PARENTING

In recent years an increasing number of NAIT students have found themselves in the interesting position of combining jobs - that of being parents as well as students. Such a combination can create unique pressures and demands.

Time, or the lack of it, is the most common concern of students who are parents. Many complain that there just aren't enough hours in the day. And when time is in such short supply parents begin to worry about their relationship with their children. Especially worrisome is how to maintain adequate controls on children's behavior.

Time and controls are two topics which will be dealt with in PARENTING. Others will include communication, children's misbehavior and the power structure in the family. All lectures and discussions will be focused on parents' concerns with the goal of finding practical answers for them.

Remissions

As student loans remissions now stand, they are 45 percent remission upon first application, 35 percent second remission, 25 percent remissions thereafter the third application. ACTI SEC made proposal to the Government to set a straight 35 percent remission on student loans. This issue will also be brought back to General Council for new information.

Beerfest

ALCB tightened up regulations as to the amount of people allowed at one function. They are allowing NAITSA to have 1,000 people attend a function after the beerfest where 1,500 people will be allowed to attend. The Executive plans on meeting with the ALCB once the beerfest and Shinerama are over to discuss this issue.

Jacuzzi

The Executive is proposing to install a jacuzzi in the pool area. A rough estimate for the jacuzzi, installment included, is $42,000. This jacuzzi will accommodate disabled people as well. The Executive hoping this will be financed through a tri-project with NAITSA, NAIT, and the Athletic Board. Randy will keep us updated on this as soon as he can get more information.

To Each Her Own

The endless saga of Dr. Henry Morgentaler's efforts to give women the facilities and rights to abortions, has hit another snag. The Ontario Supreme Court has overruled the decision made last year that Dr. Morgentaler is innocent of procuring an abortion.

The decision, all made by male judges, claimed that no jury has the right to: a) pass judgement involving innocent third parties, or b) to interpret abortions laws in accordance to emotional bias.

Up until 1973, abortions in the United States were illegal. Under no circumstance were women allowed to have abortions. It was only until the feminist movement in the 70's, through numerous protests, that finally changes were made to the laws. But this took many years. So abortion was finally legalized but, only after many women had died in trying to rid an unwanted pregnancy.

No records were legally kept, but research on the subject shows that approximately one-half of maternal deaths in New York State resulted in botched illegal abortions. Most notably a majority of those that died were married.

Contraceptives were also illegal until 1973. Married women therefore had to keep quiet about abortions for it was immoral to conceive the notion that abortion was a choice. Thus, back alley abortion clinics were a result which led to many of the unwarranted deaths.

In Canada, abortion laws are still too strict. The difficulty in getting abortions varies from province to province. In Quebec, they are easily obtained, while in Alberta you must go through enormous hospital red tape.

Prolifers in general are declaring that they want no one should have control over their bodies. They are willing to go through unwanted pregnancies be it by rape (by a stranger or by their husbands), by mistake or even if it endangers the mothers' life. If a pregnancy is endangering a woman's life, it seems to me that her life is much more valuable to society than the fetus'.

This issue is an ongoing battle, but on clear fact that comes to mind. No male judges, nor anyone for that matter should be making personal judgements for another human being. That is why the decision should be to each HER own.

ABOUT THE COVER

Artist Algernon Greenwood celebrates second-grade exuberance in our nostalgic cover illustration this week.

'The contrasting tones and the non-symmetrical balance in the composition help to depict the childlike optimism that I felt when I was seventeen,' says Algernon, as white-suited attendants toss scraps of food into his tiny, padded living quarters.

We asked Algernon why he didn't include a Thanksgiving turkey and some pumpkin pie in his drawing.

His answer: 'That tired old theme has been dragged out and beaten into the ground. It's sort of like, overkill. I really don't think we should be thankful for mashed potatoes and stuffing, anyway. We should really be thankful to God. He is my friend, you know. I met him at the 9th Street Bistro last year, before these nice people brought me to this place. Gee, I'm getting sleepy... would you turn off the sprinkler on your way out, please?'

