Test Taking Strategies

Margaret Marean
Student Counselling Centre

Look over the following tips and see if there are some pointers you can use to maximize your marks on final exams.

Use your time effectively:

- Skim the entire exam first
- Know exactly how much time is allocated for the test; budget your time and check periodically to make sure that you are on track
- Answer the questions you know best FIRST
- If you are unable to work out a question, go on to the next one and come back to it later if time permits
- Use any extra time to review your answers. When you review them more slowly, you may eliminate careless errors or find that there is a better answer
- Don't be disturbed about other students finishing before you do. Take the time you need to put in your best effort.

Stay calm during the test:

- Arrive early enough to be organized and ready instead of in a panic, but not so early that you have a lot of time to sit and worry. Try to go into the test alert and calm instead of tense and anxious
- Don't talk about the test with classmates immediately beforehand. This usually raises anxiety levels
- Regard a lapse of memory as perfectly normal; do not let it throw you into a panic. If you block on answering one question, leave it for a while and return to it later.
- Activity reduces anxiety. If you go blank and can't think of anything to write, go on to another question or another part of the test
- Use relaxation techniques such as deep-breathing, visualization or tensing and releasing exercises before and/or during the exam
- Don't waste energy worrying, doubting yourself or wondering how others are doing. Pay attention to what you can do now.

Make sure you are answering the question:

- Make certain that you fully understand the test directions before attempting to solve problems or answer questions.
- Read each question carefully and completely before marking or writing your answer. Re-read the question if you are not totally clear on the meaning.

- Try not to read more into the question than is there, or to expect trick questions
- Check to make sure you have all the questions done before you hand in your exam

• Ask your instructor for help in interpreting a test question that is unclear or ambiguous. He or she will probably want to clear up the misunderstanding for everybody if the question really is confusing or misleading

For Problem/Formula questions:

- Write down hard-to-remember formulas, equations, and rules before you actually begin working on the test problems
- Identify the type of problem to be solved
- Think about the process needed to solve the problem and outline your method
- Underline key facts and then plug them into the process
- Cross out facts once you have used them

- Do your calculations carefully
- Check to see that you have answered the question that was asked, and that you have used the correct units

- Make sure to show all the steps in your work; you may get partial marks even if your answer is not correct

- Take the time to write legibly and make your corrections, if any, as neat as possible. Most instructors react subjectively to the appearance of papers to be graded, so let neatness work for you rather than against you

For Short Answer/Essay Questions:

- Read the question twice to make sure you are clear on what the examiner is asking
- Underline key words to make sure you interpret the question correctly
- Outline your answer; consider all points
- Develop each point as it refers to the answer

For Multiple Choice Questions:

- Anticipate answers before you look at them
- Read over all of your options
- Eliminate highly implausible answers
- If you must guess, keep in mind the following tips for multiple choice exams

- Quite often lengthy or highly specific answers will be the correct choice

- Be aware of extreme words like "always," "never," "only," "must," and "completely." These are usually the wrong answers since there are many exceptions to rules.

Should I change my multiple choice answers?

The popular belief that "your first hunch is your best hunch" is wrong. Research has shown that changes from wrong answers to right answers are at least equal, and probably improve your test scores.

Remember to give yourself a pat on the back for a job well done. You have likely put on long hours and pushed yourself to the limit. Physically and mentally, you will need some time to unwind and recuperate. Plan something to look forward to when finals are over.

And remember, counsellors at the Student Counselling Centre are available to help you with any academic, career, or personal concerns that may be interfering with your success at NAIT.

Daffodil Days

Donations For Cancer Research

Fresh

Every April the Cancer Society comes to NAIT to raise money for cancer research. Through- out the day on Friday, April 3, daffodils were being sold in the north and south lobby to students. A potted plant of daffodils was given to those generous enough to donate seven dollars, and long stem daffodils were five dollars. If you were passing by and only had whatever was left in your pocket from the cafeteria, small daffodils were given. Daffodil Days if for anyone who wants to help in finding a cure for cancer. NAIT students support and contributions this past week was definitely not unnoticed. The Cancer Society is always looking for donations and is glad to see the support from students. Next April the daffodils will be present, but will you? If you didn't happen to make it down to the south/north lobby last Friday to make a donation, the Cancer Society will be more than happy to receive something from you now. The mailing address for donations is:

I'm begging you, I'm on my knees.

The Easter Bunny is roadkill,
it's not really a great thrill.
He was hopping down the trail,

Jim thought it was really funny,
to see a flattened Easter Bunny.
It's not really a great thrill,
But the Easter Bunny is roadkill.

