NUGGET

— DEATH — A SERIOUS CAUSE

I'd like you to meet Michael Glessing, a young man who was unfortunate enough to have inherited the deadly disease, Cystic Fibrosis. Michael, who visited NAIT last week, is inflicted with a disease which attacks his lungs and his digestive system. Four times a day Michael must ventilate with compressed air. Then, after ventilating, Mike must undergo physiotherapy to make him cough to free the mucous from his lungs -four times a day! Our friend Michael must also take reams of medication daily to ensure the proper functioning of his internal organs. Mike must take a pill for everything he orally consumes. He is constantly taking antibiotics to avoid infections and as well, he's taking numerous multi-vitamins to preserve his already frail health.

While at Nait, Michael and his mother revealed to a shaken General Council that Michael was lucky to have spent only two weeks in hospital this summer. She said that regular trips to the hospital to revitalize people with Cystic Fibrosis is a common practice.

On top of all of Mike's other medical woes, Michael must have regular doses of allergy shots. One has to wonder what kind of spirit is needed to keep this fight for survival going.

Michael knows that with today's technology he won't live much longer than you and I have already lived. Yet, he keeps plodding along, fighting to at least maintain his body's struggle against his eventual killer Cystic Fibrosis. This of course is where you come in.

Last year a pathetic 5 percent of all of Nait Students participated in Shinerama. It is for that reason that Nait students are no longer given an afternoon in order to shine shoes. Why didn't more of you people shine shoes for Cystic Fibrosis? Why? Could it be that you're so concerned about being good typical Canadians with indifferent attitudes that your indifference had spread to avoiding thinking of others? Or, is it just that we take what we've got for granted and don't give a shit about others because "What did they do for me." What every your problem is or was, just consider a few facts.

-10 years ago Michael Glessing would have had to consume 100 pills a day. Now, it has been reduced to 10 pills a day.

-Cystic Fibrosis receives no Government funding for research or financial assistance to help pay for the expensive drugs needed for survival.

-Medicare helps cover some of the drugs needed but after the victim is 18 years old, no help is given what so ever.

-Shinerama is a huge part of funding for Cystic Fibrosis. 78 percent of the money raised goes towards research. Another portion of the money raised helps families afford the drugs for their suffering members.

-Sait raised almost 3 times more than we did last year. $18,000 to $5,000

Victim of Cystic Fibrosis, Michael Glessing

Nait's motto this year could certainly be honoured by the Cystic Fibrosis foundation. "With You We Can" and why not? Start your Saturday off by attending Nait's free Pancake Breakfast 8 am to 11 am. Then, grab your polish and hit the streets. If you're not going to the Yes concert, why don't you hit the Shinerama Cabaret at Caper's Party

Hall on Saturday night. All proceeds from ticket sales will be going towards our monetary goal. Prizes will be awarded to the tech will the largest turnout. Come on, it's time to change our sour Canadian Attitudes. Participate and care, You might just need us one day and you'd want us to contribute wouldn't you!!!

Opinion

IT'S 4:30 PM DO YOU KNOW WHERE YOUR TECH. REP. IS?

Has anyone ever wondered where they belong in the scheme of NAIT? Has anybody ever asked, "Do I Have Rights?" As a matter of fact, all NAIT students have rights. They have the right to know what is happening around their school. They have the right to know how their student fees are being allocated. They have the right to have their wishes represented in General Council. The right to representation is a very important one. And student representation, or lack thereof, is the topic of concern this week.

To start with, our Student Government is a very simple organization. The NAIT Student Association is directed by an elected team of seven students. This team is known as the NAITSA Student Executive. They provide direction for the NAITSA General Council. The Council is made up of the members of the Student Executives of the different technologies. Although it is a simple organization, it is one that theoretically represents all student interests. After all, the tech. representatives stand for the wishes of everyone in their tech, and with all the representatives being on council, all NAIT students are spoken for. Unfortunately, things don't always work as planned.

The reason this system does not work properly is because it is missing the most critical item - student representation. The first General Council meeting was September 18 at 4:30 pm. Anyone examining the minutes to this meeting will clearly see that less than half of the various technologies were represented at this meeting. This, of course, means that less than half the technologies in NAIT are responsible for making the decisions that affect all of us. Is everyone pleased with the fact that their student fees are being spent by someone else?

