MERRY CHRISTMAS

AND A HAPPY

NEW YEAR

IT'S JUST ABOUT THAT TIME AGAIN!

QUEEN WEEK

[Jan 27-31]

The Queen Week Committee has been working hard to make this year's Queen Week the most exciting, entertaining, and competitive ever. This is the time when the technologies help their Lady Candidate become MISS N.A.I.T. The students from each of the technologies will have to be directly involved if they really want their technology Queen to win. Here's a list of events we have planned.

Bathtub Races at the Pool area. Miss Technology and one male teammate.

Pyramid Building and Chair Races in the Gymnasium. Miss Technology [Chair race] and the Technology students: biggest pyramid wins.

Lip Sync. Contest in the Little Theatre. Miss Technology and her back-up band.

Fashion Show and Queen's Tea in the Gymnasium. All candidates.

Voting and Queen's Ball: in the Tower lounge, Plaza II cafeteria, Natrium, Westwood Lounge and the Front lobby of the main campus.

Each two year technology executive council is entitled to choose one Lady to represent their technology. It's the technology's responsibility to help and support the candidate it chooses. The deadline for entries to be handed in is Fri. Dec. 20 to E133C [the Student Association offices]. For further information, call Randy at 471-7603.

DEFENSIVE DRIVING

A Christmas gift to yourself -- a gift of life you might say -- enrolling in a Defensive Driving Course.

Edmonton Safety Council urges drivers to improve their driving skills in a Defensive Driving Course and learn to take pride in good safe driving.

Why not make your New Year Resolution - 1986 - "TRAFFIC SAFETY BEGINS WITH ME".

To enroll, call Edmonton Safety Council - 428-7555.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Application forms and information for all financial assistance programs are available from the Financial Aid and Awards Office, NAIT. Completed applications must be returned to this office. For Alberta residents there is no deadline for receipt of applications. However, you are urged to apply well before the beginning of the academic session for which assistance is required. The time required to process an application is approximately 8 to 10 weeks.

ELIGIBILITY

To be eligible to apply for financial assistance from Alberta you must be:

A. A Canadian Citizen or have Permanent Resident STATUS.

B. An Alberta resident, and you must be,

C. A full-time student, i.e. take a minimum of 60 percent of a normal course load for the entire period of study for which assistance is required, i.e. approximately 200 hours per quarter.

However, the actual number of hours depends on the total number of hours in your program. Students who intend to register in only 60 percent of their program should verify their status with the Financial Aid and Awards Officer.

CANADA AND PROVINCE OF ALBERTA STUDENT LOAN PLANS

Financial assistance is available in the form of loans and grants where personal resources are insufficient to provide for the cost of full-time studies at the post-secondary level. The purpose of a student loan is to supplement your income, not to replace your own financial resources, i.e. savings, summer earnings, parental or spousal contribution if applicable, and part-time earnings. Loans are funded through two government sources: federal & Canada Student Loan) and provincial (Alberta Student Loan). In Alberta, both the Canada Student Loan and the Alberta Student Loan are administered by the Students Finance Board. The same application form covers both loans, and financial assistance may be given under one or the other or both plans. The maximum loan assistance available per year is $4,300. If you are not an Alberta resident, you must apply for assistance to your home province.

PART-TIME STUDIES

If you are a part-time student, i.e. taking less than 60 percent of a course load, you may be eligible to receive a bursary provided you are in financial need and are registered in a course or courses that are part of a program approved by the Students Finance Board. The maximum amount of a bursary that may be awarded per quarter is $300. Bursaries are intended to cover the cost of tuition, books, child-care and travel, if required.

REMISSION

The Student Finance Board may repay, on your behalf, a portion of the funds that you are required to borrow for each year of full-time studies. These payments are called remission and under this program the Province may repay a maximum of 50 percent of loans issued in the second year, and 25 percent of loans issued in the third year.

Remission is estimated according to the information you submitted on your application for a student loan. Refund is processed once you begin repaying your student loan and you have submitted an application to the Students Finance Board. Applications may be obtained from the bank, and must be completed by the bank before it is mailed to the Students Finance Board.

