WHAT DO YOU THINK?

It has been suggested to "The Nugget" that we go the route of other sensationalist rags by printing photos of a weekly "NAIT Knockout" boy and girl. We'd like to hear everyone's opinion on this matter, because it is your paper. Student's and staff should address their replies to "The Nugget at E-128.

"SOCCER OOKS IN COMBAT"

Brian McDonald, Toronto.

NAIT Ooks won two and lost two defeating British Colombia in consolation final to finish fifth overall.

FINAL STANDINGS

- 1st Seneca College of Ontario Gold
- 2nd Ahuntsic College of Quebec Silver
- 3rd Dawson College of Quebec Bronze
- 4th Sheridan College of Ontario
- 5th NAIT of Alberta
- 6th Cariboo College of B.C.
- 7th Canadian Bible College of Saskatchewan
- 8th University of Kings College of Nova Scotia

The Soccer Ooks are back from Toronto now, where they showed an impressive performance in the Canadian College Invitational Soccer Championship. The tournament was held on November 8th, 9th, and 10th and was hosted by Seneca College. Though the Ooks are not Canadian Champions they did win the respect and admiration of the other colleges that attended the tournament. The Ooks representing varsity level soccer in Alberta, once again showed them easterners that sport in Alberta is taken seriously even when having to overcome some setbacks.

GAME 1

NAIT's first game was against second-ranked Sheridan College of Oakville Ontario. Sheridan had an 8 win and 1 loss record going into this game and they had won the Ontario College Athletic Association (OCAA) Championship. Sheridan's strength was in its midfield and they did a not bad job of containing the NAIT forwards to only a few chances at net. The wind was in Sheridan favor in the second half when they managed to steal what was to be the only goal of the game. It was a fine effort by NAIT considering they hadn't played outside for about three weeks.

GAME 2

In the second spectators saw some great play by NAIT, as they took on the Dawson College Blues. Dawson College is in Montreal, Quebec.

They had a lot of speed especially in their forwards. Though Dawson scored the first goal just minutes into the first half, the Ooks never lost heart. After a throw-in by Jerry Catena it was kicked towards the net by Ted Chrusciel and then gracefully headed by Aaron Sushyski across to Carlos Nunez. Carlos wasted no time in finding an opening in the Quebecois net. It was a tight game up until 7 minutes left in the second half when Dawson got the winning goal.

GAME 3

On the Friday the Ooks played Nova Scotia. The Ooks were determined to post a victory after dropping two close ones on Thursday. NAIT won this game by smothering Kings College seven to one. They completely dominated Nova Scotia with Carlos Nunez and Oscar Nunez putting in two goals each and Fred Barrios, Joe Parrottino, and Ted Chrusciel all putting in one goal each. Keeper Brian Bens was spectacular on a number of occasions, keeping Nova Scotia to only one goal.

This left NAIT in 3rd position in their pool which meant they would not go on to the medal round. The Ooks then had to play Cariboo College of B.C. who also finished third in their pool.

The Ooks knew that this fourth game would be a tough one because of the reputation of B.C. teams. British Columbia has a very competitive league and were ranked number one coming into this tournament. It was a tough defensive game well up to the last remaining minutes. Though, with less than two minutes left captain Paul Rynn kicked in an excellent goal off of a corner kick. NAIT went on to win one to nothing.

TRIMESTER BLUES

Once again I have the feeling that a three ton weight is being suspended over my head by a thread. I'm sure everyone knows what I mean: weekends seem too short, assignments seem too long, and I feel like I'm slowly sinking in quicksand. Yes, my sweaty palms definately indicate to me that finals are once again around the corner. The depressing part is, I thought I just finished midterms. Too bad - the pressure cooker has been restarted.

Of course I realize that many students find themselves in the same predicament as I. NAIT's quarter system seems to promote this choppy, rushed feeling. This feeling is aggravated by major exams every six weeks. Although there is nothing to save me from the hectic trimester schedule, there are plans in the works to help future NAITers.

