

Happy Thanksgiving!

Happy Birthday NAIT!

JENNIFER Benoit

NAIT turns 40 years old this year! To acknowledge the monumental birthday, there is going to be a weekend celebration on Friday, October 18th to Sunday, October 20th. Class reunions, tours, alumni hockey, basketball, and volleyball games, a gala banquet and dance, and a President's brunch for the first NAIT graduates from 1963, 1964, and 1965 are all part of the NAIT 40th Anniversary Homecoming. It is said to be the largest homecoming in NAIT's history.

Starting Friday evening, classmates and faculty from the classes of 1963-65, 1967, 1972, 1977, 1982, and 1992 will be able to come together once again to remember their years at NAIT and to see the old classmates and friends they haven't seen in years! NAIT graduates are coming all the way from such places as Texas and Australia for the event. There will also be many interesting alumni, including some from the first class of graduates 38 years ago. There is no formal program that night, but the event takes place at The Nest.

Saturday will begin with alumni and faculty registration in the morning. It is also the Sports & Wellness Open House, which includes all the Ooks alumni games with hockey, volleyball, and basketball.

Also on Saturday will be the campus tours. Undoubtedly, campus has changed for the alumni since they attended classes at NAIT, and this will be a chance for them to refamiliarize themselves with the campus they used to know, and get acquainted with the additions to NAIT campus over the years, including the recent construction of the HP Centre for Information and Communications. The HP Centre opening program and reception will take place in the afternoon.

Saturday night is the gala banquet and dance, and Sunday morning is the President's Brunch with Dr. Sam Shaw for the graduates from 1963, 1964, and 1965.

This should be a fun weekend for the NAIT alumni and a momentous way to celebrate NAIT's 40th birthday.

NAIT 40 Years Ago

a summary from 1959 to 1965

JENNIFER Benoit

1959

The Government of Alberta, under the direction of Premier Ernest C. Manning, announces the decision to build a technical institute in Edmonton. The province shows a need for more trained apprentices and workers for other occupations. Previously, the province's apprenticeship and vocational training was being handled solely by the Provincial Institute of Technology (PITA) in Calgary.

1960

The new technical institute is to be called the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology (NAIT) as of December 14th. PITA is renamed the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology (SAIT).

1961

Jack Mitchell, the appointed Principal of the new technical institute, decides NAIT should be built near the municipal airport. The 21-acre site was purchased through Alberta Public Works in October.

1962

Construction begins in early January with Phase I, which includes two buildings – the Mortar Trades Building and the Industrial Building. Phase II then begins with the building of the General Offices, Library, Food Services Department, Welding Building, and Services Building. NAIT's very first class (29 Communication Electrician apprentices) is enrolled. Training begins on October 1st.

1963

On May 27th, the institute is officially opened by Premier Manning where the blue and gold of the draperies are adopted as the school colors. The $16 million institute has 80 staff, 53 shops, 39 labs, 77 classrooms, 109 offices, and 155 service areas (cafeteria, library, gym, auditorium, student activity areas, power plant, and mechanical equipment room), all on 15 acres of floor area and under one roof. In September, the first full-time students register for the 1963/64 school year. NAITSA is established, and the first student yearbook and newspaper are published.

1964

The institute's first Open House is held on March 11th-13th. Estimated attendance of local and regional high school students was 20,000 and proves so popular that visitors continued to show up throughout Friday evening even though the event ended in the afternoon. At a special ceremony, federal Minister of Indian and Northern Affairs presents NAITSA's president with an ookpik. The Ook becomes NAIT's mascot.

1965

The second Open House is held March 17th-18th, where it becomes even more popular with an estimated 24,000 in attendance! NAIT begins expansion beyond the original campus with the construction of an outdoor track and seven-storey building (The Tower) and Industrial Annex. The Tower cost $2.5 million to build while the Industrial Annex cost $627,000 to build. The first graduation ceremony is held with 326 graduates of diploma and certificate programs.

The full version of Highlights, Milestones, and Famous Firsts in the History of NAIT can be found at the web site address www.nait.ab.ca/history/milestones.htm. There is a large amount of interesting material about NAIT at this address from the beginning right through to year 2002.

VP ACTIVITIES CANDIDATES

Hi my name is Trevor Bannert and I am running for VP of Activities for the NAIT Students' Association. The activities at NAIT have been great so far but there is always room for improvement. I plan on improving this by adding new ideas, and catering to the NAIT student body as a whole. I don't want to take anything away from the Headstones, or the other rock mainstays at NAIT. I just think we deserve more variety in the events and entertainment. I would like to see this happen at our school and if elected I will do everything possible to make these changes.

I've enjoyed the NAIT environment for a year now and I may not know you all by name but I look forward to getting the chance. In my time at NAIT I've enjoyed many events from OOKFEST to Spring Fling. I go to the places a lot of you go and have a good idea of what we like to do. As a part of the Students' Association I know before everything else I must represent the students. That means having events that you want to see and be a part of.

