Theft Rampant on campus your car is not safe even in the parkade

by Heather Johnson

Theft is running rampant on campus. If you park in the parkade, your car and its contents are not safe.

There have been five counts of theft from vehicles in the parkade since school began two weeks ago.

In three of the five incidents, the thief has bypassed car alarms to get to the contents of the vehicle. In every case, the thief is interested in stealing electronic equipment such door. The alarm on the truck had been disabled. A face plate for the radio and tape deck as well as the siren for the security system were stolen.

The suspect is an Oriental male between the ages of seventeen and twenty. He is short with a heavy build and short dark hair. He was wearing a black t-shirt and a jean jacket.

The suspect was driving a 4x4

'... the thief is interested in stealing electronics equipment such as a stereo or the car alarm itself. ...'

as a stereo or the car alarm itself.

According to the Head of NAIT Security, Dick Maertens-Poole, in one case, $12,000 worth of electronic equipment was stolen.

All the thefts occurred in broad daylight between the hours of 9:00 AM and 2:30 PM.

There has been a suspect identified for a theft from a vehicle on Thursday, September 14 at 11:20 AM. A yellow Ford Ranger XL was broken into through the driver's side Toyota truck. The truck is flat black in color with rust showing on the body. There are stickers on the back window, spare tire in the box and the vehicle is equipped with large snow tires.

There is a second suspect seen walking towards the west stairwell. He is a white male between seventeen and eighteen years of age. He is about 5'6" with a slim build and dark hair.

Maertens-Poole believes all of the five "thefts could have been committed by the same people."

Maertens-Poole says the Edmonton Police Service think the thefts have been committed by professionals.

If you know anything about the thefts or see anything suspicious, please contact NAIT Security.

To prevent being victimized by crime in the parkade, Maertens-Poole says you should not leave valuables in open sight within your vehicle. He says it's also a good idea to record the serial numbers of all of your electronic equipment so in the case of theft, the police can track your belongings.

Since September 14, NAIT has had a full-time security guard patrolling the parkade. Prior to that date, a part-time security guard had been patrolling at random.

Maertens-Poole says NAIT Security and the Edmonton Police Service are considering other joint actions to prevent crime on campus.

Are we Getting Ripped Off

by Melanie Szepevolgyi

If you are in the Engineering Technologies Annex, Westerra, Patricia, or Westwood Campuses you might have noticed a discrepancy in prices between your cafeteria and the main campus cafeteria. Some students are getting upset when they find out the main campus students are getting better food for less money. So why is it this way?

Culinary Arts students prepare a lot of the food that is served on main campus, they do not get a wage and they are being marked on the product. These two factors are part of the reason why prices can be lower on main campus and the outcome slightly better. VERSA foods is the name of the company that operates all the other campus cafeterias. Unlike the main campus cafeteria these other cafeterias are considered private businesses and operate on a profit/loss basis. VERSA pays their workers wages and also purchases slightly different brands of products. These factors contribute to the slightly higher prices we experience in the other cafeterias.

What it comes down to is the fact that VERSA foods needs to make some sort of profit in order to operate. The main campus cafeteria does not need to make a profit and does not have to pay wages. Though it hardly seems fair, NAIT students who do not have access to the main campus cafeteria will just have to put up with the price discrepancy for now. VERSA foods has hired a new chef who is a NAIT grad so hopefully the quality of their food will get better. As for prices, NAITSA president Chris Wilson and Director of Food Services Conrad Lechalt are investigating the problem and will hopefully find a solution that pleases everyone.

All this and Free Pens too?

by Melanie Szepvolgyi

Imagine a place that offers free tickets to awesome bands, gift certificates to cool places, nifty-looking free water bottles, bar tabs for happening joints, draws for wicked prizes, and best of all - FREE PENS! All this cool stuff (for free of course) and more could be found in the Naitrium last Wednesday and Thursday as NAIT hosted it's 2nd trade show.

NORDRAFT offers a 10% discount year-round to NAIT students and a 20% discount in September. If your technology is thinking of putting on a cabaret Mindy and Michelle at Boca's Beach Club have a great package that could raise lots of money. Besides all these groovy deals the Atomic Cafe was giving out $10.00 gift certificates and Earls was accepting applications for employment. Of course, if you are the gul-

'... and wished they had been able to just say NO to the credit card sales people. ...'

Businesses from Edmonton and surrounding areas often approach NAIT in order to promote their services or products. Setting up a trade show allows the businesses a forum in which to give themselves and the students an opportunity to look things over at their leisure. This year some of the businesses featured included Elite Sportswear, Arrow Bus Lines, Scotiabank, Kapers, Cantel Communications, Hotel MacDonald, Jostens, and Club Malibu, and Trillion Advertising and Promotions.

