United Way campaign may fall short

By Jennifer Cador
News Editor

After more than a month of canvassing and special events, NAIT's United Way campaign drew to a close last Friday.

The campaign, which ran from October 6 to November 13, had reached 90 percent of its $45,000 goal as of Friday, says campaign chairman Dave Hoy. But the final total has yet to be tallied since donors' pledge cards still continue to trickle in. Hoy says he is hopeful that at least another $5,000 will be collected in pledges, putting the final total at just over the $45,000 mark.

Numerous United Way fundraising activities have been going on around the main campus as well as the Westerra campus and Westwood in the past few weeks. The different events were all run by staff and student volunteers. According to Hoy, "Volunteer response has been outstanding," and a volunteer recognition is planned later this month.

One of the most successful events held during this campaign was MOGA (Most Outrageous Group Activity), put together by the Secretarial Office Administration students. It was held on November 10 at Westwood and raised $3,620 for WIN House.

Another popular event was Buck a Cup, held at all NAIT campuses. Coffee drinkers were able to purchase a button for one dollar which entitled them to a full day of free coffee. NAIT President Stan Souch personally paid for all the coffee that day, and the total funds raised from that event came to $1800.

Other fundraising events included Walkabout Madness, dunk tanks at both Westerra and the main campus, mini-golf, and bead welding.

According to Hoy, special events such as these typically raise seven to eight thousand dollars on an annual basis. The remainder of the funds raised at NAIT come from staff donations.

All money goes directly to the United Way, a non-profit organization which funds 44 different agencies in Edmonton.

Says Hoy, "The United Way is the one charitable cause the NAIT recognizes and supports I am confident we'll reach our goal."

Tech of the Week: Instrumentation- second year

By Pam Radchenko
Assistant Editor

Second year Instrumentation includes courses like physics, Auto Cad, calculus, hands on instrumentation labs, and the heaviest course; computers.

Computer courses make up 30 percent of the second year Instrumentation time table. Students often find this difficult because a computer background is not required and the courses are very demanding.

In fact the whole program is demanding. Students attend full time, and have a rigorous three to four hours of homework a night.

Albertan industry and Instrumentation are very closely tied. Everything that the student learns is applicable in the work force.

Although instrumentation students learn hands on, working with transmitters, and devices for temperature measurement, they also learn from lectures, overheads, and notes, just like other students.

Instrumentation leaves these students challenged and very dedicated to their responsibilities.

General Council allows exotic dancer promotions

By Jennifer Cador
News Editor

A vote in favour of allowing strippers at NAIT cabarets was passed at the November 10 General Council meeting.

Technologies planning cabarets can now, if they wish, include exotic dancers as part of the entertainment.

Surveying Technology brought up the idea of having male strippers at their cabaret and, although the NAITSA executive was not in favour of it, the motion was put before council and not agree with or sanction exotic dancers at NAIT cabarets, they won't say no if students may not agree with this form of entertainment at school cabarets.

school functions and found that no guidelines presently exist.

NAIT Administration was also contacted and, like the NAITSA executive, did not agree with the concept of strippers at NAIT cabarets but would not stop it, if that's what students want. They did say, however, that all advertising (i.e. posters) must be conservative and in good taste. All posters must be approved by NAITSA before posting.

NAITSA Activities VP Shane Warawa says that although the executive does not agree with or sanction exotic dancers at NAIT cabarets, they won't say no if it's what the students want.

COCA West a success

COCA delegate Spero Kokanas from the University of Saskatchewan brainstorms at last week's COCA West

By Pam Radchenko
Assistant Editor

COCA WEST '92, held at the Renford Inn on Whyte on November 13-15 was a blend of education and fun.

Delegates from across the Western provinces gathered in Edmonton to discuss new programming for campus activities.

At the Educational seminars, speakers not only gave input but wanted to receive input from the rest of the delegates. Everyone gained insight from members of different institutes.

COCA West gave the delegates a chance to kick back and bounce ideas off each other. Some programming ideas were off beat emphasizing the broad scope of minds working.

Not just seminars, COCA WEST also consisted of a showcase of bands each afternoon and evening. These bands paid to play at COCA because it gave the delegates a chance to hear them and, possibly be hired for campus activities.

Not only did delegates show up for the showcase event at People's Pub, but both NAIT and U of A students showed up to join in the fun.