I know I have a lot of good competition coming into this election and respect the fact that so many people want this but I truly think that I'm the right person for the job. The VP of Activities is not an easy task but I know that I'm up to it. So when you come out and place your vote on Friday, October 11 vote for me, Trevor Bannert your next VP of Activities.

Hi, I'm Denise Bain! I am a shorty with light brown hair, green eyes and enjoy... oh wait that's the ad for next week. Anyways, this week I'm one of the many people running for the position of VP Activities. But look no further. I am the one you want in that position. You see, when it comes to planning parties, I'm the party planner. I have many fun and dangerously exciting ideas brewing in my head just for you. To give you just a taste there is sky diving, beauty contests, talent shows, paintball, wall climbing and many, many more interesting activities.

I am a fun, outgoing 2nd semester business student who puts dedication in everything I do, with a very open mind to all suggestions and ideas. Like my speeches, if you've heard, I can't emphasize enough how much you, the student are the focus of all NAIT activities. You tell me what you want, I'll get you what you want, and deliver the best results with little or no hassle.

To make your voting day easier, here are four very simple steps you need to know:

- 1) Bring your student ID ( if you forget this you can't vote)
- 2) Go to the voting station
- 3) On the ballot check the box next to Denise Bain
- 4) Walk away knowing that the rest of this year is truly going to Rock, thanks to you!!

Now back to the personal ad. My measurements are....

Hi! My name is Lynette Smith and I'm in the Instrumentation program. I want to let you know that I'm running for V.P. Activities in the election on Friday October 11th. Vote for me because I will do everything possible to make sure you have a great year.

P.S. Remember your Student ID cards.

Melanie

SWF looking for Tall, Dark and Handsome!

Now that I have your attentionÖ

You have all probably heard Friday October 11 NAITSA is holding an election for the V.P. of Activities position, and I am running. My name is Dawn Livesey; I am a first year student at NAIT in the Business Administration Program and loving it. I am sure most of you are familiar with a few of the activities NAIT offers annually such as the beginning of the year bash, Oookfest, the Crazy Fan Buses, Comedy Night at the Nest, Awareness Weeks, Concerts, Spring Fling and the upcoming New Years Ski Trip. These are just the start of the events NAITSA has planned for the remainder of 2002-2003 school year. One important point is you all need to get involved; nothing is going to be improved or changed unless we hear your input. If have any ideas whether its party, a trip, a pub-crawl, a fundraiser for your technology you need to let us know!! I want this opportunity to let me show you what a great student life is really about. I promise to make this one of your most memorable years at NAIT but only if you choose to be involved, so on Friday come down to the nearest poll station and VOTE DAWN.

My name is Tereza Demain. I am a full-time student studying computer system technology. This is my third semester and I want to start getting involved in more activities. I want to explore the school spirit.

I have chosen to run for vice president of activities particularly because I really enjoy organizing and participating in diverse social activities, be it cultural activities or just plain partying. Previously, I was president of a social club at the U of A and currently I am actively involved in different social groups here in the city of Edmonton.

I believe that in diversity comes richness and tolerance. As a result I want to plan a multi-cultural awareness day or week where we can learn from the diverse backgrounds here in NAIT. Besides, I plan on having various social clubs where interests and talents can be brought and shared together. It's really great fun to share our talents. I know there are many talents out there and its time to bring it out.

As to what the clubs are, it's up to your interests and desires. I have heard ideas about having dancing and musical clubs which I really like and plan on pursuing should there be enough interests. It's all up to you folks to give me your ideas and I promise I will do my best to make it happen and fast. Most of us spend only a couple of years here and it is important that we make use of our time wisely and efficiently. I promise I wouldn't develop a feasibility study for every idea that comes to me. I'll fly with it right away as long as there is enough people who buy-it. We are not here to make profits, but we are here to learn. My responsibility will be to co-ordinate and bring concrete actions to match your interests. If I win, feel free to stop and talk to me directly and relay what you think because that's important to me. You'll also have my mail. I will make sure that I am accessible to all of you. It doesn't matter if you don't know me. I promise I wouldn't be rude!

In the end, it's not what I can do for you but rather what you want me to do for you. Thank you for your support and remember to vote TD, not the bank but Tereza Demain. See you at the polls and don't forget to bring your ID's.

Theft at NAIT???

No, there couldn't be theft at NAIT. We are all adults, right? No one would be so hard up that they have to go break into lockers to steal people's bookbags that may contain their wallets. Besides with all the money that we have to pay for tuition, books, e learning, lab

...why is there not video surveillance? I am told it is not in the budget but yet, it is a well-known fact that locker theft is a continuous problem.

fees, and every other fee that there is to attend a TECHNICAL INSTITUTE, why is there not video surveillance? I am told it is not in the budget but yet, it is a well-known fact that locker theft is a continuous problem. Actually it isn't just isolated to locker theft, there is computer theft, video equipment theft and even theft right out of the instructors locked offices. And please, there is pretty easy access to so many intricate tools that can do a lot of damage in no time and leave almost no mark that can be bought right from "Reads and Needs". So again, why is nothing done?