Salvador Dali would have been proud.

Dear Editor:

Is someone going to fill the soap-dispensers in the men's washroom on the sixth floor of the Tower Building, or what? I was just wondering.

BORING

Sure Edmonton can be boring; but then any place in the world can be boring if you sit around twiddling your thumbs and waiting to see what happens.

Hookers! Yeah we have a whole selection of them here in Our Town. Name a place that doesn't have a hooker hang out where one can pick and choose from a vast assortment of love dolls.

Used building lot with no trees? That's questionable especially when the person saying it spends their time in Montreal and New York. New York has more dead buildings than one can imagine, and Point St. Charles in Montreal has no shortage of dead buildings either.

Any writer worth more than three cents knows that you don't print something unless you can back it up; or if you can't back it up you let people know its fiction. Mordecai didn't follow the rules.

Obviously the man didn't take the time to have a look around and see what Edmonton is really all about. Granted Edmonton is not a Montreal or New York, but that's why we live here.

The population here is less than one-fifth of either New York or Montreal, so it only makes sense that we don't have as many places to go or things to do. Au contraire.

We've got West Edmonton Mall, something unique to Edmonton. No where else in the world is there anything like it. We've got a brand new Space Sciences Centre that is one of the best facilities of its type on the continent. The Mutart Conservatory is something one has to see to appreciate.

We also have the attractions that are common to all major cities, including a museum, Legislature Grounds, theaters, restaurants, shopping just to name a few.

While everybody is screaming to have Mordi lynched, I feel sorry for him. To spend time here in Our Town without enjoying himself is like going to a dance and passing out in the corner. If you're not willing to have some fun you might as well stay home. Perhaps Mordi should stay in New York. Obviously the friendly atmosphere of Edmonton doesn't agree with him. While we here in Edmonton are enjoying life and preparing for winter, Mordi will be back in New York wondering if those people on the next corner are gonna roll him.

FINAL CUTS:

NAIT's basketball team is here

Last week, coach David Hoy made the final cuts for the Men's Basketball Team. Selected were twelve players, six of them first year team members.

'Depth' is what has been added to the 85/86 team. The players' heights range from the five ft. ten of Adrian Toppin and Brian Glowinski (guards), to the six foot eight Brian Lazaruk (post). Lazaruk was possibly the best high school player in Edmonton last year, but was generally overlooked because he only played half the season.

Other members are: Dan Bohaychuk (6'6"; post), John Geisler (6'1"; guard-forward), Mike Kelly (6'1"; guard), Travis Heighington (6'; guard), Darren Aughtry (6'1"; guard), Dennis Leggatt (6'3"; forward), Scott Holmes (6'5"; post), Mike Klein (6'4"; forward), and Powell Jones (6'6"; post).

Hoy says that, as in past years, SAIT will be the toughest competition, but he is confident that he has a winning team.

The first real test for the team comes on Friday, October 18 at Grant MacEwan. The OOKS will be taking on the Gryphons in a 'Preseason Tournament' starting at 5:45. On Saturday they challenge Camrose Lutheran College at 5:45 p.m.

An A.C.A.C. (Alberta Colleges Athletic Conference) 'Preseason Tournament' goes on October 25 and 26 at the Medicine Hat College.

In the recent preseason tournament, NAIT was to handle all the college teams they played except Red Deer who defeated them 2-1 on a penalty shot. The tournament was won by U. of A. Juniors; NAIT finished 4th. This tournament showed that there is very little difference between any of the college teams. The tournament has given the NAIT team confidence that they can keep the NAIT soccer tradition alive. They look forward to two solid weeks of practices and one final exhibition game. Good luck, OOKS. Go for Montreal!

On the side line: soccer fans, do not miss the senior National Soccer Championships in Edmonton this Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Alberta is represented by Edmonton Angels in the women's and by Edmonton Ital-Canadians in the men's.

