HAPPY THANKSGIVING

Next Monday is Thanksgiving Day. You know what that means, NO SCHOOL. That's not the only thing that Thanksgiving is. In case you have forgotten, the following is a brief history of why we celebrate Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving began in the 1600's when all the farmers would get together and have a large feast. This feast showed thanks for the crops that they had just harvested. The Thanksgiving tradition, began in England, where it was known as Harvest Festival. The tradition then came to North America, when colonists arrived at Plymouth Rock.

The Thanksgiving holiday is still held around the world, and is held in Canada every second Monday in October.

"SHINERAMA 84" AN EMBARRASSING EVENT

"Shinerama 84" turned out to be a major disappointment to the Naita Student Executive. One hundred students came out to shine shoes for Cystic Fibrosis Research. $3,000.00 was raised by shiners and another $1,500.00 was raised by cabaret receipts and donations from Nait students. The average donation of $30.00 per shiner is encouraging compared with last year's total of $16.67 per shiner but that is about all there is to smile about.

Regardless of the results, the organizers should hold their heads high. Our Vice President Holly Root and her Shinerama Committee put in many hours of hard work in an attempt to publicize this event. Because this event was held on Saturday as opposed to Friday as it was last year, Miss Root was forced to innovate and she did so with success. The Shinerama Breakfast was a great idea and as I found out it was a great way to start my shining day.

The shining kits were distributed quickly and smoothly as there was no waiting around. Each shiner was given a detailed list of all the venues that we were permitted to shine in. These lists educated the shiners as to what we could and couldn't do according to the law so therefore we were much better off. A new challenge for the most participation from each technology was given and congratulations are in order for Respiratory Tech for giving Shinerama the most support. Some collecting was done inside of Nait and $800.00 was the result. From this vantage point everything seemed as it should go well so, what went wrong?

In fairness to those who attend Nait, it is difficult to expect students to give up their Saturday for an extra-curricular activity such as this. Saturdays are days that homework is caught up on, shopping is done, jobs are attended and much needed R & R time is taken. These are all important in the proper development of one's education. Because of the outstanding job of Holly Root and her staff many people wanted to participate but, because of other commitments, were inhibited from helping out.

Another problem is that on a Saturday people are busy. They don't have time to have their shoes shined and, as I found out, most people downtown were wearing running shoes! This is, of course, not to say that working people aren't busy on Friday but, people are people and Fridays are Fridays. Last year I had the opportunity to canvass several business' in the Sunlife Building. It seemed that when we shined the President's shoes, everyone gladly had their shoes shined or at least contributed a little towards our cause. People took the time to see us, were pleasant and I really had a good time.

Perhaps our largest foe on Saturday was that it seemed there was a charity standing on every street corner. Every block, people were being asked to buy an apple, support stopping world hunger and have their shoes shined in support of Cystic Fibrosis. Needless to say, many people had had enough of being asked for their money so instead of a polite no thank you, we received a stern NO on several occasions.

How should we solve these problems?

I suggest that next year, instead of sponsoring another Shinerama drive, the student executive Vice-President should do a formal study of how the next Shinerama campaign should be run. The following are just a sample of some of the questions which need to be answered if Shinerama '86' is to be a success:

"When would be the best day to hold Shinerama?"

"How should it be promoted and advertised?"

"Are any more charities having drives on the same day?"

"Could we get some corporate sponsorship?"

"How do other schools achieve success?"

"Who is most likely to have their shoes shined?"

"Is the Shinerama idea a good one for Nait?"

If the next Vice-President works as hard at preparing this report as Holly did organizing this year's event, Shinerama '86' would be a huge success. Planning is vital and so is direction. Perhaps a thought for the day to end this article. My accounting instructor last year, Jack Holliday, had these words for me:

"Work to plan or your plan won't work."