The cure for cancer is in your genes.

The uncontrolled growth of certain cells in the human body results in a disease called cancer.

Thanks to the generous donations of thousands of Canadians, research has recently discovered the genes that in all probability trigger this uncontrolled growth.

These newly discovered genes are called oncogenes. And it now appears that no matter what the "cause" of cancer (chemical, viral, genetic, diet, lifestyle or some combination thereof) the oncogenes are the probable trigger mechanism.

Once we discover how to control these genes, the real possibility of a cure for cancer will be with us.

However, we need more research. We need more money. Because the cure for cancer is in your genes.

KNOW WHEN TO PUT A LID ON IT.

General Council inconsistent on stripper issue

Editorial
By David Harvey
Editor-in-Chief

Earlier this school year, NAITSA's General Council voted to continue NAITSA's ban on free beer advertising in technology cabaret promotions despite the recent Alberta Liquor Control Board's decision to allow the distribution and advertising of free alcohol.

This decision did not come as a complete surprise. NAITSA has always had a policy of promoting responsible drinking and promoting free alcohol almost dictates overconsumption.

It was a surprise, however, when this same council decided last week to allow the promotion on campus of, of all things, strippers for technology cabarets.

It is incredulous that a post-secondary institution like NAIT would even consider polluting its walls with something as tacky as nude or semi-nude dancing advertisements.

While it is clear that the vast majority of the technology representatives feel that posters on our school walls promoting exotic dancers is appropriate for our school, one must wonder if this is really the image NAIT students want to project. That is, of course, the real issue here. Who really cares what goes on at these cabarets anyway?

Strippers, jugglers, virgin sacrifices; who cares? What people do in their spare time is really no concern of mine, or anyone else.

The point is that while no one is denying their fellow NAIT student their God given right to look at naked bodies, it does not make sense to tarnish our institute with posters (however tastefully done) that advertise NAIT students' pension towards these kinds of things.

It was this kind of thinking that went into the free beer decision. Free beer at cabarets were not banned only its advertisement. Yet, one must ask why should NAITSA continue with this policy. If strippers are OK, free beer certainly seems relatively tame.

General Council should reconsider this decision. We go to school at an institution of higher learning and our walls should reflect that.

City Hall blocking out crime realities

By Pam Radchenko
Assistant Editor

My roommate's car was vandalized just this past weekend. That's pretty pathetic. Her car was parked in front of our garage and still two windows got smashed in.

All this has me thinking that in the civil election the big emphasis was on "Crime". Well Jan won the election, and the crime rate hasn't fallen. It seems that nothing is being done about the crime that our mayor was so concerned about a few weeks ago.

A fine example of the continuous crime occurrences in our city is the vandalism at Calder Senior Citizens Centre. The centre has been plagued by vandals since its opening 13 years ago.

Everything the seniors society does to deter vandals has failed. Even the light bulb put up outside the centre to stop crime was stolen.

When the seniors society requested a fence be put around the centre, the city officials refused permission. The security expert that Parks & Recreation provided to the society said that everything possible has been done.

Jan Reimer's mayoral campaign was based on stomping out crime in our city. However, I am beginning to wonder, along with the Calder Senior Society and countless others, if city officials have yet again shuttered the windows of City Hall, blocking out the ugly realities that we are beginning to think of as routine.

I don't know about you, but this total crime situation is getting a little too close to home for me. Would we get something happening to wipe out crime in our city if Reimer's car or house was broken into... I wonder?

Tory candidate's prospects are frightening

Editorial
By Jennifer Cador
News Editor

Albertans have been saturated with politics this fall, and it's not over yet. First it was the municipal election, then the federal referendum, and now the provincial Tory leadership race looms large on the horizon. With under two weeks to go until PC members cast their ballots, the candidates' all-out push for publicity is obvious.

This is about the time when hopeful political contenders start to spout off their individual ideologies to anyone they can get to listen. The bottom line is to get elected and time is ticking away, so they talk and talk and talk ... in the hopes they'll be noticed.

Well, Doug Main certainly has been one of the loudest talkers lately, and he's getting noticed - but his lunatic jabber may not get him the votes he so desperately wants.

Last Thursday, while addressing students at the Strathcona Christian Academy in Sherwood Park, Main gave a sampling of the prehistoric ideas he is planning on bringing with him to office, should he actually be elected.

