Oh, Well ...

Final Score:

Ooks 2

Bears 8

Close to 7,500 fans watched the University of Alberta Golden Bears down the NAIT Ooks 8-2 at Faceoff '88. Despite the score, the game at Northlands Coliseum was an entertaining, hard hitting affair.

In the first, the NAIT Ooks gained a powerplay advantage in the first minute of play, but failed to capitalize. The U of A then opened the scoring at 4:09 when former Ooks Sid Cranston beat NAIT net-minder Gates Genereux. The Bears increased their lead to 2-0 on Bret Walter's marker at 7:13. Stacy Wakabayashi of the Bears notched the third goal of the game at 13:40. The Bears rounded out their first period scoring on goals by Robert Glasgow and Bret Walter at 15:04 and 19:04 respectively. The NAIT powerplay then capitalized with two seconds left in the period as NAIT captain Murray Melnyk completed a Darren Schmidt-Brian Powell set-up.

In the second, the Bears increased their lead to 7-1. Adam Morrision scored on the powerplay at 6:10. Dennis Cranston widened the gap to six goals 36 seconds later.

The Ooks showed some spark in the third as Murray Melnyk scored his second of the game at 2:05 from Mario Sicolo and John Curran. The

In the NAIT net, Bill Clyne and Gates Genereux faced 29 shots. At the opposite end, Darren Turner and John Krill were tested 18 times.

NAIT captain Murray Melnyk commented on the loss, "We made some mistakes. We must correct these mistakes and improve our play in order to do well in the post-season."

After the game, NAIT coach Perry Pearn stated the obvious, "We have to learn a lot. We can't expect to win cutting corners. We have to work hard every game."

What Videos?

By Peter Wilkinson
Nugget Editor

When I returned to NAIT after the Christmas break, I found that something was missing. Were the lockers a different colour? No, still the same green/yellow/rust combination as always. Was the air staler? Well,...no. Just the first semester cooking students still cutting their teeth. Have the Commissionaire's improved their disposition? Alas, no. Still the same gruff exteriors. "What was different then?", I pondered. Then, as I wandered by the NAIT-RIUM, I knew my answer. Sure enough, instead of seeing the usual crowd of vidiots (and vidiets) gazing with mute dispassion (or caffeine withdrawal until the cafeteria opens) at the screens, I saw desperate people trapped watching something that they could not break away from.

As I ventured forth into the darkness of the early morning, I heard, not the usual sounds of Heart or U2, but rather a high pitched voice say "It's Storytime! Ready Casey and Finnegan? Mr. Dressup sure is!"

It was a horrible sight to see coffee anxious people watching this and twitching uncontrollably, so I decided to find out where the videos had gone and why.

For those who don't know, NAIT used to broadcast MTV and VH#1 (Video Hits #1) on either side of the NAITRIUM. Everything was going fine for about a year, but then the signals on both sets began to fade in and out repeatedly. Fuzzy pictures and static were common place, and simply were accepted as normal.

According to Electronics and Technical Services, both MTV and VH#1 have re-scrambled their signals over the holidays. This means that no amount of adjusting will bring back the two networks, only lots of hefty cash for a descrambler.

Will NAIT purchase such a device? Not too likely according to officials. The money just isn't there for such a purchase, so it looks like the vidiots of NAIT will have to live without, for awhile anyway.

When you look at it, it's not really so bad. I have actually grown to like Kidstreet, and Inspector Gadget is one of the highlights of my day! WOWZERS! Maybe some genius in Electronics Tech. can help all of NAIT out by building a helpful device? Or perhaps those of the BCET type can build us a big, BIG antenna. We need ideas to get our videos back! If you have any, don't be afraid to stand up in the NAITRIUM and speak them out loud. You might just rescue a vidiot from the brink of "afternoon-TV" syndrome.

Surfing

Looking for a job is like surfing only with surfing you're looking for a wave. There you sit, on your board, in your little space on the ocean; you're waiting for a wave to come along. When you first see a wave, you're not sure what to make of it. You think it's what you want, so you move towards it. As it gets closer, you start to have second thoughts, but you're still preparing for it. It comes upon you; you think you can make it, but you have to push a little harder. You know that if you go for this one you could wipeout, fail, but you also know you could make it, and it could turn out to be the ride of your life. You have one last chance to back out; you don't. You go for it.

Instructor Evaluation

By John Brownlee

I have some good news to report. After a year of endless numbers of meetings, constant rehashings line-by-line, and discussion, we finally have a broadly acceptable format for student input in instructor evaluation.

