

A ROYAL RANGERS MISSIONARY

At the age of 6, I received my first Royal Rangers emblem from my father. That spark flamed a fire in my heart for Jesus and the Royal Rangers program."

When Doug Marsh wrote these words at age 17, he had already set a ministry goal. He wanted to be the first Royal Rangers missionary to Latin America.

Son of missionaries Lloyd and Rosella Marsh, Doug lived most of his childhood in Latin America where the Royal Rangers program was not readily available. However, he studied on his own and completed the requirements through the Pioneer level. During his family's year of deputation he advanced rapidly, becoming a patrol leader and junior commander by age 14.

After his family returned to Bolivia, he was named district commander. For the next 4 years he helped establish 33 Royal Rangers outposts, involving some 1,200 boys and leaders.

In 1994 Doug and his wife Kerry arrived in Latin America as missionaries-in-training. His dream is being fulfilled as he seeks to win Latin American boys to Christ. ■

NO SECRET: Young men across Latin America can testify to the value of Royal Rangers.

ally he rededicated his life to God. David quit his affiliation with the group. He went to Bible college and recently received his credentials as a minister of the Assemblies of God. He testifies that, had it not been for Royal Rangers, he would not be a regional presbyter and pastor today. ■

Can you fit these four into your schedule?

8:30 a.m. - share gospel with Juanita* from Nicaragua

12:10 p.m. - tell George* from Romania about Jesus

6:16 p.m. - introduce Nina* from Bosnia to the Lord

8:40 p.m. - explain plan of salvation to Arkady* from Siberia

Even if your schedule doesn't permit you to share the gospel personally in Romania or Bosnia, you can tell four children about Jesus - every day of the year!

Your commitment of $1 a day will provide four copies of the children's Scripture book, the Book of Life, for children somewhere around the world. Through LIFE '96, 6,575 Christians like you will reach more than 9 million children in just 1 year.

When you make a LIFE '96 commitment today, we'll send the free video, LIFE '96, and our 1996 prayer calendar.