Many of the businesses offer specials to students; such as Boston Pizza's 10% discount on food and Greyhound Canada's "4 Trips Anywhere in Alberta for $99.00".

libile sort, by the time you had traversed the Naitrium you would have collected about 20 pamphlets and applied for a Mastercard and a Visa. A trade show wouldn't be complete without a ton of draws and FREE PENS. Jostens definitely had the neatest looking pen, although Boston Pizza's will probably last longer. Most of the businesses involved said that it was a pleasure to work with NAIT and that it had been very good for business. Most of the students thought it was great to get free drinks and wished they had been able to just say NO to the credit card salespeople. A big THANK YOU to Tammy Carreiro from Naitsa for organizing the trade show. Make sure to use your FREE PENS.

AIDS Awareness

People who have bought a pair of shoes from ALDO lately, probably received the following literature. It was a one page information sheet on AIDS. On the top of the page it asks people to "Spread the news not the disease". For those who haven't read the article, read on. The paper/pamphlet was put together by Norbert Gilmore, PhD., M.D. Professor of Medicine, McGill Centre for Medicine, Ethics and Law, McGill University. The article has been edited only in length and not in content due to space constraints of the Nugget.

"Everyday, over 6,000 people are infected with the AIDS or human immunodeficiency virus (or HIV). The only way to stop this is for everyone to learn how to live without being exposed to HIV. That means learning how to protect yourself from HIV. It is the only way, because there is no cure for AIDS, although some treatments can help people with AIDS. There is also no vaccine against HIV. HIV cannot infect you if you are not exposed to it. Protecting yourself is simple: always use condoms during sexual intercourse and always use clean needles and syringes if you inject street drugs (and that includes steroids).

Thinking you're safe won't protect you. And you cannot tell who is infected simply by looking at them. AIDS can take years before it produces symptoms of disease. Most of the time, the only way to know if someone is infected is by an HIV blood test. So, act as if everyone is carrying HIV.

by unprotected sex and by sharing unclean needles and syringes. Always using condoms and clean injection equipment means knowing what to do, and DOING IT always! When you can't be sure if you'll be safe, wait.

Don't take chances. It's not worth it. Waiting can be really smart. Think about it. Being safe is smart. Talk about it with your friends, and help them to be safe.

Maybe you've taken chance in the past. You might want to reassure yourself that you're not infected, or obtain care and treatment for any infections you might have. Regardless of what you've done, from now on, protect yourself. At the same time, this will help protect others".

It is good to see corporations, such as ALDO, getting involved in spreading Norbert Gilmore's news on such an important matter. For more information on AIDS you can call the Canadian Foundation for AIDS Research at 1-800-563-CURE.

That includes you and your friends. It means everyone needs to protect themselves, all the time.

AIDS is not easy to catch, but thinking you can beat the odds of being infected is wrong. One slip up might be enough, and then... well, it's too late. Safer sex is smarter sex. Using drugs? Use them safely. Don't ruin your life or someone else's life.

Protecting yourself against HIV also helps to protect you against sexually transmitted diseases and other infections which can be spread October 5 - 9 is AIDS Awarenessweek. See next week's Nugget when we'll feature AIDS in our society.

More and More Cutbacks

by Richard Ozero

Government cuts in funding are affecting people in the public and private sectors. Among the hardest hit areas are Health and Education. With government cutbacks, educational institutions are having to ask more from the students who are enrolling. Students are having to dig deeper and deeper into to their plundered pockets.

The problem is nation wide, but it seems that Western Canada is being called upon the most. NAIT's tuition has increased over $200 since last year. More increases in tuition are expected to take place in the near future.

Some institutes are finding that even with increasing tuition shortfall of funding from their provincial government. They are considering two options to soften the blow of the cutbacks they are expecting.

One possibility is closing some of the colleges. Closing colleges could decrease the availability and accessibility for some to receive the education they want.

The second option is eliminating some of the programs that are currently offered. This could create less diversification in the programs that students may want to take.

A University of Saskatchewan spokesman is preparing for some bad news. Tony Whitworth say that worst case scenarios are being used as a guideline to establish estimates as to what may happen. All the University 1996/1997 funding grant from the Saskatchewan government.

Saskatchewan's provincial government seems to be more optimistic than the Education System. The province is projecting an increase in what they will be granting to post-secondary education. The government is looking at a two percent funding increase for 1996/1997. Whitworth is not counting on the government's prediction. He believes the two percent increase could easily be wiped out. The reason is that Ottawa has its own plan.

