Axe Falls On Westerra Campus

By Brenda Manser
Editor

Yesterday, President Stan Souch and Chairman Jim Shaw announced to staff and members of the Stony Plain community that further reductions in programming and support services are planned for the Westerra Campus.

In February 1990, NAIT agreed to the Provincial Government's request to assume responsibility for the Westerra Institute of Technology and to do so with a base grant reduction of $2.8 million.

"The 1991/92 financial plan is now being prepared to achieve a balanced budget and to complete integration of Westerra and NAIT operations. While some savings can be realized through attrition, further economies are required."

- Dr. Stan Souch

Some programs currently offered at Westerra will be affected. Pre-

Technology and Electronic Publishing programs will be discontinued. Pre-technology will be discontinued because it is impractical to run the same program at two different locations. The student quota for Computer Engineering Technology will be reduced and the program will be transferred to NAIT's Main Campus where some efficiencies will be achieved by operating it within the electronics cluster of programs. Those students who are in their first year of this program will be transferred to Main Campus to finish their second year.

The apprenticeship programs at Westerra Campus have a strong training base and have a strong potential for growth, as well as the potential to develop resource (environment) related programming.

Westerra Campus currently houses the following programs: Water and Wastewater Technician (apprenticeship), Computer Engineering Technology, Electronic Publishing Technician (apprenticeship), Pre-technology, and Secretarial Arts.

Further economies will be achieved through reduction of clerical services and the consolidation of other support services such as library, computer capability, and registration with those offered on the Main Campus.

It is anticipated that up to 19 staff positions will be cut from the current staff complement at Westerra. Dr. Souch stated that NAIT will employ a variety of strategies - employment counselling, redeployment, retraining, and severance arrangements - to lessen the impact on individuals affected. This indicates that NAIT shows concern for its employees by implementing the above strategies to help staff deal with the shuffle.

Yesterday's announcement represents the second phase of economy measures intended to bring Westerra operations in line with the $2.8 million reduction in government base funding. The first phase, which occurred between February and June 1990, realized savings of $1.6 million.

NAIT officials are confident that the remaining Westerra programs can be sustained within the resources available and that they will provide a sound foundation for future development. Westerra will also continue to serve the needs of the surrounding community with continuing education programs.

"The facilities and program base at Westerra afford an excellent opportunity for development of a campus with a distinctive character."

- Dr. Souch

Royal Games Killed

By Dave Murray
News Editor

Last Thursday, the Royal Game week was cancelled at the last moment because of a lack of contestants. Crystal Mechor, Academic Vice President explains, "Out of 63 technologies, each was asked to nominate a male and a female for Mr. and Miss NAIT titles; and only two contestants were nominated." Along with the cancellation of the week comes cancellation of the fashion show, the male date auction, and the Royal Gala.

In response to the cancellation, NAITSA members were called into an emergency meeting to figure out what to do. "Both contestants will be asked to accept the post by default," says Crystal. If both accept, they will win $250 travel voucher from Travel cuts, $100 scholarship from Molson's, $100 certificate for a grad ring from NAITSA, free admission to all NAITSA events, and much, much more. They will also be representing NAIT in many upcoming events.

The King and Queen week, which had a tradition of 26 years, is the 8th event to be subjected to the problem of little participation and interest. Past events hampered by this problem include the MOGA, the Spooktacular, many of the intramurals, and Doug'n the Slugs. The lack of participation at these events has NAITSA concerned. Many are now asking themselves questions.

It seems that the school spirit is dying out. Many students may not know about the events or just don't want to get involved. Whatever the problem is, it has NAITSA worried.

"College life is not just academics. A balance is needed, get involved with the events on campus."

- Roxanne Beaubien,
President of NAITSA

Both Roxanne Beaubien and Crystal, along with the rest of NAITSA executives, are wondering what is going on. Is the General Council not effective? Are students getting information from their technology representatives? Maybe students are just too pre-occupied with outside events such as the war, work, etc. Whatever the problem is, NAITSA hopes this will not be foreshadowing of NAITSA elections which are just around the corner.

Pocklington's At It Again

By Brenda Manser
Editor

So, he wants to build his own hockey venue. But why? Is Northlands being that unreasonable with its requests regarding the Oilers use of its facilities?

Personally, I can't see the point in building another venue for Oiler hockey. The Coliseum as it is right now could stand to be alot busier than it is.

If the Oilers move to the parcel of land Pocklington has recently purchased, what will Northlands do to fill the time slots. Will more concerts be held? Edmonton doesn't seem to be high on the concert location list right now.

Could we see more WWF Wrestling come to Edmonton, or how about Stampede Wrestling.

Pocklington should do something useful and constructive with his money, such as donating equipment to Edmonton area hospitals which are sure to suffer from the recent budget cutbacks. He could build a senior citizen recreation centre or a recreation centre for disable people.

I'd like to see him use his money to build a Triple A Baseball park, since Edmonton City Council won't do it. This way the Edmonton Trappers could stay in Edmonton.