For me I really didn't care about the whopping $5 that was stolen out of my wallet but to replace everything that was in it, cost about $100, not to mention having to search all over to find my bookbag. Thank goodness it was returned to me with all my books in it. So my next question is, what do we as students do? Do we carry our 75lbs packs around all day with us because we no longer trust to put them in a locker? Do we go out and buy $40 locks in hopes that they are not broken next week? Do we try to band together and form some sort of task force to ensure that something is done by the school in the way of video cameras installed in the halls and hope that we can at least start to decrease the amount of theft? Or do we sit back and do nothing and let the thieves keep on winning?

Response to "Terrorism"

(Reader Opinion, run September 26, 2002)

JOHN Kozlowski

What a vacuous load of road apples. That's horse manure for those of you unfamiliar with rural Albertan colloquialisms. The author should perhaps learn to examine such absolute statements before setting pen to paper.

We should not become involved in the affairs of other countries no matter what? The author of this fatuous statement has either failed to consider the ramifications of the position or is laughably naive, or perhaps a complete idiot. By this line of reasoning no one should have or should do anything to oppose Nazi Germany, Communist Russia, Imperial Japan, Saddam Hussein's 1990's invasion of Kuwait, Slobodan Milosevic, Robert Mugabo, the apartheid era government of South Africa, etc. All of the examples listed above have committed or are committing some reprehensible acts, but by the author's reasoning, since it's happening in another country, we have no business getting involved.

The sheer stupidity of such a thought is staggering. We all live in the world, and out of simple self preservation it is often necessary to "meddle" in the affairs of other nations, to say nothing of the moral and ethical reasons for opposing such things as genocide, which at least three of the examples listed are guilty of.

It's also useful to note the author's selective view of history. Yes some of the atrocities mentioned did occur. During what is recorded as the Indian Mutiny of 1857, which became the First War of Independence in India, British troops did slaughter entire villages on thin to nonexistent reasons. What the author neglects to mention, aside from the fact that there was a war going on, is that the mutineers were just as bad, murdering every European and Indian Christian they could lay hands on. Not exactly the poor oppressed peasants the author would ask you to accept them as.

What happened during the period of the British Empire was often terrible by today's standards. Compared to its contemporaries, the British Empire was practically a saint. No one in their right mind wants to have their country conquered, but the alternatives to British rule were pretty ugly. Just ask the native tribes of South America. Assuming you can find any. The Spanish conquistadors were fairly thorough at wiping them out.

The crack about what goes around come around is equally specious as the rest of the author's article. The United States is a far cry from perfect, and it has committed some highly distasteful actions over the course of its history, but I defy you to find a nation of any consequence that does not have at least one skeleton of a similar nature in its closet. As for "ruining people's lives" how is a foreign country doing it any different than a home grown dictator or demagogue? Pol Pot and the Khmer Rouge did a real number on Cambodia, and they were pretty much 100% made in Cambodia.

As an aside, it's unfortunate that people treat you rudely. It shouldn't happen at all, and the base one's opinion on skin colour is probably the stupidest sort of behaviour. But to moan about it anonymously doesn't do much for your credibility either. If you're not willing to stand by your words, perhaps you should reconsider saying them.

CORNUCOPIAS

Make small cornucopias from Bugle snacks. Place a bit of vanilla frosting in the hole and stick Trix cereal on it for the fruit. Really cute idea!

OREO TURKEYS

Using two double-stuffed Oreo cookies, take the first one apart to use as the base. Place the whole Oreo on its side and stick it into the base cookie. In front of the standing Oreo, place a malted milk ball in the white part, to make a turkey head. Use candy corn stuck into the standing Oreo cookie for the turkey feathers.

CORN PUDDING

18 to 20 ears of corn
4 1/2 cups milk
6 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
6 tablespoons sugar
3/4 stick margarine

Cut corn off cobs and then scrape cobs to remove remaining bits of corn. Stir ingredients together. Pour mixture into a greased shallow baking dish. Dot the top with margarine, if desired. Bake at 375 degrees for around 35 minutes.

CARAMEL POPCORN BALLS

5 quarts popped popcorn
2 (14-oz.) packages light caramels
1/2 cup light corn syrup
4 tablespoons water

Melt caramels in top of double boiler (or use the microwave). Add corn syrup and water, and mix until smooth. Slowly pour mixture over warm popcorn in large bowl or pan, mixing well. Shape into balls when cool. Makes about 30 small balls.

PETE HAS NO BEER

"Give to Pete, and give till it hurts"--Pete Parker

PETE Parker

I went to the fridge and there it was!! Gone! How in heaven and hell did Pete the Great Parker end up in sore straights?

Well, I guess it all started with this girl, and of course one thing lead to another and before I knew it I was laying on the Mexican Riviera soaking up the sunshine tanning my bare bottom. I think I might have skipped a few details there, so I will do a bit of back-tracking.

The girl said she was a pilot, could barely speak English and was intriguing and beautiful all at the same time. How could such a voluptuous creature be so alluring, so appealing and so intelligent all at the same time? These types of women don't come along all that often, so I sprang at the opportunity to follow her to her native country of Mexico. She was up to Canada visiting her Granny. Too sweet to be true? Yup, you betcha!