Saskatchewan is slated to lose an estimated 100 million dollars through Ottawa slashing its funding. Saskatchewan's education, health and welfare systems will all feel the

by Jon Paudler

Who'da thunk that summer would take such a shortcut and turn into winter so quickly. Calgary boasts 2 inches of snow and the summer isn't even officially over. In two weeks there will only be a hint of the gorgeous summer tan we worked sooo hard to get (last May) and the beautiful bod will be covered with layers of warm things which never quite look so chic as the summer stuff we have, no matter how hard we try.

One other thing happens at about that time. Eating habits change. Slowly but surely its back to beer and pizza because, like who can see the waist anyway, right? If you spotted this column last week you may have learned about the importance of fresh veggies, particularly the leafy kind, and the relationship between eating well and learning.

Well, I've got a little recipe here that any one can make. I mean anyone. You need a hot plate and a soup pot and a spoon to stir. It makes a whole lot of soup, so maybe you can invite one or three friends over to help you put it away, or you can freeze whatever is left over. In any case, this soup utilizes all the good vegetables that are now in the stores. If there is one or two items you can't find, not to worry, just leave it out. Here is a little shopping tip, particularly for those who cook for only one person.

When you pick food in your favourite supermarket, look for those items that are sold by the pound rather than by the bunch or by each (like a head of cauliflower). If it is sold by the pound, take only as much as you need, for example chard, or nappa cabbage or broccoli, or whatever. You need only 3 leaves or 1 small piece, it's your decision how much you want, even though the store would like you to buy a whole bundle of broccoli or chard or whatever. But if the cauliflower is sold by the head, the store has the right to refuse to sell half a head. Check out the convenience counter where celery cauliflower and broccoli is already cut up. Anyway, here goes one of the best vegetable soups this side of campbell.

1/4 cup oil, or olive oil. (1/4 cup is 60 ml, 1/2 cup is 125 ml, 1 cup is 250 ml) but why am I telling you this, every one here is a genius to start with. Any-way:

1/4 cup oil
1/2 cup onions chopped up any which way you can (take the peel off first)

2 cup potatoes, peeled and cut up

1/2 cup wax beans

1 cup green beans

1 cup carrots, Best when they are peeled, or at least washed.

1 cup white card or nappa cabbage (separate stalks from leaves.)

1/4 cup green onion tops

2 stalks leeks, remove the green leaves and wash the rest well

2 small zucchini, cut up
1 quart chicken stock (make from bouillon cubes)

3-4 chard (nappa cabbage) leaves

3-4 beet tops

3-4 dandelions (if you pick them off the side of the street, wash them first, dogs are not very clean)

1/2 cup sauerkraut

2 tbsp parsley, chopped
1 sprig thyme(fresh) 1/2 tsp if its dry leaves)

2 tbsp fresh chopped basil (1 tsp if its dry)

1 tbsp dill weeds (1/2 tsp if its dry)

2 tsp marjoram (1 tsp if its dry) to taste salt, pepper, and a little fresh garlic.

In soup pot heat the oil, add the onions and garlic, add the solid vegetables and stir for a few minutes. Then add the water and bouillon cubes (2), bring to a simmer and cook for 15 minutes. Now add the leaves and push them into the soup. Don't stir. Simmer for a few minutes and add the sauerkraut and herbs. Simply push these ingredients into the soup without stirring. Remove from heat and let stand 10 or 15 minutes, then ladle it out into large soup bowls. A little crusty roll and you'll be in food heaven. Bet you can't just eat one bowlful!

I have been attending NAIT for three years. The first two years were with Biological Sciences Technology, and I'm now in my second semester of Radio and Television. I'm on the television side of things. My interests are in news and entertainment. I hope throughout the year that I can keep you informed, and current with the goings on here at NAIT. Enjoy the year. Remember, only 95 days until Christmas.

We all have a couple of weeks of school behind us, and Christmas is only 95 days away. This has nothing to do with anything but I needed a semi-attention grabbing first line. My name is Richard Ozero. I'm one of two News Editors for the Nugget this year. My job is to keep you informed every week in the field of NAIT and student related news.

Every second week I submit an editorial. As does any editorial, there will be those who agree with it, and those who don't. My goal with the editorials is to try to get you thinking about matters that could be relevant and important to you while you are both attending NAIT, and once you have completed your course. Academic Matters

by Edmond Duggan

When I was young, my parents bought the game of Monopoly for my brothers and I at Christmas. Being small at the time, we never bothered fully reading the rules; we just started playing the game with just enough rules. We all enjoyed playing, but sometimes a disagreement would occur. My older brother would then read some more rules to try and solve the problem. This seemed to work, and we would go on playing.

We enjoyed the game so much that we took it with us during our summer vacation. Upon visiting our cousin's, we found they had Monopoly also. We began to play. It was difficult because it wasn't how we played the game. The "rules" seemed different.

In fact, the rules were NOT different; just our perception of them, and how we applied them were different. To solve our differences, we discussed them and came up with our 'new' rules.