Heck, he could even help fund the U of A Football program if he was that desperate to spend some of his money.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

In the January 24th edition of The Nugget, Ron Mustafa attributes the presence of American troops in the Middle East to Jewish control. Not only does the Jewish community control the American Government, but in Mr. Mustafa's mind, CNN, ABC, NBC and CBS are also controlled by those of Jewish descent. If Mr. Mustafa is trying to sway the majority opinion in Canada (an opinion that would seem to be shared by a large segment of the World community) concerning the Gulf War, I suggest that he should have gathered some of the facts he needed to prove these accusations. Fortunately, I have gathered some of those facts.

In 1979, Eli Gilfieldenstein decided to form an all news television station after failed attempts at taking over the then liberal infested CBS. Eli's dream was to, one day, control the World news so he could promote his evil Zionist ideals over the world's airwaves. In order to confuse his enemies, Eli changed his name to Ted Turner. With the help of his childhood friend, Mort Shapiro (aka Ronald Reagan), CNN was formed. Turner trained more of his Zionist buddies to take over the other networks and, today, all major news in the U.S. are controlled from Jerusalem via the White House. (George Bush is also Jewish, by the way.)

I hope this bit of historical evidence helps change the view that the majority of Canadians share. That is, that poll's suggest the majority of Canadians support the objectives of the UN resolutions (the UN is also controlled by Zionists, in case that isn't obvious by now) and support the use of force.

Supporting the War in the Gulf is the equivalent of supporting the impending Jewish domination of the World. Proponents of the war suggest a comparison between Adolph Hitler and Saddam Hussein and use this comparison as a justification for force against Iraq. Saddam has nothing in common with Hitler, and even if he did, it wouldn't matter because Hitler was controlled by the Jews, as was Abraham Lincoln, William F. Buckley, John Diefenbaker, all the Popes since 1234 A.D., Michael Jackson.....

I'm glad to see Mr. Mustafa take such an original approach in explaining the current

Show Them We Care

By Jennifer Hawthorne
Assistant Editor

As Canadians here at home we sometimes feel helpless when thinking about the situation in the Gulf. For some it seems they are insignificant and that there is nothing they can do in this time of war; the fact remains that many of our service men and women are in the middle of the war and they are there on our behalf.

For those who feel like they cannot really make a difference but still want to contribute to the efforts in the Gulf here are some addresses you should be aware of. Our troops who are over in the Gulf would love to hear from those of us back home in Canada. They need to know that they are supported by their fellow Canadians.

The two addresses you can send your letters to are:

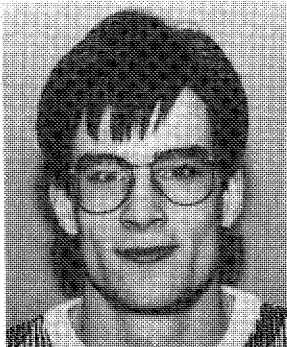

Navy C.F.
P.O. Box 5071
Fleet Mail Office
Halifax, Nova Scotia
B3K 2K0

Canadian Forces
Box 5004
Bellville, Ontario
K0K 3R0

So don't continue to think that you, as one individual in Canada can do nothing in this time of war. So, get out your pens and papers and let our troops know that we support them and want them to come home safely as soon as possible.

Apathy or What?

By Dave Murray
News Editor

In The Nugget I had described that Apathy was killing many events. I still believe that this is what happened to every event. I'm not sure that apathy is to be blamed for the Royal Games Week to be cancelled. I've heard many ideas on what caused the cancellation, everything from no communication, to students to busy to get involved. I really don't know what the problem is, but I know that you do. So let me know why you think the Royal Games Week was cancelled. Drop by The Nugget Office at E-128 or phone 471-7615. Let me know what you think.

As for NAITSA and especially Crystal, keep up the good work!!!

World crisis. Blame it on the Jews. It's always interesting to hear a fresh and insightful idea like this one. I hope the facts I contributed helped develop Mr. Mustafa's irrelevant point of view.

Sincerely, Dave Palmer.

(I think the entire world should be run by women.)

Dear Editor:

It was a very excusing opinion when I was reading this article last week which indicates that Canada should fight in the Gulf, because the UN has taken a stand against Iraq's aggression.

I felt strongly sad, because it really had no sign of justice at all. What about the 21 Palestinians who have been killed by the Israeli soldiers on October 8, 1990 and all their weapons were rocks. As we heard from the news, that all the UN has done was asked the government of Israel if they could send some of its members in order to check what really happened. Even the government of Israel refused.

Again, you see Mr. Bush on TV every single day yelling and shouting that he must and will stop the aggression of Iraq over Kuwait. But, at the time when 21 Palestinians were killed, all he said was that the Jewish soldiers have to be more patient.

Do you as a human being who have a brain to think, see this situation which I have said is a justice situation? I will let you answer this question by yourself.

justice with any problem in the world, but what I see is totally different. I see that if the victims are Muslim's or Arabs, nobody would speak or give any kind of attention to it, and on the other hand if the victims are Jewish, you would see on TV and the newspaper a huge covering on every single detail on them.

I wish and hope that this unfair situation by the UN would change some day.

Signed, a concerned Canadian.

Dear Editor:

I am a smoker and I try to be thoughtful. I smoke only where allowed and when non-smokers sit with me I am courteous to them. I have to say, though I've had it with rude non-smokers. I have met many non-smokers who are nice, but the couple I came in contact with in the tower lounge take the cake.