She turned out to be a gold mongering bitch and once she found out I had empty pockets she turned me out faster than a wet dog on white carpet.

Ah, yes, the Mexican Riviera, the topless girls, the waves, the sea, the lifeO all gone, and thus the problem.

I had, in all my non-fore-thought, gone after this supposedly perfect chick with dimes in my pocket that I thoughtlessly emptied on flowers and wine. Now I had to get home. The problem seemed pretty big. I thought of using an extradition order, but that didn't seem like such a good idea since I wanted to go back to Mexico some day.

So I did what every snow blooded Canadian would do. I begged all my friends and family for spare change for a ticket home.

Back in Canada, I found that a job is hard to find and my friends and family want their money back.

I came to NAIT to learn how. This is a pretty simple concept here. In the mean time I am carefully fending off the family and friends by not answering the phone, getting a new email address and asking who is at the door when a knock comes to it.

I am actually expecting my two cousins, Vinnie and Guido, to show up at my door with a baseball bat looking to take my knees out, so I dole out what I can to who I can when I have it.

The money is gone, the girl is gone, and the fridge is empty.

Here's how to help. Please, collect all the beer in your fridge right now, (if you are too cheap to give all your beer, spare a bottle or two, cans are also acceptable) and bring it to the NAIT Nugget office and donate to Pete.

Why?

Simply remember this little saying ol Pete told ya, "I can't even afford to pay attention. Pete needs beer."

THE LOVE DOCTOR IS IN

TOM Ace

Dear Doctor:

After reading the article entitled "Boys and Their Toys" in last week's nugget, I realized that my boyfriend is a slave to his little game box. Not only does he play with his buddies, but he insists on playing when I'm hanging out with him as well. If I try to get him to shut the games off he'll either not listen or ask me to leave 20 minutes later. We've been dating for just about a year now and I do not want video games to come between us. What should I do?

Vid-iot Lover

Dear Vid-iot Lover:

Let me make this very clear to you...Your boyfriend will N-E-V-E-R stop playing video games. Whether he's running around blowing the heads off of bad guys, or trying to make it into the top three across the finish line, it is almost impossible to tear a guy away from his beloved controller. You can, however, make him play less than usual. While you're hanging out with him, do not, I repeat do not, let him start playing. He will beg to play just one level, but if he hits that power button, there is no turning back. If he is already playing when you arrive, you are going to have to hit him below the belt. Yes, I'm talking about sex. If it's one thing that guys like more than video games, sex is it. Try this line, "Hey honey, when you're finished destroying the enemy star ship on level 5 I have a new XBOX for you in the bedroom." If neither of those methods work, wait about 2 weeks for him to grow bored of the current video game he's playing. He'll eventually peel himself away from his Final Fantasy world, and come to the realization that blue hedgehogs can't actually run that fast, beating two video games in one weekend is not his greatest accomplishment, and that real people don't have three lives. And, if all else fails, Halloween is coming, just dress up as the Tomb Raider. I'm sure that would make him stop fiddling with his joystick...or maybe not.

Please send more of your troubles to the Doc, at nuggetlovedoctor@hotmail.com

CANADA AND THANKSGIVING HISTORY

KIMBERLY Ashley

The history of Thanksgiving in Canada has not always been clear. It has been celebrated for many different reasons such as a victorious battle, religious reasons, cessation of disease as well as the celebration of an abundant harvest.

The first Thanksgiving was celebrated on Thursday, January 10th, 1799, to celebrate the victory over the enemy. From 1921 until 1930, Thanksgiving was actually called "Armistice Day". It was consistently held on the second Monday in November and Thanksgiving was a statutory holiday. It was proclaimed as a holiday in 1931, and was generally held on the second Monday in October. Until 1957, Thanksgiving was almost random holiday, falling anytime of the year, sometimes more than once, and for any reason. It was proclaimed in 1957 that Thanksgiving would become an official annual holiday falling on the second Monday of October. The reason for this holiday was to be "for general thanksgiving to Almighty God for the blessings with which the people of Canada have been favoured."

THANKSGIVING DINNER ETIQUETTE TIPS

- After tasting the turkey never ask, "Is this Cosco?"
  - There is an old saying that fish and visitors stink after 3 days. Never tell any of your fellow guests that they smell like fish.
  - If the turkey is too dry, it is okay to spit on your turkey however refrain from spitting on your neighbor's turkey.
  - Do not blow your nose on the tablecloth. You may use the tablecloth as a napkin by tucking it into your pants. It is important to remove the tablecloth from your pants when leaving the table.
  - Refrain from speaking with your mouth full. If you must speak, spit your food out on the carpet and then say whatever is on your mind.
  - If you find a hair in your soup, eat around it. Same goes for a toupee.
  - If you have a food particle trapped in your teeth, do not pick at it with your fork. You could put a hole in your cheek. The unsightly hole and the huge amount of blood loss will not only be embarrassing, it will also make it more difficult to enjoy your meal. Also a knife works better.
  - Feel free to smoke at the dinner table. If you need an ashtray just use the glass of the person sitting next to you. Preferably when he/she is looking the other way.
- Always pass the food to your right. Even if there is no one on your right and in doing so you would be dropping food on the floor. Remember, etiquette first.
- Never juggle your cutlery.
  - If you happen to pass gas at the table, always blame the dog. If they have no dog then blame the person next to you. Never blame the goldfish.
  - Only AFTER dinner is it appropriate for you to do your 'pull the tablecloth without disturbing any of the dishes' trick. Remember even if the trick fails, a broken dish is one less dish to wash.
  - Refrain from the ventriloquist act yelling "ouch" as if it came from the turkey as it is carved.
  - Don't use the chainsaw to carve the turkey.