Reviewing 1997/98

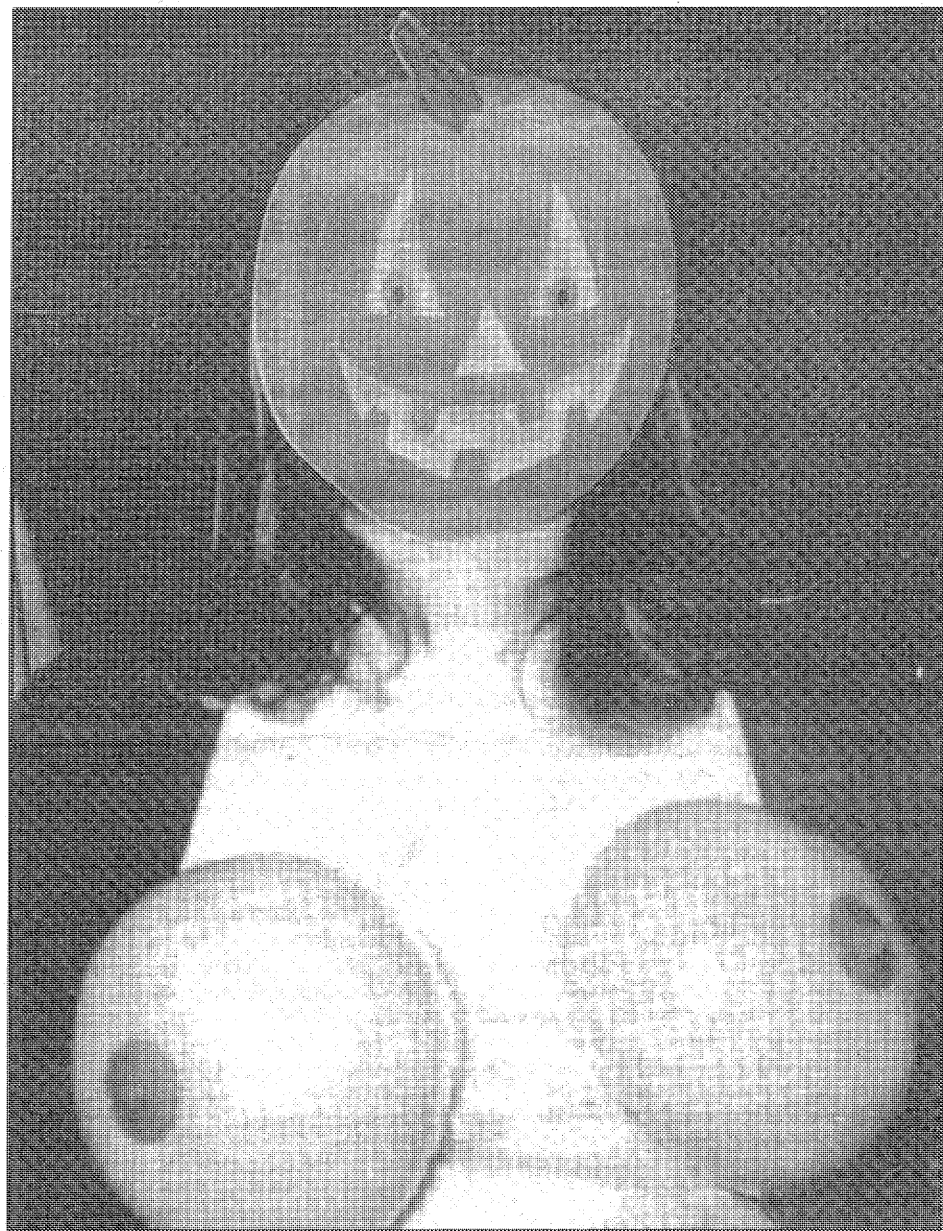

Miranda Jordan

The first blast of shit this past year came for a feature in issue three (September 11, 1997), titled COOPVISION: STAIRS—HAUL ASS. It turned kind of "Ugly", when a student responded. We've decided to run that classic piece again so we can all reflect on what we've learned from that—NOTHING. The second nasty letter we received was for an article done by our sexy demon of a guest editorialist, Hyde Cooper. It was in the September 18th issue, and was titled, "Where There's Smoke, There's Fire". Here is an excerpt: "I don't really see how smoking can kill me, unless I dropped a lit cigarette while I was driving, and went off a bridge dying in a horrible inferno (at least then I wouldn't have to ask someone for a light)." A very well-written piece. The third uproar was about a lot of things, and an article did come of it. It was titled, "Why Never to Cross The River: Denied The Rusty I Love." (Issue 6, October 7, 1997) You see, we had a bit of a problem getting into our pre-arranged interview with Rusty (One of Miranda's favorite Canadian bands) at the U of A, due to no fault of our own. We were

CoopVision: STAIRS—Haul Ass

By James Olson

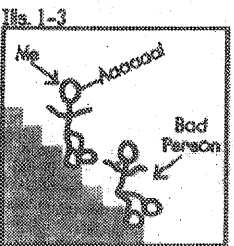

I would like to explain the simplified physics of stairwell traffic for you morons who keep holding the rest of us up.

Now, the stairs on their own are fine. They serve no real purpose but still function as stairs easily.

Even with me on the stairs, walking down, the stairs are fine. Hell, I'm even whistling—things are so fine.

Now, a wrench has been thrown in the gears. A BAD person has stepped in front of me, slowing down traffic.

SEE ??? EVERYTHING WAS FINE UNTIL OTHER PEOPLE GOT ON THE STAIRS!!!!

I swear, this happens to me everyday. It takes every ounce of my being not to shove them and send them careening down fifteen flights of concrete. I'd like to meet their bloody pulp of a body at the bottom and say, "You should have taken the elevator, stupid."

then crossed off the guest list to Bear Country by some frat boys. Needless to say, I was pissed at the time, so the article wasn't as "friendly" as it could have been. Everything got all worked out eventually, but my poem the week following made for some rocky moments. Having Ted Zanetic, our former Entertainment Editor, on the cover for that issue (7) with his pants down on the toilet was also a little risky. However, we received no complaints for that tasteless piece. The cover complaints came at Halloween time. Issue 9, October 30, 1997 had our infamous cover of a mystery girl with a set of fake boobs on with a pumpkin for a face. It was a student submission, and it had a "costume" appeal to it, so we ran it. WRONG MOVE according to some feminists. I, Miranda Jordan, single handedly promote pornography, degrade women, promote rape and assault, and undermine the campus safewalk program. I am scum basically and was told I have to "re-evaluate my position as a woman." Well, the last time I checked, I had a set of boobs myself, so I'm not sure....I might need some professional confirmation....but I think I am one. To put it mildly, that was a fun one to deal with. The dust then settled for awhile, and we enjoyed our work. After Christmas there were few complaints, but rather some praise for turning over a new leaf. But thanks to all who bitched.

Ode To The Butterdome

Butter is a yummy spread
I eat it all the time on bread

Butter makes me lick my lips
my hands, my palms, my fingertips

Butter's hard and comes in squares
I like it so much—I hate to share!

I know that others like it too—those margarine-eaters don't have a clue

One fine day a wise man said,
"Let's build a great big butter!"
and on that day a plan was launched not like any other

"What will we call it?" asked a man,
"How can we match this huge demand?"
"It looks like butter", said some guy—and innocent, crazy passerby.

So the name stemmed from butter alone except they attached the suffix DOME

And so it came with butterbrains, a building big and tall with yellow tiles and important guys to make me feel so small.

Now I like butter lots, you know
but on a night this died
On a night, I approached this dome for RUSTY and was denied.

So now I hate to look at butter because of assholes that are real big-gunners
I left the precious butterdome
the nerve of them to send me home

All in all, I don't care
if it's their style to be unfair
Not only I will pay a price so please take note and realize this icon that they hold so great is sure as hell not as great as NAIT.

Farewell Address

Well, it's been a slice. I've gotten my kicks here at Nait, gotten my rocks off, you might say I've grown a little. Nait is an interesting place and I think somehow, in my own little way, I've contributed to the atmosphere. Now it's time for the final screw yous and thanks for nothings.

