NAIT Business Conference Next Week

By Jodeen Litwin
News Editor

The NAIT Business Conference is being held on Wednesday, February 5th at the Edmonton Convention Centre. The Convention Centre was chosen as it is the only venue large enough in Edmonton to hold this event.

This is quite a difference from the 75 people that attended the first conference held in 1973.

Today, the NAIT Business Conference is the third largest annual day-long conference in Edmonton.

At the conference, second year business students will consider their future in specific areas of study.

As Anne Jacobs stated, "it is an excellent opportunity for second year Business students to attend a conference, and to meet prospective employers."

The environment is a big issue of the nineties. Almost everywhere you turn there is information on the environment and how you can help to save it.

NAIT is doing what it can. There are recycling bins for empty pop cans and NAIT is striving to increase student's awareness of this problem.

Globe '92 is a second international conference whose mission is to advance global developments by encouraging practical solutions to environmental issues. The theme of Globe '92 is "Instruments of Change for Sustainability."

This particular conference is being held in Vancouver March 16-20. They are interested in student's output... and so is Susanne Glenn, NAITSA's Communications Vice-President.

Glenn is asking for "student input" and she would value any ideas or suggestions students have so that she can forward them to Globe '92.

Globe '92 is being developed as a "stepping stone to the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development."

Everywhere you go and everywhere you read, there is information concerned with the environment.

Autonomy Is The Only Answer

By David Harvey
Editor

This week, the Publications Board plans to look at the not fewer than 38 guidelines that harness The Nugget. While it's true that some guidelines could be made more clear, the real problem with the guidelines is that they are too often used as a basis for improper interference with the paper by the NAITSA executive.

The latest example of this, aside from the firing of Tim Pasay, occurred last week when Communications Vice-President, Susanne Glenn, deemed parts of Bradley Smith's letter to the editor to be profane and inserted the absurd "F-word" replacement in those spots.

Only an extremely narrow interpretation of the profane would lead one to the conclusion that Smith's letter was offensive. The "F-word" was not used to disgust or affront, but to make a point; that it is ridiculous for the newspaper of a post-secondary institution to be unable to use the unedited "F-word" when it is appropriate or necessary to convey an idea. Perhaps what offended Glenn was not the "F-word", but Smith's complete lack of confidence in the NAITSA executive.

Clearly, no one wants The Nugget to get its material from bathroom walls, yet sometimes, the "F-word" is the most appropriate word to use. For example, the Ryerson Polytechnic newspaper used the "F-word" as its two word front page headline in response to imposed guidelines even more restrictive than The Nugget's. There, the word took on a political meaning that may have been missed if the "F-word" was not used. Surely, Ryerson and NAIT students alike understand this; very few would be genuinely offended.

It has been mentioned more than once that The Nugget would have wider student appeal if it was less subdued. Perhaps changing the guidelines would help in this endeavor, yet this is just addressing the symptoms of the problem and not the problem itself. The real problem is that the interpretation of the guidelines and ultimate editing powers lay within the NAITSA executive. If the editor chooses to criticize the NAITSA executive, the results will be a far less charitable interpretation of the guidelines if not outright dismissal.

There isn't a respectable student newspaper in this country that would tolerate the degree of influence that this executive has on The Nugget. What The Nugget needs is not more guidelines, but an unbiased group to interpret the existing guidelines. The paper should be judged by students, picked at random or from General Council. Students should give the editor direction and not the NAITSA Communications Vice-President. For only when students take control of their newspaper will The Nugget be able to improve itself.

Get Off Your Ass — Please

By Troy Lymburner
Assistant Editor

There is a vile disease creeping into the hallowed halls of the institution called NAIT! This disease, though not life threatening, slowly acts on the affected individual until there is nothing left but an uncaring, unthinking, uninterested blob of flesh with a small remnant of a brain left in the cranial cavity. The disease I am describing is APATHY. I came to this conclusion during a fact finding mission one week ago. While pursuing research for the "Question of the Week" in last week's Nugget, my colleague and I found an unnerving lack of interest or knowledge of the question posed, which read "Do you think the firing of Tim Pasay was justified?" Many responses were, "I don't know anything about it" or "I didn't read the paper" or "You have to take my picture - no way!" I cannot believe that students who attend NAIT, an institution of higher learning, did not notice the half-inch headline "Nugget Editor Fired" or if they did happen to notice, why they didn't have enough interest to read up on the subject.

Granted, sometimes as a student, one can be just too darned busy to read, but when the NAITSA executive hand over on a silver platter the juiciest news story The Nugget has had during this academic year, no one can find the time to inform themselves of what's going on around them? Open your eyes for gosh sakes! Experience more than your petty lives can handle. Get informed!

Oops, I'm sorry. Maybe the problem isn't with you. Could it be with The Nugget? Could it be that a student voice free press like The Nugget, after being stifled for so long by archaic puritan policies and being policed by the holier-than-thou NAITSA executive, became boring? (Well, that is with the exception of the Grapevine because it takes on a more human touch.) Did Tim Pasay martyr himself for a lost cause? I don't think so. I believe that if the student population became aware of the facts (the rules governing publication, the heavy-handed power of the student executive over the student voice, the attitude that students must be protected from themselves), there would be a mass movement like we have never seen before in the civilized world. Students taking up arms to fight the oppressors with a showing of solidarity for the rights and freedoms guaranteed to all of us by ... well, it was just a thought.

Calling All NAIT Students

By Jodeen Litwin
News Editor

Well, we're into our fourth week of studies and the novelty of new classes and schedules is gone ... or diminished somewhat.

So now what?