The game went on...

NAIT is a lot like Monopoly. Students start into NAIT expecting to follow some regulations, and are given some direction on the 'important' rules. These regulations seem similar to the last set of academic procedures they were under, and school goes on.

But our education is not a game. We should not wait until we have a problem to go find out what the rules really are. We should know them, because we are responsible.

The students handbook contains the essential elements of Academic regulations. If you need more information your program head has a complete copy of the Academic regulations, as well as the NAITSA Academic VP, and the Registrar's Office.

I own 2 copies, one at home and one in my locker. Why? - because I am a student representative on Academic Council. As a member I feel it is not only important to represent your view, but to inform you also. I will be writing weekly to provide you with information that hopefully will help you at NAIT.

If you would like to talk to your Academic Council members about your concerns, we are eager to help. We attend General Council (H-005 every second Tuesday). Also, you can leave a message with Tammy Carriero, the NAITSA Administrative Assistant, in E-133 or call her at 471-8855.

Actually I'm bringing forward a motion to the Board of Governors that would let you pay for only one semester at a time for a small administration fee. It should be in place by next September."

Woes of the Oversubscribed Student of woe? No, not to put you to sleep (although that is an added benefit) but to warn you to develop some good habits and not fall back into the lazy rut of high school. Of course, if you aren't just out of high school and are organized and find your classes here easy and didn't have to put a cent into your post-secondary schooling than this article won't apply to you so STOP reading. If you're like me and tend to take on more than you can handle than take heart - we can STOP THE INSANITY. How? Well, if your really energetic you can make yourself a schedule detailing times for homework, work, play, eating, sleeping etc. If you prefer a simpler approach ask yourself each time you have to make a choice how you'll feel about it next week. For example, Huevos Rancheros is playing at the Junkyard but you have a Calculus test tomorrow first thing. In a week would you rather wear your new Huevos t-shirt and fail the Calculus test or else pass the Calculus test and give your bud some money to buy the shirt for you? Sounds pretty simplistic but sometimes so many things are happening so fast in our lives that we can lose our perspective on things. It can work the other way too, where all we worry about is our next mark and let living pass us by. So just remember to smell the roses, see the forest despite the trees, take lots of vitamin C, and don't waste your $2000.00!

Women are an obvious minority at NAIT. Most women here understand how it feels to conspicuously walk through crowds of men gathered around doorways or lining the halls. Often men stare or make rude comments but usually the conversation just dies while a woman becomes the temporary focus of their attention.

It's easy to assume these men are objectifying women.

This morning I walked through a cluster of men at the doorway. One man opened the door for me. When his buddies laughed and I looked at him, he said in a defensive voice, "well, I've done it for everyone else."

Last weekend the Take Back the Night march took place in downtown Edmonton. People gathered to protest violence against women. The cause is good, but some of their protocol is outdated.

Specifically, this refers to not allowing men to participate in the march.

Men are an integral (and often dominant) part of our society. To not allow them to participate alienates them from the problem of violence against women. Not accepting their support only puts up road blocks in the road of equality for women.

Perhaps we should not be so quick to place men on the opposing team. Life would be much easier if we could accept assistance from men in the form of marching to protest violence against women or even having a door opened for us.

That does not mean we should put up with disrespect. But, it does not mean we should not feel free to be disrespectful either.

This is an exciting age to be a woman because the world is ours to explore without limitation. But along the way we should not make enemies of men in a world where they are as confused about their next step as we are.

Surveying labs due, drafting assignment late, math review, mechanics assignment overdue, spelling test, job interviews, family supper, friends' party, running time, newspaper articles...AUGHH! Maybe most of you out there don't have this problem, or perhaps it's just a first-year thing, or maybe I'm just crazy, but right now I feel absolutely OVERWHELMED with things to do.

When I came to NAIT at the beginning of August I wanted to do everything better than I did in high school. Not skip, get assignments in on time, put effort into learning, STUDY, go to bed relatively early on school nights, get help with things I didn't understand before the class gets so far ahead it's impossible to catch up, and basically make sure the $2000.00 I forked out to go here didn't go to waste. So yes, the semester started out with a couple great marks and lots of enthusiasm. But here we are, only in week four and already I'm starting to fall back into high school mode. Taking on more work than I have time for, staying out those extra three hours to catch that great band, forgetting assignments, being so groggy in class that my notes are illegible, and making stupid mistakes (like 4+7=12) on labs. Not only do I feel mentally exhausted but I've got a honking cold that won't go away no matter how many vitamin C I pop.