Thanks to the management and staff of the Nest for getting me drunk and adding to my confusion and rage by impairing my judgment. I couldn't have done it without my friends behind the bar, Silent Sam and Bacardi. They're good guys once you get to know them.

Thanks to the administration of Nait for allowing me to contribute absolutely nothing to the academic status of this fine institution. Without your Machiavellian politics and red tape, education would not be the stronghold of bureaucracy and social faux pas it is today. Your substandard ethics are the very model of closet Nazi behavior. Keep on going strong until someone from my generation can take over and continue to uphold the tradition you and your neo-facist friends have created.

Thanks to the people who read my articles, without your literary support and anti-authoritarian sentiments, my life would be a meaningless mess. Keep on listening to the heretics and the sociopaths and everything will be just fine. No, really. I promise.

Thanks to the always moral and vigilant citizens of Planet Nait for keeping me entertained and paving the way for another generation of useless, unscrupulous, and just plain moronic politicians. Some day, maybe some of you will have the chance to be on the board of directors of a big corporation and then you'll have the chance to fuck up on a whole other level, in ways you can't even imagine right now. The funny thing is that after reading this, you'll still think you're right and keep on screwing up the same way you always have. Good luck and God bless.

Lastly, to all the people I pissed off: go to Hell. To all the people that pissed me off: go to Hell. I really do think I'm better than everyone else-what do you think about that?

Redhatsuck!

James Olson

Alright, I know a lot of you are pretty insecure about your tastes in clothing, and you don't have much originality when it comes to fashion, but give me and the rest of the world a goddamned break.

I'd like to meet the guy that designed those Red roots hats for the Canadian Olympic team and shake his hand. Then I'd punch the S.O.B in the face for creating the greatest mockery of head wear since those big foam hats you pro-sports fans are so fond of.

THINGS TO SAY TO PEOPLE WEARING A RED ROOTS BEANIE:

1. Point and wave frantically, yelling "It's Ross Rebegliati! It's Ross

Rebegliati!"

2. "Gee, you're a little overweight to be in the Olympics, aren't you?"

3. "That hat's pretty cool. It looks like your head just got it's period."

4. "How much is Roots paying you to wear that hat? What ever it is, I'll double it if you take it off."

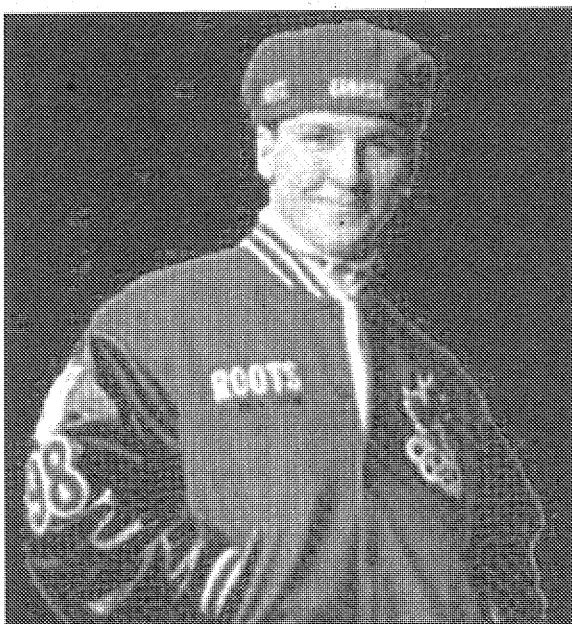

5. "Do you miss Nagano?"

I swear to God, if I see one more middle aged fat guy sporting one of those red hats, I'll lose it on them. Roots calls it the "Poorboy Hat." Poorboy hat? What the hell is that supposed to mean; the hats costs $39.95.

If I was a poorboy, I sure as hell wouldn't spend forty bucks on some shitty hat.

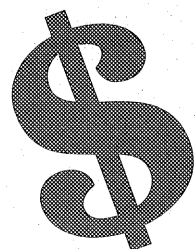

Then, if you're feeling really frisky, you can buy the "Podium Jacket" to go along with the "Poorboy Hat" for only $498. So now you have the Poorboy on the Podium and your out almost $540.

Paying money to look bad has never been so easy, or so expensive.

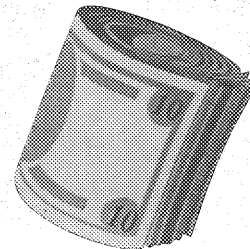

Does Elvis look like a poor boy to you?

My Thanks

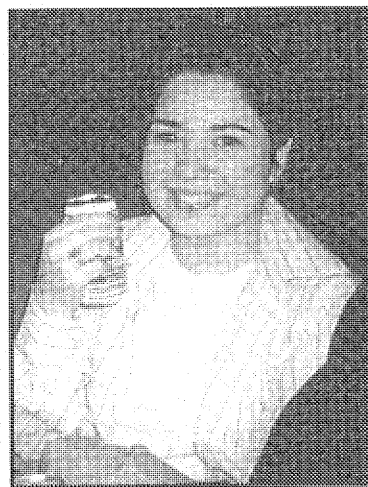

Miranda Jordan

Being the Editor-in-Chief for the Nugget this past year was amazing. We covered a lot of territory. We went to concerts and gigs like you wouldn't believe and interviewed a pretty extensive list of artists and athletes. We went to hockey games, volleyball games, badminton championships—you name it—we made an effort to be there. We went on fan buses to Calgary, and a ski trip to Montana. The staff this year did their absolute best to cover topics that we thought, you, the student, would be interested in reading. This year was FUN, to say the least, but the reason why this year was so great, was because of the team we had this year. The Nugget staff is made up of a diverse group, and over the course of this year, we became a very tight knit team, and functioned unbelievably well in every situation. I would like to thank the following people for making this year a phenomenal one:

James Olson

If you consistently read James' stuff, you would know that he is a ray of sunshine in our office. Best known for his unique and controversial writing style, James was a definite asset to The Nugget this year. He is a colorful character to say the least. He basically has no morals and will roll over for anybody. He hates God, hates the government, hates Americans, hates political correctness, and most of all, he hates YOU. And he's also the only guy I know that can drink six straight double vodkas.

