$1606.46 Moga Madness

By Crystal Mechor

Wow! Can Westwood campus ever party.

Last Wednesday, November 7, Westwood took the MOGA Challenge and had a great time.

Each class performed a small skit with the talent levels ranging from sleeping sweethearts being waken by Mr. Sandman to Jamaican Jammers doing the limbo.

After all the skits were done and judged, the excited partiers crowded over the second half of the gym, (which was full of balloons) and stamped their stress and excitement onto the balloons.

If no one else does a MOGA event before November 16 it looks like Westwood Campus is in for one heck of a party!

The total money raised from Westwood for the United Way was $1606.46 which will be allocated to the Win House.

Congratulations Box To Jamaican Jammers Goes Here

Westwood MOGA congratulates the Jamaican Jammers who won the best skit, and raised the most money per capita in their class.

Special Thanks To The Nest

Every time there is an event for NAITSA, the Nest is always there as a donor of prizes.

From Environment Action Week to the Royal Games (Jan. 28 - Feb. 1) the Nest supports student activity at NAIT.

SMOKE? WHERE'S THE FIRE!

By Brenda Manser

Mayor Jan Reimer's finally done it, she's lost her mind.

I'm referring to the Mayor's thoughtless comments on the Edmonton Men of the Firebrigade Calendar. You know, the one where all the proceeds go toward the Edmonton Burn Unit.

This is the third year for the Firefighters Calendar. They can be purchased at various locations throughout the city including London Drugs. The price - approximately $9. The past two calendars have been in color. This years is in black and white. Why? So that even more money can be donated to the Edmonton Burn Unit.

So why is Jan Reimer so personally vocal about this calendar? Gee, I don't know. Especially, when you consider all of the more important things she could be occupying her time with - the Aurum Dump, the city's water quality, the white elephant (the new City Hall), and higher taxes among other things.

This calendar is not like some "skin/flesh" ones. These men were not paid - they volunteered. Each volunteer goes through a screening process for photogenic and overall appeal. So for these married and single men to volunteer it must be for a good cause.

The calendar is done in good taste and has always adhered to its objective - to raise money. I and many other females in Edmonton don't see what is wrong with this particular fund raising activity.

These calendars make for a great Christmas gift, in fact this year I'll be buying one for each of my friends. Who knows may be I'll even put one up in "my office".

Theft, Destruction And Outright Immaturity

By Jennifer Hawthorne
Assistant Editor

Yes, that just about describes what went on four weeks ago at our fine Institution of higher learning.

The Rock 'n' Talk held on October 26, 1990 might not have been out of the ordinary but, the events that followed definitely were.

The damage first began in the U-Building, in the men's washrooms adjacent to the North cafeteria. In U108A a mirror was smashed (leaving glass all over the floor), toilet paper and towel dispensers were torn off the walls, along with the soap dispenser. There was also a lot of scribbling and paper was strewn all over the place.

In U115 the damage was not as extensive with the soap dispensers being broken and paper thrown all around.

In J-wing a clock was torn off the wall.

Wait it gets better, near the serving area of O112 (the South cafeteria) two male students were noticed in the hallway, what do you think they were doing? Well, they were seen to be urinating all over the floor. Such class!

Each of the above mentioned people were not caught. And, another incident that occurred involved a student breaking the glass out of a window in a door (near the East entrance to the LRC). Apparently, he didn't properly lock his locker and some personal items were stolen. He proceeded to damage some lockers with his hockey stick and then broke the glass. He has been caught, and now he is remorseful and liable for the damage.

What's going on here? Is everyone looking for a way to relieve their stress or what? In any regard, children in kindergarten have more respect for their school than that!

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The recent public out-lash over a poster in Roxanne's office was an unjustified move by two unidentified males. They complained that the poster with the message, "Not all men are created equally", was in their personal opinion tasteless and a cut towards all males. They had argued many good points, such as the hypothetical case that if a male president was to have the same poster cutting woman down there would be a holy war.

They have a right to their feelings and views, but to publicly humiliate Roxanne was uncalled for. To tell her in public that she must remove the poster and write a public apology in the Nugget is not the way to do things. The lack of respect for Roxanne, the lack of respect for the president position makes me wonder about you males.

You show no respect for Roxanne as a person. You not only damper her reputation but also hurt her feelings with this public outcry. If you treat Roxanne this way, how do you treat your girlfriend? Most of us males show women respect and common courtesy. You seem to not show these human qualities, so how can you say we're created equally.

It bothers me that the NAITSA staff have to go through this negative publicity. If it wasn't for the president, who along with her staff, speak to administration about our concerns, who organize awesome events to enjoy and keep the Nest and Student Store running; NAIT would be a learning facility with no inner institute social life. The president and her staff should not and do not have to put up with this public outcry garbage.