NAIT Athletics Ready for Another Challenge..... Are You?

MARC Dobell

On Friday October 18th, our 1st NAITATHLETICS Tech Challenge of the year will take place at our home volleyball game versus the King's University College Eagles. We are planning a big night for this challenge and we hope that each technology can produce at least one team to come and compete for the Tech Challenge Championship.

Teams can consist of five or more people (the more the better!!) who come to the game together and cheer on the Oaks to victory. Each technology can enter as many teams as they want, as long as each team has at least five members. Teams will be judged on number of people in group, cheering ability of group, and ability to fit the theme of the night. Prizes will be awarded to the top three teams at each Tech Challenge.

Prizing for the Tech Challenge is substantial. As one of our main sponsors, Labatt's Canada will offer a concert party with a private suite for 20 at the Joint Nightclub or Tonic. Other prizes available for the Tech Challenge include a Pizza Party courtesy of Boston Pizza- NAIT, specials at Cowboys Nightclub, and cash towards your technology.

The theme for this Tech Challenge will be a 60's theme. Your team should come dressed for the 60's, free and easy!! Judges will vote on the best/ most appropriately dressed team, as well as group number and cheering ability.

In addition, each member of a technology that participates in the Tech Challenge will receive five points towards their respective 'intramural' standings. If a team reaches 15 participants, the technology will receive an additional 100 points!! Remember that these points are redeemed for cash towards your technology (top three) at the end of the year.

In order to enter a team in the challenge, simply call Marc Dobell at 471-7606 or drop by the office at S-10fiveLA and provide details on your team before October 16th.

I hope to see you all out this year cheering on your Oaks to victory!!

Eagles Coach: "We're a young team"

MIKE McGuire

Pre-season Men's Basketball action also graced the NAIT gym on October 1st, as the King's Men's Eagles would square off against the home team Oaks. The game gave both fans and players a peek into the future of ACAC basketball this season, including several close calls, and some incredible plays.

Much like their female counterparts, the Oaks started the game rather slow. During the first half, NAIT managed to keep a ten point lead, ending the first with ten fouls and a score of 39-29.

The second half seemed to be the much-needed wakeup call for both teams, as each side presented an energetic game full of many opportunities.

6'6" Leif Puffer would be one of many who would capitalize for the Oaks, as they would reach a nearly twenty-point lead over the Eagles. Not willing to concede, the Eagles would continue their aggression, narrowing the Oaks lead by three points at the twelve minute mark.

Eagles forward Dallas Brown was probably the best example of desire for the game, as a last-ditch effort to keep the ball in play would see him skidding face first completely off court and ramming his shoulder into one of the NAIT gym doorframes. His arm was noticeably cut open, but he managed to continue the game.

The game stayed tight for the remainder of the half, although the score would not. While the Eagles offence was managing to penetrate the NAIT defensive line, shooting would prove to be their weakness, as they gave up an estimated eighteen points to various missed shots.

Soon realising the err of their ways, the Oaks would crank up their defence, becoming almost impenetrable. Despite a resurrection of the King's College offence, NAIT would manage nearly forty more points in the second half, giving the crowd an electrifying 74-47 victory.

"We just set out to establish that we can play with this team. This is the team that we need to look at and say "How do we play against this team?" says Eagles Coach A. Daniel Skepple. "We're all about effort. We don't have as much talent as anybody else, so we're going to have to do it with lots of hustle, and intensity, and we also have to do it with a lot of discipline."

Oaks coach Marc Dobell was happy to get the win, but still expects more from his squad. "We're not working in the same direction right now. We need a forty minute effort if we're going to be successful. We need to be providing effort in the same direction." Despite the 27 point victory, he insists the Oaks are capable of more. "I don't think that anybody in that dressing room is happy with how we did. We're happy to get the win, but we're not out here to win a game... we want to be as good as we can be."

The Men's basketball home opener is Thursday, October 17th, at the NAIT gym, as the Augustana Vikings visit. Admission is free for students, and the game follows the Women's game of the same night.

From rIngsIDE

MIKE McGuire

This week, I would like to take some time to move away from weekly happenings, and focus on a particular person in the sports-entertainment industry. My experiences with this legendary performer came from events in a land far away.