Lori Skarsen

Also known as "Fresh", and you don't want to know why—and NO it has nothing to do with her lip ring. Gory Lori is the girl that you'd here laughing at the top of her lungs if you ever walk past Room E-128, and her smile could brighten your day. Although she deems herself a slacker because she was crawling in here Monday nights to do all of her articles, she was actually one of the hardest working reporters we had. I tended to boss her the most because she's also my room-mate—but she put up with me, so for that Lor, I will buy you a drink...that is...if you think you can hold it down...or not throw it in someone's face...

Nadine Smith

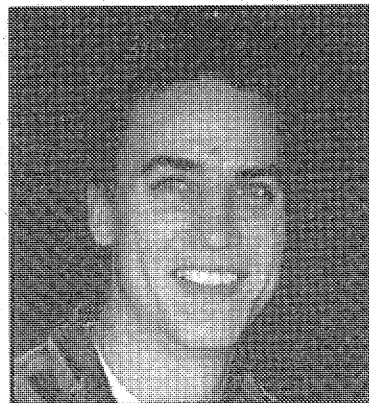

This is the first girl to comment on the grapevines when they come in because she has a habit of talking to the computer screen. "What a loser!" usually comes out of her mouth for a lot of them, but she stays happy because her Richard Marx poster is posted on the wall in front of her.... Nadine sometimes could not control writing in the grapevines herself; she was our resident shit disturber. I would like to take this opportunity to say good luck in the WCW, Funky Cool Medina!

Craig Wourms

Craig is in charge of getting the pop, and I'm in charge of him.....so let's just say, our fridge was consistently filled with pop over the last year or else he'd have his ass kicked. DaWorm was also quite popular in the grapevines this past year, and oh yeah...he did write some articles every once in awhile too....(I wouldn't know because he was usually slinking in late on Sundays or MONDAYS past the deadline), but he holds the record for finishing them in record time.

Trent Rohovich

Well there's not much I can say about Trent that people wouldn't already know. Trent was our "paper-boy", in charge of distributing The Nugget, so you could most likely catch him early Thursday mornings on the CUSH. As a NAITSA employee, Trent was also in charge of the distribution of posters. Good job, Trent....but I don't want to bug you too much because I know you've been "shafted" one time too many.

Noy

I want to sex you up. Noy is the girl who can party 24/7. In the short time that Noy was with us, we've learned a lot about sex, drugs, and rock'n'roll. She has a special microchip in her brain that allows her to know when bands will be coming and where they will be playing. She is responsible for injecting a definite personality into the entertainment section; she's the girl with balls who will say she's horny. Besides the fact that Noy is an entertainment magnet, she also has a domestic side. She can sew one hell of a leopard tank top.

Marcel Cretain

"DO YOU KNOW WHO I AM?" I'm the hot, sexy photographer with the funky lenses that is making every girl on main campus keel over from being overwhelmed with LUST. He's also the guy that we can always rely on to take our drunk asses to concerts, bars, and NAIT hockey games—All for the perfect shot. Or he'll even escort you down to the library on the CUSH, if you don't mind a little CUSH-LASH. (If you've ever been scared shitless from hearing a HONK in the hallway, it was probably him).

Pam Dill

PAMELA. Yeah, we know her.....we know her quite well—she's "THE TITS!" As Comm VP this past year of NAITSA, and my superior, Pam proved to be a tremendous support when we would land ourselves in hot water. I like to call her Miss Ezzies when she shows up late to proof on Wednesdays....because I learned on more than one occasion that Pam is a big rye and coke fan. But every week it all got done. Pam was very active throughout the year with the paper, and I think that she deserves a lot of credit. The only things we have left to do is 1) Go to Showgirls, 2) Get you tattooed, and 3) Take the box we ripped off the wall back to the Annex.....

Darrel Gregory

"I'm sorry, Darrel, but we're waiting on....." is what Darrel, our Production Manager, has had to put up with practically every week since he's been here from me. If he wasn't so damn fast and efficient at putting the paper together, maybe I could buy some time here and there to get my shit together. How selfish of you, Darrel. Although we only got to see Darrel for two days out of the week, he made our team complete.....and Darrel, you are worth shutting the stereo off for.

Linda Campbell

"Hey! Who's that walking down the hallway with some veggies from the Caf along the wall, hoping not to be noticed or else she'll be stopped?" It's Linda, our Advertising Manager—and I always notice. In fact, Linda, I'm surprised you're not sick of us tailing you into your office all of the time—but I figure those candies on your desk are there for a reason. Linda is to us, "The Goddess of The Nugget", because if you ask anyone—she really does know everything there is to know about it. This lady of logic is our ROCK, and I'd like to think we sometimes enlighten her with our profound intellect and some choice words of our own—such as "CHICKEN-SHIT."

Thank You For Your Letters

You know, after two years of working for The Nugget, I am always amazed to see a response from students in regards to some of the articles written by our Editors. It amazes me to see what articles they choose to respond to. When a news article is written about defacing NAIT's lockers, for instance, and a request for student feedback is stated within the article—we do not even receive a note saying, "fuck-you, that's my crappy locker you're talking about." (You'd think students would care, since this would cost them) But when an Editor writes her OPINION about sex or what man she thinks is good looking, we receive a flood of nifty, little, personal complaints. Now, I'm not defending the views of either Editor, nor do I necessarily share the same belief as stated in a certain article; however, I have a problem with you people that just bitch, and ridicule others. What is funny is that it shows what the student population is actually avidly reading. And this is the real joke—if you, the people who write these "I'm offended" letters directed your precious time and energy into writing a (get this) ARTICLE perhaps to submit instead of writing a letter griping about what is or is not in the paper, maybe all parties could benefit further. To make things even more clear:

1) Buddy who wants a movie review because there aren't enough for his liking, and checking in The Edmonton Journal everyday is a little too difficult, why don't you write us a review on a movie with the time you sit down to write us your complaint.

2) And to the guy who is crying about a writer not agreeing with his opinion over a movie—well that one takes the cake! OSCAR, is that your name? You just have to get over yourself. Once again, write us a damn review, and show us what we're made of. The Nugget has always encouraged student submissions. If you feel that strongly about, oh I don't know, let me just pick a movie out of thin air for the sake of argument—TITANIC, over the movie, The Man In The Iron Mask, why not share your great insight into your world? What is it that possesses you to claim another person is wrong because they don't think YOUR way. Write us an article or else keep it to yourself. It's just a movie. One person's opinion. We're not on the selection committee for the Academy Awards or anything—we can't do that much damage. You can sleep soundly.

