

Fred Deaver was commissioned by Boy Scout leaders to paint this portrait of John Wayne for presentation at a banquet honoring him as a great American.

RR Leader Paints Noted Portrait

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — At a national FCF president, was presented to him. Deaver was commissioned to paint the portrait for the banquet which honored John Wayne as a

Men on the Move

Church Honors "Royal Ranger of the Year"

NEDERLAN, TX — Sunday, September 10, was declared "Tony Long Day" at the First Assembly of God to show appreciation for his choice as the first national "Royal Ranger of the Year." All the services of the day honored Tony. District and sectional Royal Rangers officers attended and participated in them. Dinner with all the trimmings was served at the church.

great American. Such guests as Gerald Ford, and other dignitaries attended.

In the presentation, it was jokingly stated that the painting made John look a bit too young. Wayne countered, "True, but I'm still young at heart."

At a news conference following the banquet, John Wayne expressed his pleasure and thanks and read the note Fred Deaver had written on the back of the painting, "Hope you like the painting, may God richly bless you."

Deaver, who is becoming known as a leading western and wildlife artist, attributes all his success to God. "My life and talent belong to Him," Fred has stated on many occasions. "Before I start painting, I always ask God to help me."

He has already received many awards of recognition for his outstanding art. Many describe him as another Remington or Russell. His works include pen and inks, water colors, and a number of magazine and book illustrations.

Free lance art is now the source of Deaver's income. A large share of his time is devoted to Royal Rangers. He has served in many leadership positions in the program including that of vice-president of the national Royal Rangers Council. For the past five years he has served as national president of the Frontiersmen Camping Fraternity.

Those closely associated with Fred are impressed by his Christian spirit, his high standards, his sincere dedication, and his love for people — especially boys. Fred lives at Riverton, Kansas and attends the Galena Assembly of God.

LIGHT - for-the-LOST WORLD DATELINE

JAPAN — Donnel McLean

We are so thrilled with the LFTL program. It is a vital lifeline as far as we are concerned. Our ministry is pioneering new churches and currently we find ourselves in Hokuriku, the neediest area of all Japan.

We have developed a gospel newspaper-tract series that are undated and that give the gospel fully. These we take from home to home in literature saturation and then follow-up in various ways. LFTL pays for all this. Praise God.

NEW HEBRIDES — Ron Killingbeck

How we thank the Lord for Light-for-the-Lost funds. Our extensive literature program has been such a blessing. I hate to think about doing missionary work without it.

NIGERIA — Hyman Wood

As concerns ICI in Nigeria we are approaching our 10th anniversary here and thank God for our track record. Some 45,580 have written testimonies to us of salvation. How many more there may have been we cannot say. But what we can say is, you, the men of the USA A/G, have been the driving force and the provider of the LFTL funds to print all these evangelism lessons — some 40,000 to date.

We say "thank you" from the deep of our hearts but know His "well done, thou good and faithful servant" is the reward for which you labor.

Sierra Leone is fast-changing into a literate society, as thousands of young people are now attending school, and are eager for something to read. The literature that is passed out in our crusades will certainly help to bring the gospel to the younger generation, especially.

GHANA — Pauline Smith

Every week we receive letters begging for Bible stories, for literature which teaches one how to live a Christian life, etc. Only a few days ago I received this letter:

"I am very happy to write these few words in this letter. One day when I was walking on a corner path I saw it. I read it and saw that your address was on it. Telling that one could write for more literature to know about Jesus. Please I would like you to send me some books about Jesus. I need them."

It is our hope that we shall be able to fill every village and town with evangelism literature.

OKINAWA — Eldon Brown

Labor Day, a team of 17 American A/G servicemen with two missionaries and one Japanese pastor invaded a small island just off Okinawa. We covered the island with LFTL literature and showed a film that evening. Over 80 children and young folks came to hear of Jesus and His saving grace. There are 1200 inhabitants on this island without a single church. We are praying that a church may be raised up on