INTEREST RELIEF IF YOU BECOME UNEMPLOYED

If you become unemployed because of inability to find work or temporary illness and have insufficient resources to repay your loans without undue hardship, you should immediately advise your lender or collection agency, whichever is monitoring your loans, and request an Application form for Interest Relief. If the lender has submitted a claim to the government and you have not been contacted by the government or its agent, you should request an application form from the Student Assistance Directorate (see Additional Information section). Under the Interest Relief section of the Canada Student Loans Act, the Government of Canada will pay, if you are eligible, the interest charges due on your Canada Student Loan for a three-month period, renewable for up to 18 months if your circumstances have not improved. You should complete an application form in accordance with the instructions on the other side and return it to the lender or collection agency for forwarding to the government. You will be advised by the government whether or not your application is approved and, if approved, the period of interest relief granted.

SWAP Program

NAIT students have been given the chance to work in a foreign country this summer, through SWAP, the Student Work Abroad Programme. The project is run by the Canadian Federation of Students and they call it a "working holiday."

Students may find themselves shearing sheep or cleaning rooms but the Federation feels that students benefit from having any kind of foreign work experience appear on their resumes.

The average cost is about 800 dollars for visits to countries like Britain, Ireland and Belgium, but up to fifteen hundred for trips to New Zealand or Australia.

Students are required to speak the language of the host country and buy their tickets through Travel Cuts Edmonton, a national student travel agency.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

It seems incredible that it was just a short three-and-a-half months ago that I was welcoming you to Nait. Since then we've all been bombarded with exams, papers, labs and endless classes. We've also been hit with an endless barrage of parties, cabarets, rock and talks, concerts, night clubs and artificial stimulants. Since you are still here, I trust you have found an acceptable balance between your academics and your social life. This is crucial, for an over-emphasis on either side results in an unbalanced person, and possible failure.

Here at NAITSA, activity has been non-stop, and when compounded on top of school work, it has resulted in some tense and ulcerous moments. However, I believe NAITSA has accomplished many positive things already, and none of us have had nervous breakdowns! In fact, we are so close to accomplishing our ten goals for the year that we will be having a retreat over the Christmas holidays to evaluate our progress and set new goals for the remainder of the school year.

On behalf of NAITSA, I would like to extend our sincere thanks to everyone, students and staff, who have in any way been involved with our organization, from planning to attending functions. You have been responsible for the successes that we have experienced so far. I would also like to wish you a refreshing and meaningful Christmas. It is our hope that you will return invigorated, prepared to challenge the new term, with all its unknown and opportunities with much of the same excitement and vigor that you began September with.

And to my fellow foreign students, I wish you a special, peaceful Christmas. I, too, understand your unique loneliness at holidays like this, for my family is in warm, sunny Africa. However, I hope that you take this opportunity to celebrate with the new friends you have made here in Canada.

And to all A Merry Christmas!

Sincerely,

Glenn A. Mason

P.S. Have an egg nog on NAITSA.

JOBS FOR STUDENTS

Jobs for students look promising in the near future with the recent sale of the Sheraton Hotel to a major corporate developer.

Jack Levit, President of Lakeview Development of Canada Ltd., announced the takeover which has been in effect since December 2. Mr. Levit said, "Plans for an extensive renovation program are underway," and that could mean the creation of over one hundred student jobs. Positions could range anywhere from part-time construction work to full-time help on the kitchen or managerial staff.

However, Levit is dependent on Provincial grants to help the Sheraton become the high profile hotel he is hoping for.

NAITSA COUNCIL MEETING

The wages for the student executive was for a 30 percent increase. The final reading was Tuesday, December 17 and it was passed. Effective immediately the raises will commence and will not be retroactive.

The quiet study areas in classrooms in different locations at NAIT will not occur until after Christmas. The main issue here is timetables and trying to allocate classroom availability.

Some of you may have noticed that the free phones have been disconnected. It seems that there were about 35-40 lines coming from the NAIT switchboard. When all the SLI lines were in use, it caused the switchboard to jam. NAIT Executive is looking into the matter.

The proposal for the construction of a whirl pool is being processed. A lot of facts had to be obtained and weighed out the advantages and disadvantages. It will hold 12-15 persons and will cost about $42,000. This will also help attract more people in to the swimming pools. There is still some details to be worked out, but it looks good. It could be finished by the summer of '86.