So why am I telling you my story

Letters

Your Opinion = Your Name

Dear Mr. Perrin:

I apologize for printing your name aside the letter you submitted for the September 8 issue of the Nugget. There was a mix up at the newspaper. As for the fine print which states you do not have to print your name, this does not apply to letters or any other form of opinion. As you can see, the submissions box has been updated to reflect this. Once again I apologize. This letter was printed in only the second issue of the Nugget this year and some small details have been overlooked.

However, your letter was not edited for brevity. It may be that your article was different that you remember because I could not understand your handwriting, but we did not alter the content. If you would like to see the original, we have it available in the Nugget office.

Thank you for bringing the issue of tuition payment to my attention. As you can see, last week I wrote my editorial on this subject.

The Right To Life

I was thoroughly distraught by your article on abortions. You obviously have a very strong opinion on this issue; likewise I also have a very strong opinion. I happen to have a very high regard for life, and all living beings. And I have a real problem with the thought of my tax dollars going toward the termination of a young baby's life. Indeed "it" is a baby; it saddens me to think that people of our education, would be deceived in to believing that it is alright to take another's life.

Please do not try to make it a gender issue. It takes two to tangle in the first place. And if you are not prepared to deal with the "unforeseen mistake", do not tangle.

Finally, please go home and thank the woman you call mom, for not labelling you as an "unforeseen mistake", and for terminating your life before you had a chance to be heard.

Sandra T. Kerr

So, How much is a Smile?

Have you ever noticed how friendly the NAIT staff is? The cafeteria staff has not once smiled at me over the last semester I've been here, and they have smiled yet this term. Are they unhappy you think? I say NAIT should provide them, free of charge, one of the business courses we have to take on being friendly and courteous to customers. I mean, not only are the prices high for students, but we don't even get a smile out of it!

And what's with the guy that's hired to hole punch our receipts at the bookstore? Talk about job creation. Just move the cashier desks closer to the door and have them hole punch it there so I don't have to dig my receipt back out for him.

Well, I guess that's enough bitching!!

ENTERTAINMENT

ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

My name is Cameron Weichel and I'm your new Entertainment Editor. I intend on doing my best to cover a full range of entertainment venues. I want to cover at least one movie per week both from video and the theater. My rating scale is as follows: One nugget, this film is an utter and absolute piece of crap, don't bother. Two nuggets, this movie will definitely not win any awards but is not all bad, wait for a Tuesday of until you can rent it. Three nuggets, this is a pretty dam good flick, worth seeing in a theater on a Tuesday or otherwise. Four nuggets, this picture is a masterpiece, definitely a must see in the theater. If you have any questions, comments, ideas, or requests please feel free to drop by the Nugget or call me at 471-7615. My office hour is every Monday from 1:15 to 2:15, don't be shy. Any NAIT bands who wish to be reviewed or even just have their performance times listed, dial me up. If you're looking for a 1990 Chevy Cavalier with a 3.1 V6 give me a ring. If you want some look of wood A/V cabinets [3 piece], pick up that phone. How about a slightly warped [non slate top] pool table, get on that line. I have a great 24 pin Star NX 2410 printer, it could be yours if you dial that number. Say what about some baby blue drapes, I got em you want em. You say you need beef. I have 48 lbs of chuck steak just a phone call away.

I hope to hear from you, it will make my job much easier. See ya around and welcome to NAIT.

Clockers is on time

by Cam Weichel

Spike Lee hits the nail on the head with his timely new flick Clockers. A powerful anti drug, anti gun message is pounded into viewers from the first image. As the credits roll, photos of viciously slaughtered drug dealers flash by. Gruesome and extremely graphic, they warn you of what is in store.

Clockers assaults you from every angle. Visually the film is magnificent. Image after blunt image slaps you in the face over and over again. Each scene draws you farther into the Clocker world. Coincidentally, clocker is a slang term for a drug dealer who may have to work around the clock.

The characters are fantastic, they weave together beautifully to form a very realistic believable world. It's easy to forget this is just a movie. By the end you feel as though you've actually lived this riveting story. There are no real good guys or bad guys in this film. Everyone comes across as decidedly human, in other words flawed. Excellent newcomer Mekhi Phifer plays the young clocker Strike. His soulless character is one who no doubt would sell rotten meat to a school lunch program. Veteran actor Harvey Kietel plays Rocco, a hard ass cop who has something to prove. His performance is very good, probably his best since Reservoir Dogs. The real standout performance in this picture is given by Delroy Lindo. Playing the drug boss Rodney, Lindo achieves a spectacular performance. Quietly manipulative he preys on the poverty stricken youth of the projects. His character is taken to sudden mood swings and dark brooding moments. He is an excellent villain and superb actor. Unfortunately the shining talent of John Turturro is wasted as Rocco's partner Larry. With few scenes and even fewer lines the always outstanding Turturro is a mismatch with this character.