There is a way to fix this machine that is only working at half efficiency. I suggest that firstly, everyone find out who exactly is on their student executive. Your program head or instructors should be able to answer this. Some people will be surprised to find out they don't have an executive. The obvious next step in this case is to elect one. Most technologies, however, do have a student executive. Make sure your reps are going to General Council. If you have any problems, concerns, or suggestions, take them to your executive who will in turn take it to NAITSA.

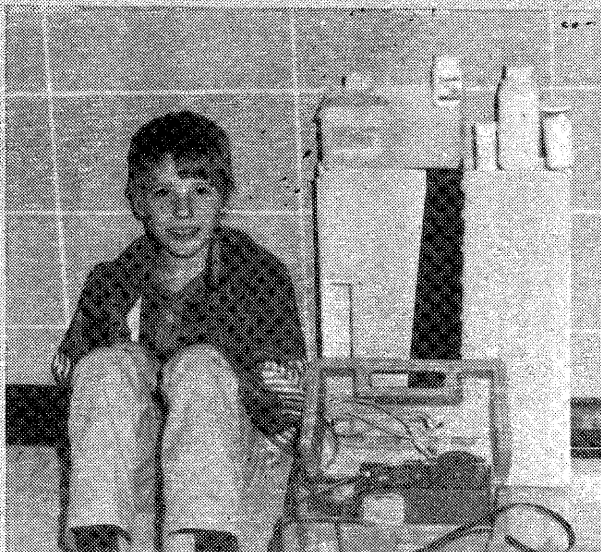

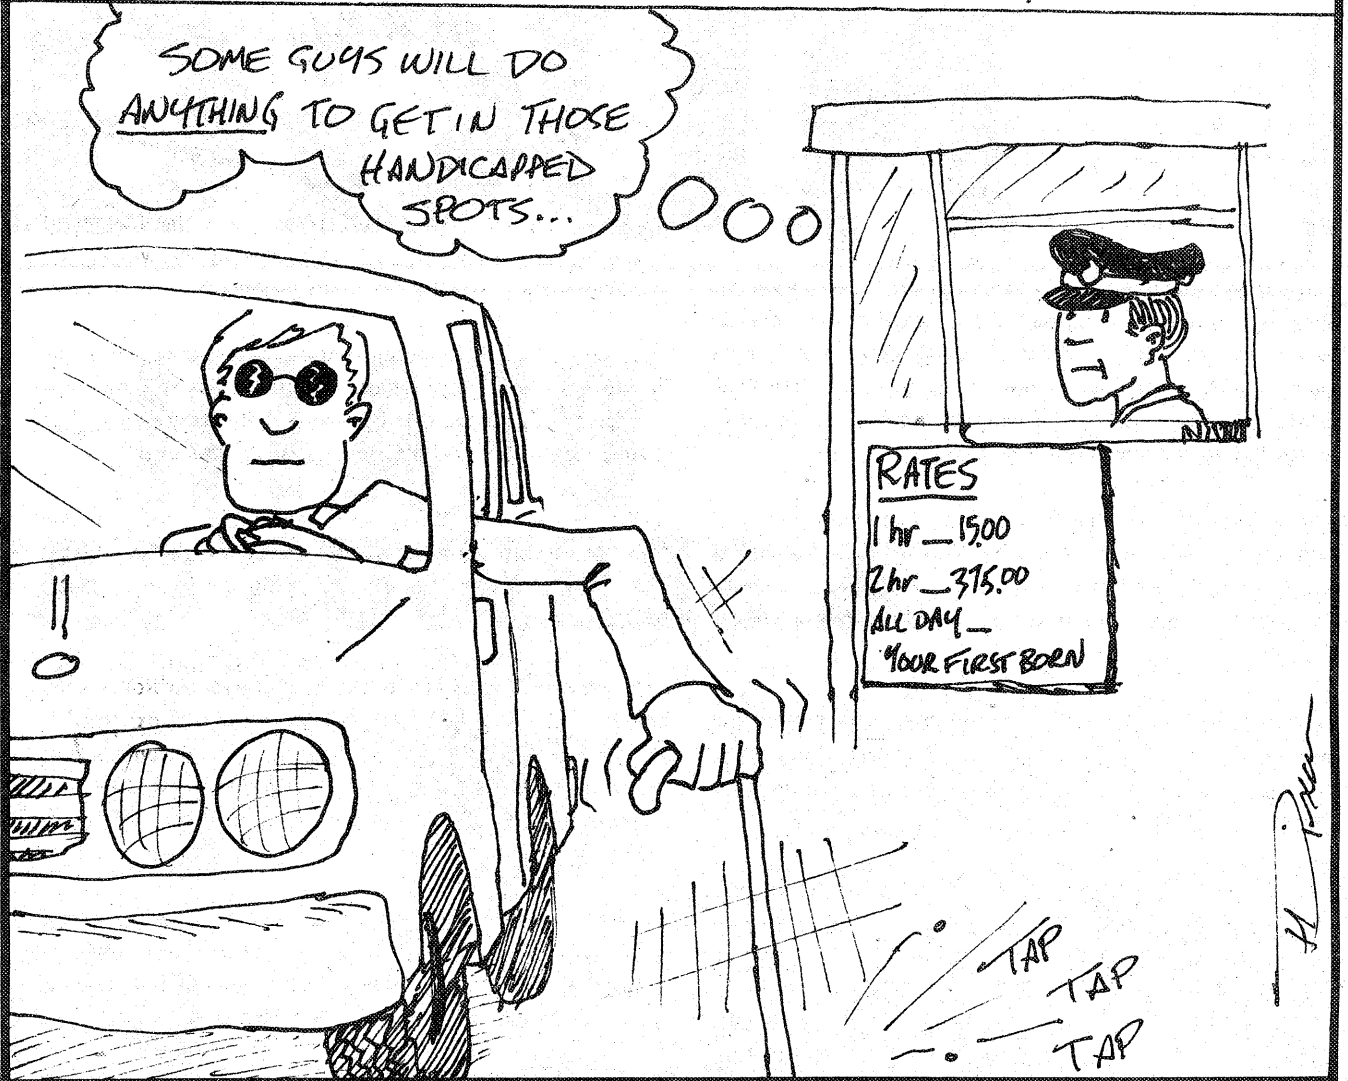

Our Student Government is only as successful as we make it. NAITSA wants to know all student opinions so they can benefit the general populace of NAIT. General Council meetings are every second Tuesday at 4:30. The next one is October 2. Make sure your voice is being heard.

DEAR EDITOR:

The NAIT Beerfest last Saturday evening was a major disappointment to a number of individuals. The two bands that performed(?) were, to say the least, boring. Maybe it's asking too much for bands to play something danceable, preferably from this decade.

Although Voice had the right idea they just couldn't get the crowd going due to a definite lack of vocal talent. People were understandably hesitant to dance when Nick Danger started with great dance tunes by none other than Pink Floyd. Give me a break! Dancing to Pink Floyd is about as much fun as watching reruns of Super Pay Cards.

Nick Danger was probably very excited when they learned that they were being rescued from the high school sock hop circuit to play the Convention Center. Their song selection gave one the impression that they have been asleep for the last 10 years.

One would think that with the kind of revenue from ticket sales ($10 per person) they could afford a band whose music style and talent is in keeping with expectations and tastes of the majority of NAIT students.

I can't speak for everyone (I'm sure there are people who loved the band), but I know I will be very hesitant to spend money for another function promoted by NAITSA. Maybe they should look around at other clubs who get bands at the same venue and charge the same or less (Payolas, Darkroom, etc.). Of course, this is only one viewpoint, I would like to hear other comments concerning this event.

P.S. To the young ladies in the parking lot, we were not sure what you were talking about, but if someone told you to jump off a bridge.....? I guess it's a $25 lesson.

NICK'S PICKS

Alberta Liberal Leader Nick Taylor says the Lougheed Government's latest natural gas policy foray will worsen the problems facing small natural gas producers.