TERROR IN THE SKIES

1985 will be a year that most airline companies would like to forget. Close to two thousand persons have been killed in major airline accidents this year alone. This makes it the worst in aviation history. The JAL, Air India and most recently the Arrow Air Inc. crash, killing some 256 soldiers and crew, have been some of the infamous crashes this year.

What has happened to the so called 'safest transportation' presently available to man. Have companies neglected simple maintenance on such monstrous machines? Have governments not been enforcing the strictest of standards to the fullest? Have security checks been avoided negligently?

Corporations, whose ego's are as big as 747's, may be attempting to lure customers via special prices, special treatment, and endless travel points, but, are they concerning themselves with simple yet important maintenance checks?

How many times have such things as hairline cracks in engines caused hundreds to die. Neglect of such menial tasks is unscrupulous. Is an airline company more willing to pay out millions in lawsuits or would it be more profitable to hire mechanics that can detect such problems.

Airline corporations may also be too sentimental. How, you ask. Well, most airplanes that crash are usually over ten years old. How many vehicles have you known to last that long without any major problems surfacing. Maybe companies should consider replacing airplanes more frequently.

Governments have implemented the strictest codes of rules and regulation to the aviation industry yet, one has to wonder if the enforcement presently adheres to such a code. With the dramatic incline in accidents, are persons actually carrying out proper checks and maintaining high quality control. It seems not to be the case.

Governments are not reprimanding or scrutinizing the airline industry enough. It's time that an evaluation of standards be conducted so to reduce possible tragedies like the Arrow Air accident. An implementation of strict penalties should be incorporated. Maybe governments are too scared to do so, for fear of losing free winter vacations.

Christmas Presents We Would Like to Receive...

As Christmas day is very quickly approaching the hustle and bustle in the shopping malls of the city have reached the highpoint of hysteria.

It is at this time when many of us late shoppers are shaken into a panic, realizing that there are only six days left until Christmas and presents for friends and relatives still having to be purchased. But what to buy?

Well, while your pondering this, just think of the gifts you will be receiving for Christmas! Better yet, think of the gifts you would like to see, but probably will never get. Everyone has a list like this, requesting gifts that are just beyond the stretch of the dollar and the imagination. You know...wishful thinking!

For example, here is small list of some of the things that good ol' Saint Nick simply can't fit into his bag, but presents nonetheless we would like to see:

--A law proclaiming that any future attempt by Eddie Murphy to sing will be illegal.

--All E.T.S. Trolley buses banned from city streets FOREVER.

--"George of the Jungle", "Rocky and Bulwinkle", and "Gumby and Pokey" return to Saturday morning T.V. (Ahh! The classic, truly original cartoons of old!)

--A movie without Meryl Streep in it.

--Brian Mulroney actually, fully, and directly answering a reporter's question.

--The Ghermezian brothers

buy Edmonton, build an enormous plastic dome over it, and rename it "Edmonton Mall"--the world's largest indoor shopping mall-city.

--The creation of the Drippy Music Hall of Fame, with the first inductees being: Lionel Ritchie, Air Supply, and Barry Manilow.

--A Rock n' Talk D.J. that will actually play your requests.

--Those electric carts zooming up and down NAIT hallways drop into a fiery, hell-like abyss.

And last, but not least, it would be nice to see the Students Finance Board lose all records documenting the amount of money we owe when we're finished school. Merry Christmas and Happy New year!

NAIT'S BLUE/GOLD '85 basketball classic begins tonight

From Thursday, December 19 through Sunday, December 22 the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology will be hosting its sixth Annual Basketball Tournament. Blue/Gold '85 continues the unique concept of combining a high school tournament and a college tournament at the same venue on the same weekend. This format offers high school teams some much-needed exposure to college level Basketball. Such exposure is meant to identify Basketball at NAIT and the Alberta Colleges Athletic Conference as a viable alternative, or a stepping stone, to university ball for those wishing to continue playing while pursuing a post-secondary education.