Cinematography is the name of the game and this movie just scored a touchdown. An extremely broad array of perspectives litters the screen, powerful and poignant their effect lasts long after you leave the theater.

Spike Lee lays a heavy message over this show. One that needs to be shared again and again. His opinions about Crack Cocaine and guns come through like a jackhammer. The harshness of this film is part of its appeal, nothing in it is candy coated for mass consumption. There is a good lesson to learn here whether you already know it or not. This is a movie that I highly recommend.

I give Clockers 3.5 nuggets out of 4.

Hometown Seattle sets the stage for these intimate acoustic recordings. It was the summer of 1994 and Heart was playing some of their best known works to a packed 500 seat club. This CD has a very thoughtful 60's sound. They're good tunes whether you prefer them in their original form or on this recording is a highly personal matter. If you like Heart you'll like this album. If you're a hard core Heart fan you will really appreciate and enjoy this offering. Ann and Nancy have excellent voices, all throaty and raucous they have gotten better with age. Back to Avalon is a great tune. It really shows off their voices and harmony system. Alone is quite good with the acoustics, much better than the original. Crazy On You and Baracuda were both let downs. Formerly rocking good tunes they have been slowed down drastically for this album. In all it is a good album and a must for Heart fans.

Charles & Eddie: Chocolate Milk

The first song on the CD is a fantastic tune, it instantly makes you want to dance. Charles and Eddie themselves look like the stepped out of the year 1976 and it fits their music well. Their music is best described as a Souly, Bluesy, hodge podge, funk "O" matic 76 combo, that is highly listenable. Many of their songs have a define 70's flair but still the sound is very much theirs and difficult to describe. What can be said except that these cats really know how to groove. Charles has a very clean voice and a dynamite range, that must be heard to be appreciated. The whole CD is Grooven and worth a look, It must be heard to be appreciated.

Menthol

Heavy heavy heavy is the best way to describe this CD. They have an alternative rock sound the typically features tones and acres and eons of heavy guitar. Each song has that very current, today, now, alternative sound. In a way all the songs sound quite similar. Stress Is Best is not a bad tune, the guitar is toned down and their voices aren't as twisted and pained. This is actually a sort of melancholy tone to this album, it grows on you. If this is your type of music then you will love this

CD. If you are a little more to the main stream then you'll probably hate it like poison. This music is sold with a look, a frame of mind and a mission, if you have these rock on.

Kim Stockwood: Bona Vista

A native of Newfoundland this is Kim's 1st CD. Her sound is basically Sarah McLachlan with a country twang. Cutesy and main stream her voice is very good. If you like girl singers you'll probably like this album. If you like country music and girl singers then you might love it. This music is very easy to listen to, her voice is extremely natural and clean. There are truly some great tunes on this CD countryside and not.

First ever homecoming is here

NAIT Athletics gears up to sell the Oaks to students on campus

by Brandi Brownlee

NAIT Athletics is starting the year off with a bang. This Ook Athletic Season is setting trends destined to survive in the years to come. One that is bound to leave a lasting impression is the first-ever Homecoming.

This big adventure is set to take centre stage from September 28 through to October 1. It will bring past and present student body together to kick off NAIT's new athletic image. In four action-packed days, NAIT athletic alumni will reacquire themselves with old teammates and get the opportunity to meet our present athletes.

NAIT's first major athletic event of the year marks the start of the Homecoming festivities on Thursday, September 28th. The Pep Rally will be held from 3-5 p.m. in the NAIT gym and you'd be crazy to miss it! There will be a mascot competition, a basketball game, and a chance to take part in naming the NAIT Athletics needs your support to make it a great year.

Ook Mascot. Labatt's Beer and Boston Pizza will be served and this will be the best chance to get a look at our 1995/96 athletes.

Friday, September 29th, highlights another spectacular schedule with "The Good Ole Days" Raffle at noon and the Blue-Gold Hockey Classic at 4 p.m. At the raffle, you could walk away with a mountain bike, a Champs Sports Certificate, or a Mayfield Hotel/accommodation/show package. The Blue-Gold Hockey Classic features our Oaks Hockey team in some amazing tournament action.

Saturday is the big day featuring a Homecoming Barbeque, Alumni Competition, and Superstars extravaganza. The Alumni Competition will provide the athletic alumni the opportunity for "past and present" to go head to head. The Homecoming Barbeque is open to all party people. It'll be held in the main courtyard from 1-3 p.m. with another big raffle held at 2 p.m. All the corporate sponsors and athletes will be present. Lastly, the week comes to an end with the superstars event held from 3 o'clock until late that night. All the athletes will get together to participate in some creative competition of "wits and mind". The competitors will be placed on different teams and then head into a world of whirlwind fun ending up at Club Malibu "The Morgue". The Superstar Social at Club Malibu starts at 7 p.m. Tickets will be sold for $5.00. That will get you a free beverage as well as other beverage specials. It's just another great way to meet our '95-'96 Oaks in a social atmosphere!

