

GIVE THE GIFT OF LIFE

Nov. 28, 29, & 30
10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.
North Lobby

At precisely 12:15 p.m., Wednesday, November 23rd, more than 6,000 faculty and students from Alberta's colleges and institutes participated in a simultaneous balloon release as part of their activities celebrating College Week '88, November 21st to 27th. This celebration was initiated three years ago by the Association of Canadian Community Colleges to promote college/institute education and to draw attention to the impact these institutions have on their communities.

"Each year more than 200,000 Albertans are involved in some type of education program at a college or technical institution", says Anne Raslask, Public Relations Officer at the Lethbridge Community College. "We're hoping that with this balloon release we can convey the extent of our college system and the number of people in Alberta who can convey the extent of our college system and the number of people in Alberta who benefit from a college or technical education."

Community colleges and technical institutes constitute the largest and fastest growing sector of post-secondary education in Canada. Since emerging in the mid-1950's, the community colleges, technical institutes, and cegeps have become the alternative to university for young and adult learners. Full-time college enrollment surpassed that of the universities in the late 1970s and the gap has grown annually since. There are currently an estimated 2 million students enrolled in full and part-time programs in Canada's 140 colleges and institutes.

Renowned for the diversity of their programming, these institutions reflect national and regional economic priorities and the concerns of the communities they serve. ACCC President, Richard Mackie believes, "that College Week '88 will allow our membership to draw national attention to the very positive presence we have traditionally sustained as builders of communities which value the quality of life and work."

National College Week

This week is National College Week. Here are some facts:

Full time college enrollments in Canada surpassed university full-time enrollments in the late seventies and have grown annually since then. It is estimated that one in seven Canadian adults use the services of a community college or a technical institute.

There are currently an estimated 500,000 full-time students enrolled in Canada's college system. A conservative estimate of part-time enrollments is in excess of 1.5 million.

In 1984-85, community colleges spent almost three billion dollars, accounting for nine per cent of total educational expenditures in Canada.

Approximately 25,000 full-time faculty teach in the college system in Canada with an estimated 150,000 part-time instructors.

All Canadians

The Canadian people have again spoken and elected the government of their choice. As with most other elections, for many there is a feeling of disappointment at the general public's response to the issues. Is the public truly enamoured with the elected party and their stand on issues? Is it that the election machine with the highest expense account and greatest glitz has won? We all know money talks and memories are short.

The question is what would have been the result if all the parties had equal campaign funds. What would have been the result of a minority government being elected? These questions will go unanswered and forever be left for speculation.

For those Tory supporters it was an evening of victory. For those who supported other parties it was an evening of disbelief.

It is sincerely wished that in 2018 that this election is reflected on as the day Canada stepped into a prosperous era. It would be very welcomed to have the supporters of Free Trade and tax reform say, "I told you so" in 30 years.

It is very difficult, though, to believe in your heart that the Progressive Conservatives are wrong in their approach and still smile at the election result.

It is just as difficult to believe with all your heart that Mulroney has the answers for Canada and not rejoice at the election results.

It is also sincerely wished that the rift created between the supporters and opposers to free trade will quickly mend.

We are, after all and above all, all Canadians.

Whose Students' Association is NAITSA, anyway?

How much do you really know about NAITSA? Test yourself with this pop quiz.

Question 1: How was your students' association, NAITSA, created?

Answer 1: A group of energetic and dedicated student leaders with foresight organized their peers, right? Wrong.

NAITSA was created by NAIT administration.

Question 2: True or False: NAITSA is completely autonomous and its decisions are influenced only by its electorate.

Answer 2: False.

NAITSA receives student input from General Council, but is advised by NAIT Student Services.

How did you do? If you got both questions wrong, you're not alone. So did I.

The structure of the relationship between NAITSA and NAIT as represented by Student Services has benefits as well as drawbacks.

Student Services provides continuity. The longest programs NAIT has are only two years long and the NAITSA Executive is elected for only a one year term. The people at Student Services know the ropes, which can benefit the student body when Student Services eases the transition each year from the old NAITSA Executive to the new, inexperienced Executive.