Blue/Gold '85 features Women's College and High School Basketball at its best. The NAIT Chicks welcome Fraser Valley College Cascades from British Columbia and neighboring Camrose Lutheran College and Grant MacEwan Community College. The girls High School Division features eight of the top teams in the greater Edmonton area and should be very competitive.

Chicks Host Alumni Games

In weekend basketball action, the Chicks welcomed back their Alumni for games on Friday and Saturday. Friday the Chicks played an Alumni from 1983 and 1984 teams and came out on top of 73-52 decision despite missing many easy-scoring opportunities. The girls dominated all aspects of the game and cashed in on many transition hoops. Meach Cuccinotta led all scorers with 22 points as every NAIT player hit the scoreboard for some points. Sophie Hickin and Jodie Buchart replied with 12 points each for the Alumni.

Saturday, the Chicks faced a tougher test from the Alumni squad from 1980-1983. The Chicks trailed by up to 10 points in the first half, yet rallied in the final twenty minutes to go up ten points and hang on for a tough 44-40 victory. Sherry Lee got off to a slow start but turned it on to lead the Chicks with fourteen points. All-time NAIT scoring leader Janice Rosenberger-New once again had the hot hand and poured in the points in defeat.

The weekend was capped off with a great Wine & Cheese social on Saturday afternoon. Thanks to Marcy Cooper and Barb Meissner for their help at the social.

Next action for the Chicks is their hosting of the sixth Annual Blue/Gold Basketball Classic this weekend.

Ooks Defend Viking Cup

The NAIT Ookpiks, ACAC and CCAA Champions are defending the 1986 Viking Cup by being victorious during the last Viking Cup in 1984. The Ooks shut out the Czechoslovakian team 3-0 in the Viking Final.

All the finalists from the 1984 Viking Cup are grouped in the same pool for the 1986 tournament in Camrose, Alberta. This pool contains the NAIT champs, Czechoslovakian Junior Selects, and Alk Stockholm the Swedish junior champions. The Notre Dame College Hounds from Wilcox, Sask., hosting Camrose Lutheran College Vikings and the Finnish junior champions Kariput Oulu are the other pool which makes up this fantastic international six-team tournament.

The 1986 Viking Cup will be held in Camrose, Alberta from January 1-5. The Swedish Alk will take on the Czechoslovakian team on

New Year's Day at 2 p.m. to open the round-robin portion of the tournament. The opening ceremonies will be on the same day at 7:30 p.m. with hosting Camrose to play Kariput the Finnish champs at 8:00 p.m.

The first game for our Ooks is January 3 at 8 p.m. They will be meeting their rivals the Czechoslovakian Junior Selects. Each pool will play round robins with the first place finishers in each pool to play the second-place finishers in their opposite pools on January 4 in the semi-finals. The consolation final and championship game is scheduled January 5 at 2 and 7 p.m., respectively.

I hope to see many loyal fans down in Camrose throughout the tourney cheering the Ooks on. Good Luck team and everyone have a safe, great holiday.

D. Craig Somers

JOKING JOCKS

"It was so small we didn't have a village idiot. My brother and I had to take turns."

--Mavericks coach Dick Motta, on his home town of Union, Utah.

"There might have been better defences, but they probably played in Russia." Defensive tackle Steve McMichael, on the Bears' defence.

"Just load the wagon and don't worry about which mule you've got."

--Bum Phillips, to assembled reporters after quitting as head coach of the New Orleans Saints.

"I really just have to see a picture of the Chicago Bears once a week and I don't miss anything."

--Former NFL QB Archie Manning, on whether he misses pro football.

"I think we have some guys who selected the wrong profession."

"He ought to be good for about 30 ejections."

--Royals coach Mike Ferraro, on new Yankee manager Lou Piniella.

"Did you arrive on the team bus or are you the team bus?"

--Bob Hope, after William (The Refrigerator) Perry appeared on his show last year as a member of AP's All-America team.

"There were always a few stabbings. The sidelines were lined with pistols. This was a brutal game with no pads on a field that was half grass and half gravel. This was the only form of non-detrimental activity in the neighborhood. The other activities were very detrimental to one's freedom, like jail."

--Raider Lester Hayes, on the sandlot football games he used to play in Houston.

"Once I got up and was coming down, I believe everybody was getting out of the way."