Well fortunately NAIT provides numerous opportunities for students to get involved in school activities and organizations. And there is always something going on.

However, involvement is a two way street (pardon the cliché). To be involved one must participate.

Not a problem, NAIT offers many ways for students to partake in extra curricular activities.

For example, NAITSA elections are coming up. Here is your chance to become part of NAIT's governing body.

NAIT's Open House in March will provide numerous ways for students to participate. I am told this year is going to be the best year yet.

Globe '92 ... has a theme of "Instruments of Change. ..." well aren't we the most influential instruments around? I think we are, and this is our chance to show our ideas to help save the environment.

Sports, intramural and more sports and intramural. This is self explanatory.

So, although we still have a long way to go before the term is over, it's nice to know that NAIT is making our stay more enjoyable.

I would now like to shock all teachers out there by closing with a thought that is totally irrelevant to the above paragraphs.

Have you ever thought about what you would do if you forgot what level of the parkade your car is on. This is not an unlikely possibility especially if you have an eight o'clock class on a Monday morning and you are late. ... who has time to look at those numbers! Well not like I would know the answer ... but I can imagine (very realistically) the extreme stress of the situation.

Bye for now.

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

By Chris Horne
NAITSA President

Topic of the Week: Naitsa doesn't believe in stroking.

I read something in last week's Nugget that bothered me deeply. It was a comment on the lack of work we do at Naitsa. It said we are just here to stroke a corporation's sales rep and that we are only here for a reference on our resumes. Ouch, that hurts.

The position of President of the SA is full time. I could be out working right now, but I decided to give something back to Nait at the same time as gaining some personal experience. There is some more information on the position in another article in the paper. I hope you have a chance to see that the Naitsa Executive is putting in a lot of time for the students.

I think there is a need though to clear up a few things that might be unknown to the Nait population. First of all, it is true that we have various corporate sponsorship. This results in more prizes and cheaper prices for students at our events. Is this a bad thing? I think not. All our events are not alcohol related either. We helped out with the children's X-mas party, and we have a large athletic following.

This brings me to my next point. This year we have done a multitude of things for the student population of Nait, and not all were activities related. I want to stress that our activity achievements this year have surpassed most of the previous years, but that's not all we do.

1. Shinerama goals surpassed.
2. Provincial Grant to post-secondary education: Press release and lobby efforts.
3. Tuition policy: Press release and lobby efforts.
4. Student Finance Board inquiries.

5. Heritage scholarship fund review.

6. Student Finance Board appeal committee.

7. Constitutional Reform (institutions): student input.

8. 3% tax on student loans: Press release and lobby efforts.

Those items are only a drop in the bucket. It doesn't even include some internal work, such as:

1. Nait Foundation Car Raffle
2. S.S. Benefit
3. F,G,H wing chairs
4. Naitsa Policy Manual Construction

I'm sorry if you did not know of this work. This is one of the reasons I started writing this column. But I would like to hear some feedback. I'm thinking of getting student involvement in the upcoming tuition increase and I want to know if you're interested! We are having our next General Council meeting on Tuesday, February 7 in the little theater. Please come down if you have something to bring up. You can also come down and see us at our offices in E133.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To My Critics

Dear Editor:

Being fired from the Editor's position allows me to sit back and contemplate some of the things our Student Association stands for.

1. The F-word shall not be tolerated. The F-word is tossed around our school so frequently that it cannot be taken as profanity anymore. Labeling "curse words" as profane is completely childish.

Funny, though, my staff and I have editorialized abortion, aids, animal homicide, and nude dancing without complaint of profanity. Are these concepts not more profane than the F-word?

What about the recent furor over my last editorial? Certainly, those who responded felt my comments were more "profane" than the F-word.

So it leaves us to decide. Did the student association fire me because I tried to use the F-word, or is there another reason.

2. Decisions shall be made as haphazardly as possible.

Technically, the cartoon was not published, so technically, the guideline I was fired for remains unbroken.

Those that were making the decisions would have been much wiser to let me actually do something wrong, then haul me in front of the publications board, and have a lot of people fire me. As it stands now, Susanne Glenn is solely responsible for canning me. Over a guideline I didn't break. Because it involved the F-word.

It is starting to sound suspicious.

I wonder how much trouble certain individuals would be in if some elected student official, who cared about our rights, tried to assign responsibility to those who censored our paper without the authority.

Front page of The Nugget clearly states that the two people with the authority to alter the paper were not present when the cartoon was exchanged for a map. Would someone kindly step forward and clear up this situation?

3. Justice shall never be done.

The Nugget, page 1 last week, Susanne Glenn was quoted as saying that "she had to rely on what was told to her by others, and even now remains unsure exactly who made the decision to cut the cartoon."

After an entire week, she still didn't know. As Communications V.P., what is she responsible for anyway?

Her statements really leave only two alternatives. Either she is unable to find out who changed the paper, or she is unwilling to say. Either way, some serious questions need to be asked of our Communications V.P..

Page 1 of The Nugget already quotes Susanne Glenn as refusing to reveal one source.

Dear Editor:

I was amused by the emotional reaction of some of the letter writers in your January 16 issue in response to Tim Pasay's editorial on the animal rights activists.

Those individuals seem to want us to believe that a "lethal injection" is a more pleasant way of killing an animal that was trained throughout its life to depend on humans for its survival. They seem to be proud of rounding up these animals and then interfering with nature's role for their lives by killing them with "lethal injections." I'll bet you those

B.A.S. Election

By Dana Reddington
V.P. Marketing B.A.S.

An election will be held for the position of Administrative Vice-President (January intake) on Friday, January 31, 1992 from 11 A.M. to 1 P.M. on the 2nd floor tower.