SUPPORT "DOONESBURY"

It's difficult for me to recall how I became addicted to "Doonesbury." I recall it was sometime during my search for ways to appear more intellectual and worldly. I realized there was more to this facade than hanging around the 9th Street Cafe and drinking Heineken beer. One day, I was fortunate enough to overhear two "Artsies" speaking to each other in the lineup at Dinwoodie's. They were extolling the virtues of a comic strip written by a man named Garry Trudeau. Knowing I had stumbled onto something, I began reading some back issues of the Edmonton Journal. The rest was history. I fell in love with "Doonesbury", and in so doing, discovered a new method to keep up to date while exuding a pseudo-aura of intelligence.

I used to read "Doonesbury" everyday. It helped me relate to the seventies. I probably never would have fully understood the American Embassy hostage taking in Iran if it wasn't for this feature. (I now know the whole incident was prompted by Duke, the Former Washington Redskins Coach who was on ludes at the time.) Unfortunately, the seventies passed too quickly. One day, to my horror, I awoke to find "Doone" was gone. It seemed that Garry Trudeau needed time to adjust his characters to the eighties. During this absence, I have been floating in a cultureless void, not knowing whether to joke about Reaganomics or not. I was fortunate, though, in that a cartoon called "Bloom County" emerged to fill the gap. Campaigning for Bill the Cat and avoiding the Purple Snorklewacker from the closet anxieties has kept my acquired sense of humour keen.

It's been a long wait, but "Doonesbury" is back - ready and able to take on the preppies, the smurfs, and the Michael Jackson clones. Once again I'll be able to relate to the times and discover whether or not breakdancing and leather boating shoes are really in. Trudeau's pencil is sharp and there are abundant issues for him to poke fun at. The day by day coverage of the U.S. elections should be recommended reading for everyone.

"Doone's" comeback is not going to be that smooth. I'd like to take your attention away from "The Nugget" awhile and cast a furtive glance at page A5 of the "Edmonton Journal." At this moment, you'll find "Doonesbury" and "Bloom County" vying for the position on the coveted letters page. As a matter of fact, "The Journal" is polling their readers in regards to this competition. Though I hold Milo, Opus, and the rest of the Bloom Country Meadow Party close to my heart, I believe "Doonesbury" is the better choice for "The Journal's" letters page. I and "The Nugget" endorse the "Doonesbury" ballot in October 1984. We hope our readers will support and respect this stance. (We also hope no one is upset about the ugly introduction of politics to this student newspaper.)

ACTISEC

Have you heard about ACTISEC? For those of you have not heard of ACTISEC, it is the Alberta College and Technical Institute Student Executive Council.

Well after that mouthful, you are probably wondering what ACTISEC can do for you. ACTISEC is an organization that was formed in 1982, to create greater student satisfaction with their college or technical institute.

ACTISEC's main goal is to share information about student concerns and how to solve them. Whether you are concerned about transferring to a different school, the recognition of the work of students, overcrowding in NAIT, extra-curricular activities in NAIT or anything else that concerns you about the operation of NAIT, ACTISEC will try to help.

The representative for ACTISEC from NAIT is Joan Davies, Treasurer of NAITSA. If you have any concerns on how NAIT is being run or if you have any suggestions, talk to Joan. She is located in office E133.

The Chairperson of ACTISEC, Robin Nering says, "Essentially, you are ACTISEC. Your Students' Association's concerns and issues are usually those of ACTISEC."

ACTISEC is used by NAIT, and other colleges and technical institutes throughout Alberta, for many reasons. ACTISEC helps in the communication of ideas between schools and they help in solving problems. ACTISEC is valuable for letting the province know of the accomplishments of Alberta's colleges and technical institutes.

On October 6, 1984, representatives from Alberta's colleges and technical institutes will meet at Lakeland College in Vermillion. This meeting of ACTISEC will discuss items including transferring to another college, the taxation of student grants, and local items including NAIT's new student lounge. This meeting is open to the public, so if you want to make your views known, this will be a great time to do it.