--William (The Refrigerator) Perry, on his latest touch-down dive for the Bears.

"I'm a good-looking guy, but this is ridiculous."

--7-foot-7 Washington Bullet centre Manute Bol, on all the stares he has to endure while travelling with the club.

"It's a small price to pay when you see what can happen in other countries. If I were in Russia, the KGB would have swooped me up long ago. I would have been a black ice block in Siberia."

--Boxing promoter Don King, on having to face federal income tax evasion charges before ultimately being acquitted.

"You look at the future and you build. This is not the end of this year. It's the beginning of next season."

--U of Minnesota coach Lou Holtz, just before taking a new job at Notre Dame.

"He hasn't been fairing too well, I think his height, weight and reach shortcomings have something to do with it."

--Coach Plosz commenting on Sealy's new boxing career.

"Sure his hair isn't that great, he's a little overweight, he talks too much, and he drinks alot. But that's no reason he shouldn't get laid."

--Kovie commenting on Coach Plosz and his love life.

"His form on the volleyball court is something to be reckoned with. His perfect balance in water polo is stunning. His stupendous performance in broomball scares me. He's an all around athlete!"

--Le Hammer, commenting on Brian 'THE COOLER' BILAWCHUKS' active athletic career.

"So what if he is an idiot, he's still in Hawaii and we're all here at NAIT strumming our noodles."

--Sombuddy answering the often asked question why is Super Sherm so dumb.

"I knew we were in trouble when we got there and their cheerleaders were bigger than us."

--St. Paul, Minn., elementary school soccer player Matt McDonagh, after his team was eliminated in the play-offs.

'BLOWN AWAY' BY ZZ TOP

ZZ Top blew away nearly 15,000 people at the Coliseum last Thursday night. Their hour and forty minute set was filled with energy that had the young and old fans rockin' in their seats. Dusty Hill and Billy Gibbons laid some heavy, blues-oriented licks on the crowd, and Frank Beard pounded his drums into their heads. The Texas trio used enough special effects to complement the music without overdoing it. "Gimme All Your Lovin'" started the show, followed by their hottest single to date, "Sleeping Bag." The mix of new and old tunes kept the crowd going without a rest. "Tube-Steak Boogie," "La Grange" and "Tush," all classics, were saved for the encore. On a cold Thursday night, ZZ Top heated everyone up and as far as they were concerned, the band could do no wrong.

The Headpins opened the show with a tight, 40-minute set of high-energy hard rock that most of the crowd enjoyed. Darby Mills' outfit had the attention of every healthy male in the place. The band didn't have much room on stage, but their performance was first-rate. The new band members fit in well in a concert situation.

All in all, it was a great night of rock 'n roll, and no one went away disappointed, except Ms. Valerie Gregory of the Edmonton Sun.

AJ'S A BREATHTAKING? EXPERIENCE

If you weren't at the BAS Bash at AJ's, you missed a goody. Lots of drinking, lots of partying and lots of good times. It was a big hit, except for the place that it was held at: AJ's is not an appropriate place to hold a party for more than 20 human beings. The downstairs was like a little heated Hen House. There were too many people downstairs, very little ventilation, so by the end of the night your eyes were hurt'n.

Glenn Mason was quoted as saying, "It didn't matter if you urinated on the bar or in the urinals: it all smelled the same." I don't know how anyone could distinguish between different smells through all the heavy smoke. Even though AJ's is a dump, the positive atmosphere of all the people who attended this party made it a great time.

BAS put on a great party, but maybe next time, not at AJ's.

Anyone for a little bubble

Med Lab and Bubbles really know how to keep the fizz in a party. Bubbles is a new club that opened up in the beginning of November. Bubbles is located at 170st. and 103 ave. adjacent to Volvo Village. The party really got going at about 9:30 when more people started to show up.

Med Lab is a small technology. They have 74 first year students and their 2nd year students are doing internship at various hospitals. This left the organization of the cabaret to first year students like Carmen, Kirby, and June and they showed what preparation and organization can do.

I do have some criticisms about this party. The D.J.'s selection was poor and the sound system could have used a couple of speakers, a turn table and amplifier. It was still a good party and we are all looking forward to Med Labs next cabaret.