This is your chance to decide who will represent you on the B.A.S. Executive from the January Intake Program.

The person elected to this position will be responsible for the following duties:

- Act as the student advisor to the newly elected B.A.S. Executive in the fall;
- Be responsible for the organization of a graduation committee for the purposes of planning the January Intake graduation;
- Sit on the April graduation committee as an observer, and a B.A.S. liaison.

1st, 2nd and 3rd semester Business Administration students can vote. Please bring your student I.D..

Results of the election will be posted at T114A January 31, 1992 and in a future edition of The Nugget.

Food Services Disrupted

By P. O'Neill
Food Services Manager

In order to accommodate the transformation of the South Cafeteria into the good ship S.S. Benefit NAIT, the following disruption of Food Service will be necessary.

Thursday, February 20

The South Cafeteria Servery will suspend all meal service at 1:30 p.m. and the servery entrance will be closed. Customers inside the cafeteria dining area will have until 2:00 p.m. to finish their meal. At 2:00 p.m. the cafeteria hallway doors will be closed and furniture removed from the room. The afternoon coffee break, the Thursday evening dinner and the evening coffee break will be served in the Cafetorium at their usual hours of service. That is, the afternoon coffee break from 1:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., the evening dinner from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m., and the evening coffee break from 7:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m..

Friday, February 21

The South Cafeteria Servery will again suspend all meal service at 1:30 p.m. and the servery entrance will be closed. Customers in the dining area will have until 2:00 p.m. to finish their meal and at that time the hallway doors will be closed. The afternoon coffee break will be served in the cafetorium from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m..

We regret this disruption of service and request your understanding for a worthwhile cause.

NAITSA in Hot Water Again?

"The Nait Student Association Activities Committee will be sponsoring the rental of a hot tub from February 7th to March 6th," said Darren Stepanik, Nait Activities V.P.. The sponsoring of the hot tub is to provide an alternative form of recreation for Nait students. The hot tub opening will kick off the Pool Obstacle Challenge during Challenge Cup Week, February 3 - 7.

"Use of the tub will be monitored to determine if there is a desire for one. This information will be used to assess the feasibility of installing a permanent hot tub in the activities center," said Stepanik.

harm and poison humans than allow medical experimentation with animals. Why do these people refuse to condemn the outrageous activities of animal rights activists? Are they perhaps in complicity? Certainly they are at least sympathetic.

I suggest that they read page 19 of the January 20, 1992, issue of Alberta Report about the animal rights movement. It notes that author Pierre Burton went on Toronto radio last week to denounce the "animal rights wackos." Mr. Burton says, "It's not just the radicals. The whole movement is wacko. The terrorists are hiding behind a sorry front of little old ladies and concerned liberals in order to disguise their real aim of placing animals before humans." A counter group called Putting People First has been formed in Ontario. To use Dr. Henderson's words, "it is a sorry reflection on society" that it must band together to remind some twisted citizens that people are more important than animals. Mankind has dominion over animals. These animal huggers deny this but then they turn around when it suits them and take dominion themselves over animals' lives by lethally injecting them to death.

I have had the pleasure of working with Tim Pasay as a student in my class. He is a thinker who has the ability to slice to the core of issues and expose them for comment and analysis. He doesn't duck issues; he tackles them head-on. He was a good editor. Such competence often goes unmatched in modern society.

Perhaps Dr. Henderson should have discussed with Tim before she undertook to denounce, berate, and belittle him before his fellow students. After all, as instructors we do have a responsibility to respect our students and to encourage free expression of ideas.

Petroleum Engineers to Run to Red Deer

By Jodeen Litwin
News Editor

SAIT has challenged NAIT's Petroleum Engineers to run to Red Deer to help raise money for the Alberta Children's Hospital Foundation.

The challenge was accepted.

NAIT's team is made up of twenty students from the Petroleum Engineers, the Chemical Engineers, Groundwater and Mineral Technologies. Each student will run approximately 4 miles. The total distance is 80 miles.

The run takes place on Friday, April 3rd - NAIT's starting point is Nisku at 6 a.m. and runners are scheduled to arrive at The Drummond Brewery in Red Deer by 4 p.m..

Each runner has a minimum pledge of one hundred dollars. This money will be presented to the charity at the ACT Telerama in March.

This is looking to be a big event as Z-99, a Red Deer radio station, will be broadcasting live from The Drummond Brewery. The Drummond Brewery is the main sponsor of this event.

This is the fourth year this event has taken place and NAIT is proud to participate!!

Ryerson Chair of Journalism Backs Students

The Eyeopener/Ryerson

John Miller, chair of journalism, thinks the Eyeopener's "Fuck you" headline in the Dec. 4 issue was, "Fucking marvellous."

"I give you full marks for doing it," he said. "I wish one of our journalism students had suggested it."

The Dec. 4 issue of the Eyeopener contained an editorial responding to the harassment office's suggestion of a media-watch tribunal for all Ryerson media.

Colin Mooers, a political science professor, says the intentions of the harassment office are good because they want to address homophobia at Ryerson. But the recommendation for a media-watch tribunal is wrong, he said.

"The solution is not for the administration to decide," said Mooers. There are ways of dealing with that kind of issue without placing control in the hands of the administration."

"The student paper should be wary of administrative attempts to regulate their behavior," he said.

NAITSA What???

By Troy Lymburner
Assistant Editor
Jodeen Litwin
News Editor

NAITSA is NAIT's students governing body. Specifically, NAITSA's mission is to "enrich campus life of NAIT students by representing their concerns to the administration and to provide extra curricular activities."

But what exactly does this entail?