House shows in Red Deer Alberta to be more specific. I was 15 during the "Hart Attack Tour" in 1994. As part of the tour, there was a series of "Paul Bearer Look/Sound/Act alike" contests. I remember being the ONLY PERSON to actually dress like the Gomez Addams lookalike, spending over an hour just on my makeup. Thanks to puberty, the vocal impression was uncanny. When show host Manny Garcia made the call for participants to come to the backstage area, I remember thinking "Holy cow... I'm going backstage at a WWF SHOW!!!" They held me and three other guys back there for half the show, but I didn't care. I WAS BACKSTAGE! Meeting Razor Ramon, Owen Hart, Jimmy Kourdaris and Lex Luger was fantastic. Then came the big moment.

Wearing a large black hat, dark sunglasses, and a long leather trench coat, there he was. I tried to muster up the courage to say "Hello Paul," but all that came out was a pathetic "uh-hi". Soon after his arrival, we were called out. This man, this great figure in the WWF was right in front of me, turned to me and said, "Here we go... let's have some fun!". I was game, and after getting told by the WWF official that if we played on the ropes we would be kicked out of the show, we began down the aisle.

The scenario for the contest was simple enough. Four or five contestants, one of which looked like he didn't quite belong there. Of course, that was the REAL Paul in the mysterious gear. The others who came back with me went first, and then it was my turn.

I jumped into character, even being sure to mimic him down to his ring entrance. I remember the middle rope hitting me in my "stuff" as I did the entrance. Ouch. Nevertheless, this was my first time in a WWF ring, and it was something I was going to treasure... and still do treasure to this day. After letting out my best "OOOOOOOOH YESSSSSS", I won the contest, and that was that... my WWF/E win/loss record remains at 1-0-0.

Following the stint, all the boys (at least the ones playing faces) came out and worked their matches, all stopping by me in my front row seat to congratulate me on a great job. While that was all well and good, the greatest compliment had come just moments earlier... backstage. The same Paul Bearer who had said very little to me just a few moments earlier, was shaking my hand, congratulating me, and THANKING me for doing his character "justice".

A few weeks ago, Percy Pringle III, (the man formerly known as Paul Bearer), made the announcement that following the expiration of his contract, he would forever be retired from the world of professional wrestling. If anyone out there is, or was a fan of this great industry, take a minute to think back on the great years Paul Bearer gave us. I hope he got a good cut from all those foam urn sales, I still cherish mine (amongst much more merchandise), remembering that night in the ring. Never managed to find a PB action figure though.

Nevertheless, Thank You. Whether Paul Bearer, or Percy

Pringle, you have made more than an impact in the lives of your fans.

Teamwork Key as Ook Women Crush Basketball Eagles

MIKE McGuire

It seems like a popular theme this year amongst all the Ook teams, as the womens basketball team is full of fresh new faces this year. As the October 17th home opener reaches closer and closer, organization of defence was the name of the game last week as our lady Ooks took on the King's College Eagles.

The first half of the game was like watching a see-saw battle unfold. Each team managed to rack up ten fouls, and despite efforts from both sides, the half-time horn saw the score tied at 27-27.

With the tip-off to start the second half, the Ooks had a new game plan, one which seemed to transform the sporadic defensive line into a solid unit. With their keys covered, the lady Ooks managed to concentrate once again on the offensive, and managed to double their score in a mere ten minutes of play.

The Eagles would not accept their deficit though, as during the last seven minutes of play, the King's squad would turn up their game and offer a strong offence against the Ooks. While the effort of the visitors seemed to place them on a roll, it would prove too little too late - as NAIT would take the exhibition victory with a final of 62-45.

Ooks coach Fabio Marcucci summarizes, "We came out so flat - we kind of embarrassed ourselves in our own gym. We had no emotion, no intensity, so when we went in at half time we said 'If we want to win, we can win'. I think the difference (in the second half) is that we played hard."

With Lorraine Stelck and Kelsey Charuk among the roster, the Ooks do have some quality veterans, but with eight new players this season, Marcucci adds that he expects the same level of effort from all his players. "I think that (fans should) come watch all of us. We're all so new to this, myself included. Come watch. It's a team game, and I believe that if you come watch all of us, maybe you will see someone who will have a good night. I'm looking for everyone to contribute, it's a team effort."

The Women's basketball home opener is Thursday, October 17th, at the NAIT gym, as the Augustana Vikings visit. Admission is free for students, and the tip-off is at 8:30p.m.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

SUSANNE Melnyk

The NAIT Women's soccer team needed a win against GMCC this past weekend to maintain first place in the north division. With a good week of practice behind them, a good game was expected. However, with only minutes gone in the game, NAIT came out unmotivated and flat. They needed to come together and play stronger as a team if there was any chance for a win. GMCC scored two goals in the first half to take a commanding lead. NAIT tried to fight back, but to no avail, and lost the game 2-0. The ACAC player of the game was defender Stacey Brennan. This loss sent NAIT tumbling in to the third and final spot place for the divisional playoffs. NAIT has one regular season game left against the first place Concordia on Thursday at the NAIT field at 4:00. Then following that, the divisional playoffs on October 19th. NAIT needs your support, so put on your toque and mitts and come out and cheer.

THANKSGIVING FACTS:

Things they don't do anymore

A little known fact is at the first Thanksgiving Day dinner, men and women were not allowed to sit together. This rule was immediately stopped after finding the first gay Pilgrim.