It was in the morning and I went to the tower lounge - one of the few smoking areas on campus - to have a cigarette. I sat down, lit up a cigarette, took a couple of drags and then it came. Ah... Ah... Ahem, Ah... Ah... Ahem. I looked over and there was that non-smoker coughing delicately. When that didn't work they tried that "complaining loudly" tactic. "Smoking is so gross, I don't understand why people are not more considerate toward other people." Please, give it a break!!

If you non-smokers INSIST on sitting in a smoking lounge then be prepared to deal with people who smoke.

Signed, sick and tired.
(The issue of smoking vs non-smoking will always be a hazy one.)

Dear Editor:

I have never wrote a letter to the Editor in my life but I cannot ignore the enclosed article on Youseff Chebli. I am tolerant and I pride myself on having as little prejudice as possible. I believe in "live and let live" and the inherent humanity of man.

One thing I have noticed is the basic cruelty and lack of humanity of all fanatics of whatever stripe. Mr. Chebli is a classic case. Worse he takes advantage of his Canadian citizenship with all its inherent advantages to spout his garbage. No honorable person would take his position and keep his Canadian citizenship and domicile. Mr. Cebli, I and all Canadians, including myself am sure that the majority of Arab Canadians have this message for you.

Take your hatred and poison back to your friend Saddam, the butcher of Baghdad. The two of you deserve each other. I am sure he will make room for you in his 100 million dollar bunker. You can have the opportunity to enjoy his company while your Iraqi and Kuwait brethren die because of his bullying adventurism. The pain and suffering caused by self righteous fanatics is legion. You as a religious leader of any calling should be praying for peace, praying for all the poor unfortunates who will die because of your religiously opportunistic friend.

History will indicate Saddam Hussein as an arrogant, sadistic bully with delusions of grandeur and no compassion for his own people. You will not even be remembered as a tyrant's lapdog.

In voting for a holy war against your adopted country you have far exceeded the bounds of legal dissent. Go stand beside your friend Saddam, Canada does not want you. CIS do your job.

Signed, Gerald Carter.

(In this case you should be blaming the Canadian government for their immigration policies.)

Dear Editor:

It has now been 12 days into the war and already it seems that people's interests in the Gulf events are slowly slipping away. The Americans this Sunday enjoyed watching the Superbowl game. Meanwhile, thousands of miles away, people lay huddled in bomb shelters awaiting the next round of bombs.

The closest Americans can get to the war is by turning on the TV and watching any of the American stations. But what do these stations show? They show oil slicked birds struggling to fly, calling this an environmental disaster but what about the human disaster taking place? What about all the hundreds of men, women and children dying in a war they did not want? Why are they not given any priority by the media?

Why do they not show the millions of Palestinians that are confined to their homes, not allowed to work, go to school or shop? Why isn't the world condemning this act of aggression on the human rights of the Palestinians, could it be that they have double standards?

One should keep in mind as the tragedy of war infolds the scars will last forever and the sparks will never die in the Middle East. For war, as one reporter put it, "war is not about winning or losing, it is about death."

Name withheld.
(There are no winners in a war only losers.)

Dear Editor:

For the last several days there have been people in our country who have been with holding their taxes in protest. This protest is not, however, directed against the GST, but against the war in the Gulf. These people have calculated the portion of tax they pay that goes towards the Department of National Defense and have instead donated it to peace groups.

If the taxman would actually accept this type of protest, then these people will have succeeded in voicing their opinions. In this act of protest, these people are also denying funds that pay for the fuel that sends Christmas presents to those in our city and the far north, that pay for search and rescue, that pay for Canada's participation in UN peacekeeping missions. These funds also pay for their lives and the lives of others, pay for those who stand on guard so that Canadians can have the right to protest peacefully.

NAIT Foundation Donates $800,000

By Roxanne Beaubien
NAITSA President

You may have noticed that over the past two months there have been numerous articles in The Nugget trying to encourage the student body to sell tickets for the Annual NAIT Foundation Corvette Raffle. A common response is WHY?

There are many reasons why the student body should support the efforts of the NAIT Foundation. The number one reason is that you are the one that benefits! Students from past years have worked to make things better for us! They have worked to ensure that NAIT is able to purchase the needed equipment to provide us with a quality education.

In the present times of financial constraint imposed by the government through decreasing operating and capital grants it is essential that we now do our part to make things better for NAIT students of tomorrow. Listed below are the Foundation's donations announced at Christmas.

There are also other incentives for selling car raffle tickets. The following cash prizes are also available (based on $25,000 in student sales) for MOST TICKETS SOLD.

Individual Student $425.00
Small Technology $825.00
Large Technology $1250.00

*Easy way to raise funds for your grad!

Yes, there is still more! Every two weeks the Foundation is giving away 2 Oiler home game tickets to the individual student returning the most completed books. The Nest is also donating 2 pita pizzas for a random draw which will be made every two weeks.

With all this what have you got to lose? The tickets are easy to sell - $5.00 for 3 chances to win a 1991 Corvette. All proceeds go to the NAIT Foundation.

If you already have tickets, please return completely sold books and money as soon as possible to Lynda or Roxanne at NAITSA (E133) to be eligible for the draws. If you haven't picked any up yet please see your technology representative or stop by NAITSA to pick up a book! You will be surprised at how easy it really is!