This relationship seems to be co-operative and harmonious, but with such a difference in knowledge, who is really in control? NAITSA or Student Services?

RHINOMANIA

Once again, Canadians had the opportunity to elect the one political party that would lead this country out of the political backwoods and into the mainstream of world politics--the Rhinos.

Leader Charlie Mackenzie represented the view of the majority of Canadians when he said we need to extend our trading relationships. The Rhinos offered to open up embassies with Antarctica and exchange ambassadors.

In regards to Parliament Hill, the Rhinoceros Party proposed turning the front lawn into a golf course. One good thing about the proposal would be that, if Don Getty ever entered federal politics, we know where he'd be.

The candidate from Edmonton-Strathcona truthfully stated why he was running in the election--"I really want a senate seat"

The Rhinos have changed their attitude over the past few years. Before the 1988 federal election the party line was "If elected, we'll take the money and run". The motto for the 1988 federal election was "If elected, we'll take the money and stay."

The Rhinos were also more truthful than any of the major parties by stating that they would not keep any of their election promises. Did any other party state the same going into the election?

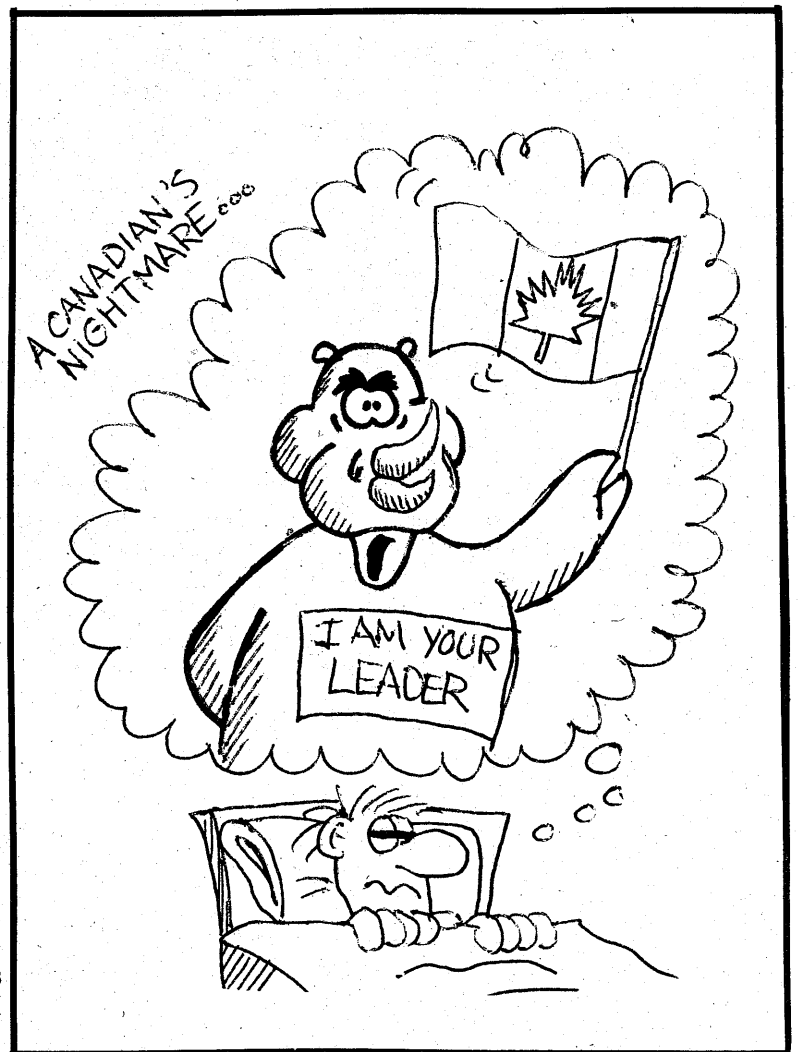

Now, more than ever, Canada needed the leadership that only the Rhinos could have provided. With the November 21st election, Canadians squandered this opportunity.

Let's hope that Charlie Mackenzie can persuade Eddie Shack to run for PM in 1992 so that Canada can get back on track.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR GENERAL

As the Governor General of Canada, I am pleased to support the objectives of NATIONAL COLLEGE WEEK and to recognize the important role which our community colleges play in meeting the educational and training requirements of Canadians within their communities.

