

ROYAL RANGERS

— INTERNATIONAL —

Dear Friend-to-Missions:

By way of introduction, my name is Doug Marsh. My wife, Kerry, and I have served as Assemblies of God missionaries for 13 years. We have focused our burden for the lost in a very specific direction—future men.

The goal of the Assemblies of God World Missions is to be the most effective evangelism force our world has ever known. There are nearly 1 billion boys around the globe who do not know Christ as their Savior.

Royal Rangers International (RRI) is a new emphasis to evangelize this vast unreached group. We are determined to shape young men into godly husbands, fathers, church and political leaders for the future.

Manuel da Silva is doing just that as he ministers to kids trapped in the judicial system in Portugal. Fransisco Tocón of Guatemala introduces orphans to the “father of the fatherless.” Many of these orphans have passed the prime age of adoption and may never experience the love of a Christian family. Mark Broberg is reaching the “attic kids” in St. Petersburg, Russia, who have no place to call home.

Our vision is to empower thousands of men such as these around the world to reach millions of boys with the Gospel. What a young man does with the Good News determines his quality of life and his eternal destiny.

I am inviting you to become part of this evangelism force. I urge you to make a monthly commitment to RRI so we can reach today’s boys, tomorrow’s men.

Our teamwork will make a lasting impact on families and nations for generations. The time is now!

Respectfully,

Doug Marsh