Among other things, he said he "opposes guaranteeing protection for gays and lesbians under the province's Individuals' Right Protection Act." As well, he went on to say he "would work to decrease the demand for abortion in Alberta."

Said Main, "Is there something we can do about making the choice not engage in the act that causes pregnancy? Is there something we can do about chastity in our schools?... I think that would be a much better choice than to kill these babies."

Chastity?! Kill?! He must be kidding! What utter crap! It is absolutely astonishing that an educated person could actually hold such naive, discriminatory and foolish views.

Why shouldn't gays and lesbians be guaranteed protection under the Individual Rights Protection Act? With that sort of statement, Main portrays himself as one of those self-righteous, homophobic, bigots you might expect to see on All in the Family.

Main's abortion comments are downright scary. By referring to abortion as "killing these babies" he has managed to come across as a fanatic seriously lacking credibility.

The idea of this man in charge of the province is frightening. Fortunately for Albertans, there are eight other contenders to choose from, some with refreshingly open minds, even for Tories!

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

By Dan Lachambre
NAITSA President

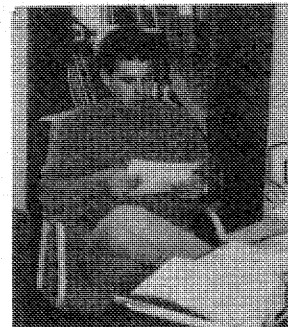

Last week I wrote about a meeting of the Association of Canadian Community Colleges (ACCC.) A comment made by Dr. Stuart Smith (keynote speaker) keeps coming to mind and I want to share it with you. Dr. Smith is a very accomplished man recognized by educators across the country for a 179 page report he prepared on Canadian University education. He noted that during all his years of dealing with University administration and professors, he noticed mostly sniveling and crying about how tough they had it. They always wanted more for themselves. "It's refreshing to hear ACCC bitch and complain about how bad students have it and how education should be improved for the student." Dr. Smith went on to comment about how colleges and technical institutes are focused around their students, unlike their university counterparts. Interesting.

Once again, Colleges and Technical Institutes prove that they hold the future of education.

Puck's good side

Dear Editor:

RE: Seventeen bucks too much, Nov. 6 edition

I would like to take this opportunity to clarify a couple of facts about the Oilers tickets on sale at the Student Store. I agree with you about sports athletes' salaries being too high but the tickets bought at the Student Store do not contribute to the players' salaries. All the tickets were donated to the NAIT Foundation by none other than Peter Pocklington (I guess he does have a good side) with the condition that ALL proceeds go to NAIT. In effect, purchasing discounted Oilers tickets helps support equipment purchases for students. On another note, the tickets are not the worst in the house, they are mid-blues and fairly reasonable.

I was impressed when you mentioned NAIT events are free but student participation is still low. Keep spreading the word, maybe that'll change.

Human-animal encounter

Dear Editor:

I mourn the fact that Trevor Percy - Lancaster lost his life (British tourist killed by Jasper grizzly, Sept. 17) in a recent human-animal encounter. It's raison d'être is to act as ultimate predator in this ecosystem. It is common knowledge that bears forage aggressively at this time of year to accomplish successful hibernation. To be destroyed for trying to accomplish this task, by a technologically superior species that deems this behavior unacceptable, is illogical. We need to keep areas pristine to preserve all forms of wildlife. Human visitors must accept the fact that they may encounter dangerous and life threatening creatures. At present, our society does not condone the death penalty for transgressions by reasoning humans, yet society feels vindicated in destroying these so called problem animals. The problem lies not with the animals but with the human intruder who invades their domain and does not accept nature's rule of eat and be eaten. A logical solution is to close the more remote trails to hiking access during the time of aggressive foraging by wildlife.

V-ball Ooks roughed up

By Chris Nichols
Sports Editor

Women: NAIT 3, SAIT 1 (4-15, 15-11, 15-10, 15-7)
MRC 3, NAIT 0 (15-5, 15-4, 15-6)

The women's volleyball team stuck to the script last weekend, beating a weaker SAIT squad while losing to the stronger Mount Royal side.