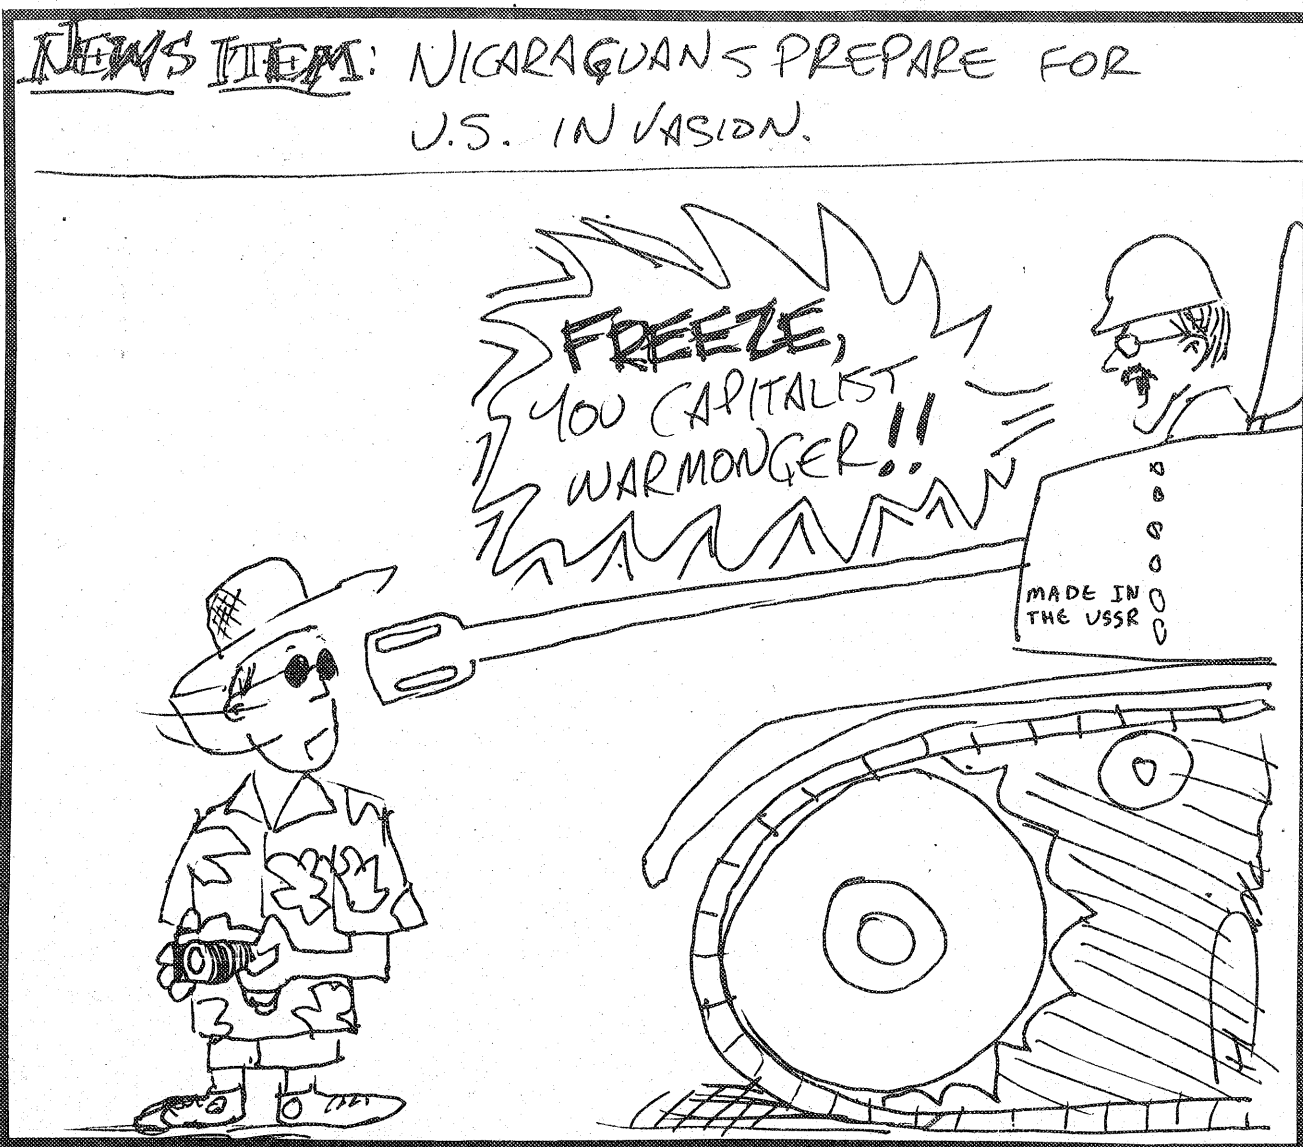

What I'm speaking about is the proposed change in our academic year. A change which has been the topic of discussion for a few years, and a change that is currently being tested out by Computer Systems Technology. The proposal would basically switch the Institutes' present quarter system into a more recognized semester system. This system has a number of possible advantages.

Some of the possible advantages would be: NAIT graduates would get out at the same time as U of A graduates; Christmas would be a real holiday instead of a study session for midterms; time would not be wasted by starting up and winding up courses three times a year.

At the moment, except for Computer Systems, the proposed change is only in the planning stage. Everyone is being allowed to speak their mind about any possible consequences that could result.

As a typical NAIT student, I would welcome the alternative, if only to alleviate the onrushing panic that I experience every five weeks. Of course there are many other benefits to be received, but each must tend to their own immediate crisis - don't you agree? Even if you don't agree, you must admit it makes you feel warm all over to realize someone is still watching out for the sanity of "Joe Student." Who says "Big Brother" can't be beneficial?

