OPINIONS

A LITTLE ELBOW GREASE IN THE SHINE

Shinerama is a major event at NAIT and participation for this event cannot be stressed enough. This is not an event just put on for the sake of entertaining students, but is an event to raise money for Cystic Fibrosis research. Why NAIT has chosen to do this is not because of the recognition of doing a "good deed", but for helping out a great cause. The research that SHINERAMA, is helping to raise funds for is important to a child with CF and should be important to students at NAIT.

Cystic Fibrosis research is not a charity that should be regarded too lightly. CF is not only uncomfortable for the individual but heartbreaking for the parents who have children with CF, heartbreaking is knowing that more research is needed to find a cure for CF, so that children who suffer from it may one day live a long healthy life.

Instead of sleeping in late Saturday - don't waste life - get up and do a little SHINING. Saturday night, after shining shoes, be entertained by Doug and the Slugs. The effort can be rewarded by the mere thought of knowing more money has been put into CF research all because of a little elbow grease in the Shining of Shoes.

SHINERAMA SHOESHINE SHOP

IS THE END COMING?

To the last of the big bashes; or thanks to the jerks who attended the architecture cabaret.

The Woodstock cabaret was great, but Sunday was ruined for everyone who had to deal with the people from the hall.

Some people seem to think it proves they're MEN if they throw picnic tables over the fence or smash mirrors and light fixtures. Anyone over 15 (and most people under) know that all this proves is how (im)mature you really are; obviously nobody has explained this to a certain group of people.

There is now one more hall that won't rent to NAIT or University students unless they hire an off-duty policeman, and what club needs that extra expense? The people at the hall were very reasonable about the damage, but they feel that their standing in the community has been seriously harmed. Many of the neighbors are threatening to have the hall closed down because of the incidents.

If that doesn't bother the people who went out of control, and it probably won't, NAIT's image, particularly that of the Architecture students Society, took a real beating (to say nothing of their bank account).

Thanks guys, keep it up and no one will have to clean up after you and apologize for you because no one will be renting halls to students.

SHINERAMA

Do you want to feel as if you have accomplished something? Do you want to feel useful? Then get involved in this year's SHINERAMA. There is no greater experience, then the experience of helping others in need.

Every shoe that you shine, brings the goal of a conquering Cystic Fibrosis a little closer. It makes you realize that you are the one who is working for that goal, you personally are turning the tide against this dreaded disease.

For those of you who wonder what's in it for you, wonder no more. Respect. A respect for yourself that transcends egotism, you're proud that you gave so little of yourself and helped so much. Besides the fact that you do get a half price ticket to Doug and the Slugs as well as a couple of meals sure doesn't hurt.

How difficult is it to come out and help for one day a cause that's helping others. Who knows, maybe one day, you'll need the help.

So come out and help on Saturday, October 4, 1986, let's show the rest of the country that NAIT more than does its share.

FROM THE STUDENTS

UNFAIR, UNJUST, AND JUST NOT FAIR.

With feelings akin to those of the dissatisfied customer in Monty Python's famous "Parrot Sketch", "I would like to register... a complaint!"

Sadly, my complaint is not a comedic one. My complaint is one that concerns the performance of certain faculty staff who shall remain nameless but not blameless. As a second year Business student who has one year's educational background at the U of A, I feel qualified to speak out on this topic. I have had excellent instructors and I have had poor instructors but never have I had instructors that have made me feel so frustrated and angry as some of this year's "crop".

This is not to say that all of my instructors are incompetent. Far from it. NAIT houses some of the most dynamic, interesting and qualified instructors I have had the pleasure to study under. The fact remains, however, that some people on the payroll simply are not fit to teach. Some are new and lack the experience and supervision. Their techniques and capabilities may improve with time but some of the violators have been here for years. How many students have suffered under them and gained little but the knowledge that life is not fair?