A questionnaire soliciting specific views of students regarding individual instructors was piloted in a few classes in December. In January, the Academic Council and NAIT President, Dr. Stan Souch, formally approved a proposed version of the same questionnaire for implementation throughout campus. Later this semester you will be given copies to fill in yourself.

This program will be under review on a regular basis now and in the future.

Part of the problem in adopting a policy of this nature stems not so much from blanket objections on the part of certain individuals (although this was a factor to some degree), but rather from the logistics of arriving at a conclusive form or document that would be both effective and non-prejudicial.

While the need for such a policy was both recognized and agreed upon by the large majority of instructors, we did not wish to alienate staff and student bodies by creating anything that could be construed as a witch-hunt.

As well, a program of this nature can be very expensive to administer. The projected costs for this one are expected to be close to $20,000 annually.

In my experience on the committee researching an acceptable format, I found the tone to be very cooperative and productive. I feel that the staff and student representatives should be congratulated for their efforts.

My principle objective when I ran for Academic Council last year was to see a policy of this nature in effect. Now, I can safely say that this has been done.

We are already into February and the students' terms on this Council will be over shortly. If you as a student are interested in campaigning or seeking a position in this capacity, now is the time to begin to give this serious consideration. Students CAN have an effective voice in the policies of this institute. Find out more about this through me or your student representative.

Body Language

By Lily St. Germain

How many people walk into a new activity either expecting to ace it first time round or else rather overwhelmed so that after a few attempts, the activity is dropped?

I can remember trying to play racquetball. After three sessions of suffering skin burns on my arms and legs from diving for (and missing) return shots, and suffering scrapes on my nose and chin from being caught between the wall and the 100 MPH ball (not to mention the humiliation of my partner staggering all over the court, roaring with laughter), I threw up my hands in defeat. I can remember taking swimming lessons and not being able to tread water for more than 30 seconds. I sank like a rock. I gave up. I stuck to floating instead.

It goes without saying that there are activities for which we are not suited either physically or else psychologically.

But there are also a lot of activities that we don't give a fair chance. Maybe we expect too much too soon. Maybe we give up too soon. The $64 question is, "So What?"

Think about it for a minute. Along with the obvious benefit that getting involved in a sport or other activity offers (being in better shape physically) there are other benefits to consider. There's the mental stimulation that comes from learning something new (or, the satisfaction of doing something well). Horizons expand; a person meets new people, forms new social contacts. Further, a person's perspective and personality changes--there's usually more of a feeling of confidence.

Taking part in a sport or other activity quite often gives a person an added advantage in the career world. That is, if an employee plays squash and so does the employer (or even if the employer simply believes in being active), there's a good possibility--all other things being equal--that a career advantage exists.

Everytime you give up too soon, everytime you don't give an activity a chance, you lose the less obvious--but important--benefits.

If each person approached a sport or other activity with the philosophy: "What was done yesterday is water under the bridge--today is a new chance to do better," there would likely be a lot more consistently active people out there.

Why not stay active? Why not get active? Expand your horizons while you stay in shape.

Don't just think about it--do it!

An Open Letter

To:
The Rt. Hon. Joseph Clark
Secretary of State for External Affairs

Dear Sir:

As a Canadian citizen reading the news once again of drought and potential Famine in Ethiopia, I count myself so fortunate to live in this country, with our history of aid to those not so blessed. I wish to congratulate you and your department for the latest pledge of aid to the drought-stricken people of Northern Ethiopia and wish to urge you to continue the so vital work that is being done.

As an Albertan, I am only too aware of the problems of drought in farm country, little as it is for us, and feel that anything that you and your department can do can only help. I urge you to vote for the highest appropriation possible for aid to Ethiopia in the current budget. Although we do not wish it, we must be prepared for the next few years and the possibility of this being an annual event.

We must also remember that food is not enough, that the transportation to deliver the food to the people and the medical supplies to protect them are also necessary.

I feel that our world can become free of hunger in the very near future with very little effort, but to do so, everyone must take part. Therefore, I urge you once again to support relief for Ethiopia as a top priority.

Computer Managed Learning

By Blair Deering

Computer Managed Learning (CML) has been used for some of the advanced courses at NAIT since 1982. This year, NAIT began a pilot project of introducing CML to Pre-Technology students as well.