If you have a beef with anyone, discuss it between yourselves not publicly. The results are much better. You'll save face and the person doesn't have to go through this publicity B.S.

Sincerely yours,

Dave Murray

(Did you talk to Roxanne about her side/fellings before you wrote this letter? Read on...)

Dear Editor:

In light of last weeks letter to The Nugget we feel that now we can speak up as well. There is a group of us who hope that there are other men out there who will not be afraid to speak up and join our group MARD (Men Against Reverse Discrimination). Discrimination in any form is ugly, we strongly believe this and must realize that all scars are not physical, but there are emotional ones as well, trust us we know! If we are to have any hopes of achieving a free society we must stamp out all forms of discrimination. Our student body leaders (that is the president and vice-president) should set good examples. Imagine how even more degraded we felt after viewing a similar sexist poster in the vice-president's office. We're all for equal rights here, we would love to see single female driver under 25 pay the same amount for insurance as single males under 25. And how do you women feel about companies having quotas on the amount of women that have to be hired. What we mean is do you just want the job because you are a woman or for your qualifications, remember you may be taking the job away from a man who is more qualified but didn't get the job because he is a man. This is not right! We're hoping to hear from all of you next week.

From MARD

(Once discrimination against females is abolished, reverse discrimination will decline. Oh yeah, about the jobs, if a female gets a job over a male its because of her business qualifications, nothing else. This is gettingto be a bit much.)

Dear Editor:

I have finally decided to voice my disappointment in the "school spirit" that this school has. Or should I say the students have. What ever happened to supporting your school teams? Saturday, November 3, I attended the NAIT Oaks hockey game, there were a few fans but the majority of them were parents and family. Maybe 15% of them were students. What's the problem? You get in free, enjoy the entertainment, you support your friends and peers, you can go in a group or by yourself and it's fun. You still have time to go out afterwards, so your Saturday night drinking won't be thrown off. It doesn't have to be a hockey game, there is Volleyball, Basketball, Soccer and lots more. Don't you feel more confident, when there are people supporting you? Same with the players. All of us can spare an hour or two, get your act together! It's embarrassing to have people from out of town seeing our lack of enthusiasm for/at school functions like that. Come on guys, do something.

Nicole Varey

(Student support for NAIT events is definitely pathetic. Take heed NAIT students.)

Awareness Awakened

By Brenda Manser
Editor

NAIT's first ever Environment Week is now over, but its awareness is still being felt.

Environment Action Week Co-ordinator Lisa Meilen said it was a "raving success." Not only did it create a lot of awareness but it also made a lot of people think twice about what they discard and what they can recycle.

Environment Action Week T-Shirts (NAITSA) and NAITURE CLUB mugs were sold during the week, and were sold out by Wednesday. A display from the Environment Resource Centre (ERC) was in the main lobby and awakened a lot of people's interest in recycling. The week's events also featured Brian Staszewski who spoke on the Environment on Monday; a forum on the Environment and Economy in the Little Theater on Wednesday, which had a fantastic turnout (over 55 people).

This event received coverage from NAIT's own NR92 and camera crew from RTA, who all did a fabulous job.

The week also saw pop can recycling bins being distributed around NAIT. They are at the following locations:
Tower Lounge (8th Floor)
V Building
Westwood Campus
Westerra Campus

Continuing Ed. Centre
Power Engineering Bldg.
Engineering Tech. Annex
Medical Tech. Annex
Activities Centre
Hockey Rink
Main Pop Machine - H-wing
Study Hall
Library
Cafetorium

THE BINS ARE FOR POP CANS ONLY. Cans will be collected by technologies and clubs around NAIT. The proceeds will go to the tech. or club that does the collecting.

Another recycling program that went into effect was the computer paper recycling program for Computer Systems. This was done through NAIT administration.

Thank you's go out to: All NAITURE Club members, Kim McDonald (Instructor - Bio Medical), Rob Kvononbusch, Roxanne Beaubien, Garry Meadus, Crystal Mechor, Archie Miller, Scott Wheten, Suzanne Gleen, Alison, Gordon Hayward (Instructor - Bus. Admin.), John Thompson, Jim Butler, Sheila Abercrombie, Kim Sanderson, Francisco Hugo and all others who participated and learned from the week.

Student Speak

Q: Do you agree with Mayor Riemers statement that the City Firefighters calendar is sexist?