The pursuit of excellence is a challenging goal for those involved in developing new strategies in response to changing educational, training and employment requirements. The transfer of technology to the workplace, the war on adult illiteracy, and the fostering of close working relationships with the labour and business sectors within the community are all characteristics of community colleges across the country.

May you seize this unique opportunity to influence the development of young, inquisitive minds and prepare them for their future role in society. The responsibility which you bear is great but so too are the rewards.

DUMB AS SHEEP

It was clear when the Republicans won the U.S. election that the Progressive Conservatives would win in Canada. It seems that voters in Canada would choose the Canadian facsimile of whatever party won the U.S. election.

Perhaps we are political sheep following the U.S.

BAAAA.

In his victory speech, Brian Mulroney said that his political opponents had "fought hard and they fought well." Fought well. When I think of 'fought well', I see images of a person with integrity, conviction, sincerity, and above all, fairness. So why was Brian Mulroney calling Mr. Turner a liar before the voting, and now after the voting, commending him?

BAAAA.

Did not George Bush use maliciousness and vile name calling on Dukakis and probably, as a result, win the landslide victory that he did? Did not Mulroney use the same mudslinging tactics on Turner and Broadbent? And win a landslide victory? Why do Canadians, who view themselves as having more intelligence than the Americans, fall for this,

BAAAA.

Because we are sheep. But I have the last laugh. I voted Rhino. Ha, ha.

Nationals certification of chefs tested at NAIT

Reprinted from NAITLINE by Permission

'Cookery is become an art, a noble science; cooks are gentlemen.'

Either Robert Burton (1577-1640) was misinformed, or there's been a decline since the 17th century in the general regard for cooks. Every hearty eater, of course, appreciates a meal that only a well-trained cook can prepare. But according to the Canadian Federation of Chefs de Cuisine (CFCC), even fine cooks are not highly enough regarded by the restaurant industry, partly because of misunderstanding about what a chef must do.

A step toward raising the level of regard, and the skills of chefs, was taken on November 4 and 5 and NAIT. The Canadian Culinary Institute, the educational arm of the CFCC, with support from the food-service industry and the Canadian Jobs Strategy, is well on the way toward developing a national certification program for chefs. NAIT's Hospitality Education staff, who are playing a prominent role, hosted a two-day session at which a certification exam was tested; a previous testing had been conducted at George Brown College, in Toronto, last April.

Selected to test the exam were four veteran chefs from across Canada. The skills covered in the exam are more extensive than might be expected. A key point in the need for certification is that chefs are not merely skilled cooks; they are supervisors who must handle a budget, plan menus, cost out supplies, oversee sanitation, and manage staff. Restaurant owners often fail to realize that many good cooks have little experience in these matters and no training. So when promoted to chef, says Bruce Wilson, CFCC President, they frequently find themselves unable to cope. The range of skills expected of a chef, as well as cooking, is thus tested by the certification exam. It is highly practical, emulating a day in the life of a chef.

Arranging for the session (actually one and a half days long) was John Pidhirniak, Manager of Canadian Jobs Strategy Programming, with assistance from Food Production Manager Peter O'Neill and instructors Henry Bachman, Sigi Mueller, Ted Veiser, Raoph Walker, and John White. The Canadian Culinary Institute's National Education Committee, which is chaired by John Pidhirniak, was in attendance to oversee the proceedings.

"It was an excellent session," says John, "in which the bugs were worked out, and the exam was validated for actual use." Real candidates will face the exam in April 1989 and, on passing, will become "Certified Chefs de Cuisine."

To assist Journeyman

Cooks in preparing for the exam, a learning package is being developed, NAIT has been contracted by the Culinary Institute to do this, and the result will be suitable for classroom study. At work on the formal elements of the package is Bill Fricker of Program Development Services.

The new certification is expected not only to ensure that Canadian chefs are properly qualified, but also to help them gain the respect (and salary) accorded chefs in Europe. It should also serve as a powerful incentive for Journeyman Cooks to improve their qualifications and mobility in the industry.

