Editor's Note

NAIT was given another example of its second class status last week. This time around it was not the government which snubbed NAIT but the news media whose duty it is to report significant occurrences in the city of Edmonton. What is significant to NAIT must just barely get through the door at the daily papers.

A junior hockey team from Sweden visited the NAIT arena to give students and public a taste of international hockey. Granted the game was not an intense end to end battle, just in one end, but there should still be importance given to international hockey games played in this city. NAIT Osk Pils won easily 13 to 3. Nowhere in the Journal was there any note of what the NAIT team did.

Instead the Journal reported on how the University of Calgary hockey team defeated a junior team from Czechoslovakia. The Czech team did win the Viking tournament in Camrose. However on Wednesday they were playing in Calgary, not Edmonton. A University of Alberta event has always carried more weight than anything that NAIT does. But since when did the U of C gain precedence? The Sun also declined to make a comment of the game at NAIT. Cable 10 was there to film the game at NAIT for later viewing. CFRN had a camera there, whether they did a spot on their sports show with it is unknown. No other media giants were noticeably in attendance that night.

Earlier in the year, NAIT sponsored a media luncheon in which all the sportscasters and other sport groupies were invited to a lunch. They were dined at the expense of NAIT. The purpose was to expose NAIT athletics and the ACAC to the Edmonton media. It didn't seem to help. Maybe a 2 x 4 across the forehead might.

David Whalen is hoping to get NAIT onto the front page of both the Sun and Journal by making a giant NAIT 82 on the football field with the assistance of a few thousand students and staff. With such an important event the media should come rushing up in all kinds of vehicles hoping to get exclusive interviews and whatever else that goes with major news stories. Good luck.

NAIT is continually being ignored. The city disregards the safety of students and staff and runs a freeway through the middle of NAIT. Thirty renters take precedence over NAITSA and block the changing of 117th and 117 A Avenues to one way streets to increase parking. The city ignores us, the media ignores us. Instead of fighting over which technologies will move out to the new Stony Plain Technical Institute, maybe we should all move out there and gain a bit of respect in the process.

An open letter to the editor

I take exception to your editorial, "Barking at Trees." True, I am not the idealist my predecessors may have been, as you claim. I am also not a pessimist. I do not believe the majority of my fellow students are. If we regarded our futures grimly, we would not be working so hard for a better tomorrow, for ourselves, our friends and families, and others who will enjoy the product of our professional labours. The 'me' decade is over. We are no longer pursuing solely self-gratifying goals.

I am not a number in a grand design, and I do not accept conditions surrounding me as permanent. The nature of the world tends toward change, but change takes time. You seem to view life with a sense of urgency ("Live fast, die young, leave a good looking corpse"), but you will never conquer time Mr. Schamber. [Editor's note: if you would have read the article you would know that I am reacting against such an attitude, not expounding it.] While your futile struggle continues, many of us will take positive action on more important issues. It is not misguided thinking that leads me to believe our ecology, our economy, global crises, and political rivalry are unalterable conditions.

Do not analyze your classmates by their involvement in school affairs, or lack thereof. Two year programs may mean two years of one's life influenced by NAIT policies, but two years are so short as to be inconsequential. The challenge to act lies outside our doors.

As for what is within, I have encountered poor teachers as surely as I have found excellent instructors, skilled in presenting the proper facts in the proper light. The poor teachers have risen to their level of incompetence. Indeed, NAIT does not represent the real world. This self-policing structure will not allow a proper forum through which to make internal changes that are too controversial.

We can change the dress code for Rock and Talk. Big deal. Can we change important factors here at NAIT? You can not delegate responsibility without giving it due authority. Simply-stated, if you want involvement, take away your tacky rules and let us roll up our sleeves and attack the problems as we see fit. If you want action, if you want student activism, give us an opening. Don't distract us from key issues (such as the quality of courses and instructors) with contests to predict how the world will end.

It is a mistake to view the facts of life in black and white. Those are the colours of extreme cases. We live in a world of shady greys, and we must act and think accordingly. No crucial issue should be regarded save in its entirety.

I shall be content to leave NAIT and re-enter the mainstream of life, where I can challenge authority on proper ground and effect more important change.

Sincerely,
Ray Dufresne

EVERYBODY TAKE NOTE

We are sick and tired, yes very sick and tired, of people nagging the present yearbook staff about last year's yearbook. If you have any inquiries, ask the people putting it together, ie. Mike Vadden, last years Editor at 481-4081. Thank you for your co-operation.