International Art Competition

NEW YORK, NY - International Art Horizons has announced deadlines and $30,000 in prizes in the 10th New York International art competition, which is open to artists working in a number of different art media.

The competition is open to all students and to emerging as well as established artists working in the following fields: painting, drawing, sculpture, watercolors, mixed media, photography, printmaking, pastels, miniature art, illustration, graphic art, computer art, metal work, fibers/textiles, furniture, ceramics, jewelry, glass, woodworking and design.

Applicants will submit slides to be judged by these distinguished jurors: Lynn Zelavansky (Museum of Modern Art, New York), Nadine Grabania (Frick Art Museum, Pennsylvania), Roger Selby (Boca Raton Museum of Art, Florida), Marla Price (Modern Art Museum, Texas), and Ruth Meyer (Taft Museum, Ohio).

An exhibition of the winning art works will again be held at the elegant Art 54 Gallery in the heart of New York's Soho district in June 1991.

Steve Wade, spokesperson for International Art Horizons, noted the advantages to entrants in this New York competition: "This is by far the most economical way for students and artists to gain exposure in New York, the centre of the art world. They won't have to travel to the numerous New York galleries themselves, yet the major collectors, critics and gallery owners can see their work. The artists will benefit from the competition's fine

Competition

The NAIT Academic Staff Association (NASA) is sponsoring a logo competition. The logo must be suitable for use on a lapel pin, mug, plaque, sweatshirt, etc.

The competition is open to all NAIT students and staff. Submit your Pencil sketch on 8.5 x 11 paper, maximum of two colors, excluding background, and list typefaces used.

All entries must be in the NASA Office (A287) by February 19, 1991. Judges will be: two professional artists, Dave Stephenson and Meghan Hauser. They will short list entries for NASA Executive council to select the logo to be adopted.

The prize for the winning artist is tickets for two at the Mayfield Dinner Theatre.

(Everyone has their own weird way of dealing with the presence of war.)

Dear Editor:

This letter is to uncover some facts concerning the war in the Gulf. These facts have been hidden intentionally to make us look at the war from one point of view. Most of us are watching the news everyday and most of us know more about the Arabs than before. Unfortunately, most of what we hear and see about the Arabs is totally wrong. All we see about them is killing, terrorism, ignorance, and uneducated people, but this is not how they are.

If we glance through the history of the world we see the Arabs are very unique people, people who gave education and technology to the world (chemistry, math, etc...), people who are generous, sophisticated and very well stick to their principles. On top of that, they are fully loyal to the country they are living in, even if it is not their own country. One thing has brought my attention to all this, and that is before the war started, the Iraqi president Saddam Hussein let all the western citizens go back to their own countries. He should have kept them as a human shield or as hostages of war, but his loyalty as an Arab did not let him do so. Unfortunately, our media did not bring this point up, but all it did is showed Saddam as a Hitler or as a war criminal. Last thing I would say to my fellow Canadians is not to believe everything the media says or shows because, as they say, truth is the first casualty of war.

Swimming Oaks on Top

Swim Team displays the hardware they earned this past weekend

When the waves had calmed following some excellent races at the Fifth Annual NAIT Invitational Swim Meet, the results were announced. As expected, NAIT's men's team topped the competition with 38 points over their nearest rivals.

The big news was on the women's side where NAIT had climbed up to take over 2nd place in the women's exhibition standings.

"We had solid performances from both the men's and women's squads this weekend. The women are on the right track now, but will have to come up with even better performances at the ACAC Championships in March if they wish to maintain or improve their 2nd place position.

Basketball Oaks Split in Calgary

The NAIT men's basketball team came away from last weekend's road trip to Calgary with a split in their two games against SAIT and Mount Royal College. The Oaks dropped a 73-65 decision to the SAIT Trojans on Friday and then rebounded to defeat the Mount Royal College Cougars 68-55 on Saturday.

In the loss to SAIT the Oaks found themselves down 17-6 early in the game and were never able to recover. "We weren't mentally sharp when we needed to be at the start of the game," said Coach Dave Hoy in describing the teams effort. The Oaks did rally to close a 20 point deficit to an 8 point loss in the closing minutes of the game, but it was too little too late. Neil Vany had 17 points for the Oaks while Moe Ameroy added 13 points and Rob Hansuk had 12.

With one day to recover the Oaks did play a good solid defensive game in their 13 point victory over Mount Royal College, holding the Cougars to 55 points. The Oaks lead the ACAC in team defense with an impressive average of 65 points per game against. Coach Hoy commented, "We responded to our Friday night loss with some outstanding defense.... I was really pleased with our defensive attitude and effort." Once again Neil Vany led the Oaks with 18 points, Norm Barthel added 14 points and Les Cselinacz chipped in with 9 points. The Oaks victory improved their league record to 9 wins against two losses allowing them to remain in first place in the ACAC ranked 4th in Canada.

The Oaks now have a weekend off before visiting the Millwoods Campus of Grant MacEwan on Friday February 8th to once again battle their crosstown rivals for first place.

Calgary Rivals Sweep Oaks

By Maury Bautz
Sports Editor

The Mount Royal and SAIT Volleyball teams from Calgary found their road trip up North quite worth their while. In Men's and Women's Volleyball the Calgary rivals left NAIT with a pair of victories over the Oaks.