CML is a concept in which students interact with the school computer to do their assignments. Let me explain this a little differently. The idea behind CML is that all students work at their own pace. They study a segment of their course, then access the NAIT computer for a printout of a quiz on the work they have just studied. Every person gets a slightly different quiz. This makes cheating rather difficult. After the students answer the questions on the quiz, they access the computer again and type in their answers. The computer then checks the answers with the questions and gives you a read-out of the questions you got wrong, along with the correct answers and prints your percentage for that quiz.

There are many advantages to this system of learning. First, it gives students a chance to get hands-on experience with a computer. Another, as already stated, lets you work at your own pace. Still another added benefit for those who own computers at home, is the ability to do your assignments from the comfort of your own home. A modem and a printer are necessary items if you wish to work from home though. A terminal program with compatible emulation protocol to the NAIT computer is also a must. VT-100 is the most common.

As you can see, there are many positive benefits from this type of learning. The negative side must be considered as well. The computer has very little leniency in your answers. They MUST be typed in exactly as the computer would expect them. An upper case "M" is NOT a lower case "m". Instructions must be followed to the letter. If you do not enter your answers exactly as the computer expects then you get it marked wrong. This can be extremely annoying at times.

All in all, it would seem that the good out-weighs the bad and I, for one, feel this type of learning is a good method of taking us closer to the 21st century.