3) Open House complainers - If I would have known you folks down in RTA were going to get all teary-eyed over your technology not getting their picture in the paper with a write-up, we would have been down there with bells on. But for the record—did you call to inform us of these great sights down in your wing? NO. Did you take the time to submit something yourselves? NO. The coverage done on Open House was not extensive at all, by our choice. And that's what it is—our choice to cover topics. I feel that Open House is plugged enough in and around NAIT sufficiently. Posters are hung prior to the event, and media forms such as Power 92 are on location commenting on it over the radio. I'm sure you guys down there covered it as well, so we CHOSE to do a brief run-down. (Sorry if our choice hurt you).

4) For any people planning on bitching - There are only five writers here on staff, who are also full-time students. They put in an average of an extra 25-30 hours per week on top of a full-time course load. Also, the staff are empowered to pursue their own stories; assignments are not dictated. It's our job to cover every damn thing at NAIT? We try our best, but to hell it is. So, when you sit down to write your "oh-so-significant" letter criticizing the job of another, start out by telling me what you do in your spare time to contribute to the well-being of the world or how you're involved. Maybe if we hear your sob-ass story, we'll feel sorry for you instead of laughing at your letter. Because that's basically the one thing I love about "hate-mail"—it gives us all a good laugh.

To conclude, The Nugget is hiring. Why don't you apply for a job, and see what it's really like. In fact, my position is the first one open. The Nugget is not here to blow sunshine up your ass. Thank you for your letters.

to the most popular, and interesting interactive display at NAIT's Open House. By the way, we don't think we deserved some coverage, we know we did, and so did everyone who passed through RTA.

Dave Haley, Rick Payne, Jay Dylan

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to a letter wrote last week by, "A few of your friends from Photo Tech." First, I would like to congratulate you on your excellent display. Your photo's and motorbike were very interesting, and nice to look at. However, your weakness was that it was nothing but a "display," it was boring "look but don't touch" affair. What Radio, and T.V. had to offer was an opportunity to get involved in a radio drama, or television game show. Not only was our technology's activities better, but it probably passed through twice, or three times the amount of people you had walking around and looking at pictures, (I can do that at home by the way). And, if you consider putting pictures on the wall, a "great effort" I don't know how you're gonna make it in the real world. I would also like to say that I'm sure there were other technologies out there that had a better set-up than you, but then again, one of their students isn't the Nuggets photographer, so you'd probably tell them that photography students don't have any "control over what is printed in the Nugget." Give me a break, just like we don't have any control over what we talk about on the radio. Maybe next year the Nugget will send a photographer

To the Editor:

I am very disappointed in the Nugget coverage of NAIT Open House. I agree with 'Rickster' and I am very offended at the Photo Tech rebuttal. It was not only the Radio & Television area that was missed. If there's over 70 technologies at NAIT, why were about 10 percent reported on? Why were there pictures of even less than that? Was the photographer for the Nugget aware that there were other displays around the school? As well, the starving students who took time off from work and schoolwork, would like to know what the public thought. Did no one talk to the people going through the displays? In my opinion, after slaving away for weeks in preparation for this event, I could care less for the 4 pages of Entertainment the Nugget runs, or the sports or whatnot. I would have liked some feedback from the people who attended. I find that it was not just Open House coverage that was thrown aside so easily. You have a very opinionated news staff, whose columns center on their life alone. I really don't see a reason to even bother reading the Nugget if everything will center on Nugget staff interests and not what is actually going on around school.

Behind the Bench

A Final Farewell

Craig Wourms

The last installment of "Behind the Bench" has finally arrived. I am sure for some people, that are sick of reading about my thoughts and feelings appear on paper, it could not have happened earlier in the year. I have had a lot of fun this year sitting down and putting my thoughts into words, some good, some bad, and some made no sense at all, but in all of them I tried to get a point across.

I would like to thank everyone that submitted articles for the Nugget's sports section and making my job a little more interesting, and easy, this year. Since I am on a thanking kind of topic, I guess I should thank my Boss, Miranda Jordan, for putting up with my expanded deadlines. As she once told me, "You are in charge of the pop - and I am in charge of you - so go get me some damn pop!" I tried to meet all your little challenges and I wish you well next year in your worldly travels. Even though she was a pain in the ass most of the time and was the source of all those wonderful "grapevines", thank you Nadine for putting in the extra hours looking after the sports section and keeping me on my toes all year.

Enough about the paper, I would like to thank my extended family this year. The majority of my volleyball team has been around for the past two or three years and saying good-bye is not easy for me. There was more than one bumpy occasion this season and they all brought the group a little closer. I can honestly say that this was the most memorable year of coaching I have had. Candice, Lisa, Tara, Danielle, Joanna and R.J. have been around for a while and have seen both good and bad times over the past few seasons. I would not trade any of them or you, each one is special and means very much to me.

Colette, Angela, Casey, Tannis and Nicole you all experienced some growing pains this year. Some of them were new to me and others I had seen many times before. Each of you handled them very well and are much stronger players because of these struggles. Both my assistant coaches deserve a big thank you. Cora Lee, I could see that the extra workload I gave you this year made you a better more confident coach. Carolyn, considering we did not even know how to talk to one another for half the season, we ended up somewhere near the same page. I enjoyed your new outlook on the game, the fact that you made me remember so many of the basics that I let slide the past year, and having you around to kick some ass when it needed to be done. With so many of the team graduating this year I will miss them all and I am looking forward to next year, to all of you, I wish you well. NUFF SAID!

On this page, Craig discusses his volleyball girls — but for some strange reason we've covered the page with pictures of jumping boys. Good one — I know. Craig — you're in shit for that. (And go get us some damn pop — the year's not over YET!)

What Happened This Year?

DaWorm

In a quick flash here are the headlines that caught the most attention this year:

Week 1 - Not too much, little soccer action as they started the season at home.

Week 2 - Basketball and soccer report on weekend success. I get introduced as sport info type guy with behind the bench.

Week 3 - An inside scoop in regards to team bonding and initiations.

Week 4 - More soccer and I take a little heat from my team. Behind the Bench lets everyone know what really goes on behind the scenes with a women's volleyball team.