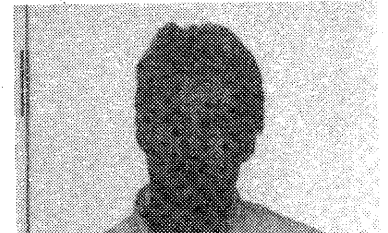

Dan Grapentine - IHET
- Yeah, for people to be looking at half naked people is disgusting.

Connie Kosky - Hairstyling - I think the firefighters are doing it for a good cause and women really enjoy it. Reimer should concentrate on more important issues.

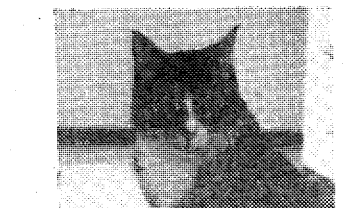

Stacey MacDonald - Animal Health - No, it's making a lot of money for the Burn Unit so why make a big issue out of it when there are other issues at hand. We've had calendars with half naked women on them for years so it's our turn.

Warren Williams - Business - It's for a good cause. No, it's not sexist. It should be left up to the individual whether or not to buy it. It's the same as a sunshine girl calendar.

Michelle Sos - Business - No, they're raising money for charity.

Nixer - All I know is that my owner stuck me up a tree just so she could call the firemen to get me down.

NAIT Students Eligible For Free ASET Membership

Free membership in the Alberta Society of Engineering Technologist, (ASET), is available to students enrolled in a number of engineering technologies or applied science programs at NAIT.

Membership gives students a variety of valuable benefits, including an attractive automobile insurance program, regular chapter meetings, a job referral service and various ASET materials.

Once NAIT students graduate, they are well on their way to achieving their formal, professional credentials. In the meantime, as student members of ASET they are entitled to many of the regular benefits at no charge.

Graduates are automatically upgraded to Engineering Technician or Technologist in Training (E.T.T.) status when they leave NAIT, which is also free for the remainder of the graduating year. Once they accumulate two years of appropriate technical work experience they can apply for formal certification by ASET.

ASET is the professional Society for engineering technicians and technologists in Alberta. A non-profit, voluntary organization, ASET reviews and certifies the training and experience of applicants using accepted national standards.

ASET issues the certified Engineering Technician or Technologist (C.E.T.) and Registered Engineering Technologist (R.E.T.) credentials to applicants who meet the appropriate requirements. The C.E.T. and R.E.T. credentials are well recognized by business and industry. Many firms require that new employees have ASET membership, or are eligible for it.

NAIT students enrolled in the following technologies are eligible for free membership in ASET:

- Air Conditioning Engineering
- Architectural
- Biological Sciences
- Building Construction Engineering
- Chemical Tech.
- Civil Engineering
- Computer Engineering (Westerra)
- Electrical Engineering
- Electrical Engineering (Accelerated)
- Electrical Maintenance Technician (Westerra)

- Electronics Engineering
- Engineering Design and Drafting
- Forest Tech.
- Instrumentation Engineering
- Materials Engineering
- Mechanical Engineering
- Petroleum and Mineral Engineering
- Plastics Engineering
- Surveying
- Telecommunication Engineering

To apply, students must fill in an application form and send it directly to ASET. No postage is required on the forms, which are available from instructors, program or department heads. Student membership kits will be sent to students via their instructors or the institute placement centre.

ASET representatives are often asked to speak to students throughout the year by the program staff. An information booth is also set up at the NAIT career day.

For more information on ASET, write the Alberta Society of Engineering Technologists, Suite 1520, Royal Trust Tower, Edmonton Centre, Edmonton, Alberta, T5J 2Z2

Meat Store Seeks Regular Customers

Retail Meatcutting continues to operate the Meat Store, at the southeast corner of the Cafeteria on Main Campus. Available at attractive prices are fresh beef, lamb, pork, poultry, fish and sausage (both breakfast-type and hot and spicy).

Program Head Dave Kulak says, "We encourage all staff who purchase meat to patronize our store on a regular basis: a continual flow of business is most productive for our students' training program." And, he adds, "We do not anticipate a year-end discount sale."

The Meat Store is open from 10:00 a.m. till 12:00 noon on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Career Fair Gives Students Head Start On Job Hunt

The annual NAIT Career Fair provides students with a forum that enables them to discover how the participating organizations operate, what their hiring policies are, and what personal attributes the companies look for in their employees. And because of its informal "trade fair" format, the Career Fair can help take some of the intimidation and mystique out of finding a job after graduation.

Career Fair '90 will be held Tuesday, November 20, 1990 from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. in the gym and south lobby. It promises to be a success with over 80 companies, representing virtually every sector of the business community taking part.