NAITSA HAS YOUR 75 DOLLARS

Make sure it's well spent!

At the November 6 General Council meeting the budget was presented to your elected representatives. The money in question is the seventy-five dollar Students Union fee that you paid along with your tuition and your ten dollar administrative fee at the beginning of the year. Just imagine what you could do with seventy-five dollars from every person who attends Nait on a full time basis. Quick math tells us that we're speaking here in terms of in excess of three hundred thousand dollars every year. 300,000 dollars!

Your seventy-five dollars is divided up by your student reps. The Naitsa executive council presented a budget to the General Council (your reps) and the representatives were to look over the budget, ask questions, propose changes and then vote whether to accept or reject the budget. As predicted the General Council, your representatives, sat there like they were bound and gagged. Except for some good prying questions posed by the Hydro Carbon, Respiratory and Commercial Cooking reps, questions about the budget's validity and accuracy weren't even mentioned.

40 per cent of YOUR seventy-five dollars goes towards financially supporting Nait's sports teams. That's thirty dollars of your money. Pause for a second and ask yourself if you're getting thirty dollars of entertainment value during the year from your intramural and athletic teams. If you think you are then fine. If you don't, come to the next General Council meeting, find your rep and tell him how you feel. Approximately $22,000 of your money will be spent supporting the Nait Nugget. This money (which represents approximately $3.67 from each student) is used for paying for our printing costs, our supplies and our honorariums. The Nait Nugget's editor, for example, earns a $180 honorarium each month. This can be compared to the honorarium earned by the executive Vice President, the Publications Chairman, the Athletics Chairman and the Secretary which is $228 per month. Again, if you agree with this or not, you're welcome to present your views in print via the letters to the editor or through your rep at the November 20 meeting at the Little Theater (H5). But, there are larger concerns at the moment than the honorariums given to Nait's hard-working staff.

Your executive has over $300,000 of free money tied up in term deposits. This is money above and beyond what revenue is made this year. This money is sitting there waiting to be spent by you because since you've paid your seventy-five dollars you have a RIGHT to say how it can be spent.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

-TO THE UNHAPPY FIRST YEAR EET STUDENT-FROM
EET PRESIDENT

When I read your first letter, (which was not printed) I reacted negatively. But since my job is to help EET students, not to criticize their problems, I kept my comments to myself. In subsequent weeks, I have read your 'cleaned up' version (printed Nov. 1) and the 3 responses (printed Nov. 8). Also I have talked to several other EET students and instructors, so I feel that I may now address your problem.

Since I don't know you, I will have to place you in one of the following categories; based on the comments and statements of your two letters:

- 1) A highly intelligent student, used to 'breezing through' high school courses, who has finally reached the limit of 'minimum work - sufficient gain' capability.
- 2) A bright student inflicted with a poor attitude which hinders his learning ability.
- 3) Another student who has been away from the books for a few years, and finding it very hard to regain read study habits or to focus his motivation, commitment, interests, etc.
- 4) A real partier who can't sacrifice his social life for education.
- 5) Someone who just likes to complain (this type will find problems in ANY system)

My advice to you is that if you are having difficulty understanding something, ASK! The EET student society offers limited, free tutoring (by 2nd year students). Also, many electronics students and instructors will be more than happy to offer help or advice.

As for the structure of certain courses, all I can say is accept them the way they are! Lots of time is spent every year reviewing and rewriting these courses. Believe me, they are the way they are for many good reasons.

If you're still not convinced, I invite you to talk to Dan Onischuk. He's an EET student who sits on the NAIT Academic Council (a body responsible for reviewing any changes in courses, instructors, etc.) Or come and see any of us in H-210.

Don't knock Nait, get involved and I'll promise you success.

John Roebuck
EET President

Dear Editor:

In the Thursday November 8/84 edition Mr. Pepin and Mr. Martin implied that Mr. Botsford was instrumental in setting up the present Electronics Engineering Technology program. Realistically full credit belongs to our Chairman, Mr. Kachman, and all of his enthusiastic and dedicated staff. May I further suggest that our "public image" is undoubtedly a tribute to the character and attitude of our past grads.

L. Botsford
Electronics Department

All letters to the editor should be typed or written neatly and double spaced. The letter deadline is Monday at 4:30 for the Thursday edition. All letters must include a signature and student I.D. number. Anonymous letters will not be printed, but names will be withheld upon the author's request. "The Nugget" reserves the right to edit for libel and length. Letters do not necessarily reflect the opinion of "Nugget" staff.

Because of the outstanding questions posed by the tech reps at the last meeting, the budget was not "rubber stamped". The next meeting, November 20, is when the budget will be reviewed again. You have a right to know how your money is being spent. Exercise this right! Make sure that your rep asks questions and try and to get your rep to make a movement for something that will benefit your tech.