The Oaks Athletic Association (OAA), coaches, present athletes, and the Alumni Relations Office have all worked hard to brainstorm these activities and get them rolling. They hope Homecoming will increase NAIT Athletics' profile within NAIT and the community, to involve small business and corporations, and finally, to increase the Oaks success on the playing field.

Homecoming is open to all NAIT students and staff in addition to the athletes, so don't feel left out! It promises to be exciting, so get involved! NAIT Athletics needs your support to make it a great year.

Soccer Madness

by Brandi Brownlee

The Men's Soccer Oaks are fired up and ready to go! Our talented athletes took on the Red Deer College Kings in the season opener last Friday night. The Oaks walked off the field with a grin after beating RDC 1-0 getting their league record off to a promising start Opening game jitters abounded as the Oaks were a little disappointed in their performance. In the pre-season tournament against RDC, NAIT scored 14 goals against the Kings in 2 games. Coming off stats like that can boost any team's confidence and that's exactly what it did for the Oaks. When it came down to the real thing, NAIT thought they had an easy win, but were surprised when the Kings fought hard on home turf. The first 5 minutes of the game could've injured NAIT for the game as Red Deer had the chance to put 2 quick goals on the scoreboard. NAIT did work hard and maintained possession for 70% of the game. The only goal scored in the game was triggered by rookie Rob Boyle. The shut-out was awarded to Rod Acevedo. Even though NAIT did not play their best, we still came out on top and that says a lot for our '95 squad!

The first home game of the year was held on Sunday against the Concordia College Thunder. The Thunder was no match for the Oaks as NAIT stomped them 6-1.

NAIT controlled the first half but neglected to make the most of their opportunities until the second half. The Oaks continually forced their way down the field and came up with 5 goals in the second half. Concordia was not going to let NAIT shut them out so at the 48th minute of game time, the Thunder scored their one and only point on a penalty shot. Goal keeper, Rod Acevedo, had a tremendous game. While he did not manage a double shut-out, Acevedo made an outstanding play against RDC where he stopped a breakaway and forced a possible overtime game.

It is important to mention that in the game against Concordia, all 6 goals were scored by different Ook athletes. Rob Boyle scored the solo in the first half. Dale Fong, Darryl Huley, John Westergaard, Mike Trache, and Ted Bretzer all contributed in the second.

UPCOMING GAMES...

Saturday, September 23 - NAIT vs Medicine Hat @ 5:00 p.m.

Sunday, September 24 - NAIT vs Lethbridge @ 2:00 p.m.

Both games will take place in St. Albert at the Riel Drive Soccer field.

Racers heat up the pool

by Brandi Brownlee

For 10 years now, the Racers Swim Club has been sculpting their athletes into superstars via our own NAIT Pool. The club is a family-based organization where they have incorporated swimming as a vehicle for strengthening family relations. The club strives to produce "winners in and out of the water". Aside from physical development, there is a great focus on attaining important life skills.

The Racers Swim Club is a competitive and non-competitive organization. Last year, 43 Racers swam at a competitive level and 35 participated in the many other programs offered. Many of these programs are geared towards the children to expose them to the fitness, fun and family atmosphere the Racers provide. The club offers flexible programs for all ages and abilities. An emphasis is placed on stroke technique, endurance, and safe enjoyment of the water.

The Racers employ highly qualified and caring coaches. The Head

Women's soccer off to great start

NAIT Ooks kicked off the 1995-96 season with two victories in the ACAC Soccer League opening weekend.

On Saturday, Candice Van Sickle scored a beautiful goal late in the 1st half to give the Ooks a 1-0 lead at the half against Red Deer. Candice scored again in the 2nd half and a third goal was scored by Tracie Herwander. The Ooks ran out 3-0 winners in their first game. The entire team saw action and keeper Lizaine Wheeler got the shut out. This was a good team effort considering the short pre-season period.

On Sunday, the Ooks with Candice Van Sickle in net, soundly defeated Concordia College 4-0. Carleen Beynon opened the scoring with a fine goal off a direct free kick and Ooks led 1-0 at the half. In the second half the Ooks took charge with Tracie Herwander scoring twice and Sharla Spaans one goal.

This year's team is:

Lidja Horvat, Business
Lizaine Wheeler, Business
Sandra Afonso, Business

Ooks Hockey

by Brian Stein

After the first week of training camp, NAIT Ooks head coach Don Depoe has trimmed the roster from 85 prospects to 33.