The women's team came out playing hard against SAIT on Friday, winning the first two games and had a stranglehold on the match. But the Trojans fought back to force a deciding game five in which they edged the Oaks 15-12 for the victory.

The Oaks started out well again on Saturday winning the first game against the talented Mount Royal team. The women challenged the Cougars through the next three games but Mount Royal proved to be too much, winning the match three games to one.

Playoffs, barring a miracle, are out of reach now but the team, despite the pair of losses on the weekend, played well and left Coach Farmer pleased with his team.

The men's team didn't quite fair as well as the women's, losing by a count of three games to none both matches.

Nothing new for the guys, injuries again were a factor. All-star John Mazur who has been playing injured all season was forced out of action, leaving the team without his power-hitting.

Lethbridge is in town this weekend for a pair of matches against the Oaks' teams. Games are staged at the Ookinadium beginning at 6:30 p.m. Friday and 1:00 p.m. Saturday.

Victory at Last

By Maury Bautz
Sports Editor

It took two seasons and 24 league games, but the Women's Basketball team finally did it. Last Friday night in Calgary, the Oaks posted a 46-41 victory at the expense of the Trojans of SAIT.

Trailing throughout most of the game the team finally surged ahead at around the 10 minute mark of the second half. The women went ahead by 10 points before SAIT made a late game comeback. But, the Oaks weren't going to be denied on this night, holding on for the five point victory.

Megan Gorman had a strong outing for the Oaks netting 13 points and Jodie DeFord netted eight.

On Saturday, against Mount Royal, the girls again played well defensively but had some problems up front.

Mount Royal went ahead by 15 points early in the game before NAIT closed within four points in the second half. The Cougars pulled away to hand the Oaks a 53-38 defeat. Megan Gorman continued her strong play with 20 points in the losing cause.

Coach Gregg Meroupolis felt the team played well enough defensively to win but were victimized by poor shooting. The Oaks would get close but failed to consistently put the ball in the net.

The team has the weekend off and then plays their cross town rivals Grant MacEwan on February 8.

Ooks Hoping to Turn Corner Against Red Deer

By Brian Stein
Staff Writer

Before this past weekend, the Ooks had the opportunity to challenge for first place in a home and home series with the Red Deer College Kings this week.

However, the NAIT Ooks realize that their hopes of acquiring home ice advantage throughout the playoffs became more remote following a weekend split with the Camrose Vikings. The Ooks are now nine points behind the first place Red Deer College Kings.

The Ooks were the best team on the ice at the Camrose Rec Center on Friday, January 25th, and skated away with a 5-3 win over the Vikes.

In the first, the Ooks acquired a 1-0 lead as Greg Geldart tipped in Darren Perkins point drive at the 18:30 mark.

In the second, Darwin McClelland found the five hole at the 55 second mark to give the Ooks a 2-0 advantage. Maury Jackson of the Vikes cut the lead to 2-1 on a goal mouth scramble at 1:44. Ian McAmmond then reinstated NAIT's two goal lead with 8:28 gone in the period.

In the third, NAIT's Scott Melnyk netted his 18th of the season at 1:18. Kevin Harder of the Vikings made the score 4-2 at 12:03. Ian McAmmond then went upstairs for the Ooks fifth goal at 14:46. Viking rearguard Dion McGrath closed out the night's scoring on the powerplay at 18:34.

Alec Sheflo faced 24 shots in the NAIT net. Artie Feher was tested on 49 occasions in the Camrose crease.

The game had the potential to be one of the most entertaining of the season as the first period featured end to end play. Regrettably, referee Larry Antoniuk let too much go early, and when he attempted to gain control, he couldn't. To make matters worse, Antoniuk blew a call in the third when he did nothing when a Viking gouged the eye of an Ook, but called a match when the Ook reacted to the barbarian activity.

Less than 24 hours later, the Vikings played with heart and desire and edged the Ooks 3-2 at the NAIT Arena.

In the first, the Vikings gained a 1-0 lead on Kevin Harder's powerplay goal at 15:06.

In the second, the Ooks pulled even on Mark Hilton's shorthanded effort at 8:11. The Vikings regained the lead 94 seconds later on Andre Legace's tally. Todd Forsyth of the Vikings then capitalized on a powerplay opportunity at the 13:17 mark.

In the third, Mark Hilton netted the Ooks second goal with 12:15 elapsed in the frame.

Chad Bannister turned away 38 of 40 shots in the Viking net. Rob McKinley blocked 19 of 22 drives in the NAIT crease.

ON THE BENCH: The Ooks see their next ACAC action on Thursday, January 31st when the Ooks travel to Red Deer to meet the Kings at 7:30 p.m. The next home action for the Ooks is on Friday, February 1st when the Ooks host the Kings at the NAIT Arena. Game time is 7:30 p.m. Admission is free with your NAIT Student/Staff I.D. card.

As the second half of the hockey season begins, coaches start looking towards those players who do the little things right, the player who will score the odd goal and get the odd assist but more importantly plays the systems. This type of player is the one who helps to win close games. Second year forward Corey Hastman is a this type of player. Corey is a Mark Lamb or Stan Smyl type player and Corey will probably never lead his team in scoring, but it's not his scoring capabilities that make him a major factor on a team. The left winger plays with 100% heart and determination and helps lead the team through these efforts on the ice. As the playoffs grow nearer and the team finds itself fighting for first place, players like Corey will have to lead the team as the other teams will be tightening their defense around offensive players. Players like Corey and first year players like Dale Dach, Tim Murphy and Grant Corney will have to play the aggressive styles that will help the team contend for another National Championship.