Counselling

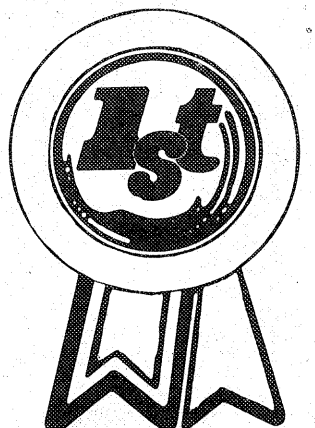

To better serve you, Student Services has expanded its Counselling Services and has hired a Financial Aid and Awards Officer. One of my roles is to provide financial counselling to students who require advice and assistance in financing their academic year and another is to keep students and staff informed of the latest material available on scholarships and awards. I intend to use the services of the Nugget to communicate to you any new information and changes regarding loans and awards. If you seek assistance in applying for a student loan or would like information on obtaining bursary or scholarship, you can direct your inquiry to:

Scholarships

The Canadian Graphic Arts Scholarship Trust Fund offers seven (7) or more scholarships varying in amount from $100 to $500 per academic year to secondary students who are completing their final year of study and to college students already enrolled in college-level courses leading to a career in the graphic arts. The graphic communications industries are in need of skilled personnel to work in the printing, publishing and packaging industry. SAIT offers a two year program in Graphic Arts Administration leading to a Diploma of Applied Arts. Application deadline for a scholarship is January 31, 1982.

President's Message

On Thursday, and Friday, of this week, you will be presented with the opportunity to make a decision on the extra parking areas found around our campus. Your decision will be made available to you in the form of a petition. Before going into the details, I should provide you with a little pertinent background information.

On October 21, 1981, I wrote to the City of Edmonton Engineering Department, a letter on the following subject:

Converting 117 & 117A Avenue, between 103 & 116 Street to One-Ways, and permitting either angle parking or parking on both sides of the avenues during NAIT's regular daytime hours.

Presently, we have established a parking allocation system based on one's priorities. In our system there are 4 accepted priorities, and after eliminating the fraudulent applications, we still have some 3,000 student applications. This implies that whether or not NAIT can accommodate them, these people must drive their cars to NAIT each and every regular school day. As a result, they are forced to park on the surrounding streets.

Last fall, it was brought to my attention that the city established parking bans on some of the local streets within walking distance of NAIT. As a result, those students who are forced to park on the streets are now in a bit of a squeeze, they must now walk at least an extra 3 - 4 blocks.

To make a long story short, the City Engineering Department examined our request and determined that no technical objection to creating one-ways and establishing two side parking is apparent. However, they claimed that local residents must support this action, and the City distributed a circular soliciting resident reaction. Once I got wind of this circular, I sent a letter to all of the residents explaining our motive and plans and asked for their opinion. I received an earful of opinion telling me that if our proposal goes through that their "little Johnny will grow up thinking that he only has to look one way when crossing the street."

To make matters very interesting, the residents, who rent through the Edmonton Housing Authority, organized a petition to shelve our objective. The gathered a whole 30 signatures. As a result of their petition, the City's Engineering Dept. notified me that they can no longer support our objective.

In essence, we should not settle for this nonsense and I believe that we should go for the top. This means that we forward our results of our petition to the Mayor and Council members, empowering them to reconsider the facts, and just maybe we can accommodate an extra 170 parking stalls for our students.

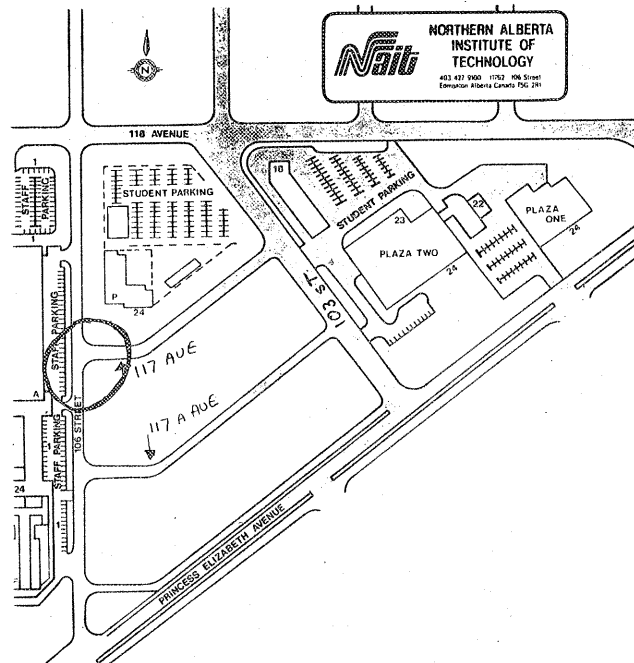

If you believe that this cause is justified, please sign your name on the petition; however, you must be a resident of the City for at least 6 months to be eligible to sign. Petitions will be set up on Thursday and Friday in the Tower Lounge, South Lobby and Plaza II.