Acclamations Abolished

By Mary Poon

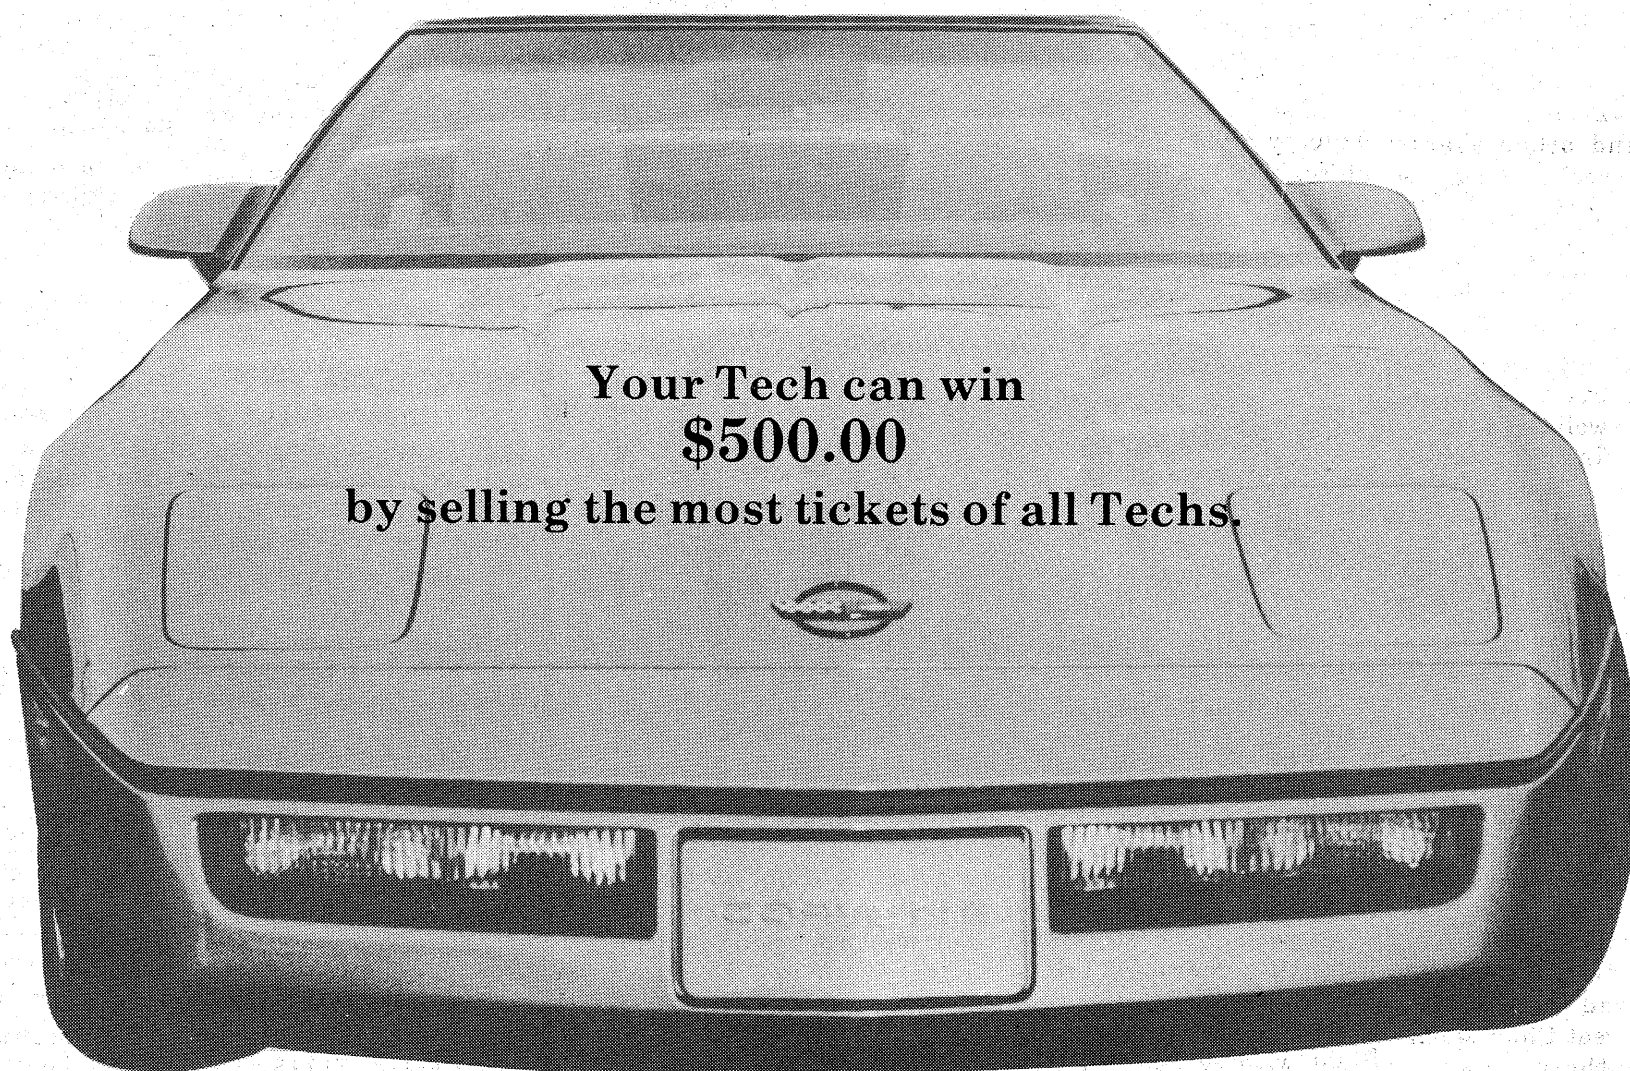

Beginning this year, there will be no more acclamations in Student Elections.

Should there be only one candidate for any particular position, a "yes/no" vote will be held. A minimum of 50 percent "yes" is required to win a position outright. If the candidate receives less than 50 percent "yes" vote, their fate in regards to Student Council will be decided by General Council.

This change in the Constitution is an attempt to encourage all candidates to actively campaign.

Entertainment Calendar:

The Explanation

by Brian McCullough
Entertainment Editor

Last week I provided you with your Entertainment Calendar for the month of February. A few people have asked me for an explanation of some of the entries.

First of all, it is to provide you with a quick glance at some of the NAIT events that are happening this month. Things like the movies in the Little Theatre, cabarets put on by the various techs on campus, and other events outside of school that may be of interest. Because of the format of the calendar, all that I can put in is titles, but if you keep on reading Cheap Thrills, (and I know that two of you are!) I will let you know about the events in the calendar, as well as anything else that I find that might interest you.