Some questions you might want to ask include:

- What kind of educational and experience requirements are you looking for (for a particular job)?
- What skills or personal qualities are necessary in this career?
- What's a typical day in this field?
- What are other specialties in this career area?
- Is this field growing, or have there been cutbacks?
- In your opinion, what is the potential for jobs in your company?
- What kind of employee training programs does your organization have in place?
- Does your organization promote from within?

A Student Guide will be published, which will contain a description of each company, as well as career paths with the organization.

Sometimes You Win, Sometimes You Lose

By Brian Stein
Staff Writer

"Sometimes you deserve to win, sometimes you don't." The NAIT Oaks and Red Deer College Kings know the meaning of that cliché after a weekend split.

On Friday, November 9th, the NAIT Oaks deserved to win and scored a pair of powerplay goals en route to a 7-2 win over Red Deer.

In the first, the Oaks moved out in front on Lonnie Spink's fifth of the year at 8:08 and Ian McAmmond's second of the season at 11:48. The Kings pulled to within one on Corey Belitski's powerplay goal at 14:05. McAmmond's second of the period at 14:45 gave the Oaks a 3-1 lead heading into the second.

In the second, Scott Melnyk and Alex Bouma scored within nine seconds of each other -- at 4:07 and 4:16 respectively -- to give the Oaks a 5-1 advantage. Stu Jackson netted Red Deer's second powerplay goal of the game with 17:38 gone in the frame.

In the third, Corey Hastman closed out the night's scoring by padding NAIT's lead with markers at 4:37 and 10:07.

Rob McKinley played solid in the NAIT net blocking 18 of 20 shots. Marty Braithwaite was kept busy and stopped 39 of 46 in the Red Deer crease.

On Saturday, November 10th, the Red Deer College Kings were the better team on the ice and the result echoed that -- a 6-5 win for the Kings over NAIT in OT.

In the first, the Kings jumped out to a 1-0 lead on Corey Belitski's powerplay goal at 17:10.

In the second, the Kings widened the lead to 3-0 as Belitski added a second goal at 1:41 and Howie Finch tallied at 2:46. The Oaks then pulled to within one as Scott Melnyk and Todd Kinniburgh found the mark at 7:06 and 7:58 respectively. The Kings reinstated their two goal lead at 12:38 as Erin Ginnell turned on the red light.

In the third, Mark Hilton of NAIT shortened the Kings lead to 4-3 as he connected on the powerplay at 1:45. Daryl Mitchell then netted Red Deer's fifth goal at 6:16. The Oaks then erased the lead on goals by Greg Geldart at 13:56 and Ian McAmmond at 18:05.

In overtime, the Kings won the game on Daryl Mitchell's tally at 4:35.

The Oaks outshot the Kings 42-30. Gord Besse received the call in the RDC net while Alec Shefflo got the nod in the NAIT net.

The Oaks (5-2-1) and the Camrose Vikings (5-3-1) are one point behind the Red Deer College Kings (6-2) in the battle for first place. The Oaks now take on the Mount Royal College Cougars (4-2) in Calgary this weekend. Game time is 7:30 p.m. Saturday and 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

ON THE BENCH: NAIT will play an exhibition game against the Briercrest Bible College Clippers of Caronport, Saskatchewan on Saturday, November 24th at 2:00 p.m. in the NAIT Arena.

ACAC Standings

	GP	W	L	T	GF	GA	Pts.
Red Deer	8	6	2	0	55	35	12
NAIT	8	5	2	1	50	23	11
Camrose	9	5	3	1	44	35	11
Mount Royal	6	4	2	0	49	23	8
SAIT	6	2	4	0	33	30	4
Grande Prairie	9	0	9	0	13	98	0

The Wolves from Grande Prairie defensively dominated the Oaks with varying defensive strategies. The women stayed close to Grande Prairie on Saturday coming out of the half tied at 28, but were shut down in the second half.

The team lacks experience. Four of the five members of the starting line-up are in their first college season. The team can and will only get better with ACAC game experience.

"We're going in the right direction, but it's not going to come overnight." -Coach Gregg Meropoulis

Medicine Hat College visits NAIT this Friday. The game promises to be an intense battle as both teams are coming off back to back losses and are hungry. Game time is 6:30 p.m. in the NAIT gym.

Leafs Linger in Last

Bob Prince Speaks Out

by Bob Prince
The Dean of
Sports Columnists

Without Harold Ballard, many thought that the fortunes of the Toronto Maple Leafs would improve immediately.

What these observers failed to realize is that the Leafs are still clinging to a general manager who's no smarter than a hockey puck -- Floyd Smith.

Smith must have friends in government as both stunned the world with their brilliance.

When Smith needed a defenceman for the powerplay what did he do? He obtained journeyman Tom Kurvers from New Jersey in exchange for the first round draft pick in the upcoming June draft. This draft pick could be the talented Eric Lindros.