Multi-Digit Testing virtually eliminates guessing in multiple-choice questions

A new question type called Multi-Digit Testing (MDT) has been developed to test students in content that lends itself to multiple-choice questions.

The MDT method makes use of a long list of responses in logical order (alphabetic or numeric). Each response in the list is labeled with a three-digit number which can be marked in a response grid or on a scanner-scored sheet. There is potential for 1,000 alternative answers on one list. Students answer questions and then search the list of alternatives for the number next to each answer chosen.

Ed Ward, of Denturist Technology, has used the MDT technique in his class. He found that the score distribution changed completely with the MDT method. It seems that the MDT method sharply separates the students who know the materials from those who do not know. In other words, guessing is virtually eliminated.

Here at NAIT we are blessed with numerous athletically talented students. These students represent us (NAIT) in many different sports. Included are hockey, soccer, volleyball, basketball, and many more.

Fan support has not always been all that strong here at NAIT. In attempts to change that, NAITSA had their first fan bus. We were able to fill one bus and go down to Camrose where we saw a great game and had a lot of fun. If would be super if we could bring some of the enthusiasm of the fans into our own games at home. With Christmas getting close and the wallet getting tighter, it is a great way to spend the evening at no cost. We have a lot of talent here that needs recognition, so let's go out and give it to them. See you at the game!

Theatre Review
GREAT EXPECTATIONS
By Dave Hanson

Once upon a time, as the story goes, pip was a small boy of meager "expectations". Pip's only heritage was that one day he would become a BlackSmith. Picture this; Pip is in the cemetery, a escaped convict scares the little kid so much he almost shits his pants. From then on the story line gets rather confusing, a little absurd, but always entertaining.

"Great Expectations" is a Chuck Dickens classic so it bares some semblance to a pirate show in the poor english and heavy accents that the players use. the story is about a little boy and the unusual turn of events that lead him down a path that makes "The Days of Our Lives" seem like a silly attempt to say something stupid about life (which it does very well).

The boy grows to be a "gentleman" (what ever that means) and pursues the life of business and high living. All the while assuming that his money, that he had not earned, was coming from a "respectable source". You and I both know that "respectable sources" (like student finance) don't just give money away, they make you beg for it! Anyway, Pip finds out that he had be living the life of a "gentleman" from the ill gotten booty of a certain criminal. This utterly destroys the young man's self image as was the custom in jolly old England when things didn't go a certain way. Pip is a man with out a purpose by the end of the show, at least that's the impression I got.

Good one Chuck, I thoroughly enjoyed myself. Thanks to the kids at the Citadel for yet another great performance as well, but what do I know??

WHAT'S HAPPENIN'

by Dave Hanson

Good morning to you all young happy little campers. Are you getting sick of this line yet? Wish you could find me in a dark alley and take my lungs out with a spoon? Tough! I do care what you think of me but not enough to change my writing one iota. Sam tells me that by the looks of the Rock and Talk last Friday it's a miracle that you made it to class at all this week, he says, that even his duty to the Ministry could not convince him to venture into our little world this weekend. So tell me how was it? Look at yourself, your talking to a piece of paper. Doesn't that seem a little strange to you? Now shut up and read. Quietly. To yourself.

What is going on this weekend? Well? Oh I'm supposed to tell you. I get it. O.K. I don't know. Just kidding!

At the Citadel is "Great Expectations" (read the damn story) "Kiss of the Spider woman" (you should have read it last week) and "Major Barbara" (same as above). All three of these plays are well worth the coin and I will be pleased if just one of you people out there in newsprint land see just one of them, after all, each performance is a once in a lifetime experience. Never to be repeated exactly the same.

Has Santa come to Northlands yet? If not he's got lots of toys and goodies for all you guys and gals if you have been good. That probably counts you out but you might go and try to pull one over on Ole Saint Nick. If Santa has already come and gone, to bad, so sad.

The Space Sciences Centre has some neat stuff going on. Give them a call and find out what the score is. Use the Phone book. It's that big book that you use to flatten out your term projects. After you've run it through the washing machine.

And now, the section that I know you alkie out there scan the paper for every week...