In the weeks to follow, The Nugget will be presenting NAITSA executive profiles. These profiles will outline the duties and responsibilities of the executive council.

So... why are we doing this?

The reason is to familiarize you with these positions as NAITSA elections are coming up.

Nominations open on Monday, March 2, and close on Monday, March 9. Election week is March 23 to the 26th. Election day is March 27th.

In order to be nominated, the following criteria must be met: You must be a full time NAITSA member in good standing. You have to attend NAIT during the entire term of office. You must have a passing academic average for your technology, and you have to be enrolled in a program of two or more years.

NAITSA is students working for students. If you feel that you can make a difference and everyone can, take this opportunity to get to know the duties of NAITSA and become a part of the executive council. Although it is a great deal of responsibility as Susanne Glenn stated "it is satisfying to work for education."

PRESIDENT

The position of NAITSA President is deemed by some as the most important position on the Student Executive. It is also thought by some to be the most demanding. After speaking with NAITSA President, Chris Horne, it is definitely all of the above. As outlined in the NAITSA Constitution, the President's duties are widely varied and the responsibilities are tremendous.

The President takes office, as with the other elected executive, in late April, at the end of the academic year. Over the summer months, there is little vacation time. The policies and procedures of the Student's Association, as well as of Administration,

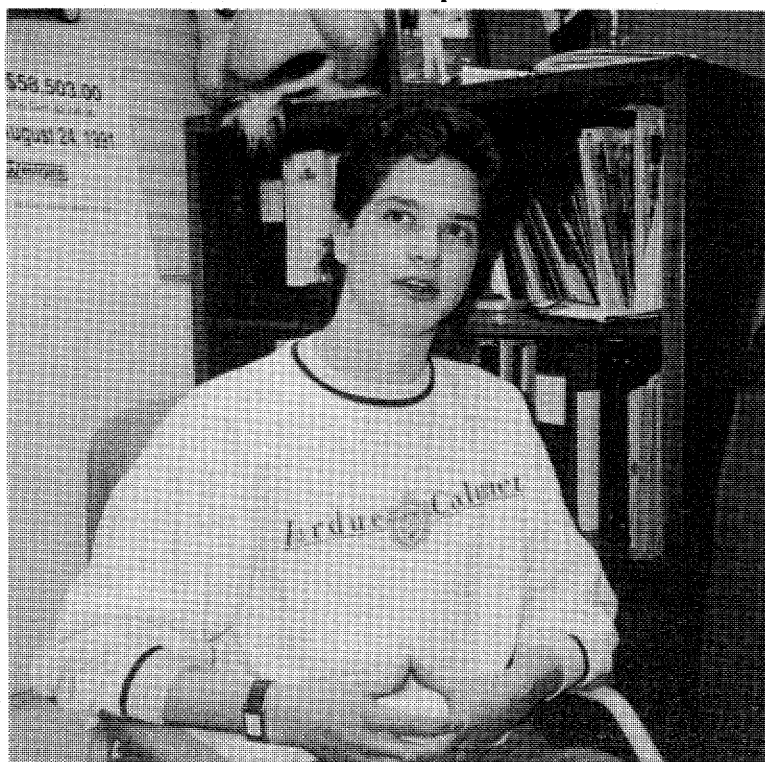

"It has been a very enriching, enlightening and educating experience."

of your time is taken up with meetings, reading news on federal and provincial politics and how it affects education and moreover NAIT, classes, correspondence with students, staff, and administration, and other external organizations interested in what NAIT can do for NAIT. Weekends are usually taken up with conferences outside the city. The President also must sit on twelve committees, however, to properly represent the student

"learn your stuff and learn it quick"

must be learned. One of the primary duties of the President is to oversee the smooth running of the Association by the Vice-Presidents in their elected roles. The President must know everything about everything. The Vice Presidents report to the President with respect to ongoing projects and if any questions arise, the President must be knowledgeable about the subject to solve the problem. As stated by Chris Horne, the first necessity of the President is to be able to "learn your stuff and learn it quick."

As President, free time is a valuable commodity. Much population of NAIT, Horne voluntarily sits on a number of other committees.

On a more personal note, some hints from President Horne for the incoming President: "The person must be moralistic, confident in what they're doing, dedicated and be committed to making a difference. It has been a very enriching, enlightening and educating experience." Chris Horne is graduating in Marketing in April of this year and at 21 is the youngest President of NAITSA ever.

Ooks Blank Vikings in Camrose

By Brian Stein
Staff Writer

For the second straight week, the NAIT Ooks (15-2) -- with Don Davidge between the pipes -- recorded a shutout.

Davidge made 27 saves as the Ooks blanked the Augustana University College Vikings (5-11-1) 4-0 in ACAC hockey action at Camrose on Friday, January 24th.

Following a scoreless first period, Vince Boe netted his first of the season on a point shot at 6:31 of the middle stanza.

Despite having chances to tie the game, the Vikings could not hold off the Ooks in the third. Greg Geldart scored his seventh of the campaign on a shot from the blueline at 6:06 of the frame. Mark Souch then one timed his 16th goal of the season at the 8:49 mark. Mike Park then deked Brent Sheehan for his 11th of the campaign at 14:12 to complete the scoring.

The Ooks outshot the Vikings 37-27.

The Ooks ability to shut down an opposition's offense became evident a week earlier when the Ooks held the SAIT Trojans to only one goal in a pair of games at the NAIT Arena.

On Friday, January 17th, NAIT netminder Don Davidge made 25 saves as the Ooks blanked the Trojans 5-0.