A proposal by ACTISEC is to develop the Charles S. Noble award. The award, which would be presented by the Alberta government, to students who show outstanding leadership capabilities, by getting involved in the activities at their schools. The award will recognize students, who would not have been noticed before. If this proposal becomes reality, 15 NAIT students will be honored.

ACTISEC is an organization that is extremely useful. If you have any concerns on how NAIT is being run, or any suggestions on how NAIT should be run, make that you contact the Student's Association.

JOE'S BACK

The Right Honourable Joe Clark, Secretary of State for External Affairs, today released the following text of his message of condolence to the American Secretary of State, the Honourable George Shultz.

"I was deeply shocked when I learned of the brutal and senseless attack against your Embassy premises in Beirut today. I extend to you, to the families of the victims and to your colleagues in the foreign service my deepest sympathies. We are very conscious of the often appalling risks to which their commitment exposes them.

I offer my strong support to you personally, and look forward to our discussion next week in New York when we might give further attention to the threat to peace which international terrorism represents. We must work closely together against this senseless violence which has had such tragic results for those who have dedicated themselves to the service of their country."

CSS BAND BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

On January 20, 1984, Cynthia Scullion, on behalf of the Computer Systems Society, made a $360.00 deposit with Studio City Musical Ltd. for the band "Slash and the Bleeding Hearts" to perform on Saturday, April 28, 1984. The band subsequently changed their name to "Casualty."

On Wednesday, April 25, CSS was informed by Studio City Musical Ltd. that the lead singer of "Casualty" was suffering from a cold and the band would be unable to perform. This alleged sickness was played to CSS till 1:00 p.m., Friday, April 27, when CSS was forced to sign another band. Due to speculation of "Casualty", a name-band, not appearing, ticket sales were down significantly and our Tequila Cabaret ran at a substantial loss.

The following week it was brought to CSS's attention that "Casualty" had performed at the Capri Hotel in North Battleford, Saskatchewan. A subsequent call to the Capri's booking agent confirmed this.

Due to Studio City Musical Ltd.'s booking practice and the loss sustained at our Tequila Cabaret with "Casualty" not appearing, the Computer Systems Society has agreed not to deal with either Studio City Musical Ltd. or the band "Casualty" in the future.

Gord Stodola

Ed's note: CSS thought it was important for all tech reps to know this so they won't be burned as well.

DAVID HOLUBITSKY

PUBLICATIONS CHAIRMAN

Hello, I'm David Holubitsky and I am the Publications Chairman for Nait Student's Association. What exactly is my job? I'm the Chairman of the Publications Board which sets standards and guidelines for the newspaper, yearbook and the photography staff.

This board is comprised of the following members:

- 2 Staff Representatives
- 2 Naitsa Representatives, Publications Chairman, President
- 3 Publications Representatives, Newspaper, Yearbook, Photography
- 3 Students at large

The positions for three students are still open. If you want to have some input on the direction of your student publications, come see me in Room E133J.

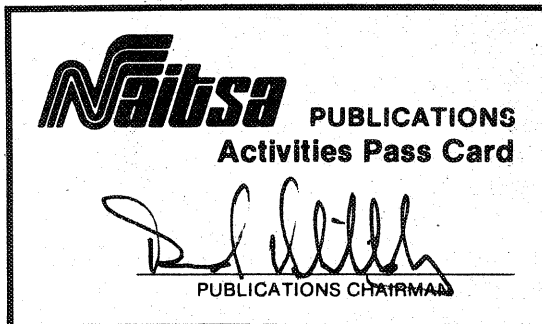

Being a member of last year's Publication Board, I knew what was happening with all of the student publications. They all had great possibilities but they lacked student participation. We hope to rectify this problem by changing the various publications and making the work more interesting, challenging, and enjoyable.

As you probably already know, this year's Nugget is a 120 improvement over last years. This is mostly due to a great staff. The paper looks great and all we need now is student participation, so write some articles and letters.