ALKIE-HAUL

Now, let's see, you know about the plays that are a playin' (this could be a song) the lasers that may be a shootin', that Santa is a comin', and the cabarets that are a cabin'. What more could you possibly want from me. If you have any ideas scribble them down in you crayon and drop it off at the Nugget office. I will not be there and if I am, I'll deny it. Bye kids, have a happy!?

when it comes to giving blood...

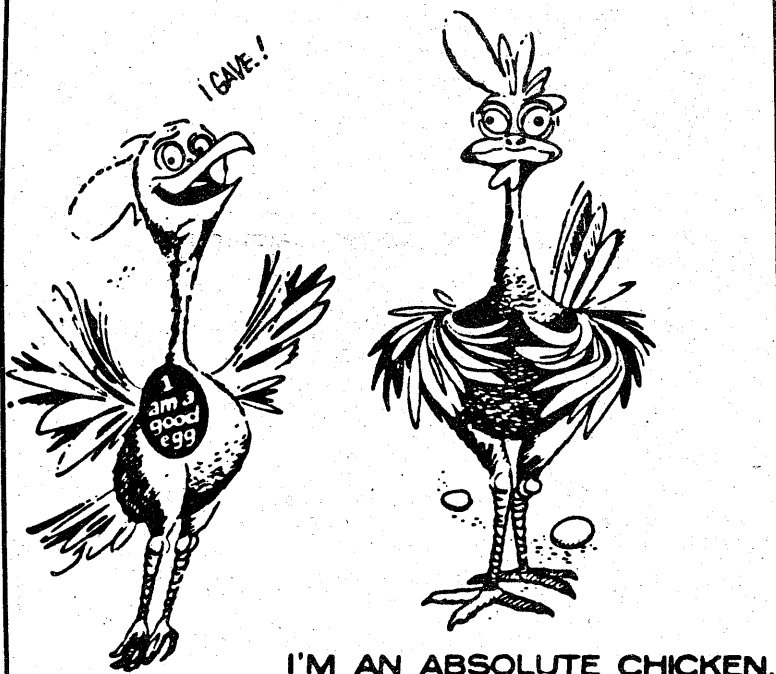

O.K.? THEN HERE'S THE PITCH

If you're scared, you can be honest about it because lots of folks are. But there's nothing to be afraid of, really. Giving blood is a quick, simple process. Just make up your mind now that you'll be a willing donor—and be happy to do it twice a year. It could be the most generous and worthwhile gift you have ever given.

HERE'S A VERY IMPORTANT POINT

If you especially, and everyone else who can, will be a donor regularly, giving to the community, no one in our community need ever be without live-saving blood. That's our goal. We hope you'll make it yours, too.

THE GIFT OF LIFE IS IN YOUR HANDS

WUGGA WUGGA WOO!

Welcome back to this space for another week of fun and frolics! Almost as much fun as watching the Business Drool Dolls (complete for XMAS with four inch pumps and mini skirts, tumble about on the ice in the main parking lot.

Speaking of aliens, in which Star Trek episode (or episodes) did Cpt. Kirk say that infamous line "Beam me up Scotty..."? Answer later. (In a few light years...)

INTERVIEW CONFUSION...?

Far be it from old Sky to ruffle anyone's feathers, but the NAIT PLACEMENT CENTRE has made a slight boo boo. As everyone knows, when you apply for a posted job through the Centre and (if the planets align right...) you get an interview, your name is posted on little blue sheets near where the jobs are posted. Well, the Centre USED to post the sheets on the same boards as your particular job. Now they have gone and moved ALL the sheets by the main caff to an obscure hidden board, so that at first glance, you may not know if you have an interview! Duh uh! Do us all a favour guys and move 'em back, OK? It's so depressing to see Mechanics and Machinists staring aimlessly at their board when their names are only a few metres away! Then again, maybe they're re-counting their fingers in case their mothers made a mistake.

UNITE TO DETHRONE THE RENT-A-DOCS!

The annual Moo Milk contest is going to take place on December 1st. Last year's winners, the Paramedics, won too easily, so I have taken up a campaign to defeat the current champion RENT-A-DOCS! If you have a group of lunatics in your tech, sign up a team. You get to drink milk, sing and win all kinds of stuff with celebrities and the like...Do yourself a favour and maybe your camel won't spit on you!