IN THE CREESE

After splitting this weekend against Camrose, we the Ooks find ourselves in second place, seven points behind league leading Red Deer. This weekend is the big test with two games against Red Deer, and these two games should be the big preview of the playoffs.

GAME STARS

- Friday
1. Ian McAmmond (NAIT)
2. Alec Sheflo (NAIT)
3. Darwin McClelland (NAIT)
Saturday
1. Chad Bannister (CLC)
2. Kevin Harder (CLC)
3. Rob McKinley (NAIT)

Special consideration goes out to Alex Bouma, Grant Chorney, Doug Wadlow and Mark Platzer for their hard hitting in Saturday's game.

Close but No Cigar Ooks Badminton Stay in Second

With the expulsion of GMCC's star Badminton player, Trent McNeil, the stage was set for the Ooks to overtake the Griffins for first place. However, the Ooks came up one win short, and the Griffins pulled ahead into a safe position on top of the standings.

Overall, the Ooks Badminton team put in a fairly uninspired performance defeating Keyano College 7-0, Red Deer College 6-1, Grand Prairie College 4-3, and losing to Grant MacEwan 4-3.

"We won matches playing very poorly, which should show the team how well they could do with top performances from every team member."

- Coach Mark Bosworth

The Ooks travel to Grande Prairie for the final Regional Tournament, and the opening round of the individual events which determine which players will represent Alberta in the CCAA National Championships. The Championships will be hosted by the Royal Military College in Kingston, Ontario March 20-23, 1991.

Alas, A Super Bowl

Maur with Sports

by Maury Bautz
Sports Editor

Super Bowl XXV, the Silver Anniversary Edition, lived up to its expectations and more.

The game was a seasaw battle with no team taking control, at least on the scoreboard, at any time in the game. A field goal attempt in the dying seconds decided the final outcome.

The team that best deserved to win prevailed. But it wasn't the New York Giants' renowned defense that did it. It was the ball control offense under the direction of Jeff Hostetler that kept Buffalo's overpowering offense off the field and consequently off the scoreboard.

All other stats equal, the Giants had the ball for over 40 minutes, twice as long as the Bills, including a nine minute drive that kept Jim Kelly's hurry up offense off the field for over an hour.

But it still came down to a field goal to decide the winner. And it was close. Probably the most pressure put on one single player in professional sports involves a kicker going for the winning field goal. And this was for America's prize, the Super Bowl. So close, but it missed, and that's it, game over.

This game, which had possibilities of being canceled due to the war in the Gulf, turned out to be arguably the best game in Super Bowl history. It was played like it was a world championship, a Super Bowl. A sign of normality in otherwise abnormal world conditions.

Future Of Canadian College - Not Promising

By Moe Rahall
Athletics Director

Latest developments in cuts in Canadian colleges and universities regarding their athletic programs has left me to wonder: When will NAIT start making their cuts?

The basis of this issue was reinforced when the University of Alberta relinquished the entire football program. In earlier years, just the thought of this kind of move would never have been suggested. So why the drastic measures? Financial reasons is what the U of A states is the reason but sponsors are always ready to contribute. Obviously interest has declined rapidly, not only for college events, professional events are not doing much better. The Canadian Football League is on the verge of folding due to lack of interest or fan support. Are we in the middle of a trend that will see athletics becoming a novelty instead of a source of entertainment? Answers to these questions can only be responded to by the general public, meaning you.

As NAIT students, one should feel obligated to support the athletic program, since part of your tuition goes to this program. The Cheer Challenge, which was performed on January 11, proved how much fun students can have at an athletic event. The point of this issue not only to come out for your school but to become a part of your school's history. Without this support, gradually NAIT will need to make cuts and at that point there would be no telling how far this will go.

In the future, I can see more Canadian amateur athletes going down to American colleges so as to have an opportunity in a career in athletics. As more Canadian colleges make cuts, and they will, less scouts will come out and less individuals will want to become a part of this depressing outlook.

Wayney The Wimp Whining...

Bob Prince Speaks Out

by Bob Prince
The Dean of Sports Columnists

Over the years, it has become readily apparent that a certain hockey player received the tag of the "Great One" not for his hockey ability, but rather his whining and wimpiness.

In the past, 99 has hid behind the likes of Dave Semenko and Marty McSorley rather than fight his own battles.

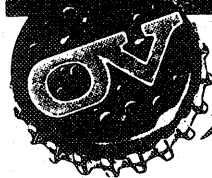

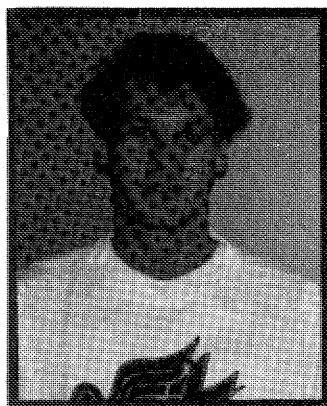

In addition, the NHL owners conspired to end the career of a promising young player with the Leafs named McCreary who broke the unwritten rule

"Don't hit the Great One!"