"We're trying to be realistic this year," said coach Mark Sundberg, explaining his team's chances in a greatly improved league. "GPRC, MRC and RDC figure to be the top three teams. We'll have to fight with Medicine Hat and GMCC the rest of the way."

Sheryl Poon, Corrinne

Nielson, Lorraine Shivety and Daina Koska are the returning players this year.

Men: SAIT 3 NAIT 1 (13-15, 15-12, 15-4, 15-9)
MRC 3 NAIT 0 (15-9, 15-10, 15-8)

Take an inexperienced team of 14 players, take away five because of injury or academic ineligibility and put that team against a superior opposition. Voila - the men's volleyball squad and head coach Mike Trent's predicament.

"We played well," countered Trent. "But injuries mean that people are playing out of position."

Tim McLenna, Wes Hanschel, Bryan Vickery and Chahe Keumbehdjian are the returning men.

Lost week end for lady hoopsters

NAIT opened their ACAC league schedule in Calgary last weekend. Fresh off winning the Preseason Tournament the Lady Ooks were treated with anything but respect by their Calgary hosts taking both games from NAIT sending them home 0-2.

On Friday night the Lady Trojans of SAIT parlayed their superior size and shooting range to run off a 70-49 win over the NAIT squad.

Down early, NAIT rallied to trail by five at the half.

But in the second half, SAIT extended their defensive pressure, creating turnovers and blowing open a close match.

SAIT was led in scoring by rookie guard Janette Junghans (20 points) while Debbie McFarlane and Coreen Chizewski replied with 11 points each to lead NAIT.

On Saturday afternoon, the Lady Ooks ran into the hot hand of Mount Royal guard Joanne Clark who hit on five of seven three point shots; scoring 19 points in the first half and a 34-26 lead.

In the second half, NAIT rose to the challenge and played their best ball of the weekend shutting down Clark and pressuring the Cougars into numerous turnovers converted into NAIT scores.

In the end the Ooks simply ran out of time as they clawed their way back to trail by one and eventually lose a 54-49 decision.

Michelle Dorval led the team with 16 points.

The losses were viewed by coach Meropoulis as a learning experience for the NAIT squad. "We have to be able to work all week in practice at game intensity if we want to be legitimate contenders in this league!" said Meropoulis. "I think this was a good wake up call."

FOUL SHOTS

Next league action for the Lady Ooks is Nov. 27 at GMCC and back at NAIT Saturday Nov. 28 at 6:30 pm for their home opener against Red Deer College.

The team were without the service of Sandy Havidge (knee) and Amanda Brear (Soccer Nationals) over the past weekend.

Men's basketball team whupped

By Chris Nichols
Sports Editor

SAIT 106, NAIT 55
MRC 74, NAIT 66

The men's basketball team was overwhelmed Friday against SAIT, but rebounded Saturday to push Mount Royal to the limit. SAIT scored 17 field goals and basically thumped the inexperienced Ooks.

"They played a great pressure defence," noted coach Dave Hoy. "We just couldn't get it over centre."

Saturday's game was a complete turnaround. NAIT did a better job of defending MRC, a team that had beaten them by 20 or more points twice in the preseason.

"We were much more relaxed and confident in the second game. We played a good game against a good team."

Mark Kennedy scored 22 points against SAIT and 18 the next night. Richard Jory had 17 in the MRC game.

The Shooters Basketball Tournament will be played here at NAIT Friday through Sunday.

Lady Ooks fall short at Nationals

Shannon Marler with the Ook after the Lady Ooks won the ACAC soccer championship last month

On Wednesday Nov. 11, at the National Championships, the ACAC Champion Lady Ooks met the number one ranked John Abbott Islanders of Montreal.

Heavy rains meant the Ooks would play their first wet weather game of the season.

The Ooks held off John Abbott until the 40 minute mark when the Islanders scored their first goal.

It was a one goal game with the Lady Ooks having some great chances. Kristen Reiss was having a brilliant game as goal keeper for NAIT keeping them in the game.

In the last ten minutes the Islanders broke through NAIT defence to record a 3-0 victory.

On Thursday the Lady Ooks were very much looking forward to their game with Sherbrooke - the winner would advance to the semi finals. However, fate was not kind to the Lady Ooks. Coach Bob Buchan received word in the early hours of Thursday morning that the Ooks leading goal scorer Kari Wilcox and outstanding defender and captain Janelle Schur had food poisoning.