In a recent press conference, Smith stated that the Leafs are short on veterans in the dressing room. As a result, he traded away a third line center with a future, John McIntyre for a third line center without one, Mike Krushelnyski. Signing Eddie Shack as a free agent would have been a better move.

The first thing the Leafs should do to turn things around is turf Smith. The Leafs did not win a Stanley Cup after they traded for Smith in the blockbuster Big 'M' deal of the late 60's. The only way for the Leafs to break the curse is to rid him from the organization.

Maur with Sports

by Maury Bautz
Sports Editor

Both the Roughriders and the Eskimos started the game last Sunday somewhat unsure of the outcome. There was no pre-game "We're going to kill them" hype. Both teams came out to play the game strictly on the field where it's supposed to be played.

Eks Win With Class

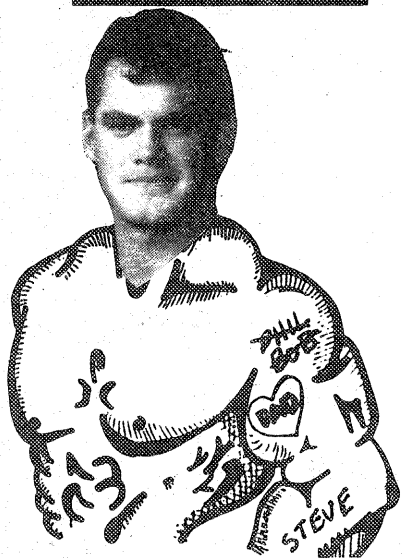

This is in contradiction to a lot of the Eskimo games this year and particularly the Western Final last year. Maybe the dismal finish by the Eks was good in that it proved to them that they can't win just because they have the most talented team in the league. The team dug deep and played solid, down to the basics football to dethrone the defending Grey Cup Champions.

What was surprising to see and characteristic of the Eskimo's seemingly "new attitude" was Braswell's reaction after scoring a first quarter touchdown. He didn't run around like a man possessed, he quietly celebrated and returned to the bench.

So it's a rematch of the "Showdown in Cowntown" this Sunday. All that's needed is the same recipe as last week and we're in for another year cheering for the Eks at our Grey Cup parties.

Featuring Mark Hilton
Nickname: Hiltz, Zeus

Everyone at one time has an ambition that could only be envisioned thru Wayne's World (Saturday Night Live), like hitting a home run in the World Series or scoring the winning goal in a national championship. This week's profile player, Mark Hilton was able to actually score the goal that won last year's Canadian College Championship. With the third and final game tied 3-3 in double overtime Hiltz scored the biggest goal of his career. (Since then Mark has had to pump up with Hans and Frans so his body could match his head) This year my left winger has started out where he left off scoring 15 points in eight games.

Mark played most of his minor hockey here in Edmonton and played his junior hockey in St. Albert for the Saints. Last year Mark had given much thought to hanging up his skates in order to enter the Police Force, but after much deliberation decided to come to NAIT. Mark is now in his second year of Marketing in order to help complement his diploma from Grant MacEwan in Law Enforcement. Having played the last three years with Mark, I have hung out with him long enough to know that Hiltz wants to excel in everything he does from hockey to school to weightlifting.

In The Crease

Next week in the Grapevine all letters addressed to Zeus Hilton will be forwarded to the NAIT Hockey team in order for Mark to send a 10 X 14 photo personally autographed.