Taylor says "It is insulting that the Government tells gas producers it is trying to market their gas at the same time the State-owned energy company, Alberta Energy, has announced it will drill 300 new gas wells this year."

"To compound the injury, the wells will be drilled on the Suffield military reserve which the Premier transferred from Crown ownership to Alberta Energy for a pittance," noted Taylor.

The Alberta Liberal Leader referred to a recent Royal Bank study which concluded that gas exports were not expected to rise in spite of lower Canadian prices. "This only shows that Americans never buy from us if they have their own surplus, be it beef, eggs or gas, no matter what our price is."

"The Government's continued reliance on State enterprise stems from the same paternalist and spendthrift attitude by which it justifies continued first-class air travel and personal companions travelling at taxpayers' expense."

"The gas markets must be shared fairly between all producers under a system of pro-rationing," argued the Liberal Leader. "This is the case for oil, and it works well. The sale of small-company owned gas reserves to stimulate exploration activity is a much better way than big government doing the drilling themselves," Taylor concluded.

MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR

NAITSA's annual Shinerama Day in September has become a tradition in our city. Each year the student association conducts a one-day, shoe-shining campaign to raise money for the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

I am proud to lend my personal support to Shinerama '84 on September 28. I urge all citizens to support this very fine effort; it is up to us to help find the cure for Cystic Fibrosis.

I express my gratitude to the student association for its commendable efforts. You make us proud.

Best wishes for a most successful 1984 campaign.

Sincerely yours,

Laurence Decore

THE NAIT PLACEMENT CENTRE

Have you thought about what you are going to do after you finish NAIT? You could win a lottery or maybe you could live off of your parents. Both of those ideas probably will not work. Hey! Here's an unusual idea. Why not try to get a job.

Now, I know about today's job market and I wonder if I will ever get a job, especially after I hear the monthly unemployment rate. But before you start thinking about what life will be like on the unemployment line, why not drop by the NAIT Placement Centre.

The NAIT Placement Centre, which is located in the south lobby, is a free service to help NAIT students find employment. Whether you are looking for a full-time job after you graduate, or for a part-time job or summer employment to help pay for expenses, the Placement Centre staff is here to help.

The NAIT Placement Centre shows students inside tips on how to get a job. The Placement Centre helps students to: Write effective resumes, prepare for job interviews, develop effective job searching skills, and arrange on-campus interviews with employers.

The NAIT Placement Centre has contacted about 10,000 companies, to inform the companies about the NAIT graduates, who could become the company's employees. This service also supplies the students with information about prospective employers. The Placement Centre keeps in constant contact with employers, and when there is a position available, qualified students will be notified.

Throughout NAIT there are several bulletin boards with job notices for full, part-time and summer employment. These bulletin boards, set up by the Placement Centre, and by students are located by: The cafeteria, by the cafetorium, on the second floor of Plaza Two, and on the second floor of the Tower Building.

Another of the NAIT Placement Centre's services is the recently installed Job Hotline. By calling 471-8845, you can hear short, up-to-date information, about the NAIT programs which have job openings available. After calling the Job Hotline, you can call the NAIT Placement Centre at 471-8874, to receive more detailed information on the jobs that you are interested in.

Jerry Cossit, the Placement Centre's Co-ordinator said:

"The best thing about the new Job Hotline will be its convenience. Students can now have access to recent information about job openings at any hour of the day. The Job Hotline will also be of particular use to students who have graduated, and can't be on campus every day."

Presently, the Job Hotline receives about 30 calls every two days.

The employment picture does not look great, but with the help of the NAIT Placement Centre, the picture can get brighter.

CANADIAN RED CROSS SOCIETY

Dear N.A.I.T. Student:

Once again, NAIT and the Red Cross will be combining to hold Blood Donor Clinics on the NAIT Campus. Successful clinics have been held at NAIT for ten years now, and it is our hope this tradition will continue.

Through this letter, we are asking all NAIT students to take the brief amount of time required and donate the Gift of Life. Whether it be a friend, fellow student, relative, or complete stranger, their health and perhaps their lives, may depend on your donation.

Many people ask which blood types are rare. The answer is that the rarest blood type is the one we need - but don't have because people didn't donate.