Week 5 - All the teams got introduced to the masses. X-Country has first meet and comes home on a high note.

Week 6 - Women's soccer steps closer to play-offs. X-country wins silver. Scotty "The Bulldog" Olson beat up some poor Australian, and we heard that Wade "Random Thoughts From an Empty Head" Fennig was doing well in the IHL.

sets an attendance record. Hockey starts up with "Hore not as pretty as he used to be".

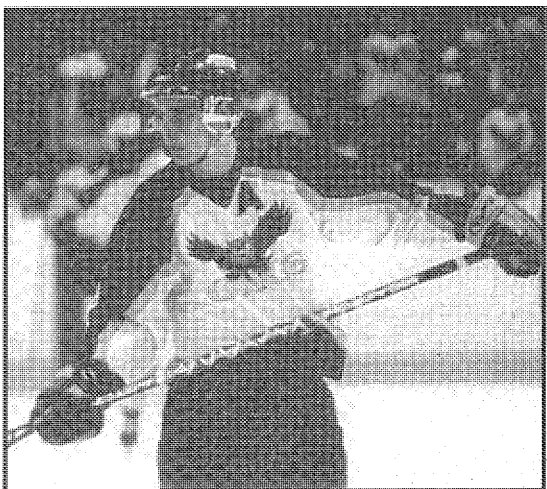

Week 7 - Wow, a canoe team. Hockey starts winning. I vent my frustrations at pro athlete salaries.

Week 8 - Hockey unveils new jerseys and beat RDC 6 - 1. Lady come up short in soccer play-offs.

Week 9 - RODEO WEEK. Volleyball gets going against GPRC. Canoeing "Psycho Thunder Chickens Take on the World!" end up in fourth place.

Week 10 - X-Country does NAIT proud in Kelowna Interprovincial Meet. Riders knock off the Eskimos.

DaWorm almost wrote a full-page article this week — better yet, he found some great pics to go with it.

Week 11 - GREYCUP WEEK, one too many hang over and Saskatchewan goes down to Toronto. All the NAIT teams won this week. (Mark your calendars)

Week 12 - Hockey Oaks let first place slip away. Badminton tied with everyone in competition. A quick look back at how beer sales increased attendance at games.

Week 13 - Women's Basketball to town on King's College. My Christmas wishes to all the teams. We hear about hockey's trip to Caronport and Coach Mahl lets us know how he feels about Keyano fans.

Week 14 - Welcome back to school. Volleyball returns from California. (surviving a killer escalator) and we heard from Wade Fennig who is playing for the Tallahassee Tiger Sharks.

Week 15 - Sexual content from behind the bench. Oilers finally dump Arnott. Men's volleyball earned a 7th place National Ranking.

Week 16 - Fan bus gets a little crazy as hockey Oaks drop weekend series against SAIT. Volleyball returns from GPRC on a high note. Badminton plays at GMCC and starts to prepare for Nationals.

Week 17 - ACAC Crunch Time. Hockey Wins. Swim team makes waves and I ramble on about nothing and a little bit of everything.

Week 18 - Olympics are on there way and Ross Rebagiati is flying high. Women's Volleyball went south for play-offs. Holowaychuk plays final league game. Hockey lights it up in preparation for play-offs.

Week 19 - Men's Volleyball came up a little short as they hosted the ACAC play-offs. An Olympic shoot out that no one understood. Women's volleyball says good-bye.

Week 20 - "Trojans not safe anymore" hockey heads to SAIT. Badminton Nationals get started. I wonder what makes athletes tick.

Week 21 - Badminton was a success. Curling brings home Silver and Bronze. Everyone discovers two new world class athletes that work for NAIT.

Week 22 - "Head Wound" Hore lets us know that hockey came up a little short. Got a little crazy for ITV Sports Night.

Week 23 - Baseball gets started. Volleyball All-Star Game draws huge crowd. Two World Gold Medals for NAIT PFT student.

Week 24 - Why Tyson? I find a new addiction in Mountain Biking.

"The Shit" Speaks To Me

Miranda Jordan

It took some time, but I knew it was going to happen. As some of you may remember from last fall, I was scheduled to interview Rusty at the U of A before their concert at Bear Country. It didn't end up happening at that time, and in my article, "Why Never To Cross The River: Denied The Rusty I Love", I said quote: "I know it's in God's order to ensure that I meet them sometime or another. I'm not worried." Well, boys and girls—that time has come. With the recent release of Rusty's third album, Out Of Their Heads, I had the opportunity to speak with Scott McCullough, the guitarist/alternate vocalist for Rusty, and he had a lot to say about life on the road, being an independent band, the new album.....and his dog, Dreads.

ABOUT RUSTY (FACTS)...

FORMED-Toronto, 1994

MEMBERS-Ken MacNeil, vocals. Scottie McCullough, guitar/vocals. John Lalley, drums. Jim Moore, bass.

ALBUMS-Rusty EP 1994, Fluke 1995, Sophomoric 1996, Out Of Their Heads 1998.

ABOUT THE CD...An art form that you'd think could not be developed any further, reliable Rusty blasts another album out only a year after their last release (Sophomoric), and manages to sustain a carefully coveted niche in rock'n'roll. Out Of Their Heads contains a formula that the narrow-minded will not comprehend—a mixture of ska, funk, country, and some leaks of hip-hop. The whole album was recorded in five days, including the writing; and with the appearance that they were "winging it", you sure wouldn't be able to tell by the final result. This CD will take you on a turbulent, thrashing journey from a simple, melodic track, "Memories", to a boosted, rapping, "I'm Hungry." Other tracks off of the album that epitomize the term "desirable" include: "It's Christmas Time (and I'm Poor)", "Soul For Sale", and "Let's Break Robert Out of Jail."

ABOUT SCOTTIE...

Taking on many faces, the chameleon of the band, if you will, Scottie sings, plays the organ and pia, and handles the guitar. He is the shit. And boy could we talk! Calling from his apartment in Toronto, Ontario, Scottie enlightened me on why Rusty is now Out Of Their Heads. It is a combination really of being on the road, being determined to lay down tracks while shedding rehearsals, not getting caught up in gaining star-status, and aggressively meeting the needs of the die-hard, underground following that Rusty has provoked. We also discussed other Canadian acts that are "rising" furiously, and analyzed the depth to certain artists, such as MOIST. "Moist can't write themselves out of a paper bag", denotes Scottie, as I began to laugh. Scottie and I also digressed onto topics that hours could be spent delving into: Native culture and Toronto hot-spots (Edgewater, The Drake, Horseshoe), to name a few. He's an extremely articulate individual, and speaks with sincerity—even with Dreads, his German sheppard/Husky/Mutt dog barking in the background for a little attention.