You tech reps have a responsibility to your members. You should think that $75 per student in your tech is what you've contributed to this fund. For a large tech like business, they are responsible for just under $75,000 dollars! This is a lot of money to let others squander away!

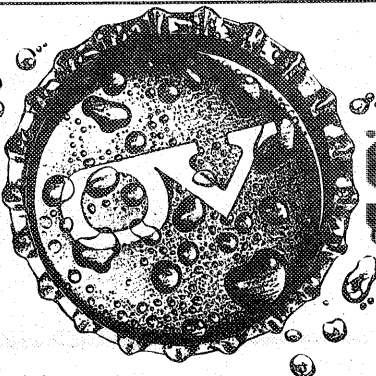

For some reason, few people realize the power that they have. So few people speak up at Nait that if one person speaks out, they will be heard. I think that this is important! Come to the meeting on November 20. If you can't make it, see the Naitsa President and ask for the accountability of your money. You have the right to know. Seventy-five dollars is too much money to not care about.

Richard Russell

EPILEPSY

The staff of Health Services would like to give you some information on Epilepsy.

If you have Epilepsy or suffer from seizures please make sure your instructors and some of your classmates are aware of this. Tell them how it affects you and how often you have seizures. Should you then have a seizure in class they won't panic and think you have a sudden serious condition. If someone has a seizure call the nurse (Main Campus 2400) Plaza II 2400) (Patricia Campus 451-6790)

WHAT IS EPILEPSY

Epilepsy is a condition in which the brain function is briefly disturbed. It is accompanied by electrical disturbances which can be measured. The condition is usually associated with loss of consciousness, convulsions, and occasionally brief periods of unusual behavior.

CAUSES OF EPILEPSY

The cause of epilepsy is not known in over 50 percent of patients. It can however, be caused by brain injuries, very often birth injuries and imbalance of body chemistry.

FIRST AID FOR EPILEPTIC SEIZURES

Keep calm. You cannot stop a seizure once it has started. Do not try to revive the patient. Let the seizure run its course.

Try to prevent the patient from striking his head or body against any hard, sharp or hot objects but do not interfere with his movement. Protect the patient from serious injury but do not restrain him otherwise.

DO NOT FORCE ANYTHING BETWEEN THE PATIENT'S TEETH.

Loosen tight clothing.

Turn the patient to the side and make sure his breathing is not obstructed.

Place something soft, such as a rolled-up coat, beneath the person's head.

When a patient regains consciousness let him rest, if he wishes to.

If a seizure lasts beyond 5 or 10 minutes, or if seizures occur repeatedly, medical aid is urgently required.

V.P. MESSAGE

Hi there!! It's your Vice Pres speaking again. Well the most active months of September and October have already come to a close. Through the months there has been a number of activities that I have been involved in and it might interest you the student to know about some of these happenings.

At the beginning of the month of October, there was a subcommittee meeting for the placement centre. Representatives from all techs were to attend this meeting, usually the program head, and I'm there to represent the student's news. After attending only my second meeting with the placement centre, I found that it offers the students a lot. The employees and counsellors within the placement centre try their best to find jobs and bring them to the students attention. If you are needing a job, contact the placement centre and ask to speak to one of the counsellors. There was also a Hire-A-Student meeting. Unfortunately I was not able to attend because a final exam had been scheduled at the same time. Being that it is the beginning of a new year, beginning preparations were made such as by-law changes.

On into November, Remembrance Day came quickly. Poppies were sold November 8, by the executive, from 11:00 to 1:00. The response was great.

If you are wondering about contributions, we had the opportunity to give $250 to Edmonton Shriner's Club for the burn unit. A plaque will be presented to the U of A hospital with the NAIT's Student Association written on it as one of the donors. We're hoping that more of our charities will be getting in touch soon.

My final announcement is that there will be a Blood Donor Clinic held in the North Lobby from 11:00 am to 3:00 pm on December 3-7. Those wanting to study at that time, I'm sorry for the inconvenience but its for a good cause. THAT'S IT FOR NOW. TILL ANOTHER REPORT AT A LATER DATE.

Holly Root
Vice President

SIDELINE NOTES

The Oaks can be proud of their performance considering they had to play in unseasonable weather and play teams that have been playing in developed leagues. Next season it is expected that the college soccer season in Alberta will be expanded.

VOLLEYBALL

Both the Oaks and Chicks were defeated by the visiting Grant McEwan squads. For the men, it was a case of just not showing up ready to play as they went down 3 games to 1. For the women however, there were some fine individual performances, but they just failed to et together as a team. They defeated 3 games to 1, but two of the games were 15-13 and 15-11. Both squads next see action next weekend against Lakeland College, in Vermillion.

SOFTWARE STRUGGLES

On October 27, 1984, the Association for Computer Machinery (ACM), held a programming contest, in which some of NAIT's Computer students were involved. This annual event involved 18 teams, and was held at the University of Alberta.