Kate Nelligan Stars in "Eleni"

Six years ago Kate Nelligan had been named Best Actress in the British Theatre for her electrifying portrayal of the willful Susan in Plenty, David Hare's rueful examination of post-war England. She had performed Bernard Shaw at the National Theatre, Shakespeare at the Royal Shakespeare, and she had worked ren, returns to Greece as the Athens bureau chief for The New York Times.

Gage--played by John Malkovich, who was last seen as the blind boarder in Places in the Heart--has already distinguished himself as an investigative reporter in New York. He now brings that same talent to bear in uncov-for some of the best directors in Europe: John Schlesinger, Maximilian Schell, Trevor Nunn.

Kate Nelligan

"And then I got to Los Angeles," a vivacious and articulate Nelligan recalls, "and the most striking thing was that it didn't matter. None of it mattered.

"And to swallow that," she adds, "was the hardest thing I've had to do in my life. To look at it and say, that is the truth. And you can either go back to England and continue with that. Or you can deal with this--which meant going to offices where they don't know who you are or what you've done, where they've never heard of the National Theatre. And not get angry and not be offended. To just say, I am nobody here.

"And some days I thought I must be out of my mind."

Kate Nelligan has not stopped going out of her mind entirely. After all, just last year she was passed over for the role of Susan Traherne in the film version of Plenty. But tenacity--not to mention great talent--have begun to earn the 34-year-old actress success on this side of the Atlantic, not the least of which is her current role in the movie Eleni.

The year is 1948, and Eleni, a peasant woman, is trying to survive the civil war which has wracked Greece in the aftermath of the Second World War. When Communist guerrillas take over her remote mountain village, she obediently suffers their oppression. After the lives of her children are threatened, however, Eleni rebels. On the night of June 20th, 1948, she arranges to have her four young kids smuggled past guards to freedom in the Western world.

In point of fact, Eleni's heroic story is only half the story of the movie Eleni. The other half takes place 30 years later when Nicholas Gage, one of her four child-ering the circumstances of his mother's mysterious death shortly after she arranged his escape.

It is a search which, in real life, consumed six years of Gage's life, taking him to half a dozen countries and ending--as it does in the movie--in an apartment in a Greek suburb, with a tape recorder and a gun.

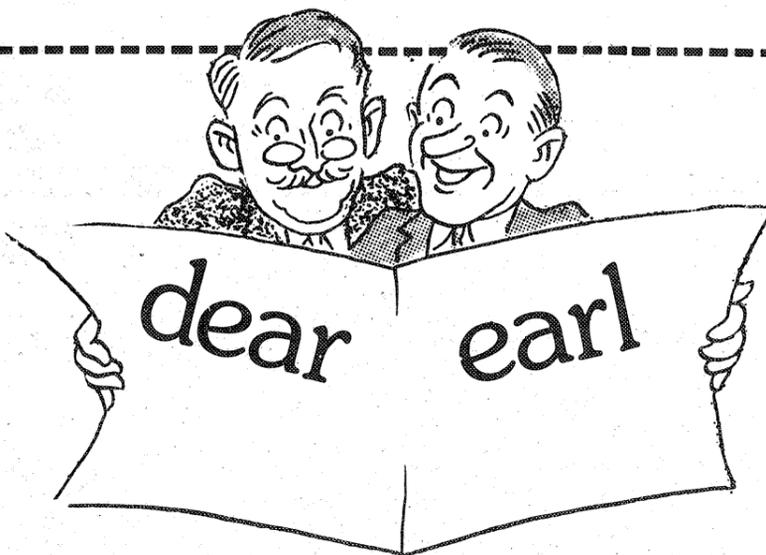

"I've had a wonderful time doing the stage work I've done," says Nelligan, whose greatest success continues to be in the theatre, most recently in a London-to-Broadway revival of Eugene O'Neill's A Moon for the Misbegotten.

"But," she adds, "film work is the most exciting thing right now I can do. You have a lot more control on stage and a lot more immediate response, I know all of that. Maybe it's just a fascination with something very difficult because there's a lot of factors in filmmaking that can destroy what you're trying to do.