Mike Park netted NAIT's only goal of the first, his seventh of the season, at 18:41. The middle stanza unfolded with Trevor McCallion and Randy Wong netting their first goals of the season at 2:52 and 9:42 respectively. Darren Perkins closed out the NAIT scoring with markers at 10:52 of the second and 10:53 of the third.

While Davidge stopped 25 shots in the NAIT net, Ian MacLeod and Eric Badzgon made 41 saves in the SAIT crease.

Friday's game was not a clean one with 102 minutes in penalties awarded. The scorekeeper's night-mare continued on Saturday, January 18th, as the Trojans served 86 of the 128 minutes in suffering an 8-1 loss at the hands of the Ooks.

NAIT goalie Cam Moon received his first start of the season and responded with a strong showing stopping 19 shots. The only blemish on Moon's record came at 16:08 of the first when SAIT captain Dean Rutledge found the mark.

Though the Trojans held a 1-0 lead after 20 minutes, SAIT's lack of discipline gave the Ooks momentum in the second. Tim Murphy tied the contest for NAIT at 11:48 of the frame. Wayne MacDonald then scored the tiebreaker at 15:02 on the powerplay. Mark Souch lifted the Ooks into a 3-1 advantage at the 18:41 mark.

The Ooks did not let up or let loose in the third as the Trojans tumbled into a state of unintelligent, undisciplined hockey. While the Trojans were taking penalties, the Ooks were netting powerplay goals. In the first fifteen minutes of the frame, Mike Park and Greg Geldart each tallied twice with Trojans doing time in the sin bin. Park then completed the hat trick with a pair seconds left in regulation play.

defeated the Golds 16-7 and a pair as the Blues edged the Greys 9-7. Ted Bradshaw and Brad Fenton each completed the hat trick as the Golds outscored the Grays 11-7 in the other contest.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

David Fehr
Badminton Team
(Accelerated Pre-Tech)

David is new to NAIT and the Ooks Badminton Team. This past weekend at the ACAC Winter Regional Tournament David let the way for the Ooks Badminton Team, with a 5-1 match win record.

David was instrumental in helping the Ooks maintain their first place standing in the North Division.

With the addition of David Fehr to the Ooks lineup, the Ooks will be strong contenders for a medal in the upcoming finals, hosted at NAIT Feb. 28, 29 and March 1st.

Basketball Ooksmen Defeat Augustana

By Kevin Patrick
Basketball Publicist

Amid a wild crowd at the Augustana University College gymnasium, there was some exciting basketball action.

On January 24th in women's play, the Ooks dropped their record to 2-9, due to a 73-71 loss. The Ooks had the lead at the half, but couldn't hold on to the ball long enough to keep them out in front. Erica Price led NAIT with 24 points, while Leanne Sallenbach chipped in 10 points.

In men's action, Richard Jory had "the best game as a NAIT Ook," according to Coach Dave Hoy. Richard's 22 points, along with Rob Hansuk's 20 points, gave the Ooks an 86-72 win.

The win moves the men's record to 6-5, currently good for fourth place in ACAC standings.

Moe Amery was back in action, following a shoulder injury, and was able to set up several spectacular plays.

ON THE BENCH

Christian Kuharic was not dressed for the men's game, but is expected to play on February 7th when both teams play at Grant MacEwan Community College.

Powell Maxfield didn't rack up a lot of points, but his 3 pointer, and blocked shot came at critical junctures in the game.

On the women's side, the Erica Price/Coreen Chizewski tandem seemed to work well. Coreen's ability to set up the plays, combined with Erica's height and rebounding skills, made a strong impression on the Augustana Players.

The teams will be running limited practices over the next week before gearing up for the all important NAIT vs Grant MacEwan rivalry which is set for February 7th.

Swim Ooks Stroke Their Way to Victory

By Kathy Spenrath
Sports Editor

The Ooks Swim Squad was out in fine form this past weekend finishing first in 22 out of a possible 42 events in the Invitational Swim Meet at the NAIT pool.

The Ooks also managed to round out the day with eight second place finishes over Keyano College from Fort McMurray and Red Deer College.

NAIT's Erik Rebnord and Barry Saretsky finished undefeated, winning each of their individual events on the day.

Rebnord cleaned up in the 50 and 100m breaststroke while Saretsky took the top spot in the 400m free, 200m back, 200m fly and 50m back.

The Ooks next action will be in Red Deer on February 7th.

The final ACAC swim meet of the year will take place March 14th in Fort McMurray.

Press Out of Touch

BOB PRINCE SPEAKS OUT

By Bob Prince
The Dean of Sports
Columnists

Whenever a news story is printed in the paper, one may see the following: TORONTO (CP). Well, the CP does not stand for Canadian Press, but rather cockeyed press.

The issue hit home a few weeks ago when the Alberta Colleges Athletic Conference received word that CP was going to cease printing of ACAC results because no one was demanding them, yet they never contacted the media. CP claims it provides a service to the media, yet it filters information so that only the news they want out gets out. In essence, it appears as though CP is practicing censorship and becoming a propaganda tool for desired groups.

For years, CP and some of its media subscribers have been playing favorites particularly in the coverage of amateur sports and this practice should be tolerated. The hobnobbing with the CIAU is just one example of this and a change of philosophy is in order.

Playing favorites does not stop at sports. In the political arena, the media has tended to align themselves with political parties for their own benefit instead of being independent watchdogs. Some of the press is orchestrating the idea that everyone is equal in Canada which is untrue. The Goods and Services Tax ensured that the farther away you are from Central Canada -- the more you will be taxed due to higher shipping and transportation costs. Other moves such as the National Energy Policy benefited Central Canada while the rest of the nation was exploited. Realistically, the future of the nation is like a bad marriage; the result is inevitable. So if Quebec wants to go, let them take their share of the national debt and go!