The 18 teams were from the Mountain Region of Canada and the United States. They had to solve ten mind boggling difficult questions, in six hours time. The winner of the contest was the team that could solve the most questions in the time period. Only six questions were solved by the winning team.

With teams ranging from Edmonton to New Mexico, it was difficult to get all the teams in the same place. So nine of the teams competed at the University of Alberta, and the other nine competed by remote phone.

The winner of the event was the University of New Mexico. The University of Saskatchewan finished in second place. These two teams will compete in an international programming contest to be held at a later date.

This year was the first time that NAIT was in the programming contest, and they finished in eighth place. NAIT's Computer Department was very pleased with the result. However, the four NAIT students that took part in the event were not completely satisfied. In the next event, they will be gunning to finish higher.

One of the students involved in the event said it was a lot of fun.

He said that seven of the questions were easy and the other three were very hard. To me, there is no such thing as an easy computer question, especially when it comes to programming. NAIT could have possibly finished higher in the event. One of the contestants said that NAIT was close to solving four more problems, and they could have solved them if they had a few minutes more.

There was some added incentive for NAIT to do well at the event. The University of Alberta entered two teams, which added competition for both schools. NAIT did beat one team from the University. That team finished in tenth place. However, the other University team finished in sixth place. two ahead of NAIT.

With an eight place finish, NAIT should be proud of it's Computer students. This contest proved that NAIT's Computer students can compete with the students of other schools.

DANG FINE PLAY

Lone Star
at Nexus Theatre in Micauley Plaza until Nov. 24

For those of us who frequent the movies but like the theatre, often it's the price of the ticket that deters us from attending. Small theatres are often more cheaply priced than movies, but the quality of the performance is sometimes equal to the price.

Not so with Lone Star, Nexus Theatre's latest offering for the theatre-goer. It's a gutsy tragicomedy worthy of the time and better than the money spent for it.

The play is set in a small town in Texas. The main character, Roy (Francis Damberger), has just returned from a two-year stint serving his country in the Vietnam War. He finds that things have changed considerably since he left; most of his friends have moved away, and the people have stayed have changed. He is trapped in wishing for a world that he left behind and now no longer exists. Damberger succeeds in portraying a man who desperately clings to all he has left - his '59 pink Thunderbird convertible, and his memories.

Steven Hilton plays Roy's brother Ray. Ray is a kind of idiot savant, although only in a figurative sense; his ability to reason is severely impaired (at one point he muses aloud as to why a Baby Ruth bar looks like a turd) but his empathy and his understanding of Roy's emotions shows he is far ahead of Roy in that department. Hilton does a fine job in a difficult role.

Myron Dearden as Cletis is the nerd who succeeds in spite of himself, the man who always lands on his feet and doesn't deserve to. The part seems to have been written in by playwright James McLure almost as an afterthought, so cartoonish is his character. But Dearden brings a depth to the character that adds believability to it.

There are no major hitches in Ben Henderson's direction of the piece, although there are times when Nexus' cramped space gets in the way of flexibility as far as blocking goes. Morris Ertman's set compensates nicely for this with a forced perspective and an overall design that makes good use of the space available.

Be sure not to miss Lone Star. It's one of the local theatre's gems this week. Hurry, though - students may only be able to catch it at its late night performance at 11:50 pm rather than the lunch hour performances, and the late night performance is Thursday only.

MOVIE UPDATE

BY BYRON A. MARTIN

Somebody up there must have liked George Burns' performance in "Oh God!"

Many famed actors have trod the boards as Hamlet and King Lear. But only George has played God - and done it so successfully that he is at it again for the third time in "Oh, God! You Devil." This time, however, calls for George to share top-billing with God's demonic rival, the Devil.

And just who has urbanity, the wit, the sly masculine appeal, insinuating smile, air of quiet menace, hypnotic stare, assured swagger and sexy singing voice that would make him a natural for this challenging second role?

The problem of one single actor portraying two separate individuals in the same scene - with unbelievable realism - might have been insurmountable. But clearly that was why God saw to it that a process known as Introvision was invented.

This amazing state-of-the-art camera and dual front-screen projection process allows George to play scenes with himself so realistically that the audience can see him as the Devil walking around behind himself as God. Unquestionably Introvision is a miracle!

With George doing battle against himself, the confrontation occurs in the monumental struggle for the soul of one man - a rock songwriter. Who could possibly be a more perfect choice for a satanic "Sting" operation? And what better arena than that of hard rock?

In "Oh, God! You Devil", Ted Wass stars as Bobby Shelton, the central figure in the Battle of Cosmic Wills, and Roxanne Hart is his concerned but bewildered wife Wendy who watches Bobby's rise to the top of the music industry - where there is indeed hell to pay.

CHEAP THRILLS

Let's face it, folks - the Grey Cup just won't be the same for us without the Green and Gold in it. That leaves all those leftovers from the dynasty just gathering dust in the closet. Well, don't just let them sit there - where's your Cheap Thrill sense?