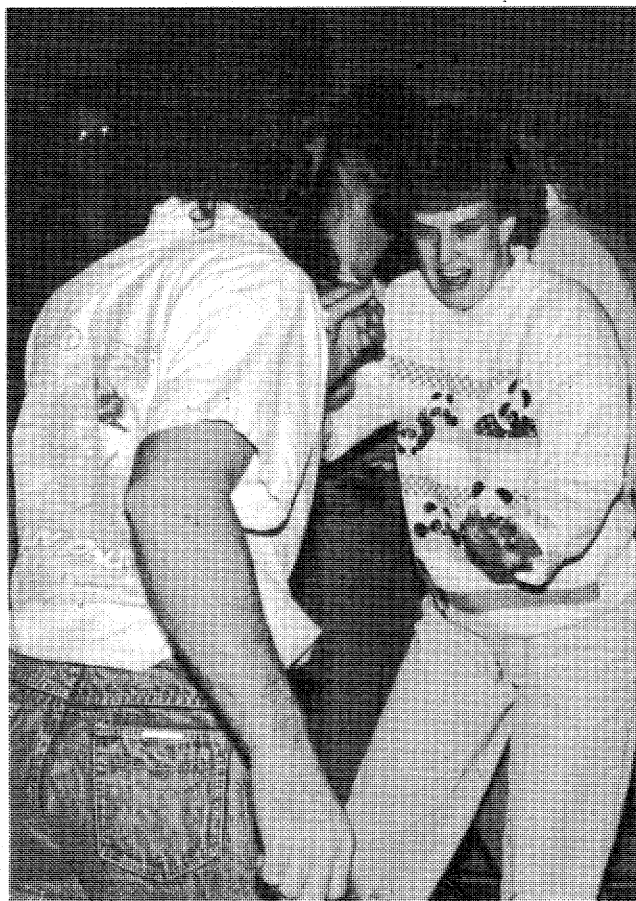

The thing that seemed to arouse the most curiosity was a play entitled The Third Ascent, being presented by Theatre Network. It is a theatrically vivid depiction of Henry Stimson, U.S. Secretary of War under F.D.R. and later Harry Truman, and the man most responsible for the bombing of Hiroshima. He was also an avid mountain-climber and the play moves rapidly between the events leading up to the bombing and a series of ascents of Great Chief Mountain in Southern Alberta. This allows us to investigate the question of how a good man becomes involved in a horrific deed.

The Third Ascent was written by Frank Moher and plays until February 14th at 8:00 p.m. at Theatre Network. Call 474-6111 for further information.

If anyone has any other questions about either the Entertainment section, or the Nugget in general, drop a note in our box outside the Nugget office, room E-128, or knock on the door. We are always happy to see you!

An Instrumentation Tech applies his trade upon his mouth at the Cabaret.

Everybody had an instrumental time at the Instrumentation Cabaret!

Cheap Thrills

This End Up

Nexus Theatre is pleased to join forces with Edmonton's Small Change Theatre for an action-packed clown show, This End Up.

This End Up plays January 25th to February 20th at Nexus. Call 429-3625.

Dinosaurs

Dinosaurs; they ruled the world for 140 million years; then!!

On Friday, February 5th, the Edmonton Space Sciences Centre will be presenting 2 new family programmes; Dinosaur in the Margaret Zeidler Star Theatre and On the Wing, an IMAX film, in the Devonian Theatre.

Dinosaur, a planetarium programme designed for children ages 9-12, tells the story of these prehistoric creatures and explains about the fossils, the myths and the extinction theories of the dinosaur.

Presented with Dinosaur, is a new IMAX film, On the Wing. It is the story of flight by nature and man, as it compares man's initial attempt at flight with spectacular film footage of nature's own creatures. The highlight of On the Wing is the flight of a mechanical model of a pterodactyl, the largest creature ever to fly.

Dinosaur and On the Wing, great family entertainment, will be opening Friday, February 5th at the Edmonton Space Sciences Centre. Come and stomp by for a roaring good time!!

Tickets available at the Centre and all BASS Outlets. The Centre is closed Monday evenings. For Showtimes call: 451-7722.

Exotic Dancer

A Russian dance star, a shimmering set, live orchestra, sparkling choreography, brilliant dancing... Alberta Ballet Company proudly presents its newest and biggest full-length production yet... the great romantic ballet, The Snow Maiden.

Commissioned for the Calgary Olympic Arts Festival and created by Alberta Ballet Company Artistic Director Brydon Paige, The Snow Maiden is a work inspired by and old Russian folk tale of the love between Snegourochka, the mysterious and ethereal Snow Maiden, daughter of Father Frost, and a village hunter. She discovers him in the forest one day, where their initial fascination with one another, and then passion, transcends the reality of her vulnerability if she does not return to her own winter world.

The Snow Maiden stars Soviet Artist, Vadim Pisarev, soloist with the Don State Ballet in the Ukraine, U.S.S.R., and gold medallist at the 1986 Jackson, Mississippi, International Ballet Competition. A young, strong, exuberant dancer, his breathtaking leaps and dramatic role characterization have earned him comparisons with Barishnikov. Mr. Pisarev will dance the lead role of Mizgir, partnering Alberta Ballet Company's principal dancer, Mariane Beausejour who dances Snegourochka, the Snow Maiden.

The Snow Maiden, featuring music by the Edmonton Symphony, plays February 23rd, 24th and 25th at the Jubilee Auditorium.