The original Thanksgiving Day feast took place in October. It was moved to November to coincide with the Dallas Cowboys schedule. Canadians, however, still celebrate Thanksgiving in October, while celebrating the Grey Cup in November.

Comedy Night at the Nest

JENNIFER Benoit

Comedian Jon Ljungberg gave a large crowd of people much to laugh about on Wednesday, October 2nd, at The Nest. While everyone was in stitches from laughing so hard, Ljungberg gave advice on everything from having sex to writing thank-yous for wedding gifts to cleaning puffed wheat out of the toilet bowl. The frank, direct, and downright dirty scheme of Ljungberg showed the Nest rats what great comedy is all about.

A divorced father of two who readily admits he is 40 years old, Ljungberg hails from Boston, but has lived in Winnipeg for the last 14 years.

Ljungberg has played a couple of times at The Nest since 1996, and hopes to be back soon. He says The Nest is "a great room to play". Ljungberg loves to play at colleges and universities as it "keeps him young". Besides working on A-Channel's television show Big Breakfast in Winnipeg, Ljungberg manages to slip in two or three comedy shows here and there.

Ljungberg performs mainly in Winnipeg. His list of accomplishments includes playing at The Riviera in Las Vegas opening for Celine Dion. Coming up, he will be in Alberta from January 14th-27th, playing in Calgary and at Yuk Yuk's in Edmonton. Ljungberg says he hopes Mike Anderson (NAITSA Entertaining and Marketing) will let him play at The Nest during that time. An Ontario tour in February and another trip to Las Vegas is also in his future plans.

Humor played a large part of Ljungberg's family of three brothers and one sister. This allowed him to become the great comedian he is today. Ljungberg has been nominated for "Comedian of the Year" by COCA, which is the Canadian Organization for Campus Activities. Ljungberg says he will perform until he's dead. Jon Ljungberg's one-hour show on Wednesday consisted of mostly less talked about subjects. He managed to divide the room between the girls and the guys, giving a chance for the girls to laugh at the boys and also a chance for the boys to laugh at the girls. The crowd was a mix of younger and older people, but all were equally in hysterics over Ljungberg's personal accounts with the less amusing things in life. Ljungberg talked about not looking good at the beach at the age of 40, how ugly TV sex therapists are, and how it's required to "measure your girlfriend's ass to buy underwear for her." Also prattled about were his vasectomy, the birth of his children (and the afterbirth), and his experience in potty-training his children. Ljungberg also managed to include several less than flattering references to Red Deer.

After the show, other people were given a chance at stand-up comedy in a contest. Here's a hint for those who would like to win at the next comedy night: bring along the most friends.

Comedy night at The Nest is every second Wednesday. Next comedy night will be October

Red Dragon

STACEY Laing

I have to say when I usually get a free movie pass I'm very excited to go, regardless of the movie being shown, however, when I was given the ticket for Red Dragon I felt quite leery about attending. I have seen The Silence and uncanny ability to read the minds of psychopathic killers. Graham is a reluctant hero who is put in this situation because he wants to try to save the next family, regardless of the emotional damage it does to him.

All characters are played to their fullest potential and are well developed as is the story line, which is very involved, yet not over complicated. The movie relies on an excellent script and not special effects. Red Dragon is a movie that you should see, it brings the fear back into movies.

of the Lambs and felt that that movie was extremely disturbing. When Hannibal came out I had no desire to see it, and I felt the same towards Red Dragon. After some convincing by my friend who really wanted to see it, I decided to go. I sure am glad that I did. This is one of the best films that I have ever seen. The movie runs just over two hours, yet the time flew. My stomach was in massive knots for almost the entire film, this does not happen very often. The movie is completely unpredictable, with twists and turns that one does not expect. It keeps you on your toes and you're too consumed with what's being performed on the screen to try to figure out the plot twists.

Hannibal Lecter may be the best villain to ever hit the screen, Anthony Hopkins plays this character like no one else could. I thought I knew Hannibal from The Silence of the Lambs, but Hopkins takes him to a new level. One truly feels scared to be in the same room as him, his smile is so evil, and he is so calm and unemotional it scares you. In one instance, he misleads the entire audience when he appears to be helping catch a serial killer nicknamed The Tooth Fairy, when in fact he is only trying to satisfy his own desires. I don't want to give anything away so I apologize if I'm being vague. Ralph Fiennes, follows Hopkins lead in creating an equally chilling psychopathic killer, The Tooth Fairy. The Tooth Fairy who was abused as a young boy takes his vengeance out by butchering entire families. It is because of this heinous crime that FBI agent Will Graham reluctantly comes out of retirement to try to find the murderer. Edward Norton plays Graham who has an unfortunate

A Short Walk for Great Food

STACEY Laing

Make your way over to Boston Pizza for some great pizza and drinks. BP's is located at 10115 Princess Elizabeth Avenue, which is just a five-minute walk from NAIT. Boston Pizza opens at 11 a.m. every day and is open till 1 a.m. Monday through to Thursday and 2 a.m. on Friday and Saturday and till Midnight on Sundays.