Through making the upcoming NAIT clinics successful for another year, you can help the Red Cross ensure that no blood is ever rare, and that no patient ever suffers for lack of the Gift of Life.

Sincerely,

George McEwan

Activities Chairman

My name is Bruce Antoniuk and I am your activities chairman on the Nait Students' Association Executive. My position deals mainly with providing entertainment for the students so they feel there is more to NAIT then 7 hours of classes and 3 hours of homework a day. We started out the year with a big tent on the front lawn of the NAIT campus for Orientation Week. In the tent we had five great bands play and all kinds of stuff given away. The week went very well except for complaints from residents up to five blocks away

(the kids at a day care centre missed a few of their afternoon naps and some instructors had trouble teaching classes) but all in all, the attendance was much better than previous years activities. The Beerfest wrapped up the week. We had 1700 people attend and I hope they had a great time. Again, the attendance and enthusiasm was better than previous years. If we would have sold tickets at the door, I'm sure we could have sold about 2200 tickets and made it the biggest cabaret NAIT has ever seen, but even with 1700, we've doubled the attendance of any beerfest in the past 3 years. The next event is our Shinerama Cabaret, on September 29, which we are hoping for attendance around 800 people. I hope to see all of you out there. Get your tickets early so you are not one of the disappointed people that doesn't have tickets when the cabaret is sold out. A few things down the road to look for are a fellow by the name of Peter James who was a CIA agent and spy. He will be in the Little Theatre on October 4 and a great entertainer by the name of Marty Bear will be performing on October 10, probably in the tower lounge. Watch for posters about these and other future activities. I would like to invite anyone with ideas and suggestions to my office in the Student Executive Room E133. I've found out that NAIT can be a fun place to attend if you get involved.

You should check your most recent copy of the Certificate of Eligibility or Reinstatement Form for the latest academic year end date. Your exemption period expires six months from that date.

Even though you may have applied for further financial assistance and/or other types of awards, this does not automatically reinstate your loan. Negotiating a Canada Student Loan does not automatically reinstate your Guaranteed Provincial Loan, or vice versa.

GET IN A GROUP AND PARTICIPATE. [LET'S MAKE THIS YEAR A SUCCESS].

"The Tech Page"

BUILDING CONSTRUCTION ENGINEERING TECHNOLOGY

This program was established at the request of the Alberta Construction Association to provide a source of personnel to fill positions in administration and supervision within the construction industry. Due to changes in methods of construction in recent years, it is no longer possible to properly job-site train a person from tradesman through to foreman, superintendent or administrator, in the time frame dictated by the requirements of the industry.

The student in this program will become familiar with the work of all the usual construction trades (carpentry - masonry - plumbing - electrical, etc.) and will acquire a good understanding of construction, basic structural design in wood, steel and concrete, surveying, proper use of equipment, methods of estimating costs, scheduling office procedures and job management.

Graduates from this program will be dealing with people at various levels in the industry, or will be supervising tradesmen or construction jobsites. The hand skills required of the various trades in the construction industry are not taught in this program.

There is a large and growing demand for people from this program, due to the tremendous expansion and changes within the construction industry. Graduates have found employment as project coordinators, estimators, timekeepers, purchasing agents, superintendent trainees, assessors and building inspectors. Opportunities for promotion are limited only by the desire, energy and ability of the graduate.

As BCET is one of the larger technologies at NAIT, we are very active in the Intramural Programs. Last year we beat the record for points, the previous record was set by BCET in 1979.

We are also very active socially. Our first cabaret was held on September 21st at Northmount Hall, and was a great success. Our next major function is "The Annual Bridge - Building Contest", held over the icy waters of Whitemud Creek on October 13. One of the best cabarets of the year will follow that evening. If any technology is interested in participating, please contact us for further information.

We are also very involved in the "Great Northern Concrete Toboggan Race." BCET hosted the event last year, and it was one of the most successful in the event's history. This year's race will be held in Winnipeg sometime in February. Four teams from NAIT are eligible to compete. In the official category, BCET will organize a "runoff" to decide who goes to Winnipeg.

Have a good year!