"But I think the basic reason I continue to try and work in film is that my own loyalty as an audience member is to film. I mean, if I'm offered a theatre ticket or a film ticket, I will take the film ticket. Always. All my heroes as actors are movie actors. The greatest fun I've had as an audience member has been watching movies."

She knew she was a born actress, she recalls, the first time she stepped on stage. She was 17 and she was playing Hamlet's mother in a University of Toronto student production, "and I was in heaven," says the actress who grew up in London, Ontario.

"Clearly I was a closet pretender and all I needed was the stops to be taken off. It was a totally natural thing for me to come into a room with perfect strangers and pretend to be somebody else. Which is deeply weird."

Dear Earl and Earl,

Why is it some people pick their noses in class and pretend nobody notices, when we all do?

Signed, Picked Off

Dear Picked Off:

People who often pick their nose frequently in class, suffer from a severe case of "Booger Gremlinitis". The reason this individual pretends that nobody notices is because he is in a bizarre state of euphoria--that is totally absorbed within himself with his finger up his nasal cavity. Caution: Next phase of this disease involves booger flinging activity, so stay clear.

Dear Earl and Earl:

How do I promote greater awareness of men with Hairy Backs. I've tried to start a Hairy Back Society but nobody joined. Should I get Lee Fogolin to be my P.R. man? Will that work? Help!!

-Signed, Hairy Back Frustration

Dear H.B.F.

Although Lee Fogolin would be an ideal P.R. man for the Hairy Back Society, unfortunately with Lee's tight schedule he is unavailable for extra work. We suggest that Gerald Kottke would be the perfect candidate for your Hairy Back Society.

Sincerely, Earl and Earl

Dear 84/85 C1 and C2's:

I only have a few minutes to write you a short note before I go.

You have been pretty good this year... and that is nice... because everybody likes good little girls and boys.

You were sound asleep when I came to your home, so...

Sweet Dreams and
Merry Christmas!

I hope you'll find some of the things you wanted in your stocking and under the tree.

Love, Santa

THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the school
Not a creature was stirring, only a Fingame fool.
The instructors were locked in the dungeon with care,
While Tony was out getting a perm in his hair.
The students were nestled with a drink in each hand,
While Lorne danced on stage with an all-girl band,
With Perry on the table and Craig on the floor,
I was soon to be heading out the back door.
When from the lobby there arose such a clatter,
I jumped from my chair to see what was the matter.
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a lonely accounting teacher just wanting a beer.
Across the smoke-filled room he walked like a turtle:
I knew in a moment it had to be Hirtle.
More rapid than eagles, his students they came,
And he whistled, and shouted, and called them by name:
"Now Sasges! now Hadfield! now Wells and Haine!
On Kish! on Carr! on Boyko and Sasvari!
To the front of the bar! and back to the stall!
Now drink away! drink away! drink away all!"
Up to the bar the students they flew
With a bundle of money and Greg's Visa card, too.

And then, in an instant, I heard from the floor
The intoxicated students shouting for more.
As I stood by the bar, and was turning around,
Down from the stage Lorne came with a bound.
He was dressed in silk from his head to his toe
Even through the darkness, you could see his glow.
A case of Coors he had at his side,
From Melanie's glare he attempted to hide.
His eyes--how bloodshot! his dimples--how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry!
His mug was filled right to the brim
And the rest of the students were laughing at him.
We spoke not a word, not even a joke
While we polluted our bodies with liquor and smoke.
And laying his Visa on top of the bar
Greg said to his students, "Out to my car!"
He sprang to the door, to his students gave a holler,
And away we all staggered without even a dollar,
But we heard him exclaim after he paid the tab,
"To Hell with you, you can call a cab!"
Then we heard him shout as he drove out of sight,
"Happy Christmas to all and to all a good night!"

Written to the tune of "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer."

Jimmy the red-nosed student Had a nose that shone so bright.
And if you ever saw it He could be your guiding light.
All of the business students Used to tie him to their car.
On a clear winter night His nose would point to the Northern Star.
Then one cloudy Christmas night Bill Fricker came to say,
"Jimmy with your nose so bright,
Why can't you do your O.B. right!"
That made Jimmy feel bad.
So he put his nose to the books.
Now his nose shines no longer,
But he still retains those shitty looks.