PENNANTS - Get a thousand of your friends and line the streets of downtown waving old Eskies banners. You might give some old die-hard fan a nice warm spot - if he thinks the Esks have somehow risen again, he'll wet himself.

MINI-HELMETS - Remember those Dairy Queen sundaes that came in little football helmets? And you saved yours, right, fellow Esk fans? Well, now your pets can relive the glory days of the past. Think how pleased and proud your budgie, goldfish or turtle will feel wearing one of these symbols of a bygone era.

STICKERS - Some people no longer have a rear window, there are so many Esk stickers on there. Do them a favor and help prevent accidents by sneaking in at night, scraping the stickers off, and stapling them to their dog.

Descartes once said, "I think, therefore I am." Grey Cuppers say "It's there - that's why I drink." Take it easy on the goof water fellas - we want you around for another season.

COMMERCIAL COOKING

Commercial Cooking is a two year program which covers most of the theoretical and practical knowledge needed for the food industry.

It covers such areas as baking, shortorder, meat cookery, sauces, management, classical and national cookery.

Students spend 5 and a half weeks out in the industry working in different areas of the food industry, such as hospitals hotels and private clubs.

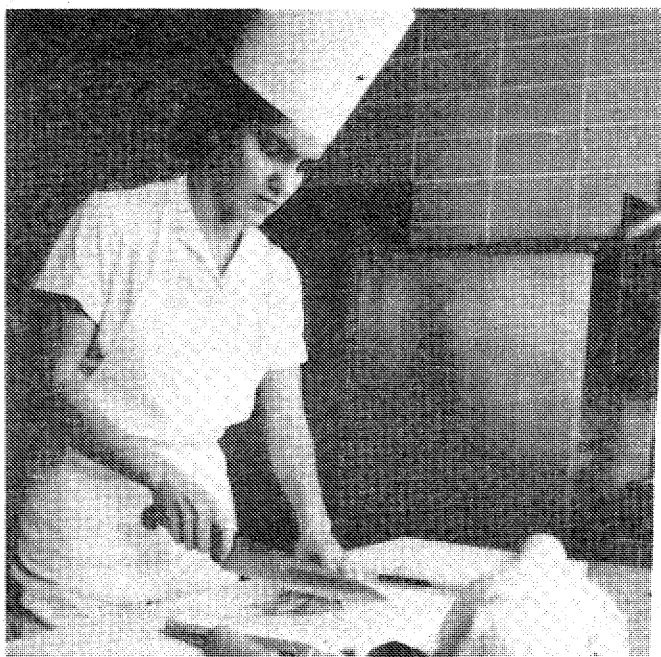

After graduation, most students choose to enhance their qualifications by obtaining a Journeyman's certificate. In order to do this, graduates must first complete one year (1800 hours) or related industrial experience, after which they are eligible to write an examination for their Journeyman's certificate.

Commercial Cooking is not all work, we have a very good club as well, where many extracurricular activities occur. Such activities as an annual Christmas party for a group of orphans in the city. Our club also does catering and special parties. We learn a lot as well as having a great time doing it.

This year our club will be making chocolate boxes which consist of different kinds of chocolates, made by us. They will be available at Christmas.

Other activities include different sporting events such as volleyball, water polo, and bowling. The cooks also go skiing in the mountains, if money permits.

We hope to have a good year this year and hope you do too. Good luck to all.

ELECTRICAL

ENGINEERING

TECHNOLOGY

This is a two year program which prepares its students for employment in the electrical field. Consisting of 120 guys and 4 gals, training is received in electrical and electronics theory, machines, protective relaying and a large portion of the course involves drafting and design of electrical systems. Of course, there's no avoiding math, physics, and english.