This year's yearbook is also a change from the '83-84. It will be a Activities Book with no individual pictures. If this concept is to work, we need your help.

The photography staff will be very busy this year filling the pages of the Activities Book. To make sure all your activities are covered we have made a Naitsa Publications Activities Pass Card. This card should be honoured by all the technologies during their various cabarets and events. By letting the publications people with these cards into your events you are insured coverage in the Activities Book. A copy of this card is printed below.

Get out and participate.

Any comments or input please come and see me in Room E133J.

YEARBOOK UPDATE

The yearbook for 1984-1985 is not receiving many pictures from individual techs. I realize that only 4 weeks have gone by and not that much has happened yet, but you people having cabaret's this month, get out and take some pictures (blackmail?). If you want your "activity" covered, give us some coverage (pictures).

We have pictures of the Orientation tent, free Chili Night, and the first Beerfest.

If you want to get in the yearbook, get out and participate, and jump in front of a camera when you see one pointed in your direction, or, take some pictures. But, hand in your pictures to E126.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Nait's Business Administration Program prepares you for a variety of careers within the business community. First year courses are the same for all students. In the second year you are able to specialize in the area of your choice. The four areas are: Accounting, Administrative Management, Finance and Marketing Management. All provide highly specialized training enabling the graduate to fit into a work environment more easily. Electives chosen either fit in with your chosen career or reflect individual interests.

The Accounting program is very thorough in providing you with in-depth knowledge and competence in the accounting field. Balancing these number crunching accounting courses are sufficient managerial courses to assist you in a move into supervisory positions. Many courses are exemptions in the RIA and CGA designations.

The Administrative Management program provides a solid core of knowledge and managerial skills for use in business, industry or government. There are 3 streams of elective courses: Management, Personnel or Public

Business Administration Society

Administration. These intend to arm you with necessary theoretical and practical insight. Many courses are task oriented, developing your potential managerial skills.

The Finance program provides the student with a good understanding of principles and practices used by managers in deciding how to use and control their financial resources.

Courses chosen help acquire the special skills for advancement into management positions with financial institutions or finance department of business firms. You can also specialize in commercial banking if that's where your interests lie.

The major emphasis of the Marketing program is in applied marketing. Students participate in projects in conjunction with the business community. In this way, you are able to gain valuable practical experience. Marketing grads are qualified for many jobs relating to researching consumer needs, making product decisions, deciding on distributing activities as well as selling, promoting and advertising. The approach to the Marketing program is very much a learning by doing, applied approach also aiming to provide you with a comprehensive knowledge of the functions of business.

Aside from course study, there are lots of opportunities for involvement in extra-curricular activities. The Business Administration, Administrative Management, and Marketing Management societies organize activities such as cabarets and ski trips. As well, these societies interface with the business community through meetings and guest speakers to help take your mind off homework, projects and exams for a while.

ANIMAL HEALTH TECHNOLOGY

The Animal Health Technology Program is two years in length, consisting of a nine-month session at Nait in the first year and a seven month session at Nait in the second year followed by a two-month term at Fairview College.

As the programs goal is to produce a skilled technician to work in the veterinary field, this is accomplished by a blending of academic studies with practical experience. The two-month session at Fairview College is a major part of this practicum. Courses given during this training are Large Animal Clinics, Animal Handling, Artificial Insemination and Farm Animal Husbandry.

The graduate Animal Health Technologist (A.H.T.) will be recognized by the Alberta Association of Animal Health Technicians. Many graduates from this program have found employment in a small and/or large animal practice. Using the knowledge and skills learned, the technicians will be performing laboratory analysis of blood, urine and fecal samples, assisting and performing sanitation and sterilization procedures, assisting in the examination and treatment of animals, some administrative chores, assisting in anesthetic and surgical procedures as well as other duties.

Other graduates will find employment in animal laboratories, zoos, feedlots, federal and provincial health of animals and contagious disease regulation, veterinary and medical schools, and in institutions engaged in specialized research such as cancer and heart disease.