“METROPOLIS” A VICTIM OF POPULAR TASTE

METROPOLIS

NOW PLAYING AT THE PLAZA CINEMA

It always seems to me that all the moronic and inane movies seem to do the best at the box office, but the ones which require even the minutest mental effort on the audience's part are quickly shuffled off the screens and into Pay T.V. or the home video market.

So it was with such films as “My Dinner With Andre” and “Local Hero.”

So it will be with “Metropolis.” For this classic silent film, however, it won't be the first time. Originally made in 1926 by German director Fritz Lang, it was received poorly in America at that time because it had been edited down and chopped up “to suit American audiences.” Recently director Giorgid Moroder decided to resurrect the film, painstakingly piecing it together from footage and stills obtained from numerous sources. Next, he added color to the film by some method. Finally, he added a soundtrack - performances by Pat Benatar, Adam Ant, Billy Squier and others of songs and music written by Moroder for the film.

And the result? Well, the historical interest was what drew me to the film initially, but I found myself caught up in the story of Metropolis itself - An Orwellian world where oppressed workers ran underground machines to serve a surface-dwelling elite.

Standard story? Hardly. As anyone knows, it is not the story which captures one's attention, but the skill of the story-teller - and Fritz Lang is a master.

The skill with which Lang uses his camera to “tell” the story of Metropolis is what makes this film work. A multiple image of workers converging on the Tower of Babel; the iridescent rings passing over the female robot as it takes on the identity of Maria, the heroine; the many gripping close-ups of human faces - the list is long.

The soundtrack and color may distract the purist silent-film watcher, but I found they added an important element for a generation accustomed to hearing as well as seeing its movies. The singing was a bit much at times - a purely instrumental soundtrack would have been enough, perhaps.

Despite Moroder's efforts to bring this classic to the screen once again, it seems “Metropolis” will be doomed to the same fate it was when America first saw it in 1926. The theatre was less than one-third full on the night I saw the film.

In short, my recommendations are these: if you don't mind working a little on your attention span in order to obtain some priceless cinematic gems, I suggest you go to see this movie. Judging by the lack of audience interest, you should hurry - this film may be gone by the weekend, if it isn't already by the time this gets to print.

On the other hand, if you're big on car chases, teenage sex comedies, space epics, or other similar contemporary fare, there's no need to worry. It's in plentiful supply, and there's more on the way. And, sadly, too many people agree with you.

CHEAP THRILLS

Okay, funseekers! This week's column is dedicated to one of the kings of cheap thrills - none other than - Cappy Dick!

For the uninitiated, Cappy Dick is one of the features in the Journal's Saturday comics section. Each week, the Captain brings another exciting collection of inexpensive time-killers to his devoted readers.

Here are some samples from last Saturday:

SODA STRAW GAME: Cut out twenty little discs of paper. On ten of them, draw little stars; the other ten, little moons. Put the discs on a table. Between them place a tumbler, and, on either side, you and your opponent, armed with (you guessed it) soda straws. The object of the game is to see who is the fastest at sucking up the discs and putting them in the glass. Great fun - and cheap to boot!

TASTE TEST: A science puzzler! Blindfold a buddy and get him or her to taste a piece of raw apple, then a piece of raw potato. Cappy says, “He may fail because taste sense is helped by seeing what we eat.” (Makes you think about what is in Stevie Wonder's lunch box!)

ACORN RING: Cut a hole in an acorn and wear it on your finger. (All kinds of puns come to mind, none of which are particularly pleasant - or polite.)

There's more, but I don't want to spoil the surprise. Go find yourself some back issues of the Journal Comics - a lot of good clean fun awaits you. Better still, try adding a new twist to the activities - like doing the taste test nude in a room full of methane gas. Let your imagination go!

Remember “Cheap Thrills” is an open column - send your suggestions for inexpensive fun to the Nait Nugget Office. Just jot your idea down between classes, along with your name and tech, and slip it into the box just outside our door. Look forward to hearing from you!

OOKS HOCKEY

The NAIT Ooks received their first look at the Camrose Lutheran College Vikings on Friday, September 21st. The Ooks continued their dominance over CLC position a 10-0 shutout win. FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21st--NAIT OOKS 10, CAMROSE LUTHERAN COLLEGE VIKINGS 0, AT NAIT ARENA.