JOKING JOCKS

"Kicking him could be an honest mistake, but pushing his face into the ground was definitely a no-no."

-Mike Sealy commenting on playing-coach Mike Lee settling a disagreement on the soccer field.

"I'm not sure, but I think he has developed a glandular problem."

-Blawchuk commenting on Scott Sherman's sudden weight increase.

"The biggest reason that we are where we are is the curtailment of late-inning lead dissipation. That is a characteristic the team has displayed all season: resiliency to adversity."

-California Angels manager Gene Mauch.

"You're going to be here no more than two years; guys like you never last."

-Umpire Larry Napp in 1968, while giving Orioles manager Earl Weaver the first of his 93 major league ejections.

"No way. I hate needles."

-Mariners catcher Bob Kearney, on whether he would favor mandatory drug testing.

"They said, 'Don't screw it up.'"

-Raider QB Rusty Hilger, asked what his teammates said to him when he took over from the injured Marc Wilson two Sundays

"All he can do is hit singles. He thinks he's helping the club hitting .265, but we'd have more speed and more power without him. More production."

-Reds outfielder Gary Redus, on player-manager Pete Rose

"We're alike. We both wanna win, we don't like to be embarrassed and we're dead set against drugs."

-Yankee Dave Winfield, on team owner George Steinbrenner.

"With each at his best, I would pick Rocky. With his punching ability, Rocky could end any fight with one punch, but Larry wouldn't disgrace himself. Good boxers gave Rocky trouble, but he was so strong, so determined. His endurance and stamina were unbelievable."

-Veteran trainer Ray Arcel, on a matchup between Larry Holmes and Rocky Marciano.

"The other day, I got a piece of mail, addressed Renando. To show you how bad it's gotten, it was from my bank."

-Mavericks' Rolando Blackman, complaining about how people are always getting his first name wrong.

"Don't try to look into my mind because you won't find anything."

-Green Bay QB Lynn Dickey, to questioning reporters.

"While I was dating my wife, I sent her flowers every day."

-Notre Dame basketball coach Digger Phelps, on the advantage of being the son of an undertaker.

"He draws a crowd wherever he goes. On the field, the opposition follows his every move. His teammates follow him. I only hope that the bowl scouts follow him."

-University of Minnesota coach Lou Holtz, on QB Rickey Foggie.

"Playing dumb has helped me make about two million dollars."

-Former Steeler QB Terry Bradshaw, on his supposed shortage of smarts as a player.

"Without me, the nature of the telecasts was entirely altered. I had commanded attention. I had palpable impact on the show, giving it a sense of moment. If that sounds like ego, what can I say. I'm telling it like it is."

-Howard Cosell on his part in Monday Night Football.

"After all, we were 2-19 after about 20 games last season."

-Cavaliers' World B. Free, on the importance of getting a fast start this season.

"I'm a blue-collar worker. I don't punch in, I punch out."

-Laker Maurice Lucas, on his style of play.

"Pinklon Thomas and Tim Witherspoon can beat him. And so can Carl Williams, Tony Tubbs, Bonecrusher Smith, Greg Page and David Bey. They'd put pressure on him and use the right."

TOUGH WEEKEND FOR THE N.A.I.T. HOCKEY TEAM

The N.A.I.T. OOKS traveled to Saskatoon this weekend (Oct. 4, 5, and 6) to play in the University of Saskatchewan Classic. It was a round robin tourney with four teams. The University of Alberta GOLDEN BEARS (the tournament winners), the University of Saskatchewan Huskies, the University of Manitoba Bison, and lastly, the N.A.I.T. OOKPICS.