Women's Volleyball Team on a Roll

By Kathy Spenrath
Sports Editor

The women's volleyball team came away from Calgary with two match wins this past weekend.

NAIT defeated the SAIT Lady Trojans on January 24th in four games. The following night, the Oaks downed the Mount Royal College Cougars in five games.

The back to back wins give the Oaks a 6 - 7 record on the season.

"We all got together before the Calgary trip and sorted out some of the mechanic problems on the team. We had some good practices and the girls performed extremely well on the weekend," explained head coach, Glen Farmer. "I couldn't have asked for anything more."

And as Farmer points out, these matches definitely shows some great character building for his team.

"We're maturing as a unit. I knew after the first game on Friday night with SAIT that we were back on track and playing up to our potential."

The weekend wins give the Oaks a definite edge in the battle for the fourth and final playoff spot in the league. NAIT is fighting it out with SAIT and Grant MacEwan for the spot, while Red Deer, Medicine Hat and Grande Prairie are all currently tied for first place.

"Only the top four teams make it into the playoffs. We now have the opportunity to make it - we just have to capitalize during the rest of the regular season. With the way we're playing now, the girls will have a very successful season."

In the meantime, NAIT is looking forward to taking on the last place Lakeland College club from Vermilion on January 31st and February 1st.

Badminton Oaks

Still on Top Despite Weekend Upset

By Kathy Spenrath
Sports Editor

The NAIT badminton team fell short in their bid to win the Northern Region Interlock Tournament on January 26th.

The Oaks performed well on the weekend, downing Grande Prairie, Red Deer College, and Keyano College from Fort McMurray.

But the hosting Grant MacEwan Griffins stole first place in the tournament with a win over NAIT in the women's singles event.

But, luckily for the Oaks, Grant MacEwan's tournament win doesn't upset the overall league standings, which means NAIT still holds the first place position in the Northern Region.

The Oaks were without teammates Karen Marner (who had to be out of town and missed the tournament), and Darrel Tippe, who's out with a back injury, but the team still managed to hold their competition down fairly well.

Part of the Oaks' success story this weekend can be attributed to newcomer, David Fehr.

"The addition of David to our team was the key to our success. It was definitely a positive note on the weekend," said head coach Mark Bosworth.

Bosworth added that the team put on a solid effort and everyone had to play well to come away with second place.

NAIT is looking forward to having its full squad back for the next competition, which will be held February 7 - 8th in Red Deer.

"When Karen Marner gets back and David Fehr plays up to his potential, no one in the north will be able to beat us," Bosworth said.

Support the Oaks!

By Kathy Spenrath
Sports Editor

If you haven't made any plans for the weekend, here's your chance to get involved in Oaks' hockey.

A NAIT Fan Bus is heading down to Camrose on January 31st. Time is quickly running out, so make sure you sign up at the NAITSA offices if you want to be part of the action.

On February 1st, the NAIT Oaks are playing host to Augustana College for Hockey Cheer Night, with the game getting underway at 7:30 pm at the Activities Centre. Prizes will be awarded for best costume, best technology attendance, loudest group and most original group.

The overall best group will win a free keg party at the Nest on February 8th.

Lowly Weekend For Men's Volleyball Club

By Kathy Spenrath
Sports Editor

The men's volleyball team lost both of their matches in Calgary this weekend, which drops their overall standings to 3 wins and 10 losses on the season.

The Oaks came out strong when they met up with the SAIT Trojans on January 24th, but they couldn't hold on to the lead and lost the first game, 15 - 9. NAIT lost the second game by a 15-10 score, but bounced back to win the next two games before losing the fifth and final game also by a score of 15-10.

"We just didn't have it in the end to carry through with the win," explained head coach Mike Trent.

It was a gruelling match which took over three hours to play, and Trent admits it was hard for his club to walk away with nothing to show for their hard work.

"We fought so hard and we felt we didn't gain anything from it. The feeling carried over the next night when we played Mount Royal and we lost to them, too."

The Oaks lost three straight to Mount Royal by scores of 15-4, 15-3 and 15-2.

NAIT can now only look ahead to the future, and as Trent points out, "hopefully we can jump up a few spots in the league standings this weekend when we play Lakeland in Vermilion."

Vermilion is only two games ahead of NAIT in the standings. The Oaks are currently trailing in 8th spot in the standings (out of 11 teams) and are desperately looking forward to improving their record.

Freejack is Cheap

By Justin Wondga

Ok, ok, I hope you readers really appreciate this. I don't get to see movies for free like Marc Horton and Colin MacLean do. I like to see a lot of films, but as a student, I have to budget before I go see a film. Now I feel mad because I just wasted eight bucks on a film that really bites.

I anticipated that FREEJACK would be another one of those cool, obscure sci-fi thrillers like Blade Runner, Liquid Sky and Max Headroom. Instead, I got this cheap, dull imitation. I really don't want to talk about it any more. Consider yourselves warned.

A Smackin' Good Time at the Bedrock N' Talk

By Miller Malone

I went to the Bedrock 'N Talk to dance with a "reckless" abandon but ended up sitting at a table cracking wise with two guys with way too much facial hair to make them sexually attractive.

Biff Hurley, Brian Montana and myself went to the bimonthly Rock 'N Talk out of a desire to get really drunk on the cheap NAITSA beer and then drive to Ezzies thereby saving mucho dinero.

The Bedrock 'N Talk was a theme thing: there were Brontosaraus Ribs, Cactus Juice, Yabba Dabba Doo contests and loads of Flintstone trivia.