David Whalen, President
NAIT Students' Association

PETITION

We request the City Clerk to direct to the Mayor and Members of Council of the City of Edmonton the following petition. We the undersigned, citizens of Edmonton, request that both 117 and 117A Ave. between 103 and 106 streets (which has parking on only one side) be changed to a one way street, with parking on both sides of the street, for the following reasons:

1. 1500 plus persons must have access to safely walk between NAIT Plaza Campus and Main Campus.
2. Pedestrian and child safety.
3. To increase accessibility of available parking for both the Residents and NAIT Personnel.
4. Quickly subdue the otherwise heavy volume of traffic on the above stated roads.
5. Eliminate the confusion of two way traffic on these presently disorderly roads.
6. Prevent motorists travelling Northbound on 106 St., headed for 118 Ave., from using 117 A Ave. as a short cut to avoid lights.

Meet Your Student Executive

by Ken Williams

Students of NAIT, I had the opportunity of catching the treasurer of NAITSA I refer to Ross Salmon. This is a busy time for him since one fiscal year has finished and another one has begun. I did manage to sit down with him for a few minutes.

Ross was the person who received roughly 198,000 dollars of your money when you enrolled. $14,000.00 was given back to people who decided education was not for them.

Ross Salmon is no stranger to work. Besides his own studies, he works for the students of NAITSA in two ways.

One of the ways that he is involved in helping students is through the students finance board. He is one of the members who sits on the board and stays tuned to what's happening.

The second, and probably the most recognized form of involvement is his role as NAITSA's treasurer. In this position he is responsible for every penny that the Student's Association receives. This receivership is not like someone coming into his office and giving him a pile of money which he counts and hides away. The money he is responsible for comes from diversified investments.

Through wise money management and control previous NAITSA council have accumulated a good return which has put them in the ball park of half a million dollars in the black. In order to figure this out it would help to be a second year Business Administration student like Ross, who is majoring in accounting.

People like Ross Salmon who take the time to become involved and interested in helping people are the type that NAITSA will be looking for in March.

This March when elections begin I hope we have a few more people like Ross Salmon who get involved.

Career Opportunities

By Mitchell C. Fraser

Go Knock Knock Knock Splash

As I grew up in one of those small towns that connect the highways to make up the mosaic of Alberta, I was constantly being chastised for my unorthodox behavior. "When you grow up Davey, you're going to have to change your ways. David, quit fooling around and be something. Such nonsense will not be tolerated in the big world. You better shape up or they'll come and get you."

I kept looking for the bad guys to come riding into town and take me away. The years were peeling away and soon that awful day of decision would have to be made. I would have to become someone other than a kid with imagination. The horror.

Those days of looking over my shoulder for the bad guys, coupled with all those westerns on television like 'Rawhide' and 'Big Valley', 'Bonanza' and 'The Rifleman' orientated my career orientations. I wanted to be a cowboy when I grew up. So I shed my kid clothes and turned myself in. It was a shock to my system when I went to apply to be a cowboy. I found it was a bunch of bull. My whole life dissolved in front of my eyes. What would I do? Kiddom was behind me.

I could no longer run away as I had often threatened to. A freckly faced kid from my home town ran away when he was fourteen to join the circus. He wanted to be a stilt walker, but was told he didn't have a leg to stand on of becoming one.

A friend of mine who inherited a service station offered me a job. I considered being a service station attendant but found I didn't have the gas for it. So that was one more career knocked off the shelf. Trips to outerspace were in the vogue about that time so I went and applied to be an astronaut. They refused my application, said I was too spaced out.

I should have started feeling suicidal about that time, but reports of friends having similar problems reached me. I hate to say it, but their disappointments in career hunting cheered me up. There was a group of friends whom I associated with once in awhile at high school. They were snobbish and had their career opportunities set quite high. One wanted to become a doctor but found he didn't have enough patience. This chubby, ugly girl wanted to become a brain surgeon, but found she didn't

Alchemy is still alive

What mechanism will create a friend out of a man?
What implement will oppose the dynamic wedge of misinterpretation and seal the gap of friendship?