Although Animal Health Technology is one of the smaller technologies at Nait we still try to be fairly active in Intramural Programs. We may not beat the record for points but we still go out and participate and have a good time. Some of our other social activities during the year include cabarets, barbecues, Christmas party, an Awards Banquet, and dog washes.

Nait is a great place to learn and meet new people. With all of its facilities and activities going on, it's hard not to take advantage of them and have a good time as you are going to school.

Thanks Nait.

CHEAP THRILLS

Welcome, tight-fisted hedonists! Once again we venture into the world of the oh-so-fun and oh-so-affordable.

Never before this century has man been able to do leisure reading without some major financial loan or second mortgage. Unless you took to looking over someone's shoulder (and consequently risking your neck) reading was for those who could afford it.

Not so today! A veritable cornucopia of copy awaits the cheap reader. And there are even some free reading thrills! For instance:

Ingredient Labels: Slip down to your local Safeway and catch up on the latest in soup mixes. They say you are what you eat; has your friend been looking acacia gum or monosodium glutamate lately?

Furniture Tags: Find out what's been supporting you all these years. "This stuffing is made from new material only." Great stuff! Although it's not illegal to rip those tags off, it is illegal to transport them across state lines for sale to minors.

Shoulder Checks: When was the last time you read a good book - especially someone else's? The best place to do this is on a university bus. U of A students really enjoy answering inquiries from over-the-shoulder readers. ("Hurry up and turn the page - I wanna read the part where they get it on!")

Yes, friends, a world out there is waiting to be read, and free reading, no less. So let's hit the streets - and let's be careful out there!

MOVIE UPDATE

"The Wild Life"

Cameron Crowe, the writer who introduced the humor and struggles of contemporary teenagers in "Fast Times at Ridgemont High," now gives us a hilarious 'suburban epic' that examines the precarious move from high school and life at home to adult living in "The Wild Life."

Bill Conrad (Eric Stoltz) is a young man who's graduated and is ready to begin his life as an 18-year-old single adult. What awaits Bill and the friends around him is "The Wild Life."

The movie centers around Bill Conrad, following him from the security of a room at home to a singles apartment complex and a new life in the "real world" of adults. At first, it's a disaster. Taken by a bad contract on his first apartment lease, Bill runs out of money. To stay in his apartment, he must enlist the help of his partner from work. The only person available, notorious party animal Tom Drake (Christopher Penn - brother of Sean Penn who starred in "Fast Times at Ridgemont High"). This coupling affects those around him from his girlfriend to his parents. Set against the backdrop of the last week of summer, "The Wild Life" is about making the tentative step towards adulthood.

The story follows five young people through their lives at the end of summer. Two girls outgrow their boyfriends and venture forth into the world of older men. One boy develops a friendship with a Vietnam vet that will change him. The film ends when they must all go back to school. It's the first time, after seeing the full and dynamic lives that all five characters lead, that we realize they are still teenagers.

All the characters have their own themes. These young people struggle with new-found responsibility, independence, money and sexuality while trying to find the path that will lead them to the next step in their lives. What they discover is that just being older doesn't make things easier.

"The Wild Life" is about normal kids, and the small moments in their lives that are, of course, monumental to them. Christopher Penn and Eric Stoltz give excellent performances that in parts will have you rolling in your seats.

"The Wild Life" though not a sequel to its forerunner "Fast Times at Ridgemont High" is just as funny and somehow seems to add an overall contemporary statement of teenage life while attempting to achieve independence.

NO MAYBES - YES!

Yes Concert

Northlands Coliseum

September 28 & 29

"What's up, Doc?" That's what most of us were asking when Yes used Bugs Bunny cartoons for their warm-up band. But why not? It's probably the only form of entertainment that would be guaranteed to appeal to the broad age range (from 6 to 60, judging from the crowd).