A trick on all you so-called Trekkie fans! NONE! Yes, never once did Captain Kirk say "Beam me up Scotty" in a regular television episode of Star Trek. The closest he came was "Beam me up MR. SCOTT". Don't cry too much, mortals, everyone knows I know everything anyway...

WE HAVE A WINNAH!

Gerry Melenka come and get your prize for dinner for two at 'The Nest'. Be sure to bring your I.D. card!

Bob Prince Speaks Out

by Bob Prince,
Sportswriter Extraordinaire

The former manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Chicago Cubbies, Leo Durocher once stated, "Nice guys finish last."

Whether you look inside the sportsworld or outside of it, you realize that the nice guys are destined to be on the losing side or treated like dirt.

Let's take a look at one of the finest baseball players in history -- Rod Carew. Carew had an outstanding career with the Twins and the Angels winning numerous batting titles. When he reached 40, the Halos released him. Carew was content to sign a contract at the minimum major league salary so that he could assist another club. Not one of the other 25 clubs signed Carew, even though he could have been an asset in a pennant drive.

Curt Gowdy, the legendary sportscaster from Cheyenne, Wyoming, is still regarded as one of the best ever. For a generation, Gowdy was the voice that brought the legendary sports events into the homes of North America. One day in the mid seventies, NBC thought that Gowdy did not fit in and gave him his walking papers. Sportscasting has not been the same since.

Lanny McDonald, one of the classiest players ever to lace up the blades in the NHL, is one player who has always been held in high regard from media and fans alike. Yet, Lanny has never been on a Stanley Cup winner.

In contrast, there are certain individuals who do not deserve to be in the winner's circle. Yet, individuals lacking in class and sportsmanship, such as Glen Sather and Billy Martin, always seem to be at the top.

Yes, Durocher was right!!

Men's Volleyball Oaks Extend Winning Streak to Five

NAIT's Denis Kennedy (10) shows his form against the Medicine Hat front line as teammates Dave Porter (7) and Devin Gray (12) look on.

by Kyla Macdonald

In the first match of the Oaks' home stand this weekend, the NAIT men's volleyball team met the Medicine Hat Rattlers. The first game saw a lot of great saves from the Oaks, and they took an early lead 7-0. For a brief time, the Rattlers came alive and scored six points. But, due to the Oaks' technique, they easily regained control and went on the attack. NAIT easily won it 15-6.

After switching sides, game two began. The Rattlers came out with some good blocking and took the lead 8-3. The Oaks made a lot of mental errors as the gap in the score increased to 13-7. NAIT appeared to comeback for a moment, but couldn't get anything going. They lost game two 15-8.

The Oaks came out more aggressive in the third game, playing like they did in game one. They clearly dominated Medicine Hat and led the game 12-3. They went on to take it 15-3. In the fourth game, the closest of the match, the Oaks came out lax and made more errors. The score showed MHC ahead 8-4. NAIT then gave a more concentrated effort and came back to tie the score at nine. There were a lot of close calls at the net, and NAIT lost the game 15-12.

This forced a fifth game. The Oaks appeared a little tired and the Rattlers had a lot of life, as the game was tied 2-2. Still, NAIT managed to work as a team and led throughout the game. They easily won that one 15-7 and took the match 3-2.

On Saturday, the Oaks dominated the Lethbridge Community College Kodiaks sweeping the best of five match in three games.

FROM THE NET: The NAIT Men's Volleyball Team will now put their five win-two loss record on the line this weekend when they host the SAIT Trojans at the NAIT Gym on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Men's Basketball

One of the newcomers to the Oaks, Lyndon has also played for the SAIT Trojans in the ACAC. This past weekend, Lyndon was a driving force in the Oaks road trip to Lethbridge and Medicine Hat. Lyndon scored a total of 49 points over the weekend and was one of the keys in the victory over the Kodiaks.