A man is a part of that magnificent magnetic phenomenon that can nurture as well as mystify. They are generally equipped with two hands and two feet, but seldom have more than one thing on their mind. Molding a friend such as a male has been one of the most challenging and complex formulations known through out history. This creation requires a working knowledge of plastic art, psychology, patience, logic, faith, hope, and charity, as well as the ability to preserve one's sanity in the face of insurmountable odds.

How inexplicable that a soft and tender thing like a woman would even enjoy the intimate company of a stubby-chinned, tobacco and beer-belching thing like a man.

If you flatter a man you confuse and frighten him. If you don't you bore him to tears. If you are uncomplicated, dependent, and incapable of making a decision, he considers you a dense house Frau and dreams of the ambitious imaginative type. He feels you are a radical feminist trying to compete with him and eventually establishes a more 'active' relationship with some feather-brained playmate.

If you wear racy clothes, spike heels and a punk hair-do, he hesitates to be seen with you. If you wear jeans, sneakers and ponytail, he spends all evening drooling over the woman wearing racy clothes, spike heels and a punk hair-do.

If you are a virtuous, traditional woman, he'd prefer the sizzling passion of all the latest crazes. If you are aggressive, uninhibited and experimental, he considers you a sick pervert in need of psychiatric assistance.

If you insist your relationship is platonic, he's sure he's been rejected and goes into hiding. If you try to coax him out of hiding, he thinks it's a come-on and tries every move on the board. If he gets what he wants he becomes disinterested and it's finished. If he doesn't get what he wants he becomes disinterested and there's no beginning.

What scale will balance the incongruities of the male mind? What processor will blend the charm of reality, the thrill of fantasy, and the substance of hopes and dreams, yet still produce that wonderfully tender condition called friendship...Consumer Reports fails me.

Post Secondary Funding

This spring the Federal Government is reviewing its commitment to post-secondary funding. A massive cutback would drastically affect us all. The following is a press release from the Secretary of State, Gerald Regan. He assures us to not to worry. What, me worry!

Many students, along with university and college administrators and faculty members, are concerned about the future of government funding for our universities and community colleges. As Secretary of State, I share this concern, and I am committed to work to improve the methods by which government funding for post-secondary education is provided.

The Government of Canada shoulders the major cost of post-secondary education. Under the 1977 agreement, the national government is contributing over $3 billion to the operating costs of post-secondary education in 1981-82. That amounts approximately to 56 per cent of the total operating cost of post-secondary institutions.

The government of Canada also contributes over $2 billion for students loans, research grants, occupational training and other items involved in post-secondary and other education.

These are the facts. Unfortunately, Canada's 1.5 million full and part-time students attending universities and community colleges have been often fed rumors and distortions by parties employing scare tactics for political ends.

The Liberal government initiated direct support for post-secondary institutions in 1951. It was the Liberal government which agreed in 1967 to provide funding directly to provinces to operate post-secondary institutions according to the local and regional needs of the provinces.

As Premier of Nova Scotia, I demonstrated my support for higher education because I believed that money spent on a high quality of education was an investment in the future of my province. I continue to believe in the priority of post-secondary education, and my goal as Secretary of State is to work to strengthen government support for higher education in this country, and to improve the ability of our universities and colleges to meet national objectives.

Become a Nugget Reporter
Our Motto
Search and Destroy

At the same time, the Federal Government is concerned about present arrangements for the funding of post-secondary education which the Federal Government is paying through transfers to the provinces and the decreasing share of the operating cost of post-secondary institutions being paid by some provinces. If an increasing amount of available Federal funds continues to be used in this manner, there will be correspondingly less money available for direct Federal programs designed to achieve national goals and objectives.

Likewise, the Government of Canada wants greater assurances from provincial governments that money from the national treasury is actually being spent on post-secondary education. Under the present arrangement, there is no accountability or visibility for the Government of Canada's contribution to the provinces for post-secondary education.

In the immediate future, I am undertaking a comprehensive review of federal support for post-secondary education. I will be consulting with university and college administrators, students and faculty members, as well as with the provinces in order to determine the best ways to improve government support for post-secondary education.

With the support of the university and college communities, I am confident that it will be possible for me to work together with the provinces to reach an agreement for improving the funding and the very structure of post-secondary education.