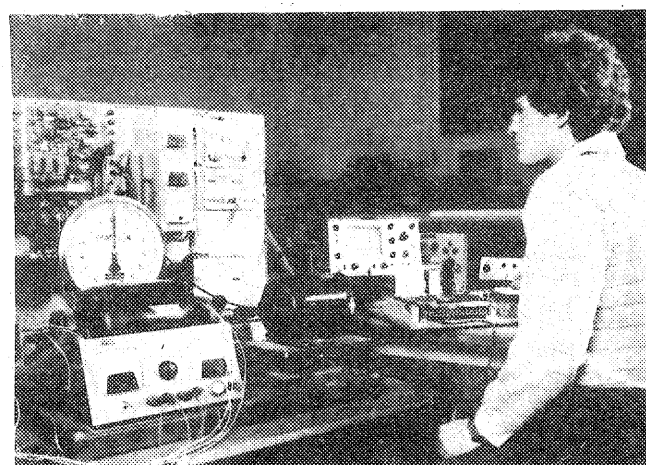

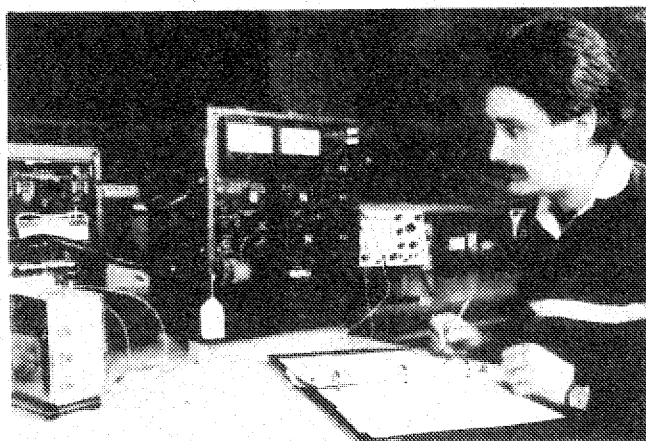

Graduates of this technology will find positions available in design, protective relaying, distribution, and many other areas. Also, a journeyman's certificate may be obtained after appropriate field training and qualification exams.

When not in class, it is not unusual to find ELT students at Franklin's the K-wing, or, if worse gets to worse, in the cafeteria catching up on WATTS new in CURRENT events.

Among our activities is the first year Vs. the second year hockey game which is held just prior to Christmas break. (In which second year has yet to win) Also, ski trips and cabarets are in the planning so we hope that you will join us. As once was said; "When ELT students do it, sparks fly!"

Good luck to you all!!!!

NAIT HOCKEY OOKS

There was exciting action elsewhere around the league this week as the Red Deer College Kings and the SAIT Trojans fought to a 5-5 draw in Red Deer Tuesday. Red Deer salvaged a point by scoring with seven seconds left in regulation and eight seconds remaining in overtime to erase 4-3 and 5-4 deficits respectively.

ON THE BENCH:

The NAIT Ooks injury list looks like a roll call at a M*A*S*H* unit. Ken Goodwin, Ross Kenny, and Garth Hayes are listed as probable for this weekend. Hugh McCaskill, and Mark Schultz are in the questionable category, Dave Simmons is listed as doubtful . . . The NAIT Ooks have the largest, and probably most capable coaching staff in the ACAC. Head coach Perry Pearn and assistants John Phelan, Wayne Perkins, Darrell Bokenfohr and Paul St. Cyr comprise the 1984-85 NAIT Hockey Ooks coaching staff . . . This weekend the NAIT Ooks travel to Red Deer to battle the College Kings. Game time is 8:00pm on Friday, November 16th. The next home game for the Ooks will be on Saturday, November 24th when the Mount Royal College Cougars come to the NAIT Arena. Action starts at 7:30pm . . . There are rumors that something might be in the works for the NAIT Hockey Ooks during the holiday season. No firm details are available as of yet.

For the first time in the 1984-85 ACAC hockey season the NAIT Ooks hold down top spot. NAIT moved into first place with a weekend sweep of the Camrose Lutheran College Vikings this past weekend. NAIT nipped the Vikings 3-1 in Camrose on Saturday, November 10th. The following afternoon, the Ooks defeated Camrose by a 5-3 count at the NAIT Arena.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10th--NAIT OOKS 3, CLC VIKINGS 1 AT CAMROSE REC CENTER, CAMROSE

The NAIT Ooks tallied twice in the final frame and held on to defeat the Camrose Lutheran College Vikings 3-1 on Saturday November 10th at the Camrose Rec Center in the Rose City.

Following a scoreless first period, Kevin Eger of CLC opened the scoring at 4:46 of the second. NAIT's Rob Hrytsak notched his first goal of the year to tie the game at 1-1 from Don Simpson and Scott Melnyk.

Tom Tookey of the Ooks slid the puck into the net at 4:48 of the third to give NAIT a 2-1 advantage. Ron Amyotte and Dave Simmons received assists. Sid Cranston completed the scoring at 15:10 of the third by adding an insurance goal on a Ron Amyotte set-up.

Both goalies played well and had the puck bounce their way on occasion. Blair McGregor of CLC stopped 30 NAIT drives while Jeff Lastiwka of NAIT, foiled Camrose 36 times.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 11th--NAIT OOKS 5, CLC VIKINGS 3 AT NAIT ARENA

The NAIT Ooks made November 11th a day to remember as they defeated Camrose for the second time in as many days. The Ooks scored a 5-3 triumph to move into first place in ACAC hockey Sunday.

The teams traded goals in the first period. Garth Hayes placed NAIT in front with 1:41 gone in the first. Murray Melnyk and Randy Repchuk assisted on Hayes' sixth goal of the season. Eight minutes and 57 seconds followed before Troy Tendeck of CLC tied the contest at 1-1.