The OOKS first game on Friday was against our arch rival, the Bears. It was a quick paced game and went into double overtime. But when it came down to the winner, the Bears stood on top. The rookies when on the ice played well, but the veterans showed their stuff employing the 2 on 2. Coach Pearn said although the 2 on 2 is a good system that it may have tired his team out, playing games three consecutive days. The OOKS controlled the second period of the game, shutting the bears out and taking one goal. They quickly added one more goal in the third making the score 4 to 2. But the Bears came back and at the end of the third, it was tied at 5 all. Finally, after a scoreless fourth, the Bears scored into the third minute of the fifth period.

It was a hard loss for the OOKS and I think it determined who would win the tournament. The Bears had no trouble at all with the remaining two teams, winning by at least 5 goals each game.

The OOKS lost to Saskatchewan 6 to 4, but the sixth goal was an empty netter. They had a good second period in this game, controlling the play for the full twenty minutes. There were seven goals scored in the third period. The captain, Ron Amyotte, and his assistants, Mark Shultz and Ross Kenny, each added to the cause, tying the game 4-4. The U. of S. team scored twice and came out with their only victory of the tournament.

The final game on Sunday against the U. of M. Bisons was a tough one to watch. The OOKPICS seemed to lose interest. They lost 10 to 3.

Even with the last game out of reach, veteran Mark Shultz worked hard, as he did all weekend. Ron Amyotte had a fine tournament as Captain and in some instances showed much-needed leadership. The stand-out was Ross Kenny: he skated strongly, passed well, and was the only N.A.I.T. player to be elected to the all-star team.

The OOKS play the GOLDEN BEARS on Oct. 9 and although this won't be printed until the next day, I'm sure they will have forgotten about the weekend and crush the Bears.

wile e.'s old record re-view

Are you struggling on a student budget with a limited amount of finances left over for entertainment? Then Wile E's Record Re-View is for you.

This column is a re-view (not review) of records 5 years or older that are readily available at second hand record stores throughout the city. Their prices range from $2.00-$5.00. Just the right price for the economically-minded student of today.

After The Gold Rush. Neil Young. (1972) This was a top-selling album in 1972 and has come to be known as one of Neil Young's best efforts. It contains such timeless classics as: Tell Me Why, After the Gold Rush, and When You Dance I Can Really Love. Inspired by the Dean Stockwell-Herb Berman screenplay, "After The Gold Rush," this album is a thoughtful collection of songs written by Young, varying in style from the more folkie Tell Me Why to the driving rock beat of When You Dance I Can Really Love.

Get Happy!! Elvis Costello and the Attractions (1980).

This album came out during the growth stage of the New Wave movement. Elvis Costello has been called the genius behind New Wave, as many acts including Joe Jackson, and The Cars have been inspired by his dynamic musical style.

The album contains 20, yes 20, songs on it. Each are about 2 to 3 minutes in length. Notable cuts are: Secondary Modern, King Horse, New Amsterdam, Temptation, Five Gears in Reverse, Man Called Uncle, Love for Tender. As the titles imply, this album is packed with short, creative, danceable tunes that really emphasize Costello's ability to write songs with great variety and catchy hooks. Get Happy!! is a must for the eclectic music listener. Unfortunately, it is a rare find in second hand stores. If you do find it, buy it and...Get Happy!!

introducing... STAGE POLARIS

There's a new theatre in town. Well, actually, it's an old theatre with a new name. The Fort Edmonton Players who, for the past four years have been quietly producing historical theatre for the general public and school groups, are expanding.

STAGE POLARIS, as the company is now known, was conceived by Susan M. Woywitka who has been involved in the Edmonton theatre scene since the age of six. Susan transmitted her dream to arts administrator Claris Cowan and actor/teacher Leslie Bland and together they have founded STAGE POLARIS.

Susan's idea grew out of an increasingly strong awareness of a gap in Edmonton's theatre landscape. Despite the numerous theatres in the city, it was determined both through unsolicited feedback from the public as well as specific research that two segments of our population were being passed over. Except for the Christmas season, there is very little theatre offered for entire families--and especially at prices which an average young family can afford.