So what exactly am I getting at? I'm trying to bring to attention the fact that there are instructors here who admittedly know almost nothing more about the subject they teach than the students in their classrooms. I'm saying that there are instructors here who enter the classroom not knowing exactly what they are going to teach that day but are so adept at putting the class to sleep that the students hardly notice. I'm saying that there are instructors here who re-teach last day's lessons and don't get as far the second time as they did the first! I'm saying that there are instructors who ask questions of their class, consistently shoot down any succinct answer, rephrase it into an unintelligible pool of sludge and drool which, if distilled, boils down to the very answer proposed by the student who will never make the mistake of speaking out in that class again.

I could continue, I could go on and on and on and on and not really accomplish anything; much like some of the indicated instructors. I won't do that. I think you will get my point and my point is: why should we have to pay for, listen to, and rely on persons who cannot perform their duties? Why should we have to suffer the extra burden of teaching ourselves course and gain only the privilege of writing exams and working on assignments which will be graded by the very people we cannot stand to listen to in class? I'll tell you why. It is because life is not fair. Life may not be fair but it does allow for a certain amount of justice. My cause may not be pretty but I believe my cause to be just. I propose a possible solution to the problem at hand. Although we may not benefit from it's outcome in the brief time that we are here at NAIT, perhaps the students who follow us in the years to come will appreciate the effort. I propose that we be allowed to candidly evaluate the performance of our instructors at the end of each semester, much like those students in the continuing education division are allowed to evaluate theirs. I propose that evaluation documents be made available to students prior to final exams, that these documents be submitted not to the instructors but to an independent agency (perhaps the Board of Governors) who will quantify the results and pass them on to persons with the power to hire and fire these people. Termination may not be necessary; reform most certainly is.

WHY NAIT?

I have a question for all first year students out there. Why Nait? Is it because you feel the work is going to be easier than anywhere else and the time to complete the program shorter?

Well let me dissuade you of these beliefs right now. The work is going to be easy sure, but only if you put in many unheralded hours of studying. Getting good grades in NAIT is not the same as high school. You can not study the night before for an exam; the exams are tough, it is like writing a departmental every month in every class. However, if you are willing to work hard, you will get the marks you need.

As for the program being shorter, that is true for some technologies, but for some it is not; Architecture and Accounting come most readily to mind. After you complete your programs here you still have a few years left in order to get the designation you want. However, the quality of the work taught here is equal to if not better than the quality taught at other institutions. So you are not actually losing anything in the overall picture, and may actually be gaining.

NAIT has many benefits, I would like to hear from you first year students why you chose NAIT over the other schools.

By Doug Pratt.

BOOK SALE

Have you ever wanted to own that special book? You know the book that no one else seems to like, but to you it is a treasure trove of imagination.

Well now you can! The Edmonton Public Library is holding its annual book sale of discarded and unwanted books. On Friday September 26, from 5-8 p.m., and Saturday September 27, from 9 a.m.-3 p.m., in the Centennial (downtown) Library you may find that special book you have always wanted.

To have that special book it will not cost an arm and a leg. Quite the contrary actually, admission is free and the books range in price from $.25 for paperbacks to $.75 for hardcovers.

If you are not into books there is still something for you too! As well as books, the Library is selling records and periodicals. These also range in price from $.25 to $.75 and can be found in the downtown branch.

As well as finding that special book you have always wanted, you are helping a worthy cause. Come down and support the Edmonton Public Library's annual sale and see to what limits your imagination will flow.

Memberships to the Business Administration Society are on sale this week. Our BAS memberships offer business students savings on all BAS activities as well as some discounts at local businesses. (It was nice to see a number of membership holders taking advantage of the 10% discount on drinks at Runway 29 on Friday afternoon!).

BAS is happy to see memberships are going fast - especially to first year classes where groups B1-2 and B5-6 have each had 18 students purchase our $10.00 memberships. Looks like big savings for those two classes!

Thank you to all those who

were chosen or volunteered to be a BAS class rep. We are looking forward to working with you throughout the year.

A reminder to all Business students of some upcoming events: On Oct. 10, BAS is offering their first Cabaret - the Twisted Turkey Bash. (Along with the Thanksgiving tradition). Tickets are $5.00 for members, $7.00 for non-members. Tickets will be on sale soon, ask your Class Rep.