While they sought medical attention the Lady Ooks played Sherbrooke. Sherbrooke scored in the early minutes. The Ooks had some great chances but did not capitalize and as a result did chances but did not advance to the semi finals. Sherbrooke won 2-0.

The Lady Ooks were determined on Saturday Nov. 14 to finish the nationals a winning note and have Alberta be ranked above Nova Scotia for next year championship to be played at Malispina College, Nanaimo.

The Ooks went on the attack early and quickly scored goals. The King College Blue Devils worked hard but were not match for the Lady Ooks, Jawa Kolot, Lou Moquin, Keri Wilcox, Jenifer Homer, Lydia Beswick.

This National Champion was a great first for women's soccer in the ACAC. the Lady Ooks were proud to have represented Alberta. This experience will help improve the players and the Lady Ooks soccer program.

Coach Bob Buchan wishes to thank his team and assistant coach for winning the ACAC title and giving their best effort at the Nationals. Buchan wishes to also thank the NAIT Athletic Dept. and NAIT community for it's support of the Lady Ooks this season.

The CCAA named Lydia Beswick to the CCAA All Star team for performance in regular season. Janelle Schur was named to the CCAA National Championship tournament team. This award was for outstanding performance at the Nationals. Kristen Reiss was named the most outstanding goaltender of this National Championships. Congrats to these three Lady Ooks.

Ooks conquer Vikings - barely

By Chris Nichols
Sports Editor

Two more games, two more wins. That's what the NAIT Ooks ice squad is left with after a pair of games with the Augustana Vikings. NAIT won Friday's game in Camrose 7-5 and then eked out a 5-4 overtime victory Saturday at home.

The wins were anything but pretty though. Inconsistency dogged the Ooks through both games, most likely because of NAIT's past two opponents - GPRC and Concordia. Both team's are the league's whipping boys.

"We got a rude wake-up call," said Ooks rookie Dan Flaherty. "When you're winning games by nine goals... we've got to get back down to earth. We have to settle down, be more disciplined and play our systems better."

The Ooks played intense hockey for ten minutes of the second period on Friday. Owen Korkie, Tom Oloriz and Travis Koehn scored within 2:15 of each other, giving their team a 5-3 lead. The Vikings roared back with two goals in the third to tie the game, but Koehn's hat trick goal gave the Ooks the lead for good. Mike Park added an empty netter. Paul Wozney scored the other goal.

Saturday's game was a cross between a roller derby and the Amytville Horror. There were more hits landed than the Bowe - Holyfield bout, and more mistakes made than Dan Quayle on his last spelling test.

Ooks Brad Fallish coughed up the puck in front of his own net which led to Augustana's second goal. Not to be outdone, two Viking players took penalties within 0:40 of each other. That faux pas led to a beautiful tic-tac-toe goal from Craig Hawryschuk, Jason Krueckl and Fallis. Fallis was then high stuck by a Viking in plain view of the referee and the entire NAIT bench, but no penalty was called. Then, in the dying seconds of the game with the score tied, Viking defenceman Jason MacKintosh threw the puck in front of his own net. Krueckl batted the disc down and almost scored, stopped only by the solid goaltending of Brent Sheehan.

Tim Olson capped off the evening by poking a loose puck underneath Sheehan in overtime. The goalie had apparently frozen the puck, but no whistle was blown so Olson banged in the winner.

"It wasn't a great goal," chuckled Olson. "But if you just keep plugging away it'll eventually go in. A goalie can't stand on his head forever."

Krueckl (2), Trevor McCallion and Mike Park scored NAIT's other goals. Goaltender Don Davidge fought the puck all night long but was there when he had to be, picking up his third win in three starts.

Beat your children

By Miller Malone
Editorial

I was watching the "T.V. Event of the Year" last Sunday. It was part one of The Jacksons: An American Dream.

The commercials touting this made-for-TV movie promised to expose the Jacksons, showing the behind the scenes story of their lives.

What a crock!

I tuned in to get answers to questions like:

What's with the one glove?

Why is Michael's best friend a monkey?

What's up with Latoya and the Playboy pictures?

But all I got was three hours of how hard they worked and how hard Joe Jackson literally beat his work ethic into his kids.

Of course the Jacksons worked hard. Did the producers think we thought The Jacksons just lucked into their fame and fortune?