NAIT - IN ACTION

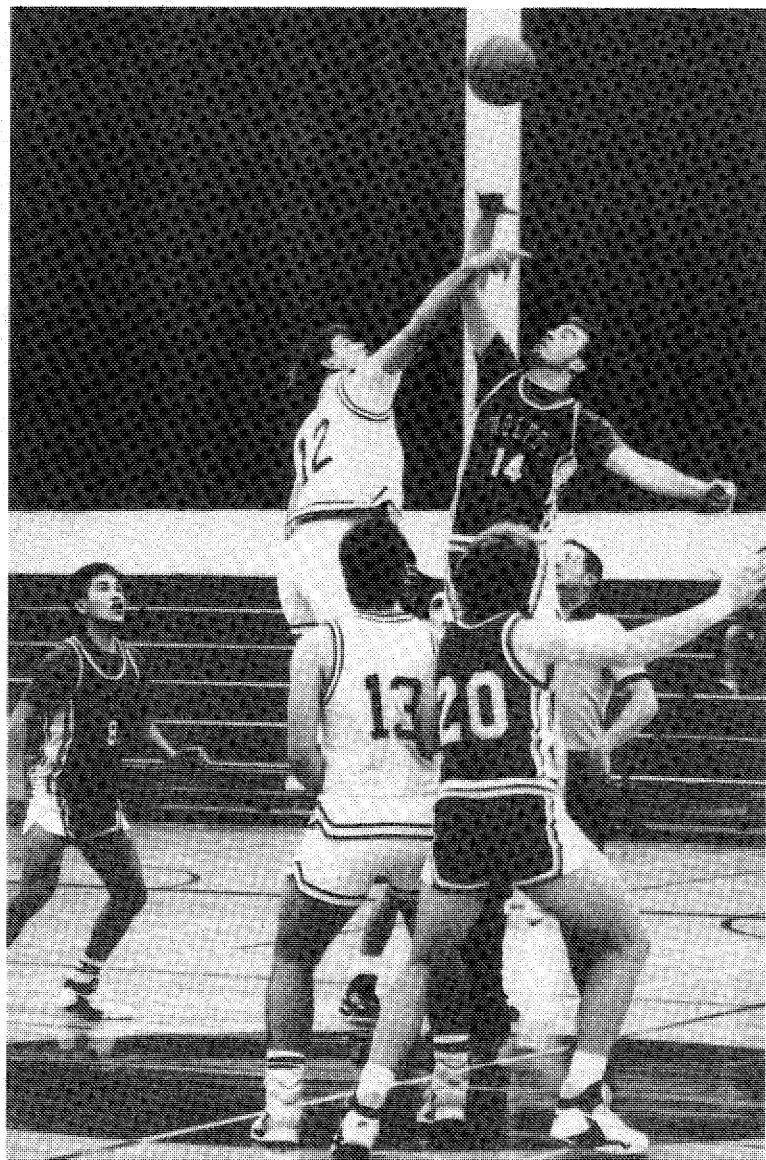

Outdoor Education Program In Time With The Environment

By Mark Bosworth

It has long been the goal of the NAIT Outdoor Education program to offer students a positive first experience with the outdoors and at the same time respect the environment while doing so. "Take out your garbage and someone else's" has been a motto of the program since its inception. Program Co-ordinator Gregg Meropoulos notes that "We continue to use the same campsite areas for our Wilderness Skills and Canoeing classes each year and that to treat the area with respect and keep it clean for next years classes is only good common-sense." While weekend courses in Wilderness Skills utilize a site South of Entwistle and the canoeing program camps out on the side of Moose Creek all campsites are inspected by our instructors as they leave the area to ensure the area is "at least as clean" as when they arrived. While a small amount of evergreens are utilized to demonstrate signal fires and lean-to construction - the majority of the wood utilized is deadfall. Following this philosophy of environmental respect the program strives to educate students of their responsibilities toward preserving these outdoor areas for upcoming generations.

Basketball Ooks Off To A Fast Start

The NAIT men's basketball team won it's first two league games last weekend defeating the Grande Prairie Regional College Wolves 73-61 (O.T.) on Friday and 84-44 on Saturday. Friday's game was scrappy and intense as the teams traded hoops with the Ooks carrying a 28-22 lead at half time. NAIT pulled away to a 15 point lead with seven minutes to go only to see it evaporate as the Wolves played great defense and hit some big shots. Two points at the buzzer by Jeff Fitzpatrick of the Wolves sent the game into overtime. Leading the way for NAIT were Neil Vany (16 points) and Rob Hansuk (14 points).

In Saturday's game the Ooks came out aggressive, playing their best defense of the season. NAIT held Grande Prairie to 11 first half point (a school record) and went into locker room with a 41-11 lead. The Wolves played much better in the second half but the Ooks pulled away to win by a 40 point margin. Top scorers for NAIT were Norm Barthel with 11 points and Dan Grapnting and Sandy Malhi each with 10 points.

This weekend the Ooks play the Medicine Hat College Rattlers, both teams share first place with 2-0 records. This is most certainly "the biggest game of the year" for both teams as they are battling for playoff spots. In the words of Ooks head coach Dave Hoy, "You only play each team twice so every game is important." Game time is 8:15 p.m. Friday, November 16 in the NAIT gymnasium.

NEIL VANY

Men's Basketball

Rookie power forward Neil Vany has been a welcome addition to the NAIT Ooks. At 6'2" Neil is small for his position but he more than makes up for it with his physical style of play and aggressive rebounding. A second year student in Engineering Design and Drafting, Neil was a standout for the Ooks in their two wins last weekend. As the season progresses Neil will play an important role in the Ooks drive to make the playoffs.

Around here.