In the second, Rob Hamm tallied to make the score 2-1 in favor of Camrose. Six minutes later, NAIT's Jamie Bartman scored his second of the year on a point drive to even the count. Ron Amyotte was credited with the helper. NAIT gained a 3-2 advantage when Randy Repchuk notched his third of the season on a Murray Melnyk--Mike Tookey set-up.

Camrose did not quit. Brad Wagner netted the equalizer at 2:58 of the third. Sid Cranston's third goal of the season proved to be the winner with 5:18 elapsed in the stanza. Ron Amyotte assisted on the marker. Gary Leach put the icing on the cake at 15:37 with his sixth goal of the season an unassisted, short handed effort.

The weekend was full of surprises. Only on game day did NAIT find that Camrose had adjusted the game time from 7:30pm to 9:00pm. Only by a stroke of luck did NAIT find out about the change since nobody from CLC passed along the message.

The NAIT Ooks with the two victories improve their record to 5-0 while Camrose drops to four and two. NAIT is in first place while Camrose drops to second.

SOCCER

Soccer plays an important and special role at NAIT. It gives ethnics and new Canadians an opportunity to get involved in a NAIT activity they can relate to. More important, is the idea of getting all people, no matter how different, to work, struggle, and triumph over adversities together. This not only makes these men better people, but it makes all of us who know them better people too.

THE EARLY DAYS

Elements of present-day soccer are rooted in just about every culture of the world. The fundamentals of the game are very basic. So it is not surprising to find early traces of ball-kicking games as far back as 3000 B.C. The first evidence is from ancient drawings on the walls of caves in China; this game was known as "Tsu-chu". Fourteen centuries ago in Japan they played "Kenart"; in Greek and Roman times they had "Episkiyros and Hurpaston"; and in Mexico the Tarahumara Indians played a game called "Gomacari.

The early Olympic Games of ancient Rome featured twenty-seven men on a side. They competed so vigorously that two-thirds of them had to be hospitalized after only fifteen minutes of play. This same sort of violence seems to have marked the early history of soccer in the British Isles. Ireland had no limitations on the number of players or on the field size. City teams would sometimes play between the villages without taking breaks. Since they could use fists (as in Australian Rules football), a misdirected punch often led to fights.

In 1314, King Edward issued a proclamation that threatened to incarcerate anyone who was caught playing soccer. Throughout the years, great writers such as Shakespeare and the romantic writers of the time, condemned soccer as a low class form of entertainment.

It was about this time that soccer began to change for the better. An English nobleman in 1681 familiar with Italian soccer, introduced a new brand of the game to the Brits. Because it was different from the savage game inherited from the Romans and because it now had official sanction it grew in popularity and in population. However, organized games were difficult to arrange because teams played by their own rules. This problem brought about the set of "Rules for Association Football" drawn up by English universities. In 1848, "The Cambridge Rules" were introduced. These rules except for some minor changes have remained in international use ever since.

Today soccer is played in more countries in the world than any other sport. The sport links virtually every country on earth with a common language and interest; truly an international sport.

North Americans have come to embrace soccer with the same generous enthusiasm and exuberance as they gave the Beatles, hula hoops, disco-dancing, jogging and Japanese cars. Now anywhere you go in North America you can find signs of soccer abound, and NAIT is no exception.

The soccer program at NAIT started out quietly this year, with no real indication of how they would do. One thing that is evident is that the hard work and dedication of the coaching staff. Stuart Brown (Head coach) and Bob Buchan (Assistant coach) have shown that they've got what it takes to maintain a championship team in soccer and giving positive recognition to the athletic program at NAIT. They have a genuine pride in their work and that certainly comes out when one looks at the quality of team at NAIT. Stuart Brown has been at NAIT since 1973. He has coached soccer for seven years. Bob Buchan has been with the team for two years. This year the team had a three win zero loss and one tie record in the ACAC tournament. Congratulation Stuart and Bob on another fine year.

CHICKS BLOW OUT

ALUMNI

Last Saturday the women's Basketball team held their Annual Alumni game and cruised to an easy victory 75-29 over the alumni. The Chicks started out slow but built their momentum up throughout the game taking a 37-18 lead at the half and outscoring their alumni 38-11 over the final 20 minutes. The Chicks were led by Sue Tomchuk and Joyce Urban, who had 12 points each. Every player hit the scoresheet in the girls last tuneup before league play begins.

The Alumni games originated seven years ago and have become an important fixture in the basketball calendar. Many former players return to NAIT to take part in the game and the cabaret which follows. The Alumni's support of the cabaret helps the Chicks fundraising efforts designed to off set the cost of travelling to Vancouver to take part in the Capilano College "Blues" Classic Tournament January 3-6.

FOUL SHOTS

The Chicks will open their ACAC schedule on the road this Friday as their tackle the Camrose Lutheran College Vikettes. The following weekend will see Lethbridge Community College and Medicine Hat College in town for the Chicks home opener. Tip off is 6:30 Friday and 1:00 Saturday. Catch the action. Admission free with NAIT I.D.