It was kinda like a little kids party with too much booze and not enough smack.

I'm not advocating drug use at Rock 'N Talks, I'm just saying it made Biff a lot more agreeable when listening to the techno pop dance tracks being played.

A half hour into the Rock 'N Talk, I approached the DJ who gave me a blank stare when I told him NAIT was a snake dancing thrash metal kind of school.

I asked him to play some Nirvana but he said he hadn't "picked it up yet." Fortunately he did remember to bring the Screaming Blue Messiahs "I want to be a Flintstone (Yabba Dabba Doo Time)."

It wasn't that bad of a time but I have a couple of questions about the night:

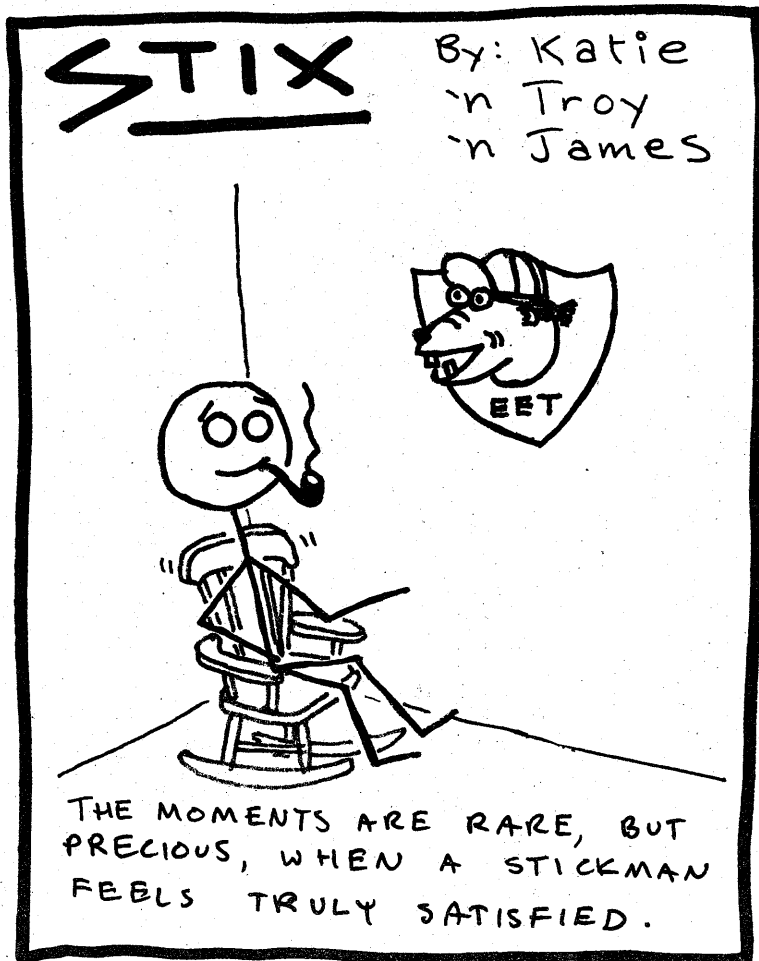

- Does anybody ever dance at a Rock 'N Talk?

- Do people realize that Rock 'N Talks are just dark cafeterias with alcohol?

- Why was the guy from business heckling the crowd with Flintstones trivia?

- Who the hell is Goggles Pizano?

My cohort Brian Montana had the quote of the night; "Wow what a vicious crowd. They're booing participants in the Yabba Dabba Doo Contest."

By Justin Wondga

I've always liked detective/police thriller flicks, but most follow the same fashions - a good-looking underdog hero with brains and luck, ugly (or evily sexy) bad buys that you know are going to get blown away, and a predictable plot. KUFFS is no exception to the rule, but there are a few surprises.

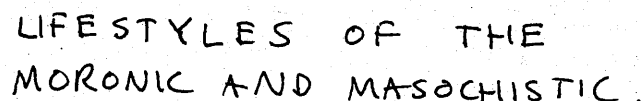

The best surprise is Christian Slater. I find the guy really funny, with this laid back attitude that makes him very likable. As Kuffs, he talks to the audience about his life, and spouts wisecracks while he makes his adventures in San Francisco. Slater breaking the fourth wall is enough to keep you chuckling. Plus, there is some really cool dialogue, and a clever new use for subtitles.

If it were not for Slater and the fairly good performances by the rest of the cast, KUFFS would be rather humdrum. Otherwise, I would not knock off the possibility of this film to be a sleeper hit. It has enough originality to make it difficult to find on weekends at your video store.

Never Mind

By Miller Malone
Opinion

You know some people think that I don't take my job with the student newspaper seriously - they appear to believe that I'm a mildly psychotic undersexed hammer head. I'm not saying they're wrong, I'm just saying "Hey there's got to be more to me than that!"

I honestly wracked my brains for an editorial opinion that would stir you up and maybe even cause some heated debate and bloodletting, but I couldn't come up with anything.

I'm empty.

I don't mean this literally (I have a full compliment of internal organs). I'm getting at the figurative aspect of being empty.

Beastiality, violence in the cartoon trade and a liberal amount of murder, mayhem and madness have made me at times offer an opinion, but the truth is, I don't have any feature length opinions this week - I'm empty (or full of it - - have it whichever way you want).

As I am the Entertainment Editor I guess I should venture an opinion on something and since very little struck me as worthy of any heartfelt opinion this week, let me say this in my defense.

- Hammer is a dull host
- Eddie & The Cruisers II (Eddie Lives!) would have been better if Eddie hadn't lived!
- It really stresses me out when I go to watch Saturday Night Live and I get a Letterman rerun instead.
- Getting a girls name tattooed on your chest after one date is a truly stupid idea.