BAS wishes to thank BCET and CIVIL for their courageous challenges. CIVIL challenged us to see which student executive (BAS or CIVIL's) can raise the most money on Shinerama. If BAS wins (If?) CIVIL's exec. have to wear diapers T-shirts, ties and hard hats to the next NAITSA council meeting following Shinerama. BCET should look to our ripping letter in this paper's classifieds for an answer to their challenge.

A note to BAS membership holders who wish to use their $2.00 coupon at A&A records in Kingsway Garden Mall - you will have to wait until October unfortunately, since A&A is in the process of renovating.

LABOUR CANADA

In a recent information release by Labour Canada, they stated that during the summer of 1985, the federal government commissioned Hay Management Consultants to survey and prepare a report on part-time employment in federally regulated industries.

Their findings show that between 1983 and 1985 the growth in part-time employment exceeded that of full-time employment. Further findings indicate that part-time employees have to cope with fewer advancement opportunities, fewer fringe benefits and lower wages than their full-time counterparts, yet are seen by employers as being equally productive.

The study covered almost 2000 companies employing half a million people, and has been published by the Publication Division of Labour Canada. The study itself supplies many statistics dealing with part-time workers, including their salaries and the fringe benefits currently being received.

Copies of the study entitled a Survey of Part-Time Employment in Federally Regulated Industries, Volume 1, can be obtained free of charge by phoning (819) 994-0543 or writing to Publications Distribution Centre, Labour Canada, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0J2

MOVIE PREVIEWS

Warner Brothers, the monolithic movie corporation, is just about to release two new movies.

Each deals with totally different circumstances, while both still entertain. One is a story on the jazz scene, it's called "ROUND MIDNIGHT", and opens October 17th. The other is a sci-fi horror called "DEADLY FRIEND", it opens October 10th.

"ROUND MIDNIGHT" is a story on the great jazz pianist Bud Powell and his friendship with admirer and amateur pianist Paul Poudras. The film centers around the music of David Rayfiel and Herbie Hancock. A must for all jazz fans.

The second show, "DEADLY FRIEND", should be interesting if not entertaining. It's the story about a keener who falls in love. Except this keener has a taste for blood as well as lust. It stars Mathew "Little House" Laborteaux and Kristy Swanson. Directed by Wes "Nightmare on Elm Street" Craven, makes me think this movie will be very graphic. If you like simple plots and graphic death scenes, this one's for you.

What you just read is only a small sample of what Warner Bros. has in its up and coming releases. So stay tuned for more important movie facts in coming NUGGET issues.

"LIVE-LINE"

Dear Readers,

Do you feel that in some way I have missed an event. Something you might have wanted to see. Well I hope that this never does happen, but just in case helps on the way.

Help comes in the form of "Live-Line". "Live-Line" is an arts and entertainment hot line. It features live operators between 9 and 5 (Mon-Fri) and 9 to 6 (Sat). Providing up to the minute announcements on all kinds of entertainment. Its even been said that the "Live-Line" has made the Edmontons Art community High-Tech.

So if you think I've missed something just phone 424-LIVE and find out more. If you should want more info about this contact David Hull at 424-8862 between 9 and 5 during weekdays. This is a system that is long overdue.

WOODSTOCK FLASHBACK

I just about reached nirvana. I mean I could feel waves of internal enlightenment swarm my soul. Even though all of this took place within, not much happened outside. Except excessive alcohol consumption, narcotic inhalation and the odd fist-a-cuffs. The Architectural Cabaret has set the pace for this years events.

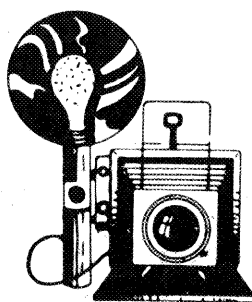

The theme was "Woodstock", and as the night wore on the 'freaks' came out. Loud and drunk. The bouncers deserve a hats off for some spectacular crowd control. Either way, it appeared everyone had a good time. Dancing to their favorite 1980's songs and hustling each other. All was fine except some of the women weren't into the free love scene. Hey, it's understood.