Secretary of State
Gerald A. Regan

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Al Fell

NAIT Men's Basketball Athlete of the Month is Al Fell. The 5' 9" guard hails from Unity, Saskatchewan but has called Alberta his home for the last four years. Al who is a second year Business student majoring in Accounting and Finance is Athlete of the Month because he makes a contribution to the team which cannot be measured in points per game or rebounds. Al is the team leader in attitude, hustle, and desire. According to Oaks Coach Dave Hoy, Al's leadership qualities make him a most valuable member of the team. "Al's leadership qualities rub off on all the other team members...When Al works hard so does everybody else...When Al gets enthusiastic it rubs off." It would appear that every team could use a player like Al. Congratulations on being chosen player of the month.

Ooks blast opposition

The signs of improvement that were in evidence in the January 2 match against the University of Alberta Golden Bears, transomed into results for the Oaks during this past week. In two contests, (one exhibition against Vaestra Froelunda of Sweden and one league game against Camrose Lutheran College Vikings), the Oaks outscored their opponents 26 - 5.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 6--OOKS 13, VAESTRA FROELUNDA 3 at NAIT

Seven second period goals helped the Oaks down Vaestra Froelunda of the Swedish Elite Junior Division, 13 - 3. The ninth game in eleven days for the Goteburg, Sweden club seemed to be one too many as they appeared tired. On the other hand, the Oaks were ready to play and savored the victory over the Swedes in front of their largest crowd of the season, 360.

Brian Hermanutz lead the way for the Oaks by completing the hat trick. Both Dave Souch and Wayne Perkins had two goals. Warren Sanregret, Mike Moskalyk, Ray Anderson, Ron Chorney, Kent Wilmot and Ken Ludwig rounded out the Oaks scoring.

For Vaestra Froelunda, Lars Ramneborn fired two tallies in the span of seven seconds in the final frame. Mikael Andersson notched the other Vaestra Froelunda marker.

NAIT dominated the play in the final two periods as the shotson goal total (47-16) would indicate. Partial scores in the contest were 3 - 1 after the first and 10 - 1 at the end of two.

Carling O'Keefe presented Most Valuable Player Awards to a player on each club. The winner on the Oaks was Captain Wayne Perkins who had four points (two goals and two assists). His Swedish counterpart, Mikael Andersson tallied their lone marker of the first 40 minutes.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 10--OOKS 13, CAMROSE LUTHERAN COLLEGE VIKINGS 2 AT NAIT

Strong back checking, three shorthanded goals and as all-around team effort guided the NAIT Oaks to a 13 - 2 beating of the Camrose Lutheran College Vikings on Saturday, January 10. The first league action of the new year for both clubs provided the Oaks with two points, a 7 win 6 loss record, and a chance to move in second place in the A.C.A.C.

Daryl Holmquist was NAIT's pillar of strength as he tallied twice and accumulated four assists. Kent Wilmot, Ken Ludwig, and Wayne Perkins also notched a pair of goals in the game. The other Oaks marksmen were Ron Chorney, Greg Fischer, Ray Anderson, Rod Arychuk, and Brian Hermanutz.

Replying for the Vikings were Blair Gaume in the first and Doug Osness in the third. Partial scores in the contest were 5 - 1 at the end of one and 9 - 1 after two.

Ken Hodge handled the Oaks netminding duties and turned away 36 shots. Matt Hayduk and Murray Stevens stopped 36 of 49 shots directed at the Vikes net.

ON THE BENCH: The Oaks have two injuries to report. Darrell Slupek is out for an undetermined length of time with an ankle injury. Gary Hoekstra will not dress for at least a week due to a knee problem aggravated this past week...Kent Wilmot is proving that with ice time, he is one of the Oaks more valuable assets, notching three goals and one assist in his last two games. Tom Tookey is coming around providing solid defence and making his mark on the scoreboard with three assists in the Camrose game. Oak defenceman Warren Sanregret is the first Oak to have his fan club present at a contest this season...The next game for the Oaks is on the road when they will meet the Camrose Lutheran College Vikings in the Rose City on Wednesday, January 13. The Oaks will return home of Friday, January 22, when they entertain the team which is currently involved with them in the dog fight for second place, the Red Deer College Kings. Game time is 8:00 and admission is FREE with your NAIT I.D. card.

KAMLOOPS BASKETBALL TRIP

by Jennifer Fricke

On Thursday, January 7th, the NAIT basketball teams travelled to British Columbia for three days of exciting play at the Cariboo College in Kamloops.