In addition, although there are theatre experiences available for children during their school years, there is almost nothing offered for pre-schoolers who are, of course, fully entitled to the exposure and delight of theatre's magic.

STAGE POLARIS' main objectives are to fill these two needs within the community.

A closely related endeavour, STAGE POLARIS ACADEMY OF DRAMA, is also being launched at this moment. Providing theatre arts courses to the general public, the ACADEMY offers a wide range of theatre-related subjects for all ages taught by professional teacher/performers including composer Wendy-Jean Albrecht (who is also Principal), dancer Maria Formolo, actor/clowns Jan Henderson and Robert Astle, actor/teacher Leslie Bland and others.

STAGE POLARIS' offices, classrooms and StarryTime Theatre season are all located in Old King Edward School. Built in 1913, the building is gorgeous to look at and a pleasure to be in. Thirteen-foot ceilings, large windows and wide hallways all provide an aura of grace and light.

NAIT - RADIO AND TELEVISION ARTS

Radio and Television Arts is a program that has been offered at NAIT for almost twenty years. The facilities and curriculum have changed a great deal over the years. A program like Radio and Television Arts is unique because it operates a radio station and a television station. Because students at NAIT don't find out much about what other students do every day or what they learn in their programs this article will try to tell you a bit about R.T.A.

CHNR is a radio station run at NAIT by Radio and Television Arts students. The station can be found at 102.5 on FM Cable with Shaw. CHNR brings you NAIT News and contemporary music, five days a week, 7:30 a.m. - 11:00 p.m.

D.J.'s go 'on location' Tuesdays and Thursdays in the main foyer at NAIT, so if you see one of us sitting there with equipment on the table in front of us, stop and say 'hi'.

Radio students learn about what is involved with being on air, they learn how to write for radio, they learn how to produce commercials and specials and they find out about career in radio.

ENN is Edmonton NAIT News, a news show that focuses on NAIT News and NAIT sports. Students put together a package of entertainment and news four days a week. Friday is a special show which goes to air on Shaw Cable at 6:30. The news show is put together by producers, reporters and video editors, everyday and taped at noon.

Television demands long hours and group effort to get together a product. Students produce music videos, entertainment pieces, commercials and other work. The two-year program gives you a good overview of the industry.

Radio and Television Arts wants the students of NAIT, to be aware of our Radio and Television stations. Then perhaps you will understand what students with cameras and lights are doing around the school setting up here and there. Or maybe you will see the D.J.'s out on remotes in the main foyer and you will know what they're doing.

So listen in to CHNR if you have a cable and be sure to catch the special NAIT news show on Friday's at 6:30 on Shaw Cable. You'll enjoy listening and watching NAIT students bringing you news and programs with you in mind.

GUYS

Appearances are very scarce. Where are all you brave good looking guys? Our offer still stands at 500 men.

Don't be shy
Drop on by!

Westwood.

P.S. Thanx to Electrics for the invite.

Dear I.L.D.

In response to your question, Why 500? Because our excitable electrons are travelling at such a high rate of speed, we don't need to get heated, we're already HOT!

P.S. Why don't you come over to Westwood and find out just how excited our electrons are!!
The SKMM

To the lovely blondes in hairstyling.
Your eyes so blue,
Like us are true,
Your legs so long,
Like us so strong,
Your hand so quick,
We're almost sick,
We love you so,
Oh how can we show,
We want you clear,
The time is near,
Come to our Cabaret,
And you'll never stray.

Now that Westwood Campus has filled their quota how about the lonely female population at Plaza IV! Applicants must be single, eligible, and like to party. Paramedics need not apply - we're looking for new faces!!

Civil's 1st Quarter Kickoff

I would like to extend a very big thank you to the secretaries at Westwood who aided in making our first cabaret a success, and adding a lot to our alcohol profits. Northern Lights and Sounds played good quality music to our sell out crowd.

I only hope all our cabarets operate this smoothly.

Thanks again to everyone who made it possible.

See you in November.