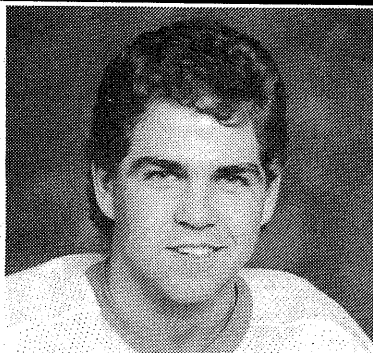

by #11,

Welcome back sports fans to another addition of "Off the Post". This week's feature player is Vince Ashton (#23).

Vince, a Josephburg native, found himself playing most of his minor hockey in outdoor rinks surrounding Josephburg and his farm. Like the old saying goes, "You can take the boy out of the farm, but you can't take the farm out of the boy."

At the age of 16, Vince started a fine junior career with the Hobbema Hawks of the AJHL. Vince found himself playing four years of tough junior hockey. In his last year, Vince accumulated 34 goals, 36 assists and 135 penalty minutes in 52 games.

After a fine regular season, the "Vin-man" earned a berth on the AJHL All-Star Team. When I asked Vince about his all-star appearance, he stated, "It was such an honour to play with the best players of the AJHL."

Vince Ashton

Nickname: Vin-Man

Vince's biggest thrill may come at the end of the year when NAIT hosts the Canadian Nationals. Vince is hoping the team will be successful. If Vince contributes like he has, how can't we be successful?

BEHIND THE NET: I would like to thank you the students for the support in Camrose on the fan bus trip. Your cheers really do make a difference. If we can get that kind of support on the road, let's try it at home.

Thank you for reading and don't forget to keep your head up for the next player profile,

To this point in the season, there has been a lack of effort towards team goals on the NAIT Hockey Ooks. There is no doubt that the team must work together and place team goals ahead of individual ones in order to be a winning hockey club. The Ooks may have taken a step in the right direction by salvaging a weekend split in Calgary.

On Saturday, November 19th in Calgary, the Ooks dropped a 6-5 decision to the Mount Royal College Cougars. On the following afternoon, the Ooks recorded a 3-0 shutout over the SAIT Trojans. The Ooks now have a record of four wins, four losses, and one tie.

In Saturday's game at Calgary's Centennial Arena, the Ooks did not play to their potential.

In the first, the Cougars gained a 2-0 lead on markers from Jim Kambeitz at 3:56 and Kelly Para at 7:38. Scott Melnyk pulled the Ooks within one at the 9:56 mark on the powerplay. Robin Dube and J.C. McEwan picked up assists. The Ooks then tied the contest at 18:19 as J.C. McEwan tallied on a play with Troy Arndt and Robin Dube.

In the second, the Cougars regained their two goal advantage as Mike Wegleitner found the mark at 10:59. The Ooks tied the contest at 12:06 as Ted Bradshaw scored with the help of Craig Sterzer and Randy Wong. The Cougars closed out the period with goals from Matt Kabayama at 14:46 and Mike Cormack at 18:52.

In the third, the Ooks cut the lead to 5-4 on Robin Dube's goal from Scott Melnyk and Murray Bokenfohr at 16 seconds into the period. The Ooks then pulled even at 16:48 as Murray Bokenfohr tallied from Robin Dube and Scott Melnyk. Dave Svrcek of MRC scored the winner a short 46 seconds later.

The Cougars outshot the Ooks 26 to 25. MRC's Buddy Brazier and NAIT's Rob McKinley tended their respective creases.

In Sunday's match at Calgary's SAIT Arena, the Ooks recorded their first shutout of the season.

In the first, the Ooks opened up a 1-0 lead as Craig Sterzer connected with the assistance of Kent Maltais and Ted Bradshaw.

In the second, Brad Fenton increased the Ooks' advantage to 2-0 after receiving a Robin Dube pass.

In the third, the Ooks rounded out the scoring with ten seconds left in regulation time as Robin Dube put the biscuit home.

Rob McKinley turned away all 43 shots directed at the NAIT net. Jeff Stayko stopped 34 of 37 drives in the SAIT crease.

NAIT coach Perry Pearn was pleased with Sunday's win. "The win was the most unselfish and most dedicated effort we'd seen in some time from the team. This type of sacrifice is needed in every ACAC game in order to be successful."