Rainbow Box

The Rainbow Box by Brian Way--Only you can help fix the rainbow before it's too late.

The Rainbow Box runs February 5-28 at the de Branscoville Theatre, 2nd floor, Old King Edward School at 8525-101 Street. Fridays at 7:00 p.m., Saturdays at 1:30 p.m. and Sundays at 1:30 p.m. and 3:00 p.m.

Tickets are available at the door or by calling BASS at 451-8000.

Entertainment

Be The Electronic Couch Potato

On Sunday, January 20th, 1985, history was made when QB1, the interactive football strategy game, was played live during the Super Bowl telecast at three American bi-coastal locations. In Miami... the renowned Jockey Club; in San Francisco... the world famous Washington Square Bar and Grill; in Beverly Hills... the glamorous Chasen's restaurant.

Today QB1 is enjoyed by football fans in hundreds of restaurants and lounges throughout Canada and the United States. QB1 is a unique game played while watching a live CFL or NFL football telecast, utilizing a small electronic device called a Playmaker. "Individual" and "house" standings are displayed on a play monitor in each lounge, allowing players to keep an eye on top scores across the continent.

January 20th, 1985, was just the beginning. Today, fans of this incredible satellite computer game can also play "DiamondBall", "Trivia Countdown", "Trivia Showdown" and soon, horse racing, awards shows, beauty pageants and beginning February 13th "Powerplay" with Canada's favourite sport, Hockey!

The object of both QB1 and DiamondBall, a similar game played while watching Major League Baseball, is to correctly anticipate "the play": "pass" or "run" in the case of QB1 and "walk", "hit" or "strike" playing DiamondBall.

Trivia Showdown is a six round general trivia game played in ten week segments each Tuesday from 6:30 to 8:00 with participants vying for exciting prizes, including a 1987 Subaru awarded in September and a trip for two to Hawaii awarded in November. Trivia Countdown is a half hour show played three times a night Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

A "Powerplay" game begins with a draft. Each professional hockey player in that night's game is worth a different amount of points. Each Powerplay player has 1,000 points to spend putting together their personal team. Points are awarded by correctly predicting "goals" and "saves" and bonus points are gained by correctly predicting who scores on the powerplay and who the Molson "Three Stars" will be. NTN players compete head-to-head with their partner, the bar and the rest of North America.

"Powerplay" begins with the Olympics and continues through the NHL regular season on Mondays and Saturdays via TSN and CBC. This exciting game will include the playoffs and the Stanley Cup!

Football, Baseball, Hockey, Trivia... the NTN Entertainment Network offers something for all adults in Edmonton. It offers endless opportunities for competition and in the case of Club Rendez-Vous in the Chateau Louis on Kingsway, opportunities to raise funds for amateur sports organizations.

Through NTN an electronic edge has been added to the simple viewing of a sports event. Viewers can now not only watch but can actually participate along with their favourite stars. Now, there is no "off season." Finally, an answer to the winter woes.

Neck-Breaking Car-Hop

The Phoenix is thrilled to launch the all new, all different Phoenix Downtown with two brand-new Stewart Lemoine plays: Neck-Breaking Car-Hop and Swiss Pajamas.

Gather 'round the kitchen sink with the Styx family of Regina in Neck-Breaking Car-Hop. Experience the tension of the fast food industry where teenagers choose death before dishonour. It's domestic. It's Canadian. It's drama.

Swiss Pajamas is a fast-paced espionage comedy set in 1966. An incident of international proportions erupts when an interior designer returns from a Swiss convention with a very unusual souvenir.

Neck-Breaking Car-Hop and Swiss Pajamas runs February 10th to 28th at the Phoenix Downtown, 9636 - 101A Avenue, in the heart of Chinatown. Performances are Wednesday through Sunday at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are $6 at the door with "Pay-what-you-can" Sundays. Call the Phoenix at 429-4015 for info.

I feel something is wrong, I don't know what it is for sure but I do know that one of the other trainees was found dead. The circumstances were questionable but no questions were asked so I decided to start my own investigation. "I presume that you have a good reason for being in here Mr. Knight?" "Yes, Director I am on a personal investigation of the recent death which I believe ...". "Get out of here right now or you will die like the others!!". I was taken aback, if the Director was involved in this some how, then we could have serious internal security problems. I found my curiosity rewarded with a horrific result. The SAIT people had made a low level infiltration of the base with a demoraliser. The demoralisers job was to stir up dissent amongst the trainees, and if at all possible, have them revolt and then use them to destroy the base. I had to kill the agent when I found him trying to convert one of the trainees, whom he quickly killed before turning on me, and it was that time that allowed me to strike first. I filed a full report of the incident to the Director who I realized wanted to have me out of the way so his people could trace down the infiltrator and it was then that I suddenly realized what I was. "Johnathan Edward Knight please report to the Director's office immediately!" I was done for now.....

