants, the king's children did take,
And back to his lair with all haste did they make.
The ransom he'd demanded for the children's release,
Was more than had been acquired from several centuries of peace.
Neither knight nor peasant would dare sally forth,
In fear they'd be captured and put to the torch.
But to lay a good spell, the wizard needed the name
Of his intended victim, which would prove to be his bane...