ABOUT THEIR GIG...

Ravishing Rusty will be in Edmonton at The REV on Monday, April 13, 1998. So if your in the market to see one of Canada's most prominent untapped bands unload some '60's garage rock—bring a tacky cowboy hat, your cigarettes, and be prepared to drink your punk-ass face off.

To get to the point, Rusty is driven—and I'm riding them.

Good Bye for now

Noy Vongsamphang

Well, it has been great being the Entertainment Editor for The Nugget. I met a lot of interesting people along the way and gained many good contacts. It was great going to all the gigs, usually 3-4 a week! And doing in-person and phone interviews. I hope everyone enjoyed all my articles. For you that didn't....whatever! Next time you want to read a certain CD, concert, movie review, etc. voice your opinion to me or submit it yourself! For the guys regarding my "Sex -O- Meter" article, Madonna is my 5 star. She's an amazing artist who is not afraid to be different, sexual or free. And my favorite Spice Girl is Posh. She has style and class.

Here are some people I would like to thank. Without these people my articles would really suck! (no particular order):

Ross Munro

and everyone else that I missed! A special Thanks goes out to Miranda Jordan for coming to gigs and getting totally loaded with me before doors open!!

Damn The Diva

1997 "Flow and Steer"
Location: Vancouver, British Columbia

HISTORY

Back in 1990 two friends, Kevin and Jerry, decided to get together creatively and start writing material for songs. Two years later they brought in another friend, Rob, to play drums. It was obvious that these three guys were talented and motivated musicians because they released their first song called "Killing Floor" before they even decided on a band name! As years rolled by, line-up changes were made. Rob left the band, and Tom and Jamie stepped in. From there a beautiful, creative and symbolic name was thought up to represent this Vancouver based band. Damn The Diva was what they came up with. Diva, meaning Goddess and by adding damned "produced a lot of imagery" and "had a universal appeal to me," stated Kevin in an interview I had with him. Great name, great music.

PRESENT

At this time, the Damn The Diva are trying to get their music across and out. They are still an independent act, but are quickly gaining respect, fans, and recognition. In 1993, they received "The Best New Band Award" by Demolisten. Damn The Diva are really hard working, dedicated, musicians who are also "passionate fans of music."

Damn The Diva have toured with some other great Canadian bands such as: the Odds, Mollies Revenge, Age of Electric, and many more. Damn The Diva just got back home from their United States tour. They were received extremely well, and a relocation to New York might be in this Canadian band's near future.

At the moment, two members of the Odds will be substituting for two Damn The Diva members. Jamie (drummer) is currently working on another project, and Tom (bassist) has left to be a full time member for Econoline Crush.

This little member situation is not holding these musicians back in any way, though. Damn The Diva will be doing another Canadian tour soon. Edmonton is definitely on their tour list.

MUSIC

Kevin describes Damn The Diva's sound as "dreamy, creamy melodic gems you can air guitar and make love to at the same time."

Damn The Diva's 1997 album, "Flow and Steer," is definitely one of my favorites. The album is quite relaxing yet energetic. Songs like "Sky," "Alcohol" and "Coal" gets you in a dreamy mood where positive energy and thoughts flow through your mind and body. While songs like "Beam me out," "Nova Cain" and "Breezy" make you want to get up and move about. Damn The Diva just re-released "Flow and Steer" because they added a new song called "Diamond Days," which they wrote in New York. Kevin is responsible for writing Damn The Diva's unique lyrics. Life, in general, inspires Kevin to write.

The lyrics and music are amazing and beautiful. A lot of passion and individual ideas are contributed into making it. Their live performance are amazing too. They are really positive and have a great time showing what they are all about to an audience. They are a band that has the power, precision, and will to win a crowd over. Every show they play, more and more people are added to their growing fan base.

Damn The Diva are influenced by many other bands like: David Bowie, Jeff Buckley, Radiohead, The Beatles, Tori Amos and more. They are very diverse and open-minded individuals and it shows in their music.

PLUG

Their single released on the radio right now is "Diamond

Dreamy, creamy, melodic gem-makers, Damn the Diva.

I have recommended many bands before, but Damn the Diva is a band I feel great about.

Days." The video out is called "Armed Together." The album to pick up is "Flow and Steer." It can be purchased at any HMV and A&B Sound under the independent section.

I have recommended many bands before, but Damn The Diva is a band I strongly feel great about.

They are very passionate and friendly individuals. They have amazing stage presence and live performances. Listening to the music definitely creates images in one's mind. As musicians, they are all working towards a common goal and are devoted to it - their music.

The Rules of Karma

The writer and publisher of this material in no way accepts any responsibility in regards to the content of this material and any action taken herein.

RULE NUMBER ONE:

WATCH TELEVISION

Television is the greatest invention in history. Newton Minow, Federal Communications Commission chairman under United States President John F. Kennedy, called television "a vast wasteland" because of what he considered the dismal quality of its programming. But he was a jerk and he didn't know what he was talking about, even if he was chairman of the FCC. G.R. Carey invented the first television in 1875 and it is our duty as citizens of TV land to worship this man as a God. Other notable characters in television history include Walter Cronkite, Ed Sullivan, Captain Kirk, Milton Berle, Mary Tyler Moore, Johnny Carson, Mr. Dressup, Bugs Bunny, the Animaniacs and the Spice Girls.

The Nugget Staff wished to extend the best of luck to the newly elected Communications VP position

CORY POPIUK!

*It's All Yours
Now

RULE NUMBER TWO:

LISTEN TO LOUD MUSIC

Most of the the people we meet in everyday life are full of shit. By listening to incredibly loud music you will, over time, develop the ability to completely ignore these people by replaying your favorite songs in your head while they are talking. For this purpose, a few of my personal favorites are PJ Harvey, Green Day, the Headstones and the Beatles.

RULE NUMBER THREE:

CREATE HAVOC

Greatness is defined by a person's ability to stir up the proverbial "hornet's nest." If you are capable of inciting a revolt, publicly denouncing an authoritarian or disturbing ill-gotten peace, do so. Freedom of speech is a right, not a privilege. As a right, it is each person's duty to abuse it.