Sports Comment

by Brian Stein,

When looking at the playoff formats in sports, one notices that some are better than others. The one which is the worst belongs to the National Hockey League.

There is no doubt that Calgary and Edmonton are two of the top teams in the NHL. However, it is unfortunate that only one of these teams can make it to the final.

Over the years, fans have noticed that one team in the Norris division always makes it to the semi-finals while better teams in the Patrick and Smythe Divisions have been eliminated. In addition, some of the teams in one division have a point record which is better than some of the other teams in the playoffs.

One of the better solutions to the problem of playoff format is to allow 12 of 21 teams into the playoffs instead of the current 16. Each division winner could receive a bye into the second round of the playoffs while the remaining four teams in the conference would meet in the first round. The top two teams from each division could advance to the playoffs, while the other two positions would be taken by wild-card teams.

This format would allow the best teams in a conference into the playoffs. In addition, teams would be given the incentive to improve to make the playoffs. Teams would not be able to limp into the playoffs.

At the present time, the owners want to milk as much money as they can out of the fan in the playoffs. The possibility of greater income has meant the first series in the Stanley Cup playoffs has increased from three games to seven games in recent years.

In addition, the owners are fearful that if less clubs make the playoffs the NHL will lose some franchises. At present, the play in the NHL is watered down compared to the six team league. The loss of one or two franchises would improve the quality of play in the league.

Let's cut the season schedule or cut the number of teams making the playoffs. One does not need an 80 game schedule to trim five teams from the playoffs.

Ooks Sweep Olds

The NAIT Men's and Women's Volleyball Ooks travelled to Olds on Friday, January 29th to tangle with the Broncos. Both the men's and women's teams swept their matches in three straight games.

In women's action, NAIT became stronger as the match wore on. The Ooks fell behind early but bounced back to take the match in three games (15-12, 15-6, 17-15).

Women's coach Grant Campbell analyzed the play of his team as follows, "A disorganized team is always difficult to play against. It's not easy to have a sound technical game against Olds. However, winning over the Broncos is not that difficult."

The NAIT Women's Volleyball Team now has a mark of six wins and six losses. The Ooks are moving closer to the fourth and final spot now held by the Medicine Hat College Rattlers.

In men's action, the NAIT Ooks dominated the Broncos and won the match three games to none (15-8, 16-14, 15-8).

Men's coach Ian Allen was enthusiastic about his team's performance, "The team turned in a solid effort for the entire match. The effort paid dividends in a 3-0 victory."

EXTRA VOLLEYS: Both the men's and women's volleyball teams close out their regular season at home this weekend. On Friday, February 5th, the Ooks entertain Medicine Hat, and on Saturday, February 6th, the Ooks host Lethbridge. Action starts at 6:30 p.m. on Friday and 1:00 p.m. on Saturday. Admission is free with your NAIT I.D. card to NAIT volleyball home games.

Basketball Action: Ooks vs. Red Deer

This past weekend Bruce Walgren and Wayne Pinel, from the NAIT cross country ski-team, competed in Red Deer at the Alberta Winter Games. Both Pinel and Walgren competed for Edmonton (Zone 6).

Wayne Pinel finished fourth in the Junior Men Category and Bruce Walgren placed fifth in the Open Men Category. The race the skiers competed in was a 10 km classic event held in minus 18°C to minus 23°C weather.

This was the only event staged in cross-country skiing as the weather was too cold and windy to field the 30 km freestyle and relay events.

ON THE SLOPES: Congratulations go out to these two athletes from the NAIT Cross-Country Skiing Coaching Staff.

NAIT Hockey Draft

On Monday, February 1st, the NAIT Foundation announced a new fund raising venture that involves the Stanley Cup Playoffs.

"Draft for Dollars" will over $50,000 in prize money with a first prize of $30,000. To win the $30,000 top prize, the entrant must select 40 players and accumulate the highest point total.

Only 1000 entries will be available at a cost of $100 each. Entry forms can be purchased at the NAIT Foundation office.

Ooks String to Five

The NAIT Men's Basketball Team ran their winning streak to five this past weekend. The Ooks won over the Red Deer College Kings and the Olds Broncos.