Leaving at 6 am Thursday morning, the teams travelled through snowy, scenic mountains, arriving in Kamloops shortly after 4 pm B.C. time. The girls had to play at 5:15, so after checking into the David Thompson hotel, they dressed and left for the Kamloops Senior Secondary High School, where they met the Selkirk College Saints. Although the Oochicks started out well, they were behind 29-39 at the end of the first twenty minutes of play. Rose MacMillan played well offensively, and Darcy Goodwin greatly supported the 'chicks defence.

During the second half, the Oochicks quickened the pace of the game, and came within a few points, but the Saints maintained their 10 point lead, winning 70-60. The 'chicks had tried pressing constantly during the last five minutes of the game, but the fatigue from the lengthy bus trip showed through. Top scorers were Marina Blaskovits with 10 and Janice Rosenburger with 16.

There was just over 6 minutes left in the first half of the mens game when assistant coach Mark Dobko and I arrived at the Cariboo College from the high school. During that time, I watched very close game between our Oaks and the Cariboo College Chiefs, with the Chiefs edging the Oaks 29-27 at the end of the first half.

There was an unexpected rest break for both teams during the second half. Midway through the period, the Chiefs took the ball into the Oaks end and took a shot. Sean Phelan and 2 Chiefs went up for a rebound. The ball was freed and headed out of bounds, so one of the Chiefs went sprawling to retrieve it, hit the wall and cried out in pain. Standing just a few feet away from the player, I was able to see a severely dislocated shoulder. The player waited a good five minutes before properly treated. The game continued after the Chief was hauled away on a stretcher, remaining very close up to the last minute. With 51 seconds left in the game, Sean Phelan was fouled upon and sunk the 2 foul shots he took, tying the score at 65. Then with 10 seconds to go, Ed Hammermeister was also fouled upon. He made 1 of his 2 shots putting the Oaks into the lead 66-65. But the Chiefs made 1 last mad rush into the Oaks end and scored 2 points, defeating NAIT 67-66. The Oaks played an excellent game, with Harry Blacker as top scorer with 15 points, and Emanuel Bertolin, second with 13.

FRIDAY JAN. 8

The Oochicks played Calgary's Mount Royal Cougars at 10:45 Friday morning. NAIT opened the game with 4 points from Darcy Goodwin and 2 pts. from Janice Rosenburger's foul shooting before Mount Royal got on the board. The score went back and forth, with both teams trying to out play one another. It was 22-22 at the end of the first half.

Again, it was very close throughout the second half. Near the end, rose macMillan and Darcy Goodwin, 2 of the team's better players, fouled out. But that didn't stop the 'chicks as they went on to defeat the cougars 53-49. Janice Rosenberger with 18 pts. and Darcy Goodwin with 14 pts. Mount Royal is considered one of the top teams in the ACAC and the 'chicks and coach Gregg Meropoulos were very happy to knock them out of the tourney.

The men's team played at 9:15 Friday night versus the Mount Royal Cougars. Emanuel Bertolin scored 2 points on foul shots to open the game. At one time during the first half it was 27-26 in favor of the Cougars with the Oaks giving them a competitive challenge. But the Calgary team pulled away, with impressive offensive playing leading 46-30 at the end of the first half.

Then NAIT came on strong in the second half with some awesome rebounding. The Oaks came within 2 points of the Cougars score. Murray Proctor fouled out of the game on an unbelievable call for his fifth foul. Proctor had taken on a shooter in the Oaks end zone, went up with him and as the player tried to shoot, Murray checked him beautifully, not touching the opposing Cougar at all. But the ref decided to play blind and the second he saw Proctor jump, he blew the whistle. Needless to say, Proctor was upset as well as the rest of the team. As the game continued, NAIT's passing deteriorated, and the Cougars took advantage of this as they defeated our squad 78-72. Top scorers were Bertolin and Proctor with 14 and 12 points respectively.

SATURDAY JAN. 9

At 1:00 Saturday afternoon the Oochicks took on the Gold Rush - the women's team representing Cariboo College, who fouled on the 'chicks twice to start the game. Two fast breaks by Janice Rosenberger put 4 points on the board for the NAIT team. Constant pressure and a tight defence put the 'chicks ahead 31-11 by the end of the first half.

The Gold Rush scored 6 points before NAIT got on the board at the start of the 2nd half but the Oochicks maintained a good lead defeating the B.C. team 63-41. Outstanding shooting by top scorer Sandy Poole gave her 18 points with Janice Rosenberger scoring 12 points.