The first week of training camp ended with an inter squad game which featured 30 of the 33 players in camp. The captain of the 1994-95 Ooks Stacey Rayan paced the Whites to a 12-8 victory over the Blues.

This weekend, the Ooks play the best the Canada West has to offer in the Golden Bear Invitational from Friday, September 22nd through Sunday, September 24th at Clare Drake Arena. The Ooks will take the ice against the University of Calgary Dinosaurs on Friday at 1:00 p.m., the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds on Saturday at 4:00 p.m. and the University of Lethbridge Pronghorns on Sunday at 1:00 p.m.

OFF THE ICE: For the first time since the 1991-92 season, hockey teams in the Canadian Colleges Athletic Association will be vying for a national championship. The CCAA approved the sanction during the governing body's annual general meeting in June. The championships will be hosted from March 28th through 31st, 1996 by the Ontario Colleges Athletic Association champion. The NAIT Ooks have won the most national championships of any CCAA college (6).

Coach brings spirit of game to swimming

by Brandi Brownlee

In 1968, George Smith delighted Mexico City with his presence in the Olympics. Today, we are honoured to have him here at NAIT. Smith is the founder and Head Coach of the Racers Swim Club that train out of the Ooks Pool. He comes from a strong swimming family and passes the precious family values he's acquired on to his students.

At 45 years old, Smith has two decades of swimming under his swimming cap. He is a Commonwealth Games gold medalist and record holder. He also holds the title of a National Swimming Hall of Fame member. Smith led five of his seven brothers and sisters to spots on the Pan-American, Commonwealth, and Olympic teams. There are eight children that compose the world renowned "Swimming Smith Family". Under the watchful eye of their father, all eight siblings have competed at the national level. Being a part of such a successful family was very rewarding for Smith. He says, "I learned a lot about family commitment."

It was in 1974 that Smith turned to coaching. "A lot of people put countless hours into the sport for me," explains Smith, "I want to give something back."

Smith has learned a tremendous amount from competing at the highest level of competition and he applies all his wisdom to his coaching. He realizes the importance of acquiring a professional attitude in life as well as determining a person's own individuality. Smith recognizes that there is a lack of family orientation these days. Smith says the purpose of starting his own swim club was because, "I wanted to bring back the life skills I consider important in life." He believes in honesty, hard work, integrity, and respect for others.

Smith considers NAIT to be like another home. He has chosen our facilities to train out of not just because we have a 50M pool that's available, but for personal reasons as well. "The NAIT staff is like close family," he says, "they seem to have a good focus on the customer."

GRAPEVINES

To Kim in Business,
All I have to say is that you are the CHAMP. How about a shot at your title? We can both go down for the count! By the way, how was Vancouver? I saw you tanning on Wreck Beach...no tan lines, eh?!
Signed, Special K.
P.S. I like the new 'do.

A strange Biologist dons a blue costume,
Hey! You! Business Boys! Nice to see you hanging around here this year! Well enough shouting and down to work. Did you enjoy your summer job? No? Well don't worry! Once you get your diploma, you can be Manager of Bubbles, rather than just a wiper (cruel grin).
All the disrespect... The Blue Tardboy
(addressed to the purple and red dudes!)

To Shannon in GSA,
Well hi there! My friends and I last saw you in high school about 3 years ago and we didn't get the chance to meet you then. Each day, we see you in school and we want to talk to you. But you seem very busy when we want to talk. We are very interested to meet you and to have a great and fun time together in the very near future. Would you like to meet us? Please respond back to the Grapevines to tell us what you think ASAP!
Signed, "JB" and the Studs

Hey Rick,
The boys in Civil would just like to thank you for all the help in the softball tournament on the weekend. That was a real heads up play you made catching that ball with your face. Real talent Belland!
Civil Boys

To all you Burger Flippers (Business students),
I heard taco bell is looking for managers. Sorry I forgot, you need a University Degree for that job. (If you talk to Ronald, maybe he'll put you on the till).
Signed, Concerned Civil Students

To all the people in the tower on Friday, September 15 between 1:00 and 2:00, I hope you survived the wrath of the girl with the laugh. Considering she was the only one laughing that much, what could have been so funny?
Signed, Hyena Hunter

To the Business Bum,
You put on a great show Friday afternoon at the Nest. What a laugh! Next time don't get caught with your pants down!!
Signed, In Disbelief

To second year Civils,
Have any good cabarets at Bocha's lately?? Learn to spell (Boca's) you losers!
Signed, a student with twice the brains & twice the spelling ability (Business)

To them Bizzness studnets across the way,
Can't wait to see you at the drive-thru window at McDonalds when I get my Engineer sertifikate!
Signed, the Sivil Engineers

Derek, AKA Pink Panther,
You dumbass!! How was spending your Saturday Night in an elevator!!
Civil Boys