While some proclaim 99 as one of the greatest players of all time, don't be fooled. The Brantford, Ontario native is not even in the same league as the top centres of the six team league in the mid '60's--Stan Mikita and Dave Keon. Some say 99 is an excellent asset to the game. Well, his whining to the officials is worse than a ten year old.

Two weeks ago, "The Wimp" whined that the 42nd Annual All Star Game in Chicago should be canceled due to the activities in the Middle East. Thankfully, the powers that be decided to give the game the go ahead. Life goes on and activities must continue despite the bleak news from halfway around the world.

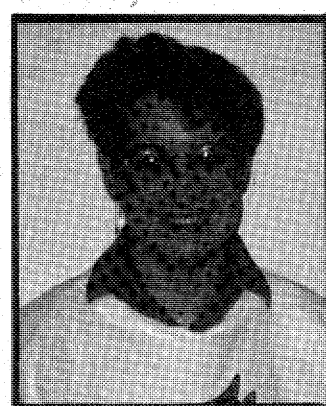

Around here.

Barry (Behr) Saretsky
Swimming

Barry is in his first year at NAIT in the Petro Chemical Engineering program. He is also committed to the NAIT Swim Team where he contributes greatly to team moral and intercollegiate competition. In the NAIT hosted College Invitational this past weekend, Barry won all four of his individual events (100 Fly, 100 Back, 100 Free and 100 Individual Medly) and played a part in three relay wins for NAIT. Strong performances like this are why the NAIT men's Swim team currently dominate the college program.

Around here.

Jennifer O'Connor
Swimming

Jennifer hails from Killam, Alberta and is in the Hairstyling program here at NAIT. While new to the program this semester, Jennifer's personality and presence as an excellent orientated athlete, has added greatly to the women's Swim team. Jennifer scored wins in all four of her individual events at the NAIT Invitational (January 26) and contributed in three relay team performances (1st and 2nd's). Following Jennifer's lead the women's team performed strong and moved up to a second place finish in the conference.

For this week and probably next week, a new escape artist will be performing at the "Goose". Dean Gunnerson has been pulling some great stunts for the past couple of years, with a growing cult audience. How else can you explain the crazy people who hope he doesn't escape. Well, that's entertainment I guess. So, if you have some morbid curiosity about death defying, crazy gags, go and see Dean Gunnerson at the "Goose." You won't be let down by his act.

"Hamlet"
7 out of 8 bucks
Every now and again we all need a little culture. This is a movie that many uncultured people may see and leave saying, "Who was Shakespeare?" Well, you see, he was the Steven Spielberg and George Lucas of Elizabethan times. However, there was no 70 minute tape to record the scenes.
France Zeffirelli's casting director did an outstanding job at getting Mel Gibson to portray Hamlet and Glen Close to play his mother. The cinematography was true to the period with wonderful castle shots with the true emotional conflict resonating from the screen. This movie was riveting.

I have seen three previous "Hamlet" movies, two in black and white and one in color. But their production of "Hamlet" lends itself to the acting depth and Mel Gibson will be nominated for an Oscar for his inventiveness in a timeless tragedy. This film would not have been seen by as many if it wasn't for Mel. This leads one to think, "Will Hollywood start a new trend by producing quality plays with popular actors?" Imagine Eddie Murphy as "Othello" or Arnold Schwarzenegger as "Macbeth" and Sylvester Stallone as "Macbeth's General".

Well, one can only wonder. If you think you won't understand the movie, maybe you should rent it and watch it a couple of times.

Out and About

by Cabaret Clairence

This week marks the second time this school year that the PMT boys will be partying and hopefully putting their best foot forward; one can only hope. At last count, there were about half the tickets gone, so don't miss out. Act fast, for this cabaret has more of a chance of selling out than the "Rock 'n Talk!!"

At the "Mayfair Dinner Theater", the Legends of Rock 'n Roll. This is an interesting retrospective look at the white musicians who have made an impact on pop culture by ripping off black musicians, but none the less entertaining.

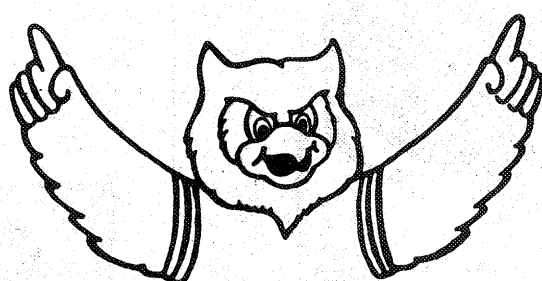

I have been keeping track of what is happening at the Rio Rock Festival. Their nine day event has been quite a phenomenon with the new jet setters. This will be the sixth concert and the venue has been gathering bigger crowds every year.

At the Movies "Alice"

by Jen and Suz

This is a contemporary comedy about a woman who discovers herself and what she stands for. It was directed and written by Woody Allen and tells a story of wealth, guilt, and adultery.

"Alice" boasts many well know actors and actresses such as: Mia Farrow, Alec Baldwin, Judy Davis, Elle McPherson, Joe Mantegna, Keye Luke, Bernadette Peters, and Cybill Shepherd.