The NAIT Ooks capitalized on the powerplay five times on the way to a 10-0 blanking over the Camrose Lutheran College Vikings at the NAIT Arena on Friday, September 21st. The score is not indicative of what could happen in the regular season as CLC Coach Mike Johnston dressed no veterans.

Mike Dollevoet opened the scoring for NAIT at the 57 second mark of the first on a play with Tom Tookey. The NAIT powerplay capitalized as Gary Leach connected with the help of Sid Cranston and Mike Tookey at 10:04. Five minutes and 24 seconds followed before Jeff Martin increased NAIT's lead to 3-0. Colin Leney and Randy Repchuk assisted. Denis McCormack of the Ooks, closed out the initial stanza's scoring with a powerplay marker at 19:13.

With the main advantage, Mike Dollevoet set up Mark Schultz at 3:03 of the second to widen NAIT's cushion to five. With 6:00 passed in the frame, NAIT's Randy Repchuk notched his first goal of the night with help from Colin Leney. Four minutes and 36 seconds later, Gary Haddon scored the seventh NAIT goal with the help of Mark Schultz. Mike Spencer turned on the red light with 12:56 elapsed. Sid Cranston and Mike Dollevoet were credited with assists. The NAIT Powerplay clicked at 15:20 when Garth Hayes placed the puck over the red line after receiving a Scott Melnyk pass. The Ooks' Randy Repchuk moved NAIT into double digits with three minutes and 55 seconds left in the period.

There was no scoring in the third period as both teams just went through the motions.

The NAIT netminding tandem of Jeff Lastiwka and Kevin Stapleton blocked 18 shots in posting the shutout. The CLC goaltending duo of Scott Stanley and Darin Josephson were tested 47 times.

SPORTS: VOLLEYBALL (GIRLS)

Volleyball season rolls around again for 1984! This year's team has now been selected and preparation for league play has already begun. The NAIT Chicks first serious action is October 26th and 27th when they are involved in the ACAC pre-season tournament hosted by Mount Royal College in Calgary. The following weekend, the team plays its first league match when they host the Grande Prairie Regional College on Saturday, November 3rd. This promises to be an exciting match since it was the Grande Prairie team who edged the Chicks out of a play-off spot last season. However, this year, the Chicks hope to turn the tables on the Grande Prairie team.

This season, the team is coached by Diane Satre, with some capable assistance from Susan Ouellette, a veteran Oookchick who graduated from our Business Technology last year. Coach Satre is extremely optimistic about the team's chances to earn a play-off spot this year. It appears that there is a good core of veteran players who are complimented by some excellent newcomers. Miss Satre feels that this year's team represents the strongest group of athletes that she has had to work with in her three years of involvement with the NAIT Chicks. However, their work is cut out for them, as the North Division of the ACAC in which they play is a very competitive one. So come out this year and give your support to the NAIT Chicks! You'll view some competitive volleyball and have a great time!

INTRAMURALS

The Intramurals are designed not as a necessary evil, but instead as a benefit to you. Along with your sports rep., you can put together your own teams from your technology to compete against teams from other techs. It is hoped that this will help to add pride to your technology and thus increase interest!

From the questions I am asked, it appears that far too many people are not exactly sure of what the intramurals are! Well, they are an after school sport for those of us who wish to compete on a less competitive level than the school teams. To compete in the Intramurals, you don't have to be a superstar, just interested. There are a variety of sports offered for both team and individual participation, ranging from golf to ice hockey. There are lists of all the sports in the Student Services Room (E134) or you can ask your sports representative!

The one point to remember, though, is that the Intramurals are not a replacement for Phys. Ed. If your tech calls for Phys. Ed., competing in the Intramurals is not the same.

The Intramurals are also a good way to meet fellow students in settings other than the classroom, or passing in the hall. The one drawback to the Intramurals is that if there is a lack of interest in a particular sport, it cannot be held and therefore the people who were interested don't get a chance! So come on, get involved and let's all have a good time while we are here!
