The Royal Rangers National Training Camps are providing many men advanced training in leadership skills so they may work more effectively with boys. The men set up camp (upper left), cook meals over the campfire, and learn techniques for survival in the woods.

Robert Simpson (top center), Huntsville, Alabama, is a regional aide de camp. He was the third man to receive the Leaders Medal of Achievement award. His son, David (top right) received the New York state physical fitness award for high school students last year. In the Evangelistic Center, North Tonawanda, N. Y., he served as Lt. Commander of the Trailblazers of Outpost 13. He is now a student at Central Bible College, Springfield, Mo.