This movie had an opportunity to make a statement about child abuse, but it doesn't. The movie almost glorified child abuse because it supposedly made the family rich.

Sure The Jacksons became rich and successful performers but what about their personal problems?

Michael is a reclusive multi-millionaire who lives in a zoo-like atmosphere and has continuous plastic surgery that makes people believe he's becoming Diana Ross.

Latoya likes to get naked for magazines and complain about her family.

The rest of the family can't sell a record unless their brother Mike, lends his name to the project.

The only seemingly "normal" member of the family is Janet Jackson and, of course, Joe who vented all his anger and frustration on his kids years ago.

I don't remember any beatings on the Partridge Family and look how well they turned out.

So that's how it goes. Instead of a tell-all movie, all you get is a subtle endorsement of beating musically gifted children.

What an intelligent world we live in.

Saturday Night Live:

Wow, can Michael Keaton kill comedy? Maybe the writers just had an off week.

I can't remember the last time so many skits dragged on and on and on. Maybe next week.

The Simpsons:

I've said it before and I'll say it again, "Man, can that Bart Simpson act!"

Northern Exposure:

It used to be funny, "Ha-Ha". But lately it just funny, "strange."

Quantum Leap:

It must be pretty uncomfortable to leap into a women's mind and take possession her body.

I wonder if Sam has to fight the urge to pee standing up or mow the lawn with his shirt off.

Skaface is stomping good

By Dan Gaetz

If you're into sitting on your thumbs, I suggest you go to Of Mice and Men. I hear it's very good. If you're out to have a good time and party it up, be sure to catch the band SKA FACE the next time they're in town.

They play SKA music, as their name implies. It's like reggae - punk; fast moving beat with an African / reggae soul.

They're a pretty huge group, seven of 'em in all, including a saxophone and trombone. The guitarist and bassist play with a soulful frenzy. The drummer, I'm sure must be un-dead to be so energetic for so long. The keyboard guy, you don't really see. He kind of hides in the back corner. Finally, Lynne, the lead singer has a great voice and wields it around with power. If she has nothing to sing, she hops onto the dance floor and joins the crowd for awhile.

There were several people up on the stage shakin' it. SKA FACE seems to encourage it. The most impressive thing about SKA FACE is that the band was having fun and made sure the audience did too.

Crowds seem a little reserved here, though. My buddy and I were doing a little innocent slam dancing, and some wee girl in a black dress told us to cut it out. She came dangerously close to getting stomped.

SKA FACE is a hard working band, opening Saturday night's events at COCA and then rushing over to the Power Plant to play there for the evening (COCA, by the way, was a kick-ass event and a big thanks to those who made it go. I hear some suffered dearly.)

SKA FACE's album is available through HMV, definitely worth checking out. A good time was had by all at the gig. Go see them the next time they're in town. It's worth your while.

Retails for $5.40 per six-pack.

If you chose Drummond Draft as the best value, you pass. Drummond has long been Alberta's favorite draft, and with good reason. Our brewmaster, Wolfgang Hoess, selects only the best, locally-grown grains, and brews them with clean, glacier-fed water. Drummond Draft is cold filtered for a 'straight from the keg' fresh taste that no one can top, at any price.

And, while Wolfgang hasn't changed his standards (Frankly, we'd be afraid to even suggest it!) we have made one change to our Draft: Now, like all Drummond brands, it is available at the low price of $5.40 per six-pack. Frankly, if you want fresh draft taste at home, you'd be nuts to buy anything else. After all, a can is just a can, but money is money.

INXS review

By Miller Malone
Entertainment Editor

Welcome to Wherever You Are INXS

INXS's latest effort, produced by Mark Opitz and mixed by the legendary Bob Clearmountain, has a little bit of something for everyone.

The songs are, as usual, written by Andrew and Jon Furris with Micheal Hutchence.

After the poorly received follow up to the Kick album, the band has gone back to the Kick sound with songs like "Not Enough Time" and "Heaven Sent" written by guys who have done it before and are going through the motions to show how easy it is to churn out catchy melodies and phrases like...

Not enough time for all
That I want for you
Not enough time for every kiss

And every touch and all the nights
I wanna be inside of you

Whew - that's graphic.

So if you want a Kick sound-a-like, buy Welcome, if not, don't.