Joe Mantegna said this of the movie, "Working with Woody Allen is almost like making a home movie because he surrounds himself with people he knows and who he has worked with for a long time, and there's not a lot of fuss and bother or the dramatics that sometimes go on movie sets. It's very personal."

This movie is different. It gets a little weird at times and can leave you wondering what it was all about when you walk out of the theatre. For the greater part of the movie Alice is strung out on herbs from Doctor Yang. She often makes her self invisible and even fly's around the city with the ghost of her old love. You'll have to see it yourself and form your own opinion on this one.

your good health!"

A fine sentiment. And drinking in moderation won't undermine that well-intentioned toast. But, if someone takes several alcoholic drinks a day or despite periods of not drinking goes on benders, they run the risk of real physical harm.

One of the real dangers of alcohol is that it sneaks up on you and the damage may be done by the time you become aware it's happening. The following health risks apply to all of us; they're not reserved for the down-at-heel, they can apply to you or your colleagues.

- Ulcers. Alcohol irritates the gastrointestinal tract. Taken with aspirin, the risks are even greater.
- Liver damage. Irreversible liver damage is a major cause of death, but other disorders, like hepatitis, may result.
- Neurological disorders. The effect of excess alcohol on the brain is to accelerate the natural loss of brain cells which can seriously deplete the body's surplus. Symptoms associated with the aging process develop—clouded thinking, memory failure, disorientation, stiffened limbs and poor co-ordination.
- Cancer. Abuse increases the risk of certain types of cancer, including mouth, larynx and esophagus.
- Malnutrition. If your lifestyle interferes with your getting proper nutrition, you're a candidate for this problem. Alcohol does have calories— you get heat and energy, but little nutrition.

If you drink in moderation, you may never face any of these. But it pays to have a healthy regard for the potential problems associated with that common social acquaintance—alcohol.

This is one of a series of alcohol and health-related messages. If you or your company would like a complete set, contact your local AADAC office.

Grapevine

To the guy who comes into the cafeteria only once in a while:

You have short, dark hair (you sort of look Spanish), and you are fairly short. I always notice you squinting (hopefully looking for me). I do know you wear glasses though because you were wearing them driving last week.

By the way, are you single? I would love to meet you. Please write.

Signed, Anxious

To ripped jeans:

Thank you for the pleasant surprise last week. I sure didn't expect a response. Anyhow, as to my whereabouts, let me just say that I am never very far away.

And, you know who I am. You held the door open for me one day.

Just a small hint.... I'm not very tall, but not really, really short. Keep your eyes peeled and maybe you will figure out the mystery.

Signed, Super Shy

Grant (sexy thighs):

I am still keeping my eye on you. I wrote to you before X-mas (your little elf).

We had some excellent eye contact in the cafeteria last week. I would like to give you a backrub after a hockey game. I would love to talk to you.

Write me through the Grapevine. I will be waiting patiently.

Signed, Your Little

Elf

To the square-box hockey player (#27) and the string-bean one (#10):

What an awesome game!! The hockey wasn't that great, but the view was. Someday we'll take you up on that hockey game. You may have whipped us at Pictionary but you won't have a chance in hockey (we've seen you play!!) We'll have to all get together soon!

Haven't known you long but long to get to know you.

Signed, Non-coffee drinker and LOL... Rhubarb.

To the girl with the long, brown locks:

I like U-2.

If you were mine, I'd take you around the world.

If you were mine, I'd buy you diamonds and emeralds.

I know it's true,

There's no other girl, Diana

Who would qualify 4 me than you!

Not only one admirer but two,

Who loves you!

I see U always in the Naitrium with your friends.

Hope to see you more and more often!

And 4 that "Secret Admirer" who write 2 U last week,

I say, "Move over, you've got competition."

4 U Diana, I play to WIN!

Your 2nd secret admirer

To Jody Whalen,

I'm not sure if it is you, but if you are in NAIT, please come see me. We used to be old Calgary friends.

Crystal, Room E133c

To the hot Richard C. in Levi jeans:

I always see you smile When you enter Bio and that's when you really crank my dial.

The first time I saw you was at the NEST and you were looking your BEST!!!

The blue Ford truck you drive makes me want to get in and go for a ride:

You'll be hearing from me again, so in the meantime don't go insane.

Sincerely, EZ

To the New Kids in the Lounge:

Step by step, ooh babies,

Where the heck did you get your do's?

Step 1: Your sideburns are fun!

Step 2: Your hats are nice too!

Step 3: Were your dog tags free?

Step 4: Will you rap on the floor?

Step 5: Can you sing for us live?

Step by step, gag. Choke. Where did you learn how to smoke?

Signed, Bodacious Brunettes

Mark:

You are very quiet and in business. You're blonde, wear porsche sweat shirts and jeans. Your locker was in E-wing, and I think you are in business. I use to see you in the Naitrium almost everyday I spoke to you once or maybe more. I miss seeing you a lot. I heard you're busy, busy, busy all the time. I'd love to help you relax with a candle light dinner and champagne. Then for dessert, in a flower scented room filled with candle light, a hot oil rub, and then whatever happens after that.

Always missing you.

To the "Breathless" Secret Admirer:

Hi! Who R U?

Maybe we can get to know each other.

Keep writing to the grapevine and give me hints.

Meanwhile I'll be searching for U!

From Curious Dyannah (Diana)

To LAPD:
