Shining Success

Saturday, September 14th, many dedicated students helped raise money for Cystic Fibrosis. Both a Molson and a Coke van were driven around Edmonton encouraging students to keep on shining shoes.

NAIT alone raised approximately $8000, however the exact figure raised by all three schools won't be known until later this week.

At registration students were encouraged to sign up to help out with shining shoes. Of the over 300 names on the list, only 156 students actually participated.

"Great Success . . . The teamwork of so many people over so many months came and went in one day, but the memories will always be around."

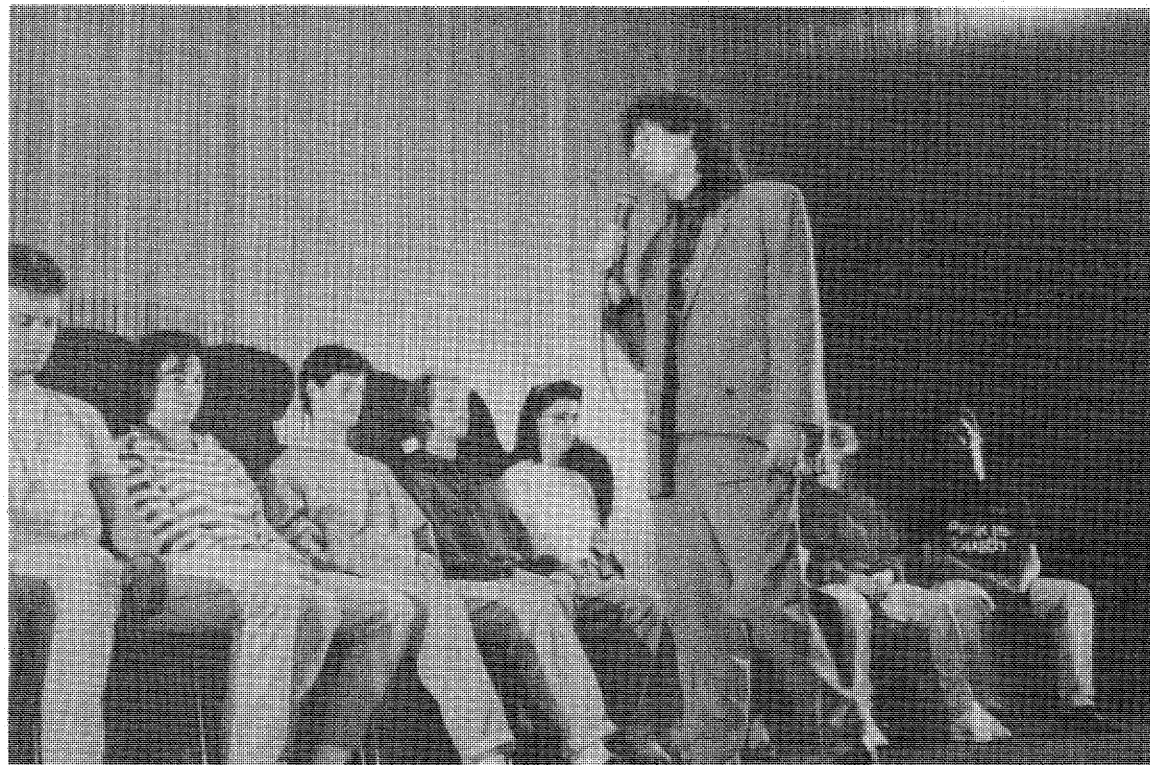

- Dan Lachambre, Academic V.P.

The Shinerama Committee would like to thank the following sponsors, for without their support, help and donations, Shinerama '91 would not have been a GREAT SUCCESS!

Mandel Mesmerizes NAIT

Staff Writer

Three hundred people gathered in the gym on Tuesday to watch Mentalist Mike Mandel weave his spell. Mike is quick to establish a rapport with his audience and soon had everyone close to the stage.

Of the 30 originally chosen, Mike narrowed it down to 15 volunteers, who had taken to his suggestions. They were subjected to a wild trip to South America where temperatures ranged from +35°C to -25°C. Volunteers also went on rollercoaster trip with no seatbelts, and a half-mile high climb while they had to keep each other from falling out. Mandel doesn't just build images in your mind, you actually experience it.

The men that were chosen unexplainably flexed their muscles everytime Mandel said "Mr. Universe contest".

Volunteers were even seen sleeping on the floor only to awaken on the floor and wonder how they got there. At the shake of his hand, others would fall asleep.

"There is no such thing as hypnosis. There is a little part of the brain that will believe anything no matter how stupid it is."

- Mike Mandel

Those who were skeptical before the show began had changed their minds and wished they were a participant.

Anytime you hear someone utter a statement like the above, you know they're going to be different enough to entertain. If you missed it, you missed out.

Mandel, by the end of September, will have played five Canadian dates and will be on his way down south.

Mandel is more than just a Mentalist, he's also a Comedian.

Mike won the 1986 COCA (Canadian Organization of Campus Activities) "Best Comedy/Variety Act Winner". He was also nominated for two COCA Awards in 1987, 1) Entertainer of the Year and 2) Best Variety and Comedy. Nominated for two COCA awards in 1991, including Entertainer of the Year.

Mandel stated that he only had a grade 11 education, but that he had been studying every book on the topic of mentalism for almost 18 years. (Paraphrased from The Sheridan Sun, November 1985)

New Fire Alarm System

By the end of September, NAIT's new fire alarm system should be verified and in operation.

The new system features the audible and visual alarms along with voice announcements to help facilitate evacuation.

Unlike the old system, NAIT's new fire system includes new walls and automatically closing doors that would form a separation between buildings during a fire. Now adjacent buildings do not necessarily have to be evacuated. People in these buildings would simply hear a gong-like alarm to alert them to the condition in the building next to them.

The system has the ability to broadcast announcements by the Fire Fighting commanders or other officials which override automatic signals and instructions.

There may be tests of the system which will be preceded by an announcement over the loudspeaker system.

Anything Goes...

I've got to confess that I have always been kind of a snoop. I don't mean that I go through your girlfriend's underwear drawer when you lend me your pad, I mean that I'm kind of the "peeping tom" of cafeteria conversations.

And I'll tell you, I like what I hear. I only wish that I could record them, and print them for the rest of the student body to hear.

Just to throw a little curve. A wise and wonderful physics instructor once told me, "You aren't as smart as you think you are." So, once I licked my wounds, I realized that this statement would always hold true. If I believe I can always learn, I always will.

So, to put it all together, I'd like to turn the "Letters To the Editor" into a soap-box platform. There are a number of issues coming to light this week, and to discuss them is to solve them.

I want to know about what you think with regards to the F,G,H Wing seats and the CFS debate.

And remember, anything goes. If you want to describe your underwear drawer, be my guest. If you want to explore some issues at NAIT, we're going to have some fun.

When you discuss the days events, summarize your opinions and drop them in my box.

We can learn as much from each other as we can from the institute. Be sure to include your name and student ID number so we can give credit where credit is due.

Is it ever going to end? Will there ever come a time when they won't ask for any more money?

What bothered me, as well as many other students here at NAIT, is the newly imposed locker fee. After we paid all of our fees (tuition, etc.) we were faced with an additional $20. It seemed a little bothersome to me. Could NAIT not have included this locker fee into the tuition fees?

Seeing as NAIT has imposed this fee, they should take note that there are some lockers with locks without the metal tag. Will these locks be cut off? And for those people who have paid for a locker, however there appears to be a foreign lock on their locker, what will happen with these? Notes have been put on lockers, but nothing has been done (even after much complaint).

To those students who have had to take on another locker until their assigned locker is freed, I encourage you to get a hold of someone in your technology or go to security. And to those who have put locks on lockers that do not belong to them, be kind to those who have paid for their use.

Student's Voice

Should NAITSA join the Canadian Federation of Students? Last week, the issue was brought to the General Council by the NAITSA executive.

The Canadian Federation of Students, a national student lobby group, has been trying to recruit more schools to increase the organization's size and influence.

This summer, CFS talked to the NAITSA executive about the benefits of CFS membership. As a member of CFS, NAITSA would have a share of a national voice needed to protect students' rights.

However, after all this pressure, the NAITSA executive remained unimpressed. There are many reasons for not being impressed. None the least of these is the $36,000 yearly fee.

Yet, to its credit, the NAITSA executive took the issue to General Council. The executive was not under any obligation to do so. If they had not, no one would have known about the CFS recruitment drive and NAITSA would never have even considered membership.

But, the issue was brought to General Council. At the meeting the executive recommended rejecting CFS. A short letter was read from CFS in support of its organization, yet no one was invited to make a presentation to General Council. In fact, the executive showed deep reservations about that very possibility. They believed that certain CFS representatives could convince the Council to join CFS.

The executive had asked the Council to vote immediately so it could inform other schools of NAITSA's response. Despite the fact that all its information came from the NAITSA executive, the Council obliged. It voted unanimously not to join CFS.

Throughout the meeting, the executive's implicit message was clear, "Trust us, we know more about this than you."

The executive undoubtedly knows a lot about the CFS issue, but this in no way excuses the General Council from not trying to obtain more information. At the very least they should have asked for some information from a CFS representative.

This whole issue questions the role of General Council. Is it merely the executive's rubber stamp because each technology's representative doesn't have the time that the executive have to evaluate himself or herself on student issues? If the General Council does more than ratify executive recommendations, then perhaps it should be a little less "trusting".

Dear Bob Prince,
I read your column 4 times. I don't understand it. What the heck are you talking about?

You seemed to be pissed at Jan Reimer and the Oilers for some reason, but you really don't say why.

Dear Editor,
I am a 4th semester business student. As my time here at NAIT draws to a close, I find myself reflecting on the college experience. So much of college is really about relating with other people and getting involved, working together and apart, and trying to understand it all.

I find myself thinking that my fellow students don't really know me. I feel the impulse to do something crazy. Something like filling the chalk board up with scripture verses before the beginning of class. Now that sounds really crazy, doesn't it?

A few days ago, I was walking down the hallway where there were some bulletin boards with notices including one or two about Bible studies happening on campus. I happened to overhear one student mentioning something about the bible. I looked up as I was walking and realized that they were being sarcastic and scoffing at the idea of going to a Bible study.

Hey, I wanted to say I'm a Christian! (like this is something exciting - not boring) But I didn't know how to do it without being confrontational. I haven't attended any of the Bible studies but think it's great they are happening.

What is religion - what is truth? Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth, and the light, no one comes to the Father but by me." John 14:6. Have you ever considered that history is centered around one person? WE only have to look at the date 1991 A.D., or 1991, in the Day of our Lord, to realize this fact.

Well, before I start

NAITSA Passes Up on CFS

Tables Take Flight

By David Harvey
News Editor

Last week, after this summer's recruitment drive, the NAITSA General Council voted unanimously not to join the Canadian Federation of Students.

CFS is by far the largest national student lobby group. It claims to have much influence in government circles that has resulted in student tax credits and smaller cuts in education that would not have otherwise occurred without CFS. Furthermore, it is post-secondary student's only national voice.

"No way will we get tied into CFS right now," stated NAITSA President Chris Horne.

Among his concerns is the growing political nature of CFS. It has become involved in non-academic issues like abortion and the Persian Gulf war.

Horne fears that the radical faction in CFS, that advocates actions like "Students throwing macaroni at John Gogo," the Minister of Advanced Education, has taken control.

Horne also feels that if Alberta's technical institutes and small colleges joined CFS, this would mean the "possible destruction of ACTISEC (The Alberta College and Technical Institute Student Executive Council)."

When asked about this, Horne expressed his concern that the council would not understand the political relevance of what a CFS representative would have said.

Furthermore, when speaking about a particular CFS representative, he said that, "he could sell eggs to a chicken."

Nevertheless, Horne has not rejected CFS altogether. He is confident that soon ACTISEC will be stabilized, and sooner or later, CFS will become politically more palatable. When speaking of the future, Horne stated, "next year we might be a year closer to joining CFS."

These "impressionable colleges" would be unduly influenced by CFS. If these colleges saw their future in CFS, this would render ACTISEC redundant. Without a provincial organization, Horne said that NAIT students would have less influence at the level that deals most with education.

Horne also stated that clearly, "ACTISEC has to establish itself first," before NAITSA would again consider joining CFS.

CFS was not invited to the General Council meeting last week.

There probably won't be any tables at the end of F, G, and H wings sometime next week. New tables and chairs were put in three years ago in response to fire regulations. All the loose tables and chairs were replaced with furniture fastened to the ground.

Since their introduction, the tables and chairs have suffered considerable damage from misuse and vandalism.

The planning department has estimated the cost of replacement to be about $21,000.

However, instead of replacing the present arrangement, the planning department will install tandem seating around the windows from their existing stock at Westerra.

NAITSA President Chris Horne has expressed dismay at the decision, because these areas are some of the last areas where smokers can study on campus.

NAITSA has shown a willingness to share the cost of replacement, yet, the planning department did not seem hopeful, saying that their budget has been slashed and they simply don't have any money allocated to F, G, and H wings.

Dear Editor,
I would like to address what I perceive to be a problem at NAIT - no student access to the main campus from the main library on Sundays after 6:00 p.m.

Although I appreciate the fact that the main library is open until 9:00 p.m. giving me a place to study, I resent the fact that I am denied access to my locker in the main campus after 6:00 p.m. when I am charged a locker user fee of $20 plus a NAITSA membership fee of $95 upon enrollment.

For merely wanting to access my locker after hours, I am LABELED a DISSIDENT or RADICAL, and I am TREATED like a CRIMINAL. With movies being shown on Sundays from 7:00 p.m. to approximately 9:00 p.m. I see absolutely NO reason why I should be denied access to my locker, a MERE corridor away from where the movie is being shown in H-005. It makes absolutely NO sense either LOGICALLY or MONETARILY why locker access is denied, especially when other people are in the building anyway.

I urge you, fellow students, to PRESSURE your student representative and student council so that this situation can be rectified very quickly. I see NO reason why a log in/log out system couldn't be implemented IMMEDIATELY whereby a student wishing after hours access to his/her locker would leave his/her student ID along with driver's license with security. These items would be returned as the student EXITS the building. At the very LEAST, this system COULD and SHOULD be employed within the duration of movie hours.

I have elaborated on the problem, perhaps collectively, WE, as RESPONSIBLE students, can IMPLEMENT a change in policy so that main library/main campus hours will better coincide on Sundays.

Signed,
John Muruyama

Soccer Season Successfully Kicks Off

By Kathy Spenrath Sports Editor
The NAIT Men's Soccer team got their season off to a successful start, winning their first two games of the 1991-'92 regular season. NAIT played host to the SAIT Trojans on September 14th and beat them handily by a score of 6-1.

Key performances came from goal keeper Darryl Kaluzniak, while Miles Hunt and Craig Goulet each scored two goals apiece.

"We played a very skilled game against SAIT. We definitely dominated them during the entire game. We thought they might be very tough...but, we picked up our pace in the second half and played very well."
- Coach Graham Wood

NAIT had little time to recover from their home opener win as they went head to head with their long-time rivals, the Mount Royal Cougars on September 15th. It was a hard fought, physical match, which came as no surprise, but the final score - which read 2-1 in favor of NAIT - may be raising a few eyebrows around the league.

"Mount Royal is our biggest rival. They've got excellent coaching and they're very organized - they're definitely a very skilled team."
- Coach Graham Wood

NAIT got on the scoreboard first with a goal by rookie Sheldon Kenneth, but Mount Royal managed to tie it up with about five minutes remaining in the first half. With about 20 minutes left in the game, third year veteran Les Cselinacz scored the go ahead goal, giving NAIT the 2-1 win.
"I'm very happy that we're 2-0 on the season. We were very concerned about playing Mount Royal so that was a big win for us," Wood said.
NAIT will take on Grant MacEwan on September 18th and will then travel to Lethbridge for two games on September 28th and 29th.

Another Year of Intramurals

By Kathy Spenrath Sports Editor
Now that we're all settled back into school once again, we can start thinking about the more exciting extracurricular activities that happen here at NAIT.

Take intramurals for example. The Intramurals Program has long been a great success, since the various technologies support the majority of the sports that are scheduled throughout the year. The most popular sports, such as flag football, basketball, volleyball and soccer, are always jam-packed with prospective athletes. Technologies fight it out to see who'll be number one; it's good for NAIT in general and it's good for the individual students. But there are some sports on the calendar that nobody really seems to care about, such as cross-country running, curling and cycle drag. Are people really participating in these events? If they're not, shouldn't we just get rid of them? Or maybe it's good to have this wide selection and variety of choices in the calendar which are, in essence, a nice change from the regular sports, like tennis or hockey. Shane Warawa, the Athletics Vice President of NAITSA, has decided to keep all of these "no-name" sports around for this season. But unless more people sign up and get involved, many of these sports could be gone by next year. So, if you'd like to

Cross-Country Running Team Needs Your Help

By Kathy Spenrath
Sports Editor

If you're looking for a way to stay in shape over the winter, the NAIT Cross-Country Running Team may just be your answer.

The Men's and Women's teams have been working out for nearly three weeks, but head coach John Reeves says he's still hoping more students will join the club for the 1991-92 season.

The teams practice after classes three days a week which, according to many of the team members, acts as a good stress break from the busy school term. And Reeves is quick to point out that participants don't have to be super athletes, the team is just looking for interested people who will take part in the program and who'll enjoy competing with the eight other colleges during the season.

NAIT has traditionally been one of the top three or four colleges in cross-country competition, along with Lethbridge and Mount Royal Colleges. Reeves is confident that his team will be successful once again, but the key is getting more people to participate in the competitions.

"We know we have the talent here at NAIT. It's just getting the people to come out and to try. If we had more people coming out, I know we'd win every year."

- Coach John Reeves

The teams compete on weekends in ACAC tournaments which are hosted by the nine participating colleges. Following the final Invitational Meet in late October, ten top athletes from the participating colleges will be chosen to represent Team Alberta in the B.C. Invitational, which will take place October 27th in Castlegar.

For more information on how to get involved in the cross-country running program, contact John Reeves at 471-8702 or Frank McNamara at 471-7042.

RUNNING NOTES

The NAIT cross-country running team took part in their first weekend meet on September 14th in Calgary.

They managed to place third overall, while the hosting Mount Royal Cougars took first place and Camrose Lutheran College took second.

The women ran a 4 km course with Rose Martin finishing in 3rd and Donna Willas in 16th spot.

The men completed an 8 km course with Ken Reiss finishing 3rd, Frank McNamara (coach) in 24th and Dallas Miles in 28th position. This race is part of the ACAC Grand Prix Series.

The cross-country team races in stage two of the Grand Prix Series this Saturday in Red Deer.

On the Road Again

Bob Prince
Speaks Out

by Bob Prince
The Dean of Sports Columnists

The legacy of the 1976 Olympics entered the news pages again last week. A 100 ton piece of concrete fell from Olympic Stadium, adding another page to the nightmare.

When Montreal made the bid for the Olympics, then Mayor Jean Drapeau stated that if the Olympics had a deficit, he would have a baby. Well, the baby never came, but the deficit sure did.

The cost overruns on the Big O are legendary. The roof can be opened and closed on Olympic Stadium when nothing malfunctions. The stadium is one of the most uncomfortable on the continent.

Ever since the Expos moved from the cozy confines of Jarry Park, there have been rumblings about the future of the team.

This past week, the team played its home games on the road temporarily -- in Philadelphia and New York. In the future, the Expos may leave Montreal and the stadium may be a factor in the move.

Closer to home, a similar situation exists. John Ducey Park is the Triple "A" equivalent of the Big O. Few stadiums offer what John Ducey does -- a seat under a leaking grandstand. The lack of an adequate stadium may force the Trappers to be on the road permanently.

Edmonton needs a first class baseball facility now -- not a concert hall for the wine and cheese set.

Entertainment

Entertainment Editorial

By Millar Malone

When I was a kid we had 2 channels on TV; CBC, and some independant station from far off Yorkton, Saskatchewan.

The movie theatre in our small town was open one day a week, Saturday, and it played a Walt Disney movie in the afternoon for the kids and an adult show at night, where we kids surmised the F. word was being said and probably girls boobs were seen to some degree.

Apart from falling out of crabapple trees, that was all the entertainment we had.

Saturday was the big day for entertainment. In the morning, we would wait for the farm report and church hour to end so we could watch Flipper, Spiderman, and the zany Scooby Doo.

In the afternoon, my mom would give us each a buck and set us loose at the Esso to buy licorice and chips and to use the remaining 50¢ to go to the show.

I don't know when it became going to the movies. In Rocanville it was known as going to the show and the bar was called a beer parlour.

For the most part, I believe we were entertained. Sure, I saw old Yeller and Black Beard's Ghost about a hundred times, and I wondered how Spiderman could swing from building to building by shooting his web strand into the empty air. (Even as a child I knew a little bit about common sense physics). And Flipper, well, I thought it pretty suspicious that dolphin was always involved in some problem and that maybe that goofy smile was just a trick to get Bud to follow him out to sea, only to run out of gas.

But barring these inconsistencies, I was pretty much entertained, or at least too ignorant to notice if I was bored.

"Why this walk down memory lane?" you ask, wondering if this is going anywhere, or if I'm just rambling.

A while ago I babysat my nephew for the weekend, while my sister had a wedding, or some kind of marathon Tupperware party to attend.

I awoke Saturday morning to gunshots, screams and the sound of a building being blown to bits, and when the mayhem ceased for a commercial selling, surprise surprise, the same action figures as portrayed in the cartoon. I was relieved. So I made him cornflakes (with milk) and got a can of coke for myself and decided to act the role of the responsible adult watching cartoons with a kid.

Wow, what a violent, stupid world Saturday morning has become.

I can't figure out how people can justify violence and killing on a Saturday morning, especially violence and killing without a hint of remorse or even a shade of regret.

The next time I hear of a kid rubbing out his next of kin, I don't think I'll be so surprised. I think I'd like a list of his favorite TV shows.

So, after the cavalcade of horror has ended, I get the kid to promise he won't act like a maniac if I take him to Burger King and a show (movie). So we eat our grease soaked food and looking through the paper I see a movie that looks harmless. It's about a kid left behind on Christmas holidays and it's called Home Alone.

Not a bad show - parents forget kid - burglars try to break in - kid tortures burglars in a very funny way - kid wins - burglars go to jail.

I look at my nephew and he's mesmerized. I know he's memorizing every frame of this picture. Little kids are like monkeys, except usually they aren't covered with hair. They see something, they emulate it.

During the ride home I explain to him that it's not nice to heat up door handles or place Christmas ornaments on the floor in strategic places, or to rig up paint can head bonking devices.

I really think I got through to him. But, just in case, I'm going to test the doorknob temperature before putting my hand over it and I'll wear shoes in the house and scrunch down when I climb the stairs. What I'm trying to get at in my own rambling way is that we turned out to be, for the most part, a pretty normal group, at least as far. As I can tell most of you are if not sane, then you're doing a pretty good job of covering up your insanity.

I'm no psychologist (or a wanna-be) but I believe people are shaped by their environment and if they are exposed to violence and stupidity they become violent and just a little bit stupid.

Computer hackers have a saying...garbage in/garbage out...and since computers and children are both programmed, I think it applies to kids also. I'm not saying to chuck the TV when you have kids, I'm just warning you to duck.

"TUNED IN" CONTEST

NAITSA is pleased to present its first contest of the year. It's really easy (sort of) and it will help you get acquainted with your student handbook.

HOW IT WORKS

Throughout the NAITSA student handbook (you got one at registration) are quotes from songs. The following are riddles about the quotes. Each riddle contains a clue about the quote or the singer and a clue about the location of the quote in the book. All you have to do is find the quote and fill in the blanks after the riddle. Then fill in your name, ID number and phone number and drop the whole thing off in The Nugget Submission Box at E-128.

WHAT YOU CAN WIN

- A brass music note coat hook from Just Imagine Gifts in Kingsway.
- A NAIT Knapsack from the Student Store
- One of 3 Molson Canadian Sweatshirts
- One of 4 Molson Canadian Totebags
- Two pita pizzas from The NEST
- A pair of beer mugs from Marlin Travel
- Calendar from Hug-A-Bear Express
- Discount Card from Sweet Street.
- Six Rock 'n' Talk tickets from september 20th Rock 'n' Talk.

GRAND PRIZE

- A $40 Gift Certificate from Grand & Toy
- A Molson Canadian Sweatshirt

We will draw winners after each edition of the paper in September. Then we will draw a grand prize winner at the end of September from all entries received. So, you have lots of chances to win neat stuff.

Grab a pen and a couple of friends and see if you can solve these riddles.

Around exam time you'll end up working like a man's best friend here and the nights won't be soft. Check the hours of the source and the answer will appear.

Page Number _____
Hours of What _____

Listen close and you may hear it. Then again, if nobody is around does it make a sound. The environment is your only clue.

Page Number _____
Quote _____

All John said was for us to give it a chance. All we are saying is know when to put a lid on it. The party animals should definitely become "aware" of this "week".

Event _____

This Dutch band, who were named after a yellow earlobe decoration, blamed it on the devil. Light up a cigarette (but "only in a designated area") and solve this one.

Page Number _____
Quote _____

Coke, Pepsi: What's the difference? This Canadian rocker sees no difference. Just go for one of these sodas during Shinerama.

BONUS

Oops! When putting the quotes in we goofed. One quote got in twice. This is a "Challenging" problem but if you "elect" to try it then think of "sports" and "democracy" (and read between the quotes too!)

"If you're not in it, you're out of it," said John Mah, the Activities Director for the Computer Systems Society, and let me tell you, I'm glad I wasn't left out of this one.

These computer guys sure know how to throw a party. The evening started off with a 99¢ drink special and that Club Malibu party atmosphere. The dance floor was packed all night, and no one went home dissatisfied. Watch for their next cabaret coming this winter.

Entertainment World

MUSIC

The recent Bryan Adams album Waking Up the Neighbors has been labelled a non-Canadian album due to Bryan Adams co-writing the songs with British record producer Mutt Lange, of AC/DC - Def Leppard fame.

The CRTC (Canadian Radio & Television Commission) has Canadian content rules... if these requirements are not met, FM radio play of a song is limited to 19 times per week.

Accordingly, Bryan Adams' manager and promoter, Bruce Allen, blew a fuse, and is trying to stomp some sense (figuratively) into the CRTC.

Is any recording artist more Canadian than Adams? Well, maybe Anne Murray, but I'd like to hear her belt out Run To You at the Coliseum.

MOVIES

They're at it again. Old Knife Nails, Freddy Krueger, is out for fun or vengeance in his final film (so they say).

I hope it's better than the last and as good as the first, because when it works, it's creepy and haunting and when it doesn't, it's goofy and nerve grating.

Out & About

By Millar Malone

Question: What happens when you have a good cause, add 700 post-secondary students, a liberal amount of alcoholic beverages and shake gently with some A#1 music?

Answer: You have much good fun.

The Shinerama Cabaret at the Golden Garter on Saturday was without a doubt the major shaker of the fall party season.

The bands: Steve McGarret's Hair and Blackwater Jack were both excellent, with Steve McGarret's Hair playing primarily 60's tunes and Black Water Jack playing a little 60's, 70's, and even some current stuff.

To be honest, I figured Blackwater Jack would be a little lame when they first took the stage, but after they warmed up, they treated the crowd to some excellent covers of the Crowes and the Hip.

The crowd was out for a good time, and if what I saw was any indication of how they felt, it looked like they got what they came for.

More important was the girl to guy ratio, which was 1:1. Does anything kill a good time quicker than having 600 guys and only 100 girls? I don't think so.

Yes, this cabaret was even a learning experience for me. "What did you learn?" you ask through clenched teeth.

I learned this: if you ask a girl to dance and pretend to be about to start crying uncontrollably when she gives her answer, she'll probably change it from a "no" to a half-hearted "yes".

This is known as a mercy dance. It's like a mercy killing except they don't bang you on the head with a hammer.

Yes, this cabaret will go down in history as a legend, not unlike Woodstock and the dismantling of the Berlin Wall. If you missed it, you will spend the rest of your life reproaching yourself.

HELP YOURSELF

While Helping Someone Else

Are you interested in a Health or Social Services profession? Do you have some of the course work but no opportunity to work with people in need? Then consider volunteering with the Edmonton Board of Health's Home Care Program.

We are looking for students who can spend 2 to 4 hours each week visiting one of our clients. These people are usually isolated and lonely seniors or persons with a physical disability. Your role would be to provide companionship and, if you have a car, to help them to get out occasionally. We try to match you up with someone who lives near you so that you don't have to spend too long travelling. You are responsible for arranging when you visit, so it should fit into your schedule easily.

If you would like to find out more, call Roger Laing at 482 - 1965.