ERICA PRICE

Women's Basketball

Erica Price has quickly made the adjustment from high school to college basketball and is well on her way to establishing herself as a force inside the key. Though in her rookie season, she leads the Ooks in scoring and rebounding and only her lack of league experience has prevented her from being more dominant. The Ooks look forward to "E" becoming one of the best post players in the ACAC. Erica hails from Devon and is currently enrolled in Engineering Design and Drafting.

Last Friday was another great Architecture party. This time the party wasn't as colorful, but just as entertaining. Towards the end of the evening, the tribal rhythmic undulating dance floor was true heaven. I don't know if all the girls in Architecture are as friendly as Katherine, but it seemed that most were. At The Movies and Things That Make You Go Hmmm

by Oscar Opinion

I was at the Rocky Horror Picture Show on Halloween and a couple of days later I noticed that you can actually buy the movie video. My feelings towards the Rocky Horror Picture Show can only be explained as sheer emotional release, a tension reliever you know. Everybody has a thing about stress and I get rid of mine from time to time with being a participant in this cult classic. I must have seen it 30 times.

The major contributing factor to all this return business is you are part of the cast, if you engage in the insanity. Why would anyone want to buy this tape? So you can watch it alone? So you can practice for the next screening? So you can impress your friend by knowing all the jokes and satire? I can't understand why these people don't participate the old-fashioned way - by earning it!

Jacobs's Ladder
 Two out of five stars

By Cary Tarasoff

Two weeks ago I previewed "Jacob's Ladder." Two things; dramatic scenes and a complicated story. You seem to spend most of the movie talking to your friend asking "Can you figure out where the story is right now?" I guess this says it all.

Coming Events

by Steve McGuire
Entertainment Editor

The Leslie Spit Trio will be playing the U of A Power Plant on November 15, 16 and 17. They really have four members and this folk rock band has many followers on the eastern club circuit. What I have heard is an intriguing emulsification of pop folk jazz rock. Something I just can't put my finger on, but the ticket is a guaranteed good show.

Don't forget GOWAN will be performing November 22 in the Myer Horowitz Theater. His last time in Edmonton was a marvel. The stage presence was electric. You can tell that when Gowan is writing his songs; he has the audience in mind. He comes across so well live. More like an old well known performer than a guy from Ottawa. I suggest that you buy your tickets soon, because you know they won't last.

A new Liverpool act has been getting some airplay, but not much in Edmonton. The band called "River City People" has a realistic rank rock style, comparable to "Ten Thousand Maniacs." I hope this band can show a little improvement on their next album. Some of the tracks may hold the North American public from buying. The show takes place November 21 at the Side Track Cafe.

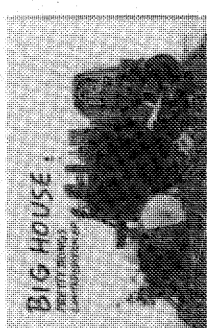

At the Citadel, "Lend Me a Tenor," Ken Ludwig's piece is set as an American face. Playing at the Citadel's Shoctor Stage on November 18. Maybe worth a look?

Steve's Albums of the Week

by Steve McGuire
Entertainment Editor

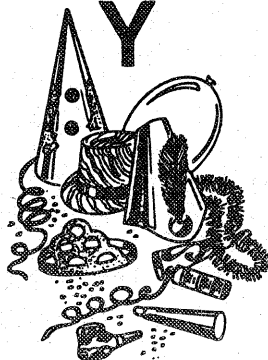

Deep Purple "Slaves and Masters". First off, this is not a conceptual album. To me it sounds like leftover tracks from the past, but the same things are there for the die hard Deep Purple fans. The power cords, the slick lead guitar playing the range and control of Joe Lynn Turner. Vocals on this album are just another average performance. Past albums have been more innovative and compelling. This album has one commercial track, "King of Dreams" and that is about the only selling feature that "Slaves and Masters" has. One can reminisce about Deep Purple past performances and albums, but that's the point; all of their success has been in the past. They should tune into the present and not try to capitalize on the past like so many other bands with past glory. Don't buy this album unless you're a hard core Deep Purple fan, or you'll just be wasting your money.

Big House "Pretty Things" limited edition EP is a high energy, smash face, Rock 'N Roll whose time has come. Some of the tracks on this EP have a good chance of breaking the Top 40. Their realistic lyrics and driving rhythm has an amazing effect on an audience. I played the EP for some friends last week and the consensus was much the same. This rock band stands a good chance. There must be more creative avenues taken though for the stage presence and loudness won't make you a success without a predetermined writing style. This comes from setting goals and being systematic in your approach in obtaining them. Not worth the price, wait for the album, not an EP.