At 4:30 the Oochicks played the College of New Caledonia (CNC) for the consolation final. Five seconds into the game CNC fouled and then Rosenberger scored 2 points for the 'chicks. NAIT's defence fell apart as CNC led by an 8 point margin but the Oochicks managed to pull up a bit near the end of the first half, only behind 24-28. The "high" from the game before wasn't part of the team for the game against CNC. As they couldn't get it together, losing 52-62. It seemed the 'chicks couldn't sink a shot. Coach Gregg Meropoulos stated that his team "WAS NOT MENTALLY READY." Top scorer: Janice Rosenberger 18 pts. Darcy Goodwin 12 points.

The overall outcome of the tourney: Camrose Vikettes won the women's A event and the College of N.C. won the men's. Due to some overexposure, the pictures failed to turn out properly much to my dismay.

Technology Corner

A new program for technology participation is in effect today. From January to May 6 or 7 technologies will be responsible for writing an article for each Nugget published that month. The information can be technology update, views on NAIT or information learned in class.

For each article written, the technology will receive 50 points. The points will be added to the General Council Attendance points. At the year end, plaques will be awarded to the technology which has the most points for participation.

The reporting duty schedule for January is as follows:

Medical X-Ray
Computers
Court Reporting
Telecom

Court Reporting

Rumor has it that Court Reporting is the smallest technology attending NAIT. We consist of 31 people: three of which are of the male gender and the rest of which are gorgeous females.

We are located in the Tower Building. We will give out phone numbers at your request and our discretion. We are highly recognizable as we are built for speed.

If you have ever attended one of our cabarets you will know that we love to party and have a good time. Our motto is "Nothing matters but the weekends."

For our next exciting installment tune in to this paper next week when we discuss our equipment.

Electronics Technology

Do you want to pay $1 more for every cabaret you attend? Do you want your technology to lose its liquor privileges due to a small technicality. Under current NAITSA guidelines the above could happen.

On December 1, 1981, NAITSA general council voted 29-4, on the following point;

A penalty will be assessed to the technology making a serious violation of the regulations and these are the following penalties;

- 1) 3 month suspension of liquor licence for any function
- 2) $1 fine per person for everyone in attendance which will go towards the building fund. Do you know how your tech. voted?

NAITSA has yet to define what a serious violation is. No matter how they define it, I believe this ruling gives NAITSA too much power. The individual technology clubs rely on these social functions to make some money, so they can lower the cost on some special function (graduation, closed party) to their technology.

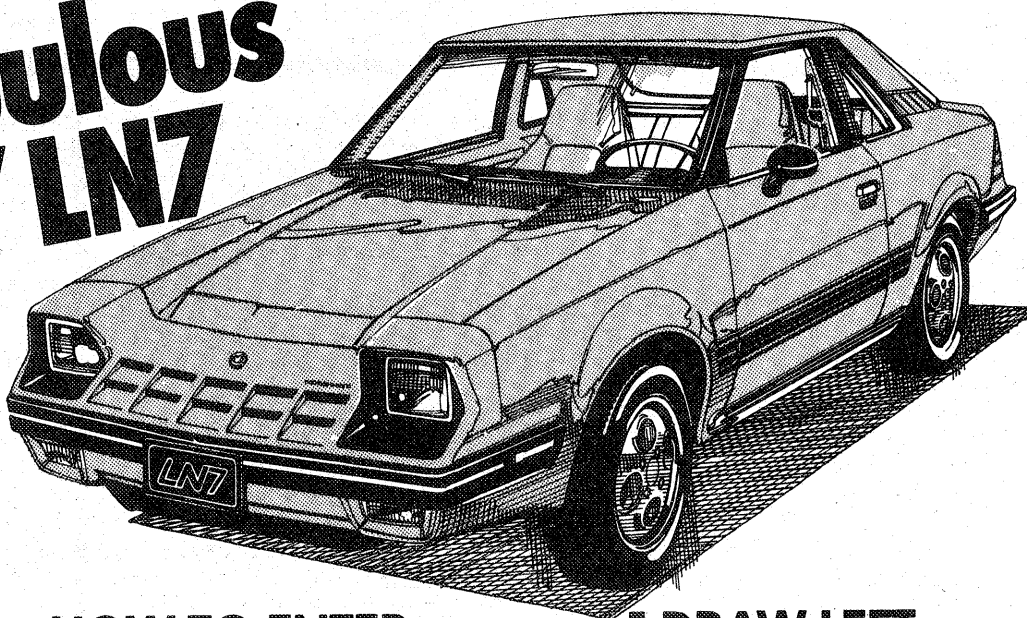

Let your views be heard. Talk to your tech. rep. or come to the next general council meeting and let them know how you feel.