Walk on over for Happy Hour, which is Monday through Friday from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. Food specials include an assortment of appetizers on sale for $4.25 these include pizza bread, dry ribs, 9 wings, cactus cut potatoes, and Italian pizza bread. In addition, there are drink specials to wash down all that food; these include a glass of draught, hi-balls, and domestic beer for $3.10. Stay on after happy hour on Wednesdays for Karaoke or Name that Tune starting at 8 p.m. and take advantage of more specials consisting of 35-cent wings and pony jugs for $9.95. Karaoke is a great way to work up a thirst and relieve some stress for your schoolwork, especially now that midterms are coming up.

If you need a break after a hard morning of classes, walk over for one of BP's daily lunch specials, which range in price from $5.95 to $7.75. Further value is added for NAIT students if the bill is over $25 then you receive a 10% discount when you show your NAIT ID. The service is quick and friendly to enable you to get back to school in a timely fashion and be well refreshed for an afternoon of studying.

There is no reason to miss the big game if you want to go out with your friends, for during hockey season they show the Oiler games on the big screen. Boston Pizza sweetens the deal with game night pitchers and nightly drink and food specials. Take advantage of the close proximity and the great prices and head on over to the NAIT Boston Pizza.

CD Review

The Trews

JENNIFER Benoit

The Trews is a fairly new band from Antigonish, Nova Scotia. Colin MacDonald (lead vocals, guitar, keyboards), John-Angus MacDonald (guitar, vocals), Jack Syperek (bass, vocals), and Sean Dalton (drums) are all still yet very young, but have already made a reputation for themselves in the Maritimes. Although The Trews' music is promoted as genre-less, they could be classified as prairie pop music with rhythm (despite the fact they're from the East). The self-titled CD has four songs: "Confessions," "Fleeting Trust", "You're So Sober", and "So Take What You Can." "Confessions" is an upbeat rock-inspired song. The pop song "You're So Sober" is laden with piano à la keyboards sounds. The music for "So Take What You Can" is strikingly similar to what Wide Mouth Mason would play. All the songs have simple lyrics such as humans needing each other on a lonely night. The band plays a wide range of musical instruments, though not perfectly refined when played, they do add an agreeable mixture for the songs.

Don't forget the little people in your life this week. A kind word and an invitation to dinner go a long way.

Taurus (April 20 – May 19)

Eat all you want this Thanksgiving. Now is the time to indulge yourself with no worries.

Gemini (May 20 – June 20)

You'll fall flat on your face if you seek revenge this week. Use caution in your approaches.

Cancer (June 21 – July 22)

Remember to give thanks for more than material items. You'll stumble upon something you've missed.

Leo (July 23 – Aug 22)

Lions may roar and turkeys may cluck, but you don't have to do either. Curb your temper and your tongue this week.

Virgo (Aug. 23 – Sept.21)

Now is not the time to be shy. Follow your dreams and prove that you're ambitious.

To win, send us your scariest Halloween memory...

OPEN HOUSE PARKING

To accommodate our visitors on Friday, October 25, parking will be free to staff, students, and visitors. It will not be possible to protect staff and student stalls from visitors; therefore, please come early that day to ensure a parking spot. If you vacate your stall during the day, there will be a strong possibility it will not be available upon your return.

Please note that meters along 118th Ave in front of the NAIT Dining Room are City of Edmonton property and are not included in the above notice. Please be sure to pay the meters if you decide to occupy them. Inquiries should be directed to 471-7477.

Thank you for your cooperation!

We had several great submissions this week, but couldn't include them because of a missing full name and/or student id number. Please be sure to include this information on your submissions (we will not include name or student id number when we print). To those people who wrote grapevines and do not see them in this section, please feel free to submit your name and id number along with the subject of your submission. We will print them in next week's paper. Thanks. Nugget staff.

To: The cute carpentry chick who talked to a lowly Radio Student Thursday at Reads & Needs. Hey, I am a putz, didn't get your name. You're cute. Come by the department and I'll give ya a tour! -- Shanny

Hey Fatty! Watch out behind you! From Skinny

To all you girls in NAIT that wear those low, low pants - Thank you! -- Yummybrain M.A.B.

I know this is late, but when I went to the Shinerama briefing at the Shaw theatre, there was a lady sitting next to me in the very front row, with glasses, large hoop earrings, dressed all in black, and with reddish highlights in her hair. She sat at a table by herself at the Nest when we went for a free pancake breakfast. She was sitting at a table the line went right past. I just want to say that I thought you were incredibly attractive. -- Signed, "I hope this remains anonymous"

To the incredibly sexy, long-haired R. in Computer Programming, I have but one question for you: leather or silk? -- L.

To the pond scum of the HP Building....S11....You can't compete with the talents of S12....Give up now.... PS- Enjoy the Sausage Party...PSS- Shifty we know your looking at us....- Big Sexy Pimp

Hey Boob Fan!

By special request "Mr. Boob gets a nipple piercing" appears in room T-415 along with "Mr. Boob goes to Veggreville," "Mr. Boob goes to church" and other mammarical hijinks. Enjoy! HJ