On Friday, NAIT defeated Red Deer 93-77. In the game, the Ooks outlasted a determined Kings squad. The Kings played much better than they did a week earlier. In a fine performance, Frank Mrkonjic had 24 points. Dexter Amour had 17 and Adrian Toppin notched 15. Although the Ooks gave up 77 points, they did a great job on Red Deer College's Ray Raymond holding him to 10 points—ten under his seasonal average.

On Saturday, the Ooks played host to the winless Olds College Broncos. The Ooks handed the Broncos their 13th consecutive loss, a 91-66 result. Dexter Amour led all scorers with 18 points, while Bryan Lazariuk added 17. The highlight of the game was the 16 consecutive free throws made by the team in the second half of the game. The performance set a new team record.

This weekend, the Ooks (7-5) travel to Calgary for two important games against the Mount Royal College Cougars and the SAIT Trojans. These two games will determine NAIT's playoff chances. If the Ooks can win two games, they have an excellent chance to finish as high as third in the standings. A split will still place the Ooks in good position for a playoff berth.

According to Ooks Basketball Coach Dave Hoy, the team can win both games. "We've beaten both these teams already this season. If we concentrate and play great defence for the entire game we should win both games."

The victories in last weekend's game place the Ooks fifth in the 10 team ACAC. The Ooks have won seven of their last eight.

Alumni Tournament a Success

Over 75 former Hockey Ooks participated in the 1987-88 Alumni Tournament held at NAIT on Saturday, January 30th. The ages of the participants ranged from the early thirties to the early forties.

The Greys won the tournament with a 11-9 victory over the Golds. Rick Kreway's three goals and Darrell Bokenfohr's two highlighted the Greys scoring barrage. Randy Repchuk, a member of the NAIT coaching staff was the premier performer on the Golds with four points in the final contest.

The Golds advanced to the final with a 10-5 victory over the Whites. Randy Repchuk and Don Simpson paced the Golds with six point performances. Hugh McCaskill replied with a pair for the Whites.

The Greys advanced to the final on the strong goaltending of Brian Jubinville. Jubinville played a key role in a 5-2 victory over the Blues. Darrell Bokenfohr was the offensive star with two goals for the Greys. On the Blues, Garth Hayes notched both goals. The two Blues' goals were set up by one of NAIT's hockey legends, Bruce "Radar" Watson.

In the consolation final, teammates from the 1982 Canadian championship squad sparked the Whites to a 7-5 victory over the Blues. Wayne Perkins and Dale Kolada each netted a pair of goals. Gary Hoekstra replied with two for the Blues.

The NAIT Ooks dominated the Alberta Colleges Athletic Conference Racquetball Championships winning three of four events. The Ooks also won the overall supremacy trophy for the second straight year. The supremacy trophy is awarded on the basis of points acquired from all matches played.

In women's singles, Lori David (Architecture) of NAIT won her final easily (11-1, 11-3, 11-5). Lori is ranked in the top four of the province. Her victory marks the first time NAIT has captured the women's singles title.

In men's doubles, Robert Kippers (Computer Systems) and Ashen Butt (Electrical) of NAIT combined talents to win the men's doubles crown from Red Deer (11-4, 11-9, 11-2). Both players also compete in singles and adjusted their game for double's play.

In men's singles, Ed Garvin of NAIT played well. For the second year in a row, Ed captured the men's singles crown. In the semi-final, Garvin was pushed to the maximum five games (11-4, 6-11, 10-11, 11-3, 11-6) over Tucker of SAIT. In the final, the match was much easier. Garvin downed Dean Anderson of SAIT (11-9, 11-8, 9-11, 11-2). On the consolation side, Trevor Federkiewicz (Business) won the final.

In women's doubles, Nicole Perrot and Kim Shomachuk brought home the silver after losing in the final to Red Deer College.

FROM THE COURT: Congratulations to the team members for their outstanding effort which delighted coaches Bob Buchan and Ivan Gramlich.

NAIT ATHLETE OF THE WEEK Racquetball

Ed Garvin

2nd Year Architecture

Ed won his second straight men's singles championship at the ACAC Racquetball Championships held at the Mayfield Inn Rec Center. Ed is the first person to win two straight men's singles titles.

As the men's team captain, Ed has provided great leadership to his team. He is always encouraging the less experienced team members to work to their potential.

Ed prevailed in the championships due to his conditioning, which can be attributed to his participation with the NAIT Cross-Country Running Team and Cross-Country Skiing Team.