EYE OPENING EXPERIENCE IN ECUADOR

Kevin Tilroe, a first-year Electronics student at N.A.I.T. spent two months last summer working for HCJB as a technician in their World Radio's Television Department. HCJB stands for Heraldng Christ Jesus' Blessings.

What HCJB does is run a missionary broadcasting organization in South America. Their program last summer involved 29 participants representing the U.S., Canada, and England. Summer missionaries work in four areas - health, care, broadcasting, Spanish ministries and technical services - doing everything from producing radio programs and building antennas to answering mail and nursing in HCJB's two hospitals. Living and working in a foreign culture can prove to be a growing experience for everyone involved.

When missionaries weren't working they travelled Ecuador. One highlight of last summers expedition was a camera shooting session in Guayaquil. Ecuadors largest city with a population of 1.5 million. Besides this trip there were some field trips organized for the group as a whole. These included Indian Markets to a jungle hospital.

As for HCJB's religious affiliations, it is an interdenominational organization concerned mainly with broadcasting and health care. HCJB's international shortwave broadcasting site is near Quito, Ecuador and broadcasts in 13 languages. Also there are two hospitals run from Ecuador that help serve rural areas with mobile medical clinics and community development. HCJB has offices in more than 20 countries with local radio ministries in Europe, Panama, Texas and Ecuador.

WOMEN STRIKERS SPEAK OUT

On Thursday, 7:30 p.m. at the Women's Building (10055 110 St.) Edmonton Working Women will sponsor a speak-out and social called "Life On the Line--Women on Strike". Women on strike at Gainers, Lakeside Packers in Brooks, and the A.L.C.B. will take part in an informal discussion and social evening.

The educational focus of the evening will give the participants an opportunity to discuss their experiences on the picket line, for example-- what problems specific to women have they encountered during the strike?, how have women been able to balance their commitments on the line and at home?, what benefits have they gained from their involvement in their union's actions?

PARKING

Once again there has been a complaint about student parking. This time it comes from a new source.

In May of this year the Parish Council of the Holy Rosary Church, the Church across the street, decided to no longer allow students to park in their parking lot. So be warned, you could be towed away!

NAIT Men Finish Second in Cross-Country

On Saturday September 20, 1986 the NAIT Cross-Country Running Team competed in the Red Deer College-Invitational Cross-Country Meet with the men's team finishing second. second on the undulating and tricky course. The women completed 4 km with the men running 8 km.

CANADA Leads CF Research

Dr. Lap-Chee Tsui and Dr. Manuel Buchwald of Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children and a team of scientists from Collaborative Research Inc. of Boston, headed by Dr. Helen Donis-Keller, have announced a significant breakthrough in the search for the gene causing cystic fibrosis.

Using a procedure called DNA linkage analysis, these investigators have been able to narrow down the search for the CF gene to less than 1% of all the genetic material present in body cells. Until now, scientists have had few clues with which to track down the elusive gene. This breakthrough will facilitate the eventual development of accurate diagnostic tests for carriers of the CF gene. So far none exists. "I'm very happy to hear about this important breakthrough in CF research", announced Mrs. Mila Mulrony, Honorary Chairperson of the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. "I'm especially happy for the courageous young people and their families who are battling cystic fibrosis and who have been given hope by this discovery. But until we finally have a cure, I hope that Canadians will continue to support CF research generously."

In their study leading to the finding, Dr. Buchwald and Tsui analyzed blood samples taken from 54 families across Canada who have at least two children with cystic fibrosis. Local CF Clinics in St. John's, Halifax, Chicoutimi, Toronto, Kitchener-Waterloo, Regina, Saskatoon and Edmonton cooperated in the project.

"We're proud of the role played by Canadians in making this achievement possible," said Cathleen Morrison, Executive Director of the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. "It's been a collaborative effort all along involving not only the scientists and families, but also individual donors, volunteer leaders and service clubs like the Kinsmen and Kinettes."

The Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has supported Dr. Buchwald since 1975 and Dr. Tsui since 1981, and has invested half a million dollars in their current work in cell culture and molecular biology which led to their finding.

"We're delighted to have backed this research," declared Ian Thompson, National President of the CCFF. "There is still a way to go before we pinpoint the cause of cystic fibrosis and find an effective control for it. But this is a very important step forward and it shows that our investment in research is paying off."

Cystic fibrosis, a genetically-transmitted incurable disorder affecting the lungs and digestive system, takes the lives of more Canadian children than any other inherited disease. Approximately one in every 2000 children born in Canada has cystic fibrosis. However, 28% of all persons receiving treatment in Canada's 28 CF Clinics are now 18 years or older. In fact the proportion of children born with CF now reaching their adult years is currently higher in Canada than in any other country.

65 Roses

by Mark Grubisich
NAITSA V.P.

This spring I spent the May long weekend at the Shinerama conference in Toronto. The conference gave me a good feel for what was involved in organizing a Shinerama campaign.

At the conference I viewed a film entitled 65 Roses, that would find a soft spot in anyone's heart. In the film I was introduced to a young brother and sister, both CF patients.

The title of the film came from the young girls' inability to say the words Cystic Fibrosis. Instead she said 65 Roses. As a result, her father bought her the same number of roses as her age each year on her birthday.

We followed the girl from childhood to her 25th birthday, at which time we saw her graduate from nursing school and pick up her uniform. She was given 25 roses but died one week later.

She never had the chance to wear her uniform or work at the career she studied so hard for.

This film paints a far too clear picture of how important events like Shinerama are. On October 4, 1986, come be a Shiner and help give a child the breath of life.

5 Reasons to be a Shiner

- 1-it helps in the fight against CF
- 2-acquaints out-of-town students with the community

To B.A.S. Council,

There was once a council from B.A.S. who thought that they had a lot of class, then early one day, a CIVIL student had to say:

"You guys are wussies and we'll wup your *** in raising money for Shinerama on Sat. Oct. 4.

Hello A.E.

It's a sad case to think that you listen to all the gossip you hear... because I heard that "A" stands for always and "E" stands for easy. Now could this be true? Surely we all know that C.F.A. is sleazy but NOT easy.

Keeping you Informed C.F.A.

P.S. Maybe this ad will give you an indication of just what C.F.A. stands for!!

Dear BCET:

(Buncha Communist

How unfortunate that you chose to slander BAS, and specifically Marketing, for ignoring your sissy, pop-tart Challenge Cup offering of doubles snooker. Now you will have to pay!

We seem to remember you referring to snooker as a "strenuous sport." Marketing just believes snooker is better left to a bunch of cueballs like you; or is that screwballs?

Now to inform you of your fate, the MEN from ADMIN MAN hereby challenge the BOYS from BCET to a fun filled day in the hands of the Edmonton Survival Game. With some BUSINESS like precision, we intend, to kick some BCET butt. How's that for strenuous?

Sincerely
B.A.S.

P.S. We wish to correct a spelling mistake in your submission last week. It's the BCET Powderhouse, not Powerhouse.

DEAR 'BAGGY'

Dear Ms. Baggy;

I have a very big problem and I know that as a woman you are the only one I can turn to.

On Thursday Sept. 18, I saw a very strong, gorgeous, hunk of meat near the cafeteria. I know he takes his lunch hour everyday at the same time. Is it proper for a church-going young lady to P.S. My gown is a one and approach MEAT? Or should I sit back and hope he notices me? Please, please give

Dear Sweet Sally?

Since you didn't include a photo, I'm not too sure whether he'll notice you or not. In my opinion you really have only 2 choices: 1. Skip Church and wear saran-wrap to lunch tomorrow or, 2. approach "MEAT" with fork and knife and ask to "Have lunch" sometime.

Ms. Baggy

P.S. My gown is a one and only designer item, but I might consider renting it out to the highest bidder!