ON THE BENCH: The Ooks recorded their last regular season shutout on February 15th, 1986 when they shutout the MRC Cougars 12-0 at the NAIT Arena. The most recent shutout the Ooks recorded was an 8-0 triumph over the Red Deer College Kings in the first game of the 1986-87 ACAC Finals on March 12th, 1987. The Ooks are idle this weekend and see their next action on Saturday, December 3rd when they play the first of a two game home set with the SAIT Trojans at the NAIT Arena. Game time is 7:30 p.m. (Admission to NAIT Hockey Ooks' home games is free with your NAIT ID Card.)

Basketball Ooks Fall From Undefeated Ranks

By Kyla Macdonald

On Friday, November 18, the NAIT Men's Basketball Team went to Medicine Hat for third game of the season.

The Ooks came out flat against the Rattlers and ran into foul trouble. At the half, NAIT trailed Medicine Hat College by 17 points. MHC played an excellent game and NAIT could not catch up. The final score was 87-73 in favor of Medicine Hat.

Lyndon Campbell was the top scorer for the Ooks with 20 points.

On Saturday, November 19, the Ooks travelled to Lethbridge. This time, NAIT played well and led throughout the game. It wasn't an easy win. Despite leading Lethbridge by eight points at the half, the Ooks won the game 81-80.

Again, Lyndon Campbell was the high scorer with 29 points.

Coach Dave Hoy said that the split was good for NAIT considering how hard it is for the team to win in the south. Although it is early in the season, the Ooks have a record of three wins and one loss and are tied for second place.

OFF THE HOOP: On Friday, November 25th at 8:00 p.m., the Ooks play Grant MacEwan at GMCC. The team expects a good turnout.

Time: 4:15 p.m. Date: November 18, 1988 The place: N.A.I.T. Campus
What: A native ritual know to NAITIANS as ROCK AND TALK.

I arrived at the scene of the violation at approximately 6:00 p.m. and after a quick scan of the room concluded that the violators had not taken the warnings of the Ministry for Keeping Everything Exactly the SAME to be good little guys and gals. There must be something about youth that makes people willing to take risks, funloving, and ALIVE, all of the things that the Ministry despises.

For the first time since I started this undercover assignment I noticed the music, Rock and Roll. Rock is a kind of boojie woogie noise made with guitars, synthesizers and drums. I liked it. The usual things were going on; people dancing, the presence of the designated driver, women taking their pants off. You know, the same old dull, boring stuff. I think I'll have to step up my undercover work to include undercover.

CANADIAN ROCK HISTORY CHALLENGE

First known as "Chad Allen and the Expressions" this band was formed in 1964 shortly before landing their first recording contract.

The first album was titled "Hey, Ho (What You Do For Me)" and released in early 1965. Later they released a single entitled "Shaking All Over". Shortly after, lead vocalist Chad Allen left the band and guitar player Randy Bachman brought in a new member to try our as lead singer and keyboard player; his name was Burton Cummings.

In late 1968 they released their second album entitled "Wheatfield Soul" and included the smash hit singles "These Eyes" and "Laughing". In early 1969 another album called "Super Golden Goodies" was released and yet another one late that year called "Canned Wheat" which found its way to the charts with the number one song "No Time". The "American Woman" album was next to be released (February 1970) and contained the hit classics "American Woman", "No Sugar Tonight", and "Hand Me Down World". In 1971 they released yet another album this one called "Share the Land" which made its way to the #2 spot on the Canadian charts with the hit releases "Share the Land", "Hang onto your Life", "Broken" and "Albert Flasher".

From 1972 - 1975 the band released the following albums: "Best of the _____ (Vol.1)", "So Long Bannatyne", "Rockin'", "Live at the Paramount", "Artificial Paradise", "Best of the _____ (Vol.2)", "Road Food", "Flavours", and "Power in the Music". Some of the singles which emerged from this prolific effort were: "Raindance", "Guns, Guns, Guns", "Running Back to Saskatoon", "Follow Your Daughter Home", "Glamour Boy", "Star Baby", "Clap for the Wolfman", "Dancing Fool", as well as others.