Nipples On a Mannequin

By Miller Malone
Idiot Savant

Gord Matthew, the orator, the sage, a modern prophet, reaching forth into the dim light gives his messages with the casual grace born of being a patient host.

An introduction for Troy Thirdgill? He is a raspy voiced modern philosopher strutting the stage his brief moment come round at last. His brief light flickers in the din like a bonfire fed by the fuel of laughter.

On inanimate nipples,

- "Nipples on mannequins turn them into sexual things."

On Peewee Herman,

- "The only person who should be mad at Peewee is the guy who was sitting in front of him."

On Canadian beer,

- "I've never had two beers that put me in a coma before."

On Ben Johnson,

- "When they came to take his medal, why didn't he run?"

Thirdgil's show was an hour plus of the best comedy we have seen in the Nest in a long time, a comic on the way up.

We'll probably see him on Saturday Night Live someday and say, "Hey!"

Want Ad:

Bachelors want to meet kinky persons, male or female for far out sexual experiments. No weirdos please.

To P. in the B.:

Mio dolce amour, but send none back for they set my blood on fire.

Do you like being chained to a bed while someone tickles you with an ostrich feather? I do and so could you.

I'm a lonely semi-crazed compulsive masturbator who likes talking, movies, quiet times and anything with the phrase "body lubricant" in it.

If you are a woman between the ages of 57 - 76 please send a reply through the Grapevine.

To Zeke's lunch dates:

Buck and I saw you two in the caf last week and we would definitely like to meet you. Are you available? We know you two are in Business (because you're always in the Naitrium) and we were wondering if we'll see you at the Feb. 7 Business Cab??

Yours in anticipation,
Buck and Toph

P.S. You two give us a BIG span error!

Hey you, yeah you:

I met you on Friday (Jan. 17) afternoon in the main lobby near the radio station remote. We talked about politics and dance music. You're from Toronto and I think your name is "Mike"? When we met I was wearing a dark green shirt with a zipper down the front, faded blue jeans and dark brown suede hiking boots with red laces. You said you're in "commerce" and you wanted to start a dance hall in Edmonton. I'd like to meet you for coffee or lunch or something.

Signed,
The Girl in the Hall

To The Gorgeous Ladies that eat lunch at the North Cafeteria:

Many times we have been admiring your bodies. We were wondering if us 5 Techs could join you for lunch. Perhaps all of you would like to come back to our place to have some fascinating moments.

We will take you to heaven and back.

Now pay attention, because here are your clues. You usually sit in a group of six to eight. You come in all different sizes, tall to small. But each one of you has your own personality, each with your own style and beauty. We really like all of you and would like to be your friends. Then we can go on from there.

Seek the beauty or feel warmth because together we shall find happiness.

Signed,
The Awesome Five
One tall, one medium, one small and two strong

To a Friend:

You're a special kind of person. Not many people can say what is on their mind, and still speak through their heart.

I admire you.

Too many people spend too much of the time just existing! They never question, they never reflect, and they never appreciate. Life can never be just one way. It's not just a straight road. It is a rollercoaster of glorious highs and devastating lows. It's not just black and white. Life is a blinding rainbow of colors racing across our eyes. Too bad so many of us are too blind to see it.

I wanted to thank you. Sometimes things get a little too crazy. Sometimes we get tired. We forget to appreciate all we have. You helped me remember.

Signed,
"A Friend from Business"

To K. in RTA:

I see you in the halls and at West Edmonton Mall.

Somewhere near the Bay and dancing on a speaker at D.A.'s. I know you but you don't know me. You're beautiful, sensitive and sexy. Join me on the wild side.

Signed,
Eros

Hi! I am 32 years old and the woman I have devoted the last 15 years of my life to has deserted me for the fast lane. I am looking for someone to reintroduce me to society. I am not looking to become a party animal so only the patient need respond. I have 2 children so single moms are ok. Please respond through this column or let me know the better places to be. Thank-you.

Signed,
Lost and lonely

To the Alternative Chick in the Tower:

I've been watching you from afar since last semester, but did not have enough backbone to get up the courage to introduce myself to you. I was fortunate enough to find out your name just the other day (A...), but I have only seen you once since the break. Our eyes may have met last Thursday in the tower walkway around noon, but I could be wrong. If I am wrong, hey wishful thinking doesn't hurt. I would like to meet you, but as I said before, I've been unable to FIND you.

Hoping there's a reply.

Signed,
The Marin Man of the Tower

To the Guy who is not Elvis:

I really didn't expect a reply,

You seemed to be a shy kinda guy.

But, now, clever you must be,

Because I've become too chicken to reveal my identity.

I saw you on January 21st again,

Wearing a purple shirt and you were with 2 men.

My sources say you are in the lobby at lunch time every day,

GRAPEVINE

And you look good, I must say!

You are usually with 2 guys,

The one who owns the turtleneck and one with a mustache and dark eyes.

I look forward to another Grapevine issue,

To hear more from, not Elvis, but you.

Signed,
The Mistress of the Air

To J.T. in Accounting:

I see you every day on the fifth floor hanging out with "Tuk Chi" and the boys.

If you took the socks out of your jeans they wouldn't sag. Maybe you should invest in a pair of "Boom" pants.

The "Greenhouse effect" did you in and the loonie trick is just so you can get a better view.

Signed,
Ernie

To the Backseat Bandit:

Have you remembered my name yet?

I remembered yours, you S.T.U.D.! You can contact me through the Grapevine for the item you forget in the car that night.

Signed,
M.T.B.