All the way through, it was the tight, consummate musicianship of the band that made the concert. The tight vocals cut the air at the coliseum like a razor, and there were some highly impressive solos.

In other areas, there were some points lacking. Jon Anderson has the stage presence of a wet dishcloth, and the whole concert got off to a slow start.

But the tunes! The most gratifying part of the concert for me was knowing that the kids there who had perhaps only heard the group's latest album were hearing Yes classics from the past for the first time.

The flashy special effects were sparse, but what was in the show was of top quality.

The light show went completely nuts on the last number, with whole banks of lights slowly turning and moving in a kaleidoscope of colors and flashes.

And of course, what better encore than the classic "Roundabout"?

For those of you who missed the concert, don't sweat it. Find a friend who has MTV - the concert was taped and will be aired in the near future.

SOCCER NEWS

Nait Oaks played in the GMCC Invitational tournament on the weekend. The Oaks made it to the final only to be beaten in overtime 2-1 by the U of A under 21. Nait looked liked they would win as they led 1-0 with only 30 seconds of regular time remaining but U of A Juniors tied it up and forced overtime. To get to the final, the Oaks beat GMCC 6-0, R.D.C. 4-2, and tied SAIT 2-2.

MEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Mr. Davidek is back at the helm after an absence. of nearly 10 years (last coached the team in 1975). Tonight they have their first Ex. game against last years city champ Bonnie Doon H.S. The match goes at 6:30 and promises to be a learning experience for both team and coach. There are six veterans left from last year's 3rd place team, and eight newcomers presently in practise and anyone who possesses the basic skills and an interest in the game is invited to attend practice sessions on October 10th, 7:30 - 10 pm, 11th, 6 - 7:30 pm, and 12th, 4:30 - 6:00 pm. Mr. Davidek will be evaluating the team through the exhibition games and up until the ACAC Tournament October 26th and 27th in Medicine Hat! After that tournament, the final cuts will be made and preparations for the teams first regular season game November 3, 1984 against G.P.R.C. will begin!

One of the problems facing the volleyball program is the lack of continuity and recruitment of players. The volleyball program is the only program that doesn't have an on campus coach, and although we can count on Mr. Davidek to give it his best shot, he has to work around the fact that his full time job here as a lab technician cannot be neglected.

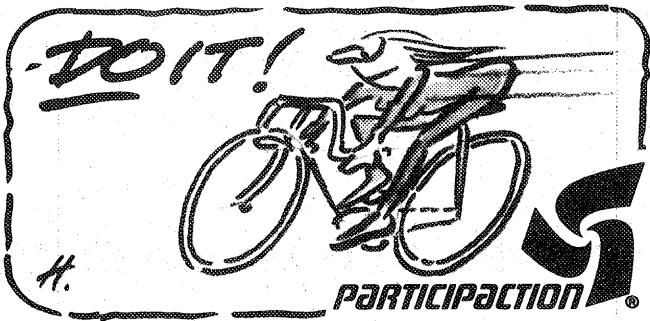

The outlook for this year, is a fairly positive one though, and with some solid play from the veterans and a promising crop of rookies, mixed with some fan support there's no reason to believe that this years team cannot equal or better last year's 3rd place finish! So let's all get out and show some support.

BASKETBALL CHICKS TAKING SHAPE

After two weeks of workouts the women's Basketball team is starting to take shape. As Gregg Meropoulos enters his seventh year as head coach of the Chicks he feels this years squad looks to be one of the best. Speed & agility will characterize the 1984-85 Chicks. The girls are led by returning veterans Susan Tomchuk and Patti Marcinyshyn backed up by a crop of high school all stars entering their first season in the A.C.A.C. Sharon Buley will be forming the coaching squad for her second year and Marci Cooper will enter her fourth season as manager assisted by Barb Meissner. Now the task of molding the squad into a cohesive unit is the challenge facing the coaches. The Chicks will get their first game action on Thursday, October 11th at their inter-squad game.