ENTER THE LONG DISTANCE FEELING SWEEPSTAKES

Still a fabulous

It could be yours!

GET THE FEELING:

Imagine how good it would feel to be sitting in the cockpit of the most aerodynamic standard-equipped North American car on the road today. And knowing it's all yours.

Long Distance

TransCanada Telephone System

HOW TO ENTER:

By now you're all revved up and ready to go. So hold on to that feeling as you complete the entry form below. Read the rules and regulations carefully and then solve the Long Distance Feeling Tele-Scrambler.

I DRAW LEFT:

Janice Wagner of Queen's University, Kingston and Marie Perkins of Concordia University, Montreal will each be driving around in a sporty Mercury LN7. But don't give up hope - there's still another draw on February 15th. So enter now. Who knows, you could be the third lucky winner giving the folks back home a jingle. The jingle of the keys to your brand new LN7, that is!

Will You Get Yours

Thursday and Friday, 12:00 - 1:00 at the main campus, the 1982 yearbook staff will be selling personalizations and graduation supplements.

Having your 1982 yearbook personalized is an excellent finishing touch. The gold lettering is more than just sentimental keepsake that will be cherished for years to come. It will assure you of a copy. Due to budget restraints, only 2,600 copies will be published. A personalized yearbook can't be given to anyone except yourself. In this way you have reserved yourself a copy.

Since this year's Northern Torch will be available before graduation, a graduation supplement will be available.

This supplement sticks to the inside back cover of the yearbook with an adhesive strip. The supplement will be a beautifully captured pictorial essay of the final moments of graduating NAIT students. The tensions, excitement and joy will be relieved for years to come through this supplement. Certainly a must for every graduate. Ask your room rep. for more details.

Entertainment

Spiders and Snakes in the Cold

by Brian Stein

On Sunday, January 10th, I had the pleasure of viewing the many talents of Jim Stafford. For the individuals who braved the road to the Corral they were not disappointed with the whole-hearted performance of the Nashville On the Road co-host.

Jim introduced his set with the David Bellamy composition, Spiders and Snakes. Accompanying himself on the Spanish guitar, Jim followed up with That's What Little Kids Do and Mama Knows. The Florida native then added a new dimension to his vinyl rendition of the Wildwood Weed.

The small but very enthusiastic crowd was given the chance to join in on the chorus of his early 70's Top Ten hit My Girl Bill, and, after a little encouragement, the audience came around. Jim then turned the hands of time ahead to one year ago when his selection from the motion picture "Any Which Way You Can" entitled Cow Patti broke onto the country charts.

In the second half of the set, Jim displayed his versatility. Jim's rendition of Malaguena on the Spanish guitar is something to be reckoned with. Jim then picked up the fiddle and performed The Devil Went Down to Georgia. Following his memorable rendition of the Charlie Daniels Band best seller, Jim brought the Banjo to life with Dueling Banjos, Hoe Them Rendition the Alabama Jubilee. Jim closed out his 90 minute act with Dear Ole Dixie, the story of a girl finding a man to help her move. After a standing ovation, Jim came back to perform Turn Loose of My Leg for an encore.

Between numbers, Jim entertained the crowd with stories that always can be related to and hit the funny bone. From the tale of Jim's first cigarette that he ever smoked to the yarn of Reverend Moly in Florida or how cats were used in the making of guitars, Jim somehow managed to tie the story into his next song.

There was only one minor flaw in the Jim Stafford Show. On more than one occasion, Jim left his microphone during a tale, and if an individual was at the back of the Corral, he/she would not catch the punch line.

When Jim appears live, the act flows smoothly. Jim also develops a relationship with his audience that makes his stage show more satisfying than his television appearances.

There is no doubt that Jim Stafford is one of the most versatile and talented entertainers to come along in the 70's. Combine Jim's singing and songwriting with his guitar strumming, fiddle playing, banjo picking, and his spontaneous material, one will discover a colorful all-around entertainer. Unfortunately, Jim and his four piece orchestra do not receive the recognition they justly deserve. Night after night, Jim comes on stage to do his best in front of an audience -- large or small.

Backing Jim is the Jim Stafford "Learn-As-You-Earn" Orchestra. The impeccable four-piece band compliments Jim extremely well. The most versatile member of the group is Steve Ban Gelder, who can hold his own at the fiddle, mandolin or lead guitar. Californian Mark Gasbarro is at the keyboards providing first rate instrumental back-up and vocal harmony. Drummer Rick Drumr and bassist Rollie Salley round out the band.