RULE NUMBER FOUR:

DRUG AND ALCOHOL ABUSE

Drugs are good...alcohol is good. Everyone needs to let loose at least once a day, so drink and be merry. You'll find all sorts of statistics and studies that say substance abuse kills braincells- fuck 'em. Without time to let loose and forget reality, a person can become terminally sadistic- SO FIRE UP.

RULE NUMBER FIVE:

THE ART OF HATING LIFE

Everything fucking sucks. It's a fact so learn to live with it. If life hates you, hate it back. Lash out at authority figures and people you have it easier than you do. That's the only reason other people are there, for you to emotionally abuse them and hate them. Focus all your energy on the things that bother you in life and tell anyone who will listen that their life sucks and it's not going to get any better. There are a few demotivational statements I'd like to share with you: "Life will ignore you"; "Things will never be any better than they are today"; "Fuck everybody." That's the art of hating life.

To: "Girl of My Dreams", I'd like to meet you, then you could show off all your features that you claim I'll love. How about at the Nest, Thursday, April 9, 1998, after school. Marcel (photographer)

To Elvis in the Tower! Talked to you at Ezzies briefly (we have the same ring, remember?). Hope you're not going back to the ville this summer because you're too nice of a guy to waste your time there. Signed, A wannabe Priscilla.

Attn All Business Grads: April 18 if you're looking for a PARTY we've got a hottub with your name on it. Bring your booze and trunks and get ready to shake. Call ASAP cause there's only room for approx. 250 people. Interested? Call Leah @ 454-2569 for more info.

ASBG, Thanks for never writing back. ASBG no longer stands for "Another Sexy Bald Guy" it stands for "A Super Big Geek!" Grow your hair out already!

Photo Becky, It was only a one person invite, Becky. Bring another girl and let the glee begin. I'll bring the tri-pod and camera. Actually, make it a funsaver camera because, oh yes, we will have fun! Mogwa/Bigboy

To the 3 BUS Hats: We saw you again at Big Daddy's and you were wearing new hats. These are even better than the last ones. You all rock. Signed, Brad Pitt look-alike & Johnny Ray. P.S. Hats make us hard!

I yearn for you. You had two eyes and didn't drool when you stood up. Your stubble was well groomed and your breasts in the right place. Only you can fulfill my dreams. I also am an earthbound extraterrestrial bound within this human form. Like you, I am a green lizard fetishist into dwarf-tossing and existential hyper-sur-realism, no weirdos please. Bonzo Superman you son-of-a-bitch, you make me look like the son-of-a-preacher-man. Burn in Hell! Len is everything zen!

When I was there I fell down a lot. Now I don't half as much, so I am good for out-door activities. I love romantic dinners in candlelight and children. Well, actually, I don't love children sexually unless they are over 18 and human, and I also eat food without candles. I also like nude photography, except sometimes, I get cold taking all those pictures without clothes on. I am not shallow. In fact, I'm quite deep and thick when I'm vertical. Horizontally I am exceptional! Bonzo

To Scott C. Williams, You're NOT all that and a bag of chips. You're just a skinny, fat guy. A q-tip with all the cotton in the middle. (But we still love you...beep! beep!, honk! honk!, AROOGA!) Just Friends (with friends like us, you don't need enemies!)

"Hi, my name is Mike, and I'm a freak!" Signed, Grateful for the howl! (we owe you!)

To the Barbie Doll in the E-wing-second floor. I see you every day with your beautiful blond hair flowing down your back. Just to know your name and get a chance to talk to you would make me the happiest guy at NAIT. Fantasizing.

"DUKES" from Denturist Tech., You may not be the Big Man in Edmonton with the ladies, but you're a BIG MAN to us! Love your travel companions.

Jenn B. Gettin' Jiggy with ya!

Tonka, next time why don't you just stand at the top of the stairs, make yourself into a ball and roll down. It's probably a lot less painful than always falling! The one and only! ME

Sunshine & Angel, remember me, I am tuesday. Remember when, I am 5 to 6. Remember why, because I said so... The Pest

To Scott from the Beer Gardens, I wrote my phone number on your arm so you would call me, but you never did. Instead I got some girl calling me asking who I am & why my number was on your arm. What's up with that? Signed, Lose my number

Wes (It's been awhile), well in highschool you said we would have a special night together at Grad. I didn't make it to Grad, but hey! I am graduating once again and I'll be looking for you. Waiting for those Hot Oil Rub downs. Deany Jolie C., ARC: I've seen you from time to time. I offer my compliments; you're a very nice, lovely young lady. Unfortunately, unless I'm mistaken, you also smoke. Bummer. -Aloof Admirer.

Shawn, thanks for responding. I figure you live on the southside, so do I. If I ever see you again I will definatly say HI! Happy Mart Cashier "Chick"

Lo-Rider, I know you read my last entry, when are you going to reply? I'm interested in getting together with you, all the things I could do to you! Tell me we'll meet, I want you. Please reply. Signed, smurfette

Seeking: SWF, marketing student, brunette, 5'7". Only hotties with small racks need apply. Signed FinGuy

French Vanilla, Missing someone especially a person you love arouses. Feelings that can't be resolved by filling your life with other people. I still miss you even though our time is over and you are gone. Irish Cream

To: The NAIT Second Cup Workers...I think you guys are amazing! The way you make the coffee is so sexy! Neil, I hear you're single. If so, let me know! Coffee Lover

To Laurel Y: A scholar's mind and Beauty that is painful to experience from this impossible distance. You are truly a rare and gorgeous woman. If only.... Tortured Admirer

FV, Wherever I go, I see you in all. The old familiar places where so many of our sweetest memories & dreams began. Just the thought of those memories warm me & their magic glows in my heart. Even the cold hard reality that we can never be together will ever extinguish those thoughts and dreams. IC

To Dames of Dental:

Thanks for proving my point—you're always flapping at the gums. And, sign my name? As if I want a class full of whiny snapperheads tailing me all over school. I got enough of you wannabe white-collar workers from where I sit peacefully. And I'll take your "suture" if you can find me—that is if you're not too busy looking in the mirror fixing your hair or ironing your rainbow smocks.

Signed, Hoping you'll be retained