Odds & Ends

Options and Opinions

Dear Options and Opinions:

I was studying for some very important midterms last week, and the pressure had been immense. Usually I do quite well and this year had been nothing but one bad grade after another. My study habits have been improving; I wish that my efforts would start showing themselves on my midterms. If my grades don't start improving I will be doing this all over again next year. Are there any options or opinions that you could spare to a distraught first year student.

Signed,
Distraught

Dear Distraught:

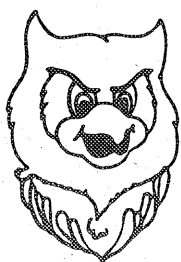

My mother wrapped an alarm clock for my birthday and on the card that came with the gift was the riddle: "What does everybody have but not everybody uses wisely?" The answer of course is: time. My tip for those who feel unbearable stress from exams is to start reviewing - dare I say studying - as soon as you get the new material. Kevin Trudeau of the Mega Memory System notes that it takes time for new material to become a part of the existing knowledge bank. If you cram, you will not only be racking your memory for material that you didn't have enough time to learn, but you will also be feeling guilty for not having done everything you could have, for a better mark on that test. Take the time to learn your subject material well, instead of leaving it up to the last minute. Once you are confident that you have done so, you can then put all your concentration on retrieving this information under test conditions and reap the rewards!

Yours truly,
Ray Garcia

Dear Distraught:

After reading your letter, my best advice for you would be to not be so hard on yourself and try not to get too discouraged by your past performances on tests. The best start would be to review your past poor marks, try to understand your mistakes and learn what you should be studying. I find instructors all seem to stress different things on these tests. However, once you get use to the testing criteria and develop a good attitude towards taking tests, that's half the battle. When your habits have changed, maybe you should talk to a counselor for more helpful ideas for completing and understanding assignments and homework. The best piece of advice I could give you is: don't take your bad marks to heart. The final can change all your past inadequate marks.

Sincerely,
Stephen McGuire

Smith Principle

This week's column: Historical Adversaries - Landlords and Tenants.

For years, intermittently, I've worked in property management and no I'm not a glorified caretaker. The fact that originally I accidentally fell into this management area, does not lessen the importance of my position. For some years now, I have tried to repair the fence between these natural enemies. Landlords just want their money to cover the mortgages on the first of each month and tenants think the landlord is nothing more than a cheap money grubber.

Today, I'm involved with a 15 suite building with long-term tenants, low changeovers, and everyone has something to say about everything. Sure, there's still the odd horror story and the eviction notice and maybe, even a legal matter now and then, but on the whole my people are happy, comfortable and know my door is open all the time.

When I move anyone in they are told all of the important areas of the Landlord and Tenant Act and the Civil Law area I can use to get them out if necessary. This is not a scare tactic in any way. I have found over the years there are many myths surrounding what the tenant is actually entitled to and/or what the landlord can and cannot do.

With a vacancy rate now of around 1.5% do not be surprised at another rent raise in January for April 1, 91. It is even more important now for any tenant to know his or her rights when renting.

The following list will give you a good idea of things I've noticed over the years that tenants don't do and should:

1. Ask for a condensed version of the landlord and tenant act, or phone them and have it mailed to you.
2. If under lease read it thoroughly and ask questions, do not accept an answer of this is the normal renting lease just sign it - make sure when you do sign it the mgr. signs at the same time.
3. The damage report should be done as soon as you move in and with the caretaker - check the smoke detector, caulking in the bathroom, taps for leaks, and all electrical outlets along with checking for cleanliness.

4. Question the times when the mgr. is on the premises and if there is someone there all the time - security method - is there window and patio screw-in bolt locks from the inside

5. While examining the suite if you're interested in renting, find out the personality of the bldg. - are there frequent parties - loud stereos etc. - find out before you decide on the suite what you may be up against.

6. The most important - all paper flow (eg. eviction for breach, rent raise, 24 hr. maintenance notice) everything must be in black and white - you can make a notice of objection to any paperwork you receive (dif. check this area out).

7. If you suspect a master key has been used without a 24 hr notice - complain in black and white with a copy to landlord and tenant.

Happy renting, and go after your interest on damage deposit.

Grapevine

Two Hungry Kittens,
We were there,
You were not.
Once again denied the chance to make you hot.
You pick the place,
Where we can see your face.
Friday won't do,
Can't make it to see you.

Although it is cold,
We'll give you
something to hold.
It can keep you warm,
If you're in form.

So pick a day and try to make it,
And we'll see how far
we can take it.
We're pretty sure that
you'll be screaming,
During the lust that you've been dreaming.

You can tell by the way
we wear our jocks,
We're women's men, no
time for talk.

The earth will move,
The bed will rock,
And we'll be surprised
if you can still walk.